

Infinite SOULutions

evolve.transform.ascend

Shungite The Mysterious Healing Stone of Russia

Scientific and technological progress has created a substantial amount of electro-magnetic frequency (EMF) related pollution. The space surrounding us is filled with radiation, which consists of electromagnetic waves. 5G is the latest and most dangerous of these EMFs. 5G is a millimeter wave, meaning the frequency is shorter, thus towers must be closer together and there are tens of thousands of more satellites helping transmit these frequencies. 5G targets the endocrine system, particularly the Thymus (high-heart chakra), Pituitary (throat chakra) and Pineal (Star Consciousness/Prime Meridians Portal) glands. EMF waves emanate from household appliances, electrical outlets and other wireless devices used every day. Few people know that exposure to such radiation can be detrimental, as it creates favorable conditions for the development of oncology and heart related diseases.

The unusual properties of shungite are increasingly used to protect people against electromagnetic radiation. It neutralizes or significantly reduces the power of waves that emanate from mobile devices, microwave ovens, TV and PCs. Shungite is also used to protect against electromagnetic radiation emanating from high-voltage lines.

When used as protection from EMF radiation, shungite acts as an absorbent or filter. This mineral was used to cover Chernobyl reactor after the fire. Shungite is a diamagnet. This means that the external and internal EM fields, acting on each other, are mutually weakened. In doing so, they are able to reduce the impact of geological fields and solar radiation.

- Natural Shungite chunks or carvings (e.g., pyramids, free form pieces, spheres, etc.) can be placed near WIFI routers or other appliances to absorb EMF emissions at the source.
- The stone can be placed in walls or around the perimeters of rooms in a building, particularly one with a lot of appliances and devices to reduce EMF pollution in the space. It helps to improve the energy reserves of the inhabitants or staff, help people feel less tired and more active due to the elimination of constant radiation exposure.
- To protect the human body from destructive effects of radiation emanating from mobile phones, adhere shungite stickers that to the device.
- Shungite is the “new little black accessory” in the form of a piece of jewelry that offers protection from not only EMF but also from viruses and bacteria.
- Shungite contains fullerenes. These are natural, allotropic compounds in the composition of shungite. They are famous for their unusual structure. When fullerenes are ingested in the human body, they act as an antioxidant and help by eliminating toxins stored in the body. Using a Shungite plate under your glass or water bottle, or dropping a cleansed (wash your stone in soap and hot water) shungite stone in your water, charges the water with these properties, thus bringing the full health benefits of Shungite into the body.
- Crumbs and powders of the stone can be used as an additive to building materials, to create an obstacle for high-frequency electromagnetic radiation. In such a room or building, it is impossible to put a wiretap, so shungite building materials are often used in institutions that store sensitive information.

In the absence of Shungite for EMF protection, Black Tourmaline is very effective with EMF negation as well and can be a more affordable solution. There are other crystals as well that dissipate EMF radiation. Please contact support@infinitesoulutionsllc.com for additional options or peruse the crystal descriptions of the crystals available on our website at www.infinitesoulutionsllc.com.