Hello! I am Shyam Karri, a watercolor enthusiast, exploring deeper dimensions of life and expressing the harmony that I seek through watercolors.

The process is exhilarating and puts one on toes and compels one to remain attentive at any given moment and lets one dabble between control and 'no control', Mind and heart, Rationality and intuition.

“Effort is the mind’s way and effortlessness is of the heart”

I enjoy watching! Watching ordinary life on the streets. I realize that all that visual information tickles my subconscious mind, which indeed urges me to laugh it out through strokes. Through the practice, I am learning to let water do the job, allow things to unfold on their own and become a mere spectator of the dynamic surprises that watercolor brings out.

I would love to let the viewer Relax over the emptiness in the canvas, contrasting the buzz of information all around, the space allows one to connect to the subject instantly and urges one to complete the story on their own and attach with the work in their own way.

I always feel my works are half done and waiting to be complete in your imagination.

A gentle touch upon my head,
From a kind soul who stops to tread.
A moment of warmth, a simple act,
And I feel gratitude in fact.
For I am but a street dog here,
No one to love, no one to cheer.
But in this moment, I feel seen,
And a grateful heart, I glean.

In a world of wonder and surprise,
an unlikely friendship did arise.

A butterfly delicate and light,
a dog, loyal and strong in his might.

Through fields of flowers, they danced and played,

their bond strong, never to fade.

Different in shape, size, and wing,
their love a beautiful thing.

Two dogs lay fast asleep
Side by side, in slumber deep
As they dream, their minds entwine
Their hearts beat as one, in perfect rhyme
They run through fields of green and gold
With wagging tails and spirits bold
Their paws dance on soft, cool grass
As they chase the butterflies that pass
They feel each other's breath and warmth
Their bond unbreakable, no room for remorse
Together they play and frolic free
Their souls entwined, for all to see
A love so pure, a friendship strong
Together they sleep, where they belong.

With gentle nudges and a loving heart,
The baby elephant urged her mother to start,
To climb over her and see the sights,
And explore new horizons beyond their sights.

The mother was hesitant at first,

But the baby elephant's enthusiasm was not to be reversed,

With every gentle nudge and push,

The mother began to trust and was soon a part of the rush.

Together they climbed over logs and hills,

As the baby elephant led with her skills,

They explored new places, never before seen,

A journey of discovery that felt like a dream.

With each step, they grew closer still,

The bond between them, stronger and filled,

With the love and trust that only family can bring,

They explored new horizons, together as a team.

PAPER DREAMS

Two pandas by the river's edge,
with paper boats they both did pledge.
To sail them down the current swift,
their laughter rising like a gift.

With paws so deft they fashioned two,
with care and love, they made them true.

And set them on the water's flow,
to see where they would choose to go.

The boats danced in the dappled sun,
and pandas watched them run and run.

Their smiles wide, their eyes alight,
as boats danced out of their sight.

A ball of white, a field of green,
Baby elephants join the scene.
Their trunks and tails, in happy sway,
As they play their game of foot today.
They dribble left, they dribble right,
Kicking the ball with all their might.

Their little feet, oh, how they run,
Their game of foot, a source of fun.
And their game had no goal,
Their little hearts permeate the whole

Under the blue sky and sun so bright,
Walks a lady with her cow so light.
With each step, their bond grows strong,
As they journey together, all day long.
The cow, with eyes so gentle and kind,
Walks beside her friend, with peace in mind.
And the lady, with love in her heart,
Guides her companion, never to part.
Through fields of green and meadows fair,
They wander together, without a care.
Their friendship, pure and true,
Blossoms with each step they pursue.
And though they may not speak a word,
Their emotions are always heard.
The cow and her lady, hand in hand,
A bond of love, so pure and grand.

CENTERED

Amidst the honking cars and rushing feet,
Cows sit in stillness, a calming retreat.
Eyes closed, minds clear, they meditate,
Blocking out the chaos, finding inner state.
Their peaceful presence a welcome sight,
In the midst of a bustling city's blight.
Traffic flows around them, yet they remain,
Serene and still, in their bovine domain.
Oh, how we can learn from these gentle souls,
To find tranquility in the midst of the tolls.
For amidst the noise and busy life we lead,
Stillness and calm can help us to succeed.

A panda sits in peaceful repose,
As music fills the air. It's notes,
like petals on a rose,
Are soft and sweet and fair.

The panda's eyes begin to close,
As if lost in a dream. The music flows, and soon it knows, A joy it's never seen.

The rhythm takes the panda's feet,
And moves them to and fro.

It dances in a blissful heat,
As notes begin to grow.

The melody begins to soar,
And soon the panda's there.

