"Dealing with multiple variables and multiple subcontractors is really no different than dealing with the limitless problems of clients and their agendas in the management consulting business. It's really all about solving problems," he says. "The difference is, stone and carpet don't talk back, and won't argue about where you put them. So homebuilding is much easier." But that doesn't mean it's easy.

"At our first home, we started with a model floor plan but made so many changes to the interior and exterior that we
