

"The War Within"
 I've traveled far to distant land.
 The land they call Afghanistan.
 A place of war and poppy fields,
 Cannabis, grapes and scary feels.
 We trained to fight the unknown man,
 Then we fought like hell and back again.
 It was far from the Army of childhood play,
 Over ten years later, yet it could be today.
 So when I stare like I'm lost in space,
 It's only because I can't forget that place.
