Increase your Global Revenue with International Sales Team

30-Mar-21

The world has changed and so has your international business. If you plan to increase your international revenue, then you need to change with the world and that means changing your approach to selling internationally.

The industry is already well down the road of change; Software as a Service (SaaS) is commonplace and Platform as a Service (PasS) is mainstream, even for major sports and world events.

Sales Team as a Service (STaaS) is the next logical extension and International Sales Team is at the forefront.

Unlike traditional overseas resellers, your International Sales Team answers directly to you. Quotations and invoices are generated by you and very importantly, all of the finances flow through you.

We open new markets in new countries, we refresh stale markets, we eliminate language and cultural barriers and we provide results. We find new business for you.

Additionally, International Sales Team provides you with sales reports, activity reports and pipeline forecasting.

We can augment or replace your current sales teams at a fraction of their current cost. We alleviate international employment issues such as insurances, pensions and retrenchment costs whilst still providing you with a team of sales professionals who are there to increase your revenue. Your International Sales Team is configured specifically to suit your organisation.

International Sales Team is a global company with representatives in Europe, Africa, Middle East, Asia, Oceania and the Americas.

If you want international sales results, you need International Sales Team.
