Olcott.... Disappointment Was the Name of the Game

Disappointing is the best word to describe the 2014 DAS tournament at Olcott, NY on Sat., June 28. Typically, June is a slow month across the Great Lakes for Salmon and Trout fishing but for the last 3 years, Olcott has provided the DAS with a decent fishery, where some good steelhead action and even a few Big Kings could be found. This year that was not the case at all.

The reports on-line and from the Slippery Sinker Tackle shop in Olcott were that the fishing had been tough the previous 2 weeks. The locals claimed that the wind had been blowing out of the NE for something like 18 straight days and were blaming the poor fishing on that.

A few of the club boats arrived on Thursday night and did some pre-fishing on Friday. Blue Horizon found a couple of steelhead while searching from shallow to deep waters, starting out more towards Wilson to the west.

'Blue Horizon' Skipper Paul Gjeldum puts the net on one of six steelhead he weighed in at Olcott, NY

Sloppy Joe actually did quite well out in 500' of water NE of Olcott. He managed 8 or 9 fish for the day. All but 2 were kings and most on meat rigs 70' down on riggers. He worked the same spot over and over and everything came on a west troll. Bobby's Toy trolled from 350 FOW out to 530 FOW, about an eleven-mile troll, with nothing to show for it except 2 knock-offs and maybe a handful of fish marks.

Tough fishing for sure!

Even the turn-out was disappointing as only 6 skippers were at the 5:00 skipper's meeting at the Town of Newfane Marina pavilion. The number of

Erieau.... More 'Eyes' than 'Bows'

The real nice thing about the DAS going to Erieau, Ont. for a tournament is its close proximity to the Metropolitan Detroit Area. The drive is less than one hundred miles for most DAS skippers. Some get up early Sat. morning and make the drive over to the Erieau Marina, launch their boats, get to the 6:00am skipper's meeting just on time, fish the tournament, do the weigh-in and luncheon and are back home by early evening Sat. night. This can make it a fairly inexpensive tournament to attend with low fuel costs and no overnight bills.

For these reasons, you would think it would be a more popular stop on the tournament schedule, but only 6 boats made the trip.

The fishing there kept the crews busy as it was definitely an entertaining fishery and the catching was quite good. The bulk of the catch was the much sought-after, tasty walleye and of course, you were constantly cleaning lines of the Silver Bass and Sheephead, that seem to hit anything and everything. Unfortunately, the eyes don't have any value in the tournament except for the Big Walleye pool and there were not many rainbows as the locals call them, caught except by the winning skipper and crew.

It was a great day for fishing with sunny skies warm temperatures and waves less than 2'. Most boats had decent catches of walleyes at each of the 2 fish calls but were struggling to find the steelhead.

Paul Gjeldum and the crew on Blue Horizon just as they did in Olcott, walked away with the win as they brought 6 steelhead to the scales. Paul has truly earned the nickname of Mr. Steelhead with the back-to-back wins. Nite Moves skippered by Carl Ventimiglia took second place with 3 steelhead and the Sea Hag crew led by skipper Blaise Pewinski took 3rd with 2 steelies. Sloppy Joe edged out Bobby's Toy by .6 of lb to take 4th Place. Bob Feisel and the Vickie's Seacrest crew did not catch any steelhead but weighed-in quite a few walleyes with one being 8.8 lbs to take the Big Walleye pool. Blaise Pewinski, skipper of the Sea Hag weighed in a 7.35 lb. steelhead to capture the Big Fish pool.

Pre-Tournament Check-In

(New tournament policy to help get a handle on Food needed for Weigh-in Lunch)

The Boat Trolling Committee would like to institute a new policy effective immediately that requires the participating skippers to call in the total number of crew members that will be attending the tournament luncheon no later than one week prior to the tournament date. For the remainder of this tournament season this means:

Tournament	Date	Call-In By
Family Day (Ludington)	08/02/14	07/26/14
Ludington II	08/09/14	08/02/14
Manistee	08/23/14	08/16/14

Please call Bob Ksionzek @ 586-531-9198. If I don't answer, just leave a message with your name, boat name and number of people attending lunch. This will make it easier for the Port Captain to provide the necessary amount of food at the Weigh-In luncheon.

Thank you for your co-operation.

boats that actually fished was 5 as Bob Feisel had some issues with his distributor that he couldn't get fixed in time to join in on the fishing.

