Christmas in Ashe Baptist Association 2025

High in the Blue Ridge Mountains, where the mountain air turns crisp and the first shy flakes of snow falls down from a pearl-gray sky, the 43 churches of the Ashe Baptist Association prepared to celebrate Christmas. The mountains stand like ancient witnesses, their ridges dusted white, as steeples and modest church buildings glowed with warm light against the early winter dusk. Gravel parking lots filled with trucks and cars, and the sound of laughter and greetings carry with the cold air. Inside each church, the scent of pine wreaths, wood polish, and meals slowly cooked wrapped the congregations in comfort.

Choirs gathered beneath softly twinkling lights, voices rising in harmony. Old hymns echoed through sanctuaries both large and small—“O Come, All Ye Faithful,” “Silent Night,” and “Joy to the World.” Some choirs wore matching robes, others stood in everyday clothes, but every voice carried the same message of hope and joy. The music spilled out into the night, drifting across valleys and hills as if the mountains themselves were singing along.

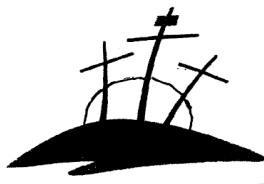

In fellowship halls and church kitchens, long tables filled with food prepared by loving hands. Steaming pots of soup, cornbread fresh from the oven, casseroles, and plates of homemade desserts are shared freely. No one was turned away. Church members served neighbors in need, families passing through hard seasons, and one another alike—because Christmas, they believed was meant to be shared. Conversations flow easily, stories are exchanged, and warmth fills every room despite the cold outside.

Children practiced eagerly for their Christmas pageants, their excitement nearly as bright as the stars over the mountains. Dressed as shepherds, angels, and wise men, they stood nervously at first, then proudly, as they told the story of Christ’s birth. Small voices recited familiar words, sometimes stumbled, often smiled, always sincere. Parents and grandparents watched with misty eyes, reminded of how faith is passed gently from one generation to the next.

In the evening, adults presented cantatas—beautiful, reverent retellings of the Christmas story through song and Scripture. The choirs sang of Mary’s quiet obedience, the shepherds’ wonder, and the holy night in Bethlehem. Candles were lit, Scriptures were read, and silence settled briefly over the congregations, broken only by the soft sound of snow falling outside.

Gifts were given, not in abundance or extravagance, but with purpose and love—much like the offerings of the Wise Men long ago. Some gifts were wrