March 2015

First let me say it is my fault The Collection is late.

I was waiting for a GREAT announcement... which isn't quite ready- yet. So.. I really don't have very much except reserve your sponsorship ad space soon. Tell your friends about all the benefits of being a member of IaDCTA. You know like the schooling series, year end awards, educational opportunities... etc.

Adult Day Camp is going to be very exciting. We have several great speakers and some fun educational events planned for the weekend.

Auditors are welcome (they can sign up at the door) and I will be calling for volunteers soon!

Hope to see everyone at the Adult Day Camp!
Happy Riding,
Tammy

The Power of Confidence

The Power of Confidence By Marilyn Norcross and Renee Norcross Experts in the How To's of Success and Winning

There is life within you, passion within you and strength within you that has yet to be tapped. It is ready for you, welcoming you with open arms. What is that inner desire, goal or dream within?

Many riders have given up on realizing some of their goals and dreams because of fear, doubt or lack of self-confidence. This, of course, also limits horses from the opportunity to perform to their fullest potential.

Have you noticed other riders or perhaps even yourself how just at the most important moments, nervousness or anxiousness start to rear their ugly head? Riders may experience this when they are learning something new, getting out of comfort zones, testing and showing, returning after an accident, or coming back after many years of not riding. There are also riders who have had a horseshow experience that was physically or emotionally painful or traumatic. Without realizing it, on a subconscious level, some riders bring negative feelings from these past rides into new riding experiences often causing under performance and frustration.

Dressage is unique and far more challenging than most sports because you are not interacting with an inanimate object that cannot think or feel. As you know, your horse feels every thought and emotion you have. When you're anxious your horse feels it and takes your emotional state as communication.

How the mind and body work is that when a rider is in any fear-based emotion like nervousness, out of control, doubt, anxiousness and worry, it is impossible for the rider to simultaneously be in a state of confidence-based emotions such as certainty, self-trust and inner control. If you are in a confident state you cannot also be in a state of fear.

Everybody wants confidence, yet so few really understand the depth of it. Like success, once you taste confidence, you want more and more, regardless of how successful you already are. Myth: those who need confidence are those who shut down mentally and are nervous and doubtful. Truth: all riders, including Olympic Dressage Champions need and want more confidence. Truth: confidence is the most powerful mental skill any rider can possess. If you are riding well and are comfortable, the minute you are ready to take your riding to the next level, you also require another level of confidence. Truth: just as you are unlimited in your potential, so is the power of self-confidence.

Confidence is the characteristic that separates ordinary from extraordinary. It transports you beyond comfort zones empowering you to take action and achieve goals you never could before. Riding with confidence profoundly affects the mind and body - building trust, relaxation and effective communication between you and your horse.

Here's one simple and powerful exercise for higher levels of success and winning. Using your imagination, begin to create the riding experiences you desire. Choose the area of riding you want to deepen your trust in your ability. Make a committed decision to shift your self image from the old you to the new you - a highly confident rider.

Open up your imagination and picture your new empowered self. What's different in how you sit on the horse? Are you more relaxed? How's your posture? What does your trainer like that you are doing in your lesson and in the show ring? How do you feel? How is your energy? What is your communication like with your horse? How does your horse respond to you feeling confident during your riding? To begin the process of moving beyond the level of confidence you currently have and tap into your greatness even more, practice this technique daily.

We'd like to give you another strategy for changing your mind about who you were, up until reading this article, and supporting you in starting to form a new concept of you. Use this script for empowering inner change.

Deep within me is a passion and love for riding that nothing and no one can take away. The joy and happiness I receive from riding far exceeds words. My horse and I are a marvelous team dedicated to taking one another to greater heights. There's no stopping us. We're on a mission that allows us to soar beyond insecurity, past barriers or limitations because I am committed to having a new level of confidence. I know that my renewed and increased self-belief strengthens my horse's confidence; we are happier. I have an important dream and vision to live into and today's my day to recommit to both of us. Together we are a confident winning team - we can do this!

HAULING A HORSE IN THE WINTER

By Carrie Yaeger December 3, 2014 at 3:56 PM

Posted in: Farm and Ranch

The harsh winds, cold temperatures and icy conditions of winter create a unique set of cautions that you should be aware of when traveling with your horse. Take safety precautions to maintain stress-free, pleasurable journeys when you are hauling your horse along. Here are some of the top tips that need to be taken into consideration when transporting a horse in the winter. The following expert advice from Monty Roberts, the "Man Who Listens to Horses" and the creator of the equine training technique called Join-Up, can assist you whenever you're on the road with your horse.