The fishing was even tougher on tournament morning as every boat struggled to find the fish. At the 9:00am fish call, Blue Horizon reported 2 fish, Sloppy Joe had 1 and the rest of the boats had none. Everyone continued to search for the fish but with not much success. Three hours later, for the noon fish call, the tally was: Blue Horizon 6 4 fish, Sloppy Joe still had one and Hardtop and Tails got the skunk out with 1. Bobby's Toy and Channing both still had no fish.

Paul Gjeldum and his crew on the Blue Horizon worked the same area for the remainder of the tournament and walked away with 1st place. They brought six steelhead to the scales. 28.05lbs total and 58.05 pts. Congratulations Guys! Hardtop and Tails took 2nd with their one steelhead worth 11.65 pts. Sloppy Joe finished 3rd with one steelhead good for 10.60 pts. No other fish were weighed in. Jim Zanke took Big Fish honors with his 6.65 lb. steelhead.

Port Captain Jim Zanke did not disappoint as he and his crew provided an excellent meal of pulled pork and BBQ chicken sandwiches, potato salad and coleslaw. Charlie Denning brought some delicious cupcakes from his bakery. Nice Job, guys and thanks!

Even though the fishing was very disappointing, everyone seemed to have a good time and certainly enjoyed the meal. It was a very nice day and seas were calm for the better part of the tournament. We will keep an eye on this fishery for the remainder of this year and next spring to see if it is worthwhile making the long trip to New York for next season.

New Revelation On Lake Huron's Collapse Could Spell Trouble for Lake Michigan

The harsh winter of 2002 was a key factor in the collapse of baitfish in Lake Huron, according to a USGS report. Could last winter's record ice cover on Lake Michigan have similar consequences?

(Reprinted from The Great Lakes Angler Report July 2014)

The harsh winter of 2002 was a key factor in the collapse of baitfish in Lake Huron, according to a USGS report. Could last winter's record ice cover on Lake Michigan have similar consequences? In the study of freshwater ecosystems there is a classic debate regarding the control of baitfish populations. In simple terms, it can be boiled down to those who argue that baitfish numbers are controlled by the abundance of their food (plankton) vs. those who argue that baitfish numbers are controlled by larger fish that prey on baitfish.

In Lake Huron and Lake Michigan, this "bottom-up" vs. "top-down" debate is ongoing and complex. Baitfish, and alewife in particular, have declined in recent years. There is evidence that overabundance of Chinook salmon, which prey almost exclusively on alewife, are implicated but there have also been changes in plankton abundance and composition due to invasive species like quagga mussels. While this does not seem to account for a decline in alewife numbers directly, it has affected their condition and, as a result, salmon now must eat more to fill their bellies.

A recent paper published in the "Journal of Great Lakes Research" adds another wrinkle to the debate. Authors from the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and U.S. Geological Survey present analysis that links the harsh winter of 2002-2003 to the steep decline in Lake Huron alewife numbers that immediately followed. From 2003 to 2012, winters were relatively mild but alewife failed to mount a comeback in Lake Huron. This is where the top-down and bottom-up factors may have come into play. Hard winters had knocked back alewife populations in the past, but they had always recovered. Not so this time, but the changes in Lake Huron were not all bad and the decline of alewife led to resurgence of native walleye, lake trout, and certain native baitfish.

What does this mean for Lake Michigan? It is no secret that last winter was a cold one, and Lake Michigan experienced record-setting ice coverage of 93.29 percent in early March. Alewives are not native to the upper Great Lakes, and are not well-adapted for dealing with northern winters in a freshwater environment. Adult alewife sometimes die off in large numbers as waters begin to warm up after a hard winter, and young alewife can have difficulty surviving through the winter if they were not able to put on enough weight during their first summer.

For Lake Michigan, this means that last year's crop of alewife may not contribute much to the forage base in coming years. The Acoustic sampling conducted by U.S. Geological Survey in 2013 found that the 2013 alewife year-class was very poor in terms of both numbers and growth rate even before the harsh winter conditions. Declines in older alewife due to the harsh winter are also possible, but only time will tell how Lake Michigan baitfish.....and the salmon and trout fishery that depends on them.....weathered the hardest winter in recent history.

