

Meet Josh, SLP4ALL's Newest Consultant!!

Assistive Technology Trainer and Executive Functions Coach

Who better to work with your children than the son of the founder of SLP4ALL?!? Josh is currently in his third year of studies at the University of Guelph and is planning on becoming a high school teacher. He not only talks the talk, but he also walks the walk as he has been using assistive technology tools since he was in Grade 2 (that's almost 14 years!).

Although Josh used to struggle with many of his executive functions skills, he has become a master at breaking down assignments, time management, and keeping his well-written notes up-to-date and organized. For years, I have encouraged Josh to share his skills with other students, and finally, here he is!

Services Provided by Josh:

- Assistive Technology Training

- Josh will teach your children how to use their assistive technology tools and can assist them throughout the school year to ensure the ongoing use and implementation of their recommended tools.

- Executive Function Skills Coaching (weekly coaching available!)

- Josh can provide weekly coaching to support your children's executive function needs, which will entail working on a predetermined set of goals as well as helping to address new concerns as they arise.
- By reviewing their work weekly, Josh can help to ensure that students stay on track and get their work done on time, while also making sure that they know how to tackle all of their assignments.