Wintertime Horse Comfort and Safety Transportation Tips

- Maintain Warmth and Comfort. Many horse owners and trainers worry about freezing temperatures and how to keep their horses warm when traveling. According to Roberts, "the most commonly made mistake in this situation is that we will tend to keep the horse too warm." A horse that's too warm can face health risks, as can a horse that's too cold. A blanket or horse coat should serve to keep your horse from getting chilled without warming it to the point of getting sweaty.
- Prevent Injuries and Stress Due to Slippage. Make sure your horse doesn't slip on a wet trailer floor from snow or ice. There are steps you can take to avoid injury or accident due to a slippery trailer floor. Roberts recommends having someone "in the vehicle with the horse." You might also allow your horse to go barefoot during the wintertime for better traction while standing and walking on snowy or icy conditions.
- Pre-Journey Horse Wellness Check. Hydration and comfort are important things to check on and take care of before hauling a horse during the winter. Work on this in advance, suggests Monty Roberts, by conditioning your horse to accept water containing electrolytes. Additionally, on longer journeys, it's smart to stop frequently and give your horse some moderate exercise to avoid the muscle cramping that can occur in colder temperatures. Having a trainer or owner ride with the horse can ensure that you're able to keep a watchful eye on the horse's well-being and comfort.

Wintertime Trailer Towing Tips

- Pre-Trip Trailer Check. There are many common sense things you'll check before using a horse trailer, such as brakes, lights and tires. But it's also important to add "ventilation" to your pre-journey checklist. "Care should be taken not to have it too drafty but certainly not sealed off so that fresh air is unavailable," says Roberts. Although you might be tempted to seal the trailer tight to keep the cold air out, your horse needs fresh air just as much as you do.
- Wintertime Transport Problems. Have a wintertime supply box on hand in the event of a weather-related problem. This container might include an equine first aid kit, horse coat or blanket, some extra food and water, and any other items that would be necessary if your truck or trailer break down in the middle of a transport. Planning ahead can help you avoid many of the common problems faced during wintertime transportation, but preparedness can also help when unavoidable problems arise.

"Transporting horses in wintertime can vary tremendously depending on the geographic location," says Roberts. But your pre-journey preparations can minimize or remove the potential problems caused by winter conditions. Be proactive by using the wisdom and tips provided by the "Man Who Listens to Horses." Incorporating this information into your routine before, during and after transporting a horse in winter will ensure a safe, enjoyable ride for everyone.

RE: 2015 Sponsorship Opportunities Iowa Dressage Classics I & II –
USDF/USEF Recognized Dressage Show June 13-14, 2015 - Maffitt
Lake Equestrian Center – Cumming, IA

On behalf of the Iowa Dressage & Combined Training Association, I am proud to offer you the opportunity to be an active supporter of our organization. For nearly 35 years, IaDCTA has been supporting and promoting the equine sports of dressage and combined training throughout the state of Iowa and across the region. As a nonprofit organization, we rely on the support of our members, donors and sponsors to help us fulfill our mission.

This year we will be offering sponsors the opportunity to support multiple events through a single sponsorship package. On June 13-14, IaDCTA will be hosting the 18th Annual Iowa Dressage Classics I & II USEF/USDF-recognized horse shows. The Classics will be held at the Maffitt Lake Equestrian Center – a beautiful, state-of-the-art equestrian facility – in Cumming, IA. Every year, the number of competitors and spectators at the Classics continues to grow, drawing dressage people from states across the Midwest. Not only is this the result of the very positive feedback received by the shows but it is also evidence that interest in dressage is spreading.

In addition to the Classics, IaDCTA provides dressage and combined training riders more competition opportunities through our IaDCTA-Recognized Show Series, which will culminate this year with the fifth annual IaDCTA Show Series Championship. The championship show combines serious competition with entertainment, bringing in a large crowd of both horse people and the general public. Sponsors are essential to the success of our organization and we certainly appreciate how much past sponsorships have allowed us to expand and improve our events.

In addition to IaDCTA, your sponsorship will also bring great benefit to Wildwood Hills Ranch, a non-profit, youth-development organization in St. Charles, IA that serves Iowa's neediest children. Every year, a percentage of the profits from our events are given to Wildwood to help fund the programs it provides to make a difference in the lives of many children. Please take a few minutes to review the following sponsorship package, which explains the numerous benefits of becoming an IaDCTA sponsor. Not only are we determined to making the Iowa Dressage Classics one of the premier dressage competitions in the region, but we are even more committed to expanding the opportunity for more people to enjoy dressage and eventing. Your support of these goals is vital.

Thank you very much for your consideration of this request.

*Regards,
Tammy Lisi
President, IaDCTA*