It's lost in music's rhythmic roar,
Stepping into ecstasy without a care.

We were looking for few paintings of nature to fit in the design context of our project and found @shyamkarri.in. After being intrigued by seeing his details, we made sure all the spaces in the project celebrate few of his works. His works capture expressions of life in watercolor beyond amusement!!

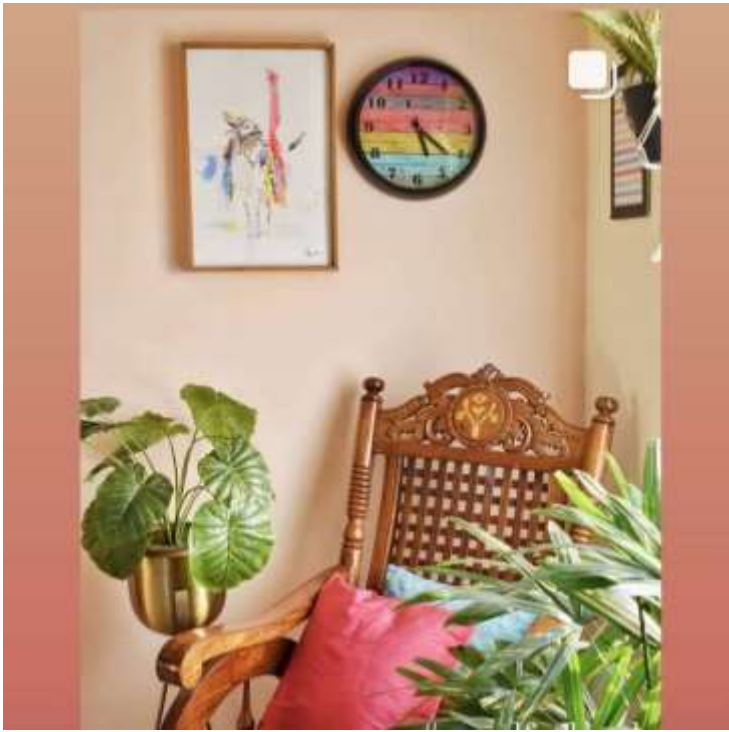

@shyamkarri.in ❤️

It's a great joy to watch art reaching hands that cherish forever.

Kinetic

Exploring dynamism, this series is an attempt to carefully narrate the sensory stimuli in a way that one experiences the subtle play of motion within, as they become part of the canvas, one might feel the urge to romance with the space around. That's exactly when the picture starts living through us, expanding its aura into the space around.

Thereby the subject tickles not just the sense of 'vision' but the sensory system as a whole.

The world around her fades,
As she forgets all her ways.
The moment now is all,
For the white horse, it's a call.
A gentle breeze she feels,
As her spirit it reveals.
The sunshine and fresh air,
Make her troubles disappear.
In this moment so serene,
The white horse is the queen.
As she enjoys the present,
Her soul becomes effervescent.

I enjoy making the viewer Experience the mysterious geometry that water creates, freezing the flow of water through colors, thereby the texture tickles not just the sense of 'vision' but the sensory system as a whole.

Tiny details of the mysterious geometry that water creates are celebrated as they were perceived empirically.

Two flowers sit in stillness deep,
amidst the blooms they meditate and keep,
their eyes closed, their breaths slow and steep,
As they inhale the fragrance that seeps.

With each inhale, they find their peace,
their monkey minds at ease,
in this moment, their worries cease,
As they bask in the flowery release

With each Exhale, they let go,
of all that weighs them low,
in this moment they simply know,
their serenity blooms and begins to grow.

Shyam, your work is just spectacular to put it simply. I have seen a lot of art by a lot of artists in many places and galleries including Jehangir, Chitrakala Parishad, State gallery of art and lots of art galleries in US and Europe. I would say that your work is easily among the best that I've seen. Normally when one sees art by a single artist, one can pick favourites (unless they're so close and similar). But with your repertoire it would be impossible to select a favourite. A blind pick would still be amazing! Your wide variety of themes span across animals, humans, landscapes and so on. So you've covered everything there! In terms of depth, each of your creation has a story! You've not just captured people or animals or scenes. You've captured moments, emotions, slices of life and reflections! In terms of your style, your approach of less speaking so much more is amazing! You've used blank spaces so effectively that whatever you've painted stands out speaking volumes! You've said you've let the water do the job, which shows your modesty! You have chosen to lead the water to do a fantastic job! Love the choice of your colours- they're so realistic, life-like and again relying on the strokes to talk rather than the colours dominate. I can go on about each one of your creations, if I had the time. God bless you with lots of inspiration, good luck and success! - Mrs. Geetha Pisupati
