The purpose of a program of coaching sessions is for vocational and avocational self-improvement and as an alternative or complementary treatment to healing arts services licensed by the state. A coach is not a licensed physician or psychologist, and coaching services are not licensed by the State. Services are non-diagnostic and do not include the practice of medicine, nor should they be considered as a substitute for licensed medical or psychological services or procedures.#

Coaching works with the power of the subconscious mind to change habits and behaviors. The subconscious mind is considered the source or root of many of our behaviors, emotions, attitudes, and motivations. Coaching is believed to be a powerful tool for accessing the subconscious mind and creating improvements in our lives.#

Services consist of a program of conditioning, including an undetermined number of private sessions, depending on the client's individual needs. The coach will to the best of his or her ability endeavor to accomplish the objectives of the client's sessions. While coaching may be an effective technique for many purposes, the effectiveness may vary from individual to individual, and no specific results or progress can be promised or guaranteed.#

The feelings and experiences one has in the coaching sessions state can vary from individual to individual. While it is the practice of coaching to keep the information confidential, information revealed in coaching is not subject to the psychotherapist-patient privilege. A court may order the disclosure of information learned in coaching sessions.#