Updated Plans to Protect the Great Lakes From Invasive Species Announced

(Reprinted from The Great Lakes Angler Report July 2014)

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Asian Carp Regional Coordinating Committee (ACRCC) late last month, announced the release of an updated Monitoring and Response Plan (MRP) intended to protect the Great Lakes from Asian carp, and to prevent the invasive fish species from developing self-sustaining populations in the Great Lakes. For the first time the MRP is being released concurrently with a summary of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Great Lakes eDNA Monitoring Program.

The MRP outlines actions for the 2014 field season focused on monitoring and removal of Asian carp downstream of the Electric Barrier System in the Chicago Area Waterway System (CAWS) and the upper Illinois Waterway, and on-going evaluations of the effectiveness of barriers and gears used in keeping Asian carp from establishing in the CAWS and Lake Michigan.

"The 2014 Monitoring and Response Plan, continues to build off past efforts to protect the Great Lakes by using past data and results to focus attention on actions that achieve the greatest results," said Kevin Irons, Co-Chair of the ACRCC Monitoring Workgroup.

Separate from the MRP, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Great Lakes eDNA Monitoring Program examines waters of the CAWS and also across the Great Lakes basin, for early warning signs of Asian carp.

"The Great Lakes eDNA Monitoring Program highlights our partnership with Great Lakes states," said USFWS Midwest Deputy Director, Charlie Wooley. "We're excited to share with the public how we are working side-by-side with our state counterparts to collect information that will shape our understanding and response of the potential threat of Asian carp in waters throughout the Midwest."

In addition to several reoccurring actions from last year, new actions to monitor populations of Asian carp in the upper Illinois Waterway and the Chicago Area Waterway System in 2014 include:

- Increased sampling for Asian carp downstream of the Electric Barriers to better focus on the leading edge of the Asian carp population in the CAWS.

- Contract commercial fishing crews will expend more effort in the target areas of the Marseilles and Dresden Island pools of the upper Illinois Waterway.

- A heightened Asian carp telemetry monitoring program around the Electric Dispersal Barriers.

- Monitoring for adult and juvenile bighead carp and silver carp in the upper Des Plaines River focused in four new target areas, and the river upstream of the former Hofmann Dam will be examined for potential Asian carp habitat.

- Testing the effects of water gun seismic pressure waves on in-water structures will be conducted before this technology is employed in critical navigational waters.

For more information and to read the MRP: www.asiancarp.us/monitoring.htm ♦

2014 DAS Ludington Tournaments

The next two tournaments coming up on our schedule will be back to back at Ludington. The first one is our annual Family Day (formerly known as Ladies Day) Tournament and will be held on August 2nd. The format has been changed this year to include all children 16 and under. The guys can set lines and net the fish but only the ladies & children can fight the fish. A main dish will be provided as well as each crew bringing a dish to pass during the weigh-in ceremonies. This port has been a favorite the past few years because of the opportunity to get into some nice kings. Of course, Coho and Steelhead are also abundant in the area but kings are what put you in with the top finishers. The following weekend we'll go back to our regular tournament format. There will be food and beverages at the weigh-in.

This port, probably more than any other, warrants you checking out the previous week's weather and surface temps. Water temps will dictate where the fish will be located. A north blow for several days prior will tend to push cold water around Sable Point to the north and make the better fishing either toward the south or way past the point to the north. Under normal conditions, most boats will be working the drop off that runs from about 8 miles straight out northeast towards Sable Point. The closer you get to Sable Point the more boats you'll find so it'll be difficult to run lead core or copper. Sometimes the fish will be in close to shore off the Bathhouse or even right in front of the pier heads. The Project just south of the Pier Heads has also traditionally been an area that holds fish.

There are many trap nets in this area so watch for the markers and stay clear. The best way to avoid them completely is to get their positions off of the Ludington Charter Boat Association website and load these positions into your GPS unit. Even with these precautions, keep a sharp look-out and keep some wire cutters handy.

The Skipper's meetings will be at 5:00 a.m. both Saturdays at the Municipal Marina. The tournament starts will be at 6:00 a.m. You can run out to your spot after the Captain's meeting but don't begin setting lines until 6:00 a.m. when the tournament start is announced on channel 72. Fish calls will be at 9:00 a.m. and noon for both weekends. For the Ladies Day Tournament we'll pull lines at 1:00 p.m., and you must be in the weigh-in line at 2:30. For the regular tournament the following week pull lines at 2:00 and be at the weigh-in by 3:30 p.m. The weigh-in for both weeks will be announced at the respective Captains meetings.

Good luck to everyone and see you there.
