COMPREHENSIVE PSYCHOLOGICAL DIAGNOSTIC ASSESSMENTS

Combined Autism and ADHD assessments

For a formal diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) in WA a multidisciplinary assessment approach is usually required. Diagnostic assessment requires that stringent diagnostic assessment criteria are met, as assessed by the following professionals:

Which professionals required for your child's assessment and diagnosis may vary depending upon your child's areas of difficulty, your intention to apply for supports following diagnosis (ie. NDIS, Department of Education etc). It can also be determined by the age of the child. This should be discussed with your diagnostician/s. However, generally speaking, a minimum of two suitably trained professionals would be required to agree upon a diagnosis.

Diagnostic teams can be made up of Paediatricians, Psychiatrists, Clinical Psychologists, Speech Pathologists (with certification in ASD assessment and diagnosis) and some others, as appropriate.

For families accessing assessments privately, the WA Autism Diagnosticians' Forum website may be a useful place to access a list of diagnosticians that may be able to assist with this process:
<https://waadf.org.au/paad/>

Psychological assessment for ADHD provides a comprehensive assessment of the child's behavioural and cognitive functioning, in relation to the DSM-5 diagnostic criteria. Better understanding of a child's functioning in the context of environmental and familial factors is important; both in order to explore differential diagnoses and/or comorbidities, and to understand specific areas of cognitive strength and weakness.

While psychological assessment can provide a diagnosis of ADHD (or exclusion of this as the case may be) it should be considered as a provisional diagnosis subject to medical evaluation. Review by a Developmental Paediatrician or Psychiatrist/Neurologist (for example) is important to screen for and rule out any potential underlying medical causes or comorbidities, for example. Further, psychologists are unable to prescribe or monitor medication for ADHD symptom management if families choose this option as part of the child's treatment plan. The Psychologist's report of assessment findings can be used to inform & support medical diagnosis and intervention planning, or to assist with access to school/classroom accommodations.

It is important to note that assessment does NOT always result in diagnosis.

Referral & Acceptance

Under best practice guidelines, referral to our service for psychological assessments would come from a Paediatrician or Psychiatrist who has already undergone medical evaluation of the child. This is the ideal pathway for referral and assessment. Additionally, a nominal rebate via Medicare may be applicable if referred by Paediatrician/Psychiatrist for autism assessments (via the Helping Children with Autism pathway). Please ensure that your referring Paediatrician/Psychiatrist provides a written referral under Medicare requirements, if you plan to apply for any applicable rebates.

However, given the significant demand for Paediatric/Psychiatric services in the current climate, timely access to these services is proving to be difficult. As such, it may be possible for the psychological component of assessment to be completed prior to involvement of medical professionals, with referral via allied health professionals or GP's for example. Self-referrals may also be considered.

Suitability for referral/assessment pathway is assessed on individual case-by-case basis (and may be subject to interim medical evaluation via the child's GP). Under the APS Code of Ethics, the psychologist will assess each referral received to determine if this would be considered as a valid and appropriate reason for assessment. The psychologist determines this by considering whether the assessment will be suitable and beneficial for the child and is ethical under APS guidelines. The final decision regarding suitability rests with the psychologist. If it is determined that the assessment, psychologist, or referral reason is not suitable, this will be conveyed to the parent/s and/or contracting party and the psychologist reserves the right not to engage with the client in this service.

Generally speaking, without a valid referral from a Paediatrician under the HCWA pathway, no Medicare rebate is applicable to any assessment.

Some private health insurance rebate may be applicable on a portion of the assessment (child assessment) and clients may wish to check eligibility with their individual funds.

Assessment Process

As part of the intake process, families will be asked to complete some information forms to assist in determining whether assessment via this service is appropriate. Please note that assessments are not guaranteed until all documentation including referrals have been received and reviewed by the psychologist.

Psychologist assessment for both autism and ADHD is a very detailed and comprehensive process. This involves careful observation and interpretation of specific characteristics such as social communication, behaviours and fixed interests etc. First, the psychologist will ask parents/caregivers to complete a number of pre-interview forms to obtain as much information as possible regarding the social and developmental history of the child.

Following receipt of these documents, there will then be a comprehensive semi-structured interview (based on the ADI-R) with parent/s to explore the child's presentation, including individual strengths, weaknesses and specific areas of concern. Obtaining a comprehensive psychosocial and medical history is crucial. Parents are asked to provide (either via email or in person) copies of school reports, previous assessment and other health professional reports etc.

Following the parent interview, your child will attend an assessment session with the psychologist (done on a separate day). This will likely involve formalised cognitive assessment via the WISC-V, as well as informal interview and observation with the child. In some cases, the child session will not require the WISC-V and this will be discussed and determined at the time of booking or parent interview appointment. Depending upon your child's age, some self-report formalised assessments may also be included.

Additional assessment tools will also be administered, as indicated based on the referral question.

Parents and teachers/daycare providers will also be sent a number of online questionnaires to complete. It is requested that these are completed and returned at earliest convenience to reduce any delays on reporting.

Following the parent and child appointments, all observational, interview, formalised assessment results and collateral data are carefully scored, analysed and interpreted against specific DSM-5 diagnostic criteria for autism and ADHD.

Parents receive a comprehensive report, including specific recommendations tailored to the child's specific areas of strength and weakness. The report is provided to parents electronically (approx. 4 weeks following assessment). The opportunity for a brief feedback session (up to 30 mins) is offered at this time (not included in package fee).

CHILD ASSESSMENTS INCLUDING THE WISC-V:

Should a WISC-V be required, children will be asked to engage in a number of brief tasks including using blocks, looking at pictures and some verbal questions etc. There will be opportunity for short breaks between subtests. It is best to allow approximately 2 hours for the assessment.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO INFORM THE PSYCHOLOGIST (prior to booking) IF YOUR CHILD HAS HAD ANY FORM OF IQ ASSESSMENT IN THE PAST.

Although not common, assessment may need to be completed over two sessions due to various circumstances. Additionally, there are times where children are not able to complete assessment. Assessment behaviour forms part of the process and is used in interpretation of the results. As such, in cases where full assessment is unable to be completed, this will still be a chargeable service (no refund/discount). A report will still be provided with any obtainable results and assessment behaviour reported.

Information on preparing for assessments is provided later in this document.

Parents (and teachers) will be requested to complete a number of formalised assessment measures by way of evidence-based questionnaires and assessment tools as part of the diagnostic process. These are generally online assessments.

In the case where insufficient notice (less than 48 hours) or a missed appointment occurs, a cancellation fee of $250.00 is payable to cover costs associated with preparation, administration and room rental fees. Instead, you are encouraged to contact us as soon as symptoms are noticed, to try and arrange a telehealth session (where appropriate) or discuss rescheduling (cancellation fees as above may apply - please discuss this with Nicola).

Please note that cancellation or reschedule of appointments on more than two occasions may mean that your child is placed back on to the waitlist for service.
