

reetings Everyone —

Today is Sunday, September 13th. The 24th Sunday in ordinary time and the 15th Sunday after Pentecost. We are streaming our fifth online live virtual service on the internet beginning at 9:00 AM.

We hope you are enjoying the online experience as we continue to prepare in person services in the near future. This week our initial reopening plan was approved by Session and sent to the West Jersey Presbytery for their approval. The Presbytery replied quickly with a few recommendations for us to address. We are engaged in making that happen and we will reapply to Presbytery confirming those recommendations in the coming week.

Reverend Dr. James Kraft returns to our pulpit today. His sermon is titled:

“Wholeheartedly Following”

The Order of Worship is included with this Newsletter so you may follow along during the course of the service.

I am still looking for entries in our Guess That Youngster Contest. Please send in photos of yourselves as youngsters say ages 1 to 5 or so. The game will be to correctly identify the most Kids. Please send them in! Employees of this publication & their immediate families are ineligible so that allows me to share photos of this cute couple! Don't be shy!

You Must Be One of Them

Randy York

Providence membership, I have a confession to make. I am Superman. At least I was.

Once. A long time ago. You see my mom was a single mom. Dad had left the scene when I was a year old. When mom went to work at the Bell Telephone Company, she dropped her five year old bundle of joy off at grandma's house. I usually would either play outside or help grandma around the house, but at 4PM, I was glued to her black and white television because it was time for The Adventures of Superman. Now I suppose some kids just watched the show. Not me. I would grab a piece of cotton sheeting from the pantry, tie it around my neck, and away I went, flying through the living room, the dining room, the kitchen. Me and George Reeves. Grandma would try and chase me down. She had no idea that I was faster than a speeding bullet, but eventually I found out that she was more powerful than a locomotive, and that there would be no bounding over tall buildings. Anyway, spending time with Superman thrilled me, it excited me, and it made me reconsider who I was and what I could be. Continued Pg. 4

Thought for Today

I express appreciation to the people I care about. I say "I love you." in various ways, and I am very comfortable conveying my feelings to others. The more that I do so, the more love I feel.

Express Appreciation to the People You Love

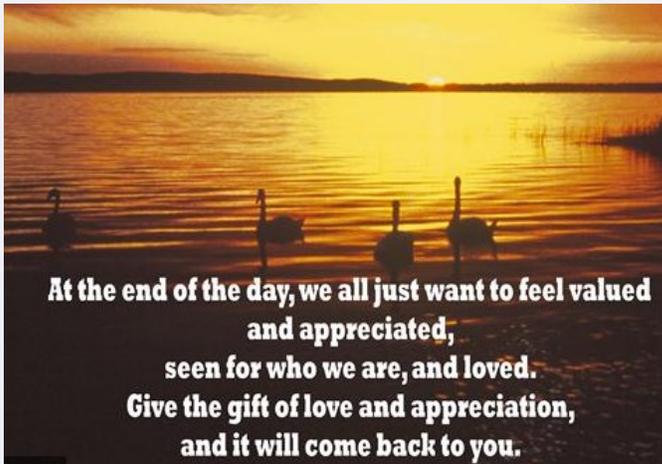

Barbara Hammell

One of life's greatest gifts comes from relationships where you're connected through one of the many forms of love, be it family, friendship, romance, or the soul. We know that you value the people in your life and cherish them deeply. Even though they know that you care, they always appreciate hearing this acknowledgement.

Today, express appreciation to the people you love. The form this takes isn't all that important: a phone call, hug, card, letter, or present...

Any method will do.

Your gift to your loved ones is also a gift to yourself. Notice how good it feels to express your appreciation.

At the end of the day, we all just want to feel valued and appreciated, seen for who we are, and loved. Give the gift of love and appreciation, and it will come back to you.

Blessings - Anniversaries - Birthdays

Newborns In Need has started their Sleepers in September Drive

Carol Shore will be joining Jack to help collect them starting on Sunday September 13th. Newborns In Need is also desperately seeking other clothes New or Used in sizes newborn to 6 months. Thank You All for your help!

Don't Forget!

Fifty six years later, I am convicted by a simple question. If I truly believe in and spend time with God, where are the discernable changes? How can I say I have a relationship with Him and not be full of joy? How can I profess to be a follower and leave my cross daily at will/call? Why do I more often than not get the deny yourself and reach out to others command backward?

These are questions on which to reflect and pray about daily. Human nature is a strong, constant force to overcome and free will is too often self-satisfying. We read in Matthew chapter 26 that Peter dealt with these issues and quickly went down on strikes. Wearing Jesus on a chain around my neck or a verse stuck to the back of my car is a nice advertisement, but I'm thinking there will be plenty of "advertising Christians" in the goat section when we stand before the Father in the judgement line.

Thankfully, God's mercies are new each day and so should be my repentance. The bottom line is that He calls us to walk with him daily and be like his beloved son, Jesus Christ. If I am a Christian, folks should see it, not by wearing a shirt and tie for an hour or so on a Sunday, but by visible signs of my faith. They should be able to see a heart of love, giving hands, ears that listen and care, legs ready to move to help, and eyes that see and act.

After the ascension, Jesus returned home with signs of his time here. Remember that the only man made things in heaven are the nail marks he brought back.

As my favorite preacher, Ivo Meilands, would always call to mind, "To live in the wonder of His amazing grace." Amen to that.

Bustleton's Best — Church Cookbook Recipe of the Week

This week we are back in the cookbook, and after a summer of savory barbecue and awesome desserts, it is time to listen to the advice of not only our Mom's and Grandma's, but also from expectant Moms or anyone with the potential to be a Mom. Eat Your Veggies!

If we are going to heed the sage wisdom of these venerable women in our lives, we might as well make the experience tasty and enjoyable. Since everything is better with bacon this recipe from Jack gives us one the best solutions to being good boys and girls. Bonus points for the photo contest if you submit a picture of yourself turning your nose up at a vegetable dish!

Thank you Jack for a great recipe!

Sautéed Brussels Sprouts

Jack Harkins

"Brussels sprouts are one of the many foods that I hated when I was a kid and I love now. The best bacon I've ever eaten comes from Szucs' Meat Market, 270 Alden Ave in Roebling, New Jersey.

- |                             |                            |
|-----------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1 lb. Brussels sprouts      | ½ C chicken stock          |
| 2 slices of bacon           | 2 T grated parmesan cheese |
| 2 T finely diced mild onion | 1 T butter                 |

In a saucepan of boiling, salted water, cook sprouts until almost tender, 3 to 4 minutes. Drain and slice sprouts in halves and set aside. In a medium sauté pan fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon and dice into bacon bits. To the rendered bacon fat, add the onion and sauté until onion is transparent. Add the chicken stock and simmer until the liquid is reduced by half then mix in the parmesan cheese. Add the butter to finish the pan sauce. Pour pan sauce over Brussels sprouts. Salt and pepper to taste. Garnish with bacon bits and parsley.
