Counseling and Advising 21st Century Middle School Students

An Interactive Curriculum for Academic Growth, Career and College Readiness, and Social-Emotional Development

Kathleen Costantini, Corine Fitzpatrick

Counseling and Advising 21st Century Middle School Students provides a curriculum for counselors, teachers, and administrators to support middle school children in academic growth, college and career readiness, and social-emotional development to improve their future choices. This book closes the current gap on future development guidance for counselors, educators, and parents, and acts as a vital tool for professionals working with middle school children to provide as much guidance and support as possible.
