2018 Salmon in the Classroom Releases

by Rodney Elnick

It is the end of the school year and all five schools have released fish. A grand total of 1035 Smolts were released. The Clinton River near Yates Cider Mill saw 869 Smolts and the Huron River at Flat Rock had 166 Smolts released. The overall tank survival rate from all five schools was 83%. I am extremely pleased with our schools and the work they put into each tank.

Kennedy Middle School

The Kennedy Middle School of Saint Clare Shores brought 51 students to Yates Park. This was the second year for Kennedy and we had tanks in two classrooms. The students were divided into five groups and were rotated through five stations during the morning hours. Seven Steelheaders, five teachers, and five parents were in attendance to guide students through these exercises.

Station #1 was the Salmon release. Each student was given a plastic bag of river water. Salmon were fished out of the transport cooler with a net and dropped into the bag. The Smolts were carried to a table where length was measured for length and recorded. Then down to the river where their instructor gave direction for a proper release. We released 183 Smolts of the 203 eggs we started with (90% survival) of tank number 1 and 174 Smolts of 209 eggs (83% survival) of tank number 2.

Station #2 had the students taking turns with personal instruction on casting techniques in moving waters. Two shorter fishing poles with spin casting reels were used with weighted bobbers. Using a 1-2-3 count, the objective was to drop the bobber 45 degrees upstream and retrieve the bobber by the time it was 45 degrees below the student. The students picked up the technique fairly quick however, the objective soon became 'how close to the far shore' can you drop the bobber. The instructors had to assist flip-ping bobbers off the shore line shrubbery.

Station #3 was really interesting. Science teacher Mrs. Malloy, in arm pit high waders, was digging double handfuls of mud from the river's edge. These were placed on 12x18 plastic lids, one for each student. The objective was to recover any common stream invertebrates (bugs) and secure them in egg cartons for later identification and examination back at school. Stream invertebrates are important in the context of streams and rivers as ecosystems and are used as biological indicators of a stream's health.

Station #4 allows the students to build their own lures. Above 50 feet, color is part of the attraction. The deeper in the water, the less light, which leaves the deep swimming salmon only seeing shades of gray in the daytime, leaving glow and UV lures high attractors.

Dreamweaver Lure Co. of Ludington is part of Station #4. They have supplied colored tape and blank, uncolored spoons for the students to be creative and artsy. After a quick general talk of Salmon and color and deep water, they are challenged to design the perfect lure. Typically, they have to be pushed to finish. They usually want to spend more time at this station than any of the others. When done, the lure is theirs to take home for Dad to use on his next outing. A few of these creations are quite good.

Station #5 is an energy release exercise for each student. Games are played, usually involving running, ball handling, yelling, and laughing. That ends the morning. It's only left to clean up and the students to eat lunch before returning to class.

10 Habits of Great Anglers

From SteelheadManifesto.com

- 1) Check your knots. Every single time they tie a knot, a good angler moistens the knot and gives the knot and leader a good tug to make sure it's strong and has seated correctly. Every time, period!
- 2) Check your leaders. Great anglers always check their leaders after every landed fish or snag. Always take the time to re-tie and do not be lazy.
- 3) Sharp Hooks. Good anglers will check the hook point to make sure it's sharp. If it's not, either they sharpen it or replace it.
- 4) Organize your gear. This is where preparation meets opportunity, having the right flies, bait, and gear for the current situations. Staying organized is a must and will translate into more fish.
- 5) Fish the closest water first. Great Anglers always make short casts into the near water first in the run and work outwards. Fish move around and sometimes are right next to the bank.
- 6) Presentation: A good angler thinks before he or she casts and delivers the right presentation in the right place, but only after he or she has studied the run or pool.
- 7) Keep your offering in the water. It's simple mathematics, the longer your bait or fly is in the water the better chances you have of catching more fish. Successful anglers always have a line in the water.
- 8) Water and terrain features. A good angler is not only studying his surroundings above the water and the terrain, but what's below the water as well.
- 9) Analyze current conditions. Many variables can impact what kind of day you're going to have. Make changes to your techniques based on the weather, water conditions and temperatures. You must adapt based on the day you're given to fish.
- 10) Life Long Journey. Good anglers know that they can learn something about fishing from almost anybody and every time they are out fishing. Good anglers crave the knowledge and seek it out. Be it online, books, seminars, magazines or videos. Great Anglers talk fishing a lot with buddies.

