

DR. GABRIEL WARREN

Professor + Author + Speaker + Podcaster

BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Gabriel Warren is an assistant professor of marketing, author of two books, Push for the Journey (2017) and No Regrets (2008), speaker, and host of Living Beyond Podcast. Dr. Warren strives to inspire others to consistently live a life of growth and progression in all they do.

Dr. Warren has consistently raised the bar in his life at every stage. He is a two-time Alabama High School Athletic Association State Champion in the high jump. After high school he received an athletic scholarship to attend The University of Alabama, competing in the Southeastern Conference (SEC). Warren went on to be a successful student-athlete and earned All-SEC Honor Roll, and became an SEC conference scorer and NCAA regional qualifier. He held a spot on the University of Alabama's all-time indoor top 10 performances with his jump of 7'1 1/2" in 2005, until it was later broken in 2018.

After receiving his Bachelors of Science degree from The University of Alabama, Dr. Warren spent 12 years working in corporate America serving in sales, marketing, and sales management roles in the retail, financial services, and higher education industries. It was when he started working in higher education as an admissions associate that he realized his passion for inspiring others to achieve more out of life. He earned both his MBA degree and DBA degree in marketing, while balancing full-time work and building his family. Throughout every stage of life, Dr. Warren has been able to successfully maximize every chapter and has transitioned into finding his purpose.

Dr. Warren and his wife Ebony currently reside in Bemidji, Minnesota with their two sons.
