Any additional information you'd like me to know
(ie learning issues, health issues, you took them out of school in January...)

Of course it goes without saying that I am not a lawyer.

Nothing I say should be construed as legal advice.

Please read the NH homeschool law (or at least summary) for yourself.

I believe that parenting is a team effort and strive to maintain neutral ground in any family dispute.

If you share custody of your children and their "other" parent requests a copy of their evaluation, I will supply it. I will also provide information as requested by a court appointed guardian ad litem.