Detroit Kids Fishing Derby

On May 19, 2018 Detroit Parks & Recreation Department and Hook, Line, & Sinkers, Inc hosted the 22nd Annual Kids Fishing Derby at Palmer Park on Lake Francis. Sponsorship from your Detroit Area Steelheaders, numerous other organizations, and individuals, help make this day possible. I was on hand to volunteer and take in the festivities. I arrived at 8 am to see Gary Williams handing out some poles to the kids. I started by helping set poles up for the kids with a hook, a split shot and a bobber. Once there were enough poles set up I walked around and watched the kids catching fish and helped untangle snags. The driving force behind this day is Gary, He's a one man wrecking ball who takes it on himself to introduce the joys of fishing to inner city youth. At the end of the session Gary gave out prizes to kids (Life jackets, fishing poles, tackle packs and the grand prize of a mountain bike.) In addition to Gary, the Detroit Steelheaders also extend a special thank you to Jim Zanke for his generous donation of over 50 rod and reel combo's which were distributed to participants that didn't have their own equipment. This was a great outing for the parents and kids as well as myself. Submitted by Jon Martens

Ahh....Harbor Beach

It's nice to fish a port near home. You can get away for the day, then still get home in time to knock a couple tasks off your 'honey do' list on Sunday. But this this year the weatherman didn't cooperate. On Saturday June 2nd, the conditions at Harbor beach kept everyone off the lake and only three of the boats that showed up for the tournament would be able to fish on Sunday. Port Captain Joe von Grabe resigned himself to serving lunch, then heading home before getting to fish. Dan Chisholm hit the St Clair River for some walleye on his way home Saturday. It turns out, one of the hazards when fishing a port near home, is being near home.

The weather is only one challenge faced by salmon trollers, you also have to find fish and get them in the boat. But before any of that can happen, you better have a good crew to help run the boat. When the guys you normally fish with can't make it, what's a guy to do? Well, Paul Gjeldum from the Blue Horizon was faced with that very problem at Harbor Beach. Fortunately, Paul's mom loves fishing as much as he does. Being able to take the people who taught you to fish is a special treat. Skipper Bob Jones was impressed. Bob says "Hat's off to Paul for bringing his mom, just the two of them on the boat. How cool is that!!!! Paul you are truly a inspiration to us all." Bob Fiesel said "Paul's mom, Jenny, was a hoot! She's very enthusiastic about fishing!"

Bobby's Toy, Blue Horizon, and Vicki's Seacret were the three boats that fished Sunday. Everyone caught at least five fish, and all the fish weighed were Lakers. The only salmon was a small Pink caught on the Blue Horizon. Bobby's Toy secured his third first place finish of the season. Vicki's Seacret finished in second place, and Blue Horizon in third place.

Divine Child High School

On Tuesday, May 8, Divine Child High School of Dearborn brought teacher, Mr. Gaule and 29 students to Huron Park on the Huron River in Flat Rock. This park has no sand bar as at Yates Park. Additionally, the current is more rapid so our release was at the river's edge without getting any feet wet. The students released 166 Smolts of the 200 eggs they started with (83% survival).

The casting station was also fun for the students. Their goal was also the far shore line but an overhanging tree provided a guarding action. Five or six students had never had a fishing pole in their hands. Their casting results were more up than forward. We did have one tree tangle behind us. The lure making was very creative. There were two lures made that I'm sure I would have purchased if I'd seen them in a store.

Pine Knob Elementary

Monday, May 14, was the Pine Knob Elementary Salmon release with teachers Mrs. Driver and Mrs. Giovas. They released 166 Smolts out of 215 eggs (77% survival). The mud search for macro invertebrates was included so we had 5 stations for the students. The release station was the most popular but again, the lure making station controlled the timing as the students concentrated on their 'perfect lure'. We again thank Dreamweaver Lure Co. for the supplies that they provided.

