

December 12, 2020

To Business Owners who pay too many taxes,

As a General Contractor, I had heard there were Business Tax Credits that could help me build my business. My company, GCM Contracting Solutions, has earned an impeccable reputation specializing in innovative, custom solutions for difficult problems for renovation or new construction, and engineering solutions for revolutionary storage facilities, award-winning commercial & residential buildings.

I met with Debbie & Rick Perry, of Your Strategy Partners, to learn more about the opportunity and how GCM Contracting Solutions could qualify for the Federal Research & Development tax credit, and recover some of the taxes I paid to the IRS. I learned they can go back 3 years the first time to recover taxes.

This was of great interest, since GCM Contracting Solutions recently built the world's first robotic/automated boat storage & retrieval system at Gulf Star Marina. Now, we have been able to qualify the innovative design, production and construction techniques that go into our projects to be able to recover tax credits from the IRS.

The Tax Incentive specialists were able to help me recover my overpaid taxes, which will benefit my family and business. There was no cost for the initial analysis, and everything is kept securely confidential. I am pleased to recommend Your Strategy Partners. If you pay too much tax, and your company performs innovative activities, they might be able to help you qualify too.

Sincerely,

Robert Brown, President
GCM Contracting Solutions

Delivering Successful Projects with Speed and Innovation.