Wiley Elementary

Our new school for the 2017-2018 school year is Wiley Elementary of Shelby Charter Township. A 75 gal tank is located in Mrs. Suggs science classroom. On Wednesday, May 16, was Wiley's Salmon release. This is their first release with 179 Smolts out of 204 eggs (88% survival). With the usual 4 stations the students were again pressed for time to complete their lures. We were surprised by the attendance of the local news crew for Channel 4 who documented the morning's events. Mrs. Suggs gave the Steel-headers a great review, however it didn't survive the cutting room.

Oakland Christian Schools

On Wednesday, May 23 Oakland Christian Schools of Auburn Hills brought 28 students to Yates Park. This was their fifth year raising Salmon. They have a 130 gallon tank located in the vestibule of the elementary school and all grades include the Salmon as a teaching tool but only 4th graders release the Salmon. They released 167 Smolts, having started with 218 eggs (77% survival). We want to thank our new teacher, Mrs. Ream, Mrs. Clark (teacher), Paul Brown (marine biologist), and Dan Didocha (DAS) for their successful work through the year. Dreamweaver lure blanks and tape were again used for the students to provide a creative example of what might catch a fisherman.

In addition, I wish to thank Dreamweaver Lure Co. for the lure blanks and tape supplies provided for the students lure building. And last, for the D.A.S. membership that backed the program, assisted through the school year, and those helping to make our releases successful. I look forward to the Fall startup of the program and hopefully adding a sixth school.

June Speaker Capt Joe Raymer

Our featured speaker on June 26th is Capt. Joe Raymer from Frank's Great Outdoors. Captain Joe will talk about local techniques that should produce good catches on Saginaw Bay. He'll also pinpoint locations where we might find walleye for our outing out of Linwood on July 7th. He mentioned possibly having some tackle gifts that he will have available for all those members in attendance that evening. We look forward to his presentation and hope to see you at our June meeting.

Here's what you missed last meeting

Many thanks to club members Jim Zanke, Chris Nytko, and Joe von Grabe for their boat rigging demonstrations at the May general membership meeting. All the skippers had their boats rigged with typical presentations for how they might fish. It's good see what these skippers have determined to be their most productive hassle-free set ups. After each presentation, everyone had an opportunity to ask questions before heading inside the hall for our swap meet. It looked like a lot of tackle was trading hands. If feedback from members is positive, we will schedule another swap meet next spring.

Gearing Up.....Ditch Bags

I never gave having a ditch bag much thought until I read an article by Dave Mull about an incident he had on Lake Michigan back in 2012. Dave you might remember was the editor of Great Lakes Angler for many years and was an experienced boater and fisherman. I won't get into detail here but I suggest you read it. If you already have, you may want to read it again as a refresher. Just search "Dave Mull blog" and it should be the first link that pops up. Also, here's the link. http://www.glangler.com/_blog/Great_Lakes_Angler/tag/Dave_Mull_Blog/

Basically, Dave and the Captain of the boat did just about everything wrong as far as preparation goes and they're lucky no one drown when their boat sank. You might remember, that was the year we had a very mild winter and a warm spring and summer. The 'warmer than normal' water temperatures, and the fact that this happened in the southern part of Lake Michigan may have kept them from getting hyperthermia.

After reading this article, I began researching having a ditch bag kit on the boat and what the contents should be. Ditch Bags are compact floating bags designed to hold critical items boaters need in an emergency. The following is what I have in my bag.

- Ditch Bag ACR Rapid Ditch Express Bag $ 60
- (4) Inflatable Waist Belts Onyx M/24 Belt Pack $75/ea. $300
- (1) Portable Marine Radio w/GPS Uniden MHS135 $200

Also, Whistles, Signal Mirrors, Disposable Light Sticks, Waterproof Flashlight, Wire Cutters, Knife or Multi-tool, Extra Batteries, Portable Signal Horn, Strobe Light, Flares, First Aid Kit, Rope, and Zip Lock Bags.

You might also consider including an EPIRB in your kit. When activated, Emergency Position Indicating Radio Beacons use satellites and earth stations to notify Coast Guard and local search and rescue teams of your emergency and provide your GPS position. These start at about $400.

Make sure your stationary marine radio has the DSC feature that allows transmitting automated distress calls. If it doesn't, you may want to upgrade. At the touch of a button, the radio can transmit your MMSI number, the nature of your distress, and your current position based on data from your GPS receiver. The radio repeats the distress call every few minutes until it receives an acknowledgement. You have to register to receive your MMSI number and make sure you link your radio to your GPS receiver. Newer marine radios have an integrated GPS receiver.

The first time out each year with my regular crew and anytime I have new people on the boat, I go over where the ditch bag is located as well as fire extinguishers, life jackets, first aid kit, etc. The ditch bag is something I hope I'll never have to use, but it gives you some piece of mind knowing you have it "just in case".

Grand Haven Recap

Six boats participated in this year's two day tournament at Grand Haven. The wind was howling down the river when we arrived on Friday. Several boats ventured out for a pre-fish to find the lake was quite calm and fishable. On Hardtop & Tails, we ran through a school of Coho. On the two-man boat, we had three on at once! We landed all three and went on to catch a small king.

Saturday the weather didn't improve. The wind was still blowing offshore, but rain moved in to add to the challenge. At line pulling time, fog enveloped the port. The density was such that an additional half hour was added to the weigh in time to allow safe return of the participants. The rain let up just in time for the weigh in and lunch. All boats caught fish! Vicky's Secret weighed in a cooler full of kings. Many caught a mixture of kings and coho. Vicki's Secret was in first place, but Hardtop & Tails had the big King – 20.8 lbs. Lake Buzzard caught the big steelhead – 14.65 lbs.!

A hot lunch of pulled pork, pulled chicken, mac & cheese, and coleslaw was provided by the crew of Hardtop & Tails. It was greatly appreciated on that cool and damp day!

Sunday the wind changed direction – fairly stiff out the North. It was a little rough, but fishable. Again, all boats weighed fish. Vicki's Secret weighed another cooler full of kings, cementing their first-place position. This time it was Blue Horizon's turn to weigh in a huge king – 22.1 lbs. (pictured above)! All in all, the fishing was great. A wide variety of fish, from small coho to the huge kings were caught. Not a single Lake Trout was boated in the two day tournament.

Special Friends Celebrates 30 Years

Detroit Steelheaders Special Friends Outing 30th Anniversary June 9, 2018 at Toledo Beach Marina

Wind and rain created an additional challenge to the 30th anniversary of the Detroit Steelheaders Special Friends outing. Challenges can be an obstacle, or they can just make for new ways to have fun and that's the way the outing went this year. We hosted 25 Special Friends on 12 boats and everyone was had a great time. Some of our boats came in a little early because of the wind and one boat (mine) only made it out of the harbor for a couple of hundred yards before I came back in, but we gave it a try anyway. All of our guests caught fish and the walleye harvest was not too bad considering the conditions. The Channing crew did not feel it was safe to be on the lake so we set our guests, Ellie and Charlie, up with some perch rigs and fished for pan fish right inside the marina off the docks. It was a good move because in no time they were hauling in perch, bass, rock bass, sunfish, bullhead, and bluegill. They were having so much fun the noise attracted other event volunteers to come over from the tent just to watch. Like I said, challenges can be just a new way to have fun. There was a total of 25 bags of walleye filets taken home by our guests (thanks to the effort of our fish cleaning crew organized by Don Mikros).

One of the rewarding things about being involved in this outing is the pride of being part of a team effort. It takes a lot of willing hands to make this event successful. I will probably miss the effort of someone as I try to recognize all who help out but please understand, your effort is appreciated.

Holland Trolling Tournament — July 14th

Hi everyone, the Holland tournament for July 14 will be a great one with awesome food and lots of big fish! We moved from Eldens to the north side of Lake Macatawa. The new location is called Parkside Marina. It's nowhere near as big, or fancy like Elden's, but it will be more convenient to launch at the DNR ramp and the cost for dockage is cheaper. We hope to have a nice tournament at this place. We will be doing the captains meeting at 5:00AM, then out to the lake and set lines at 6:00AM. We also have swag (prizes) for everyone in attendance. Dream Weaver and Church's Tackle have committed to sponsor us for the tournament. Fishing has been on fire in Holland this year, lots of limits of monster Kings have been taken every day. Check out lakeshoretackleandfirearms.com. This is the place to go for salmon equipment. It's one of the best tackle shops in Michigan, if you don't have it they do! Hope to see everyone there. For any extra info, feel free to contact me.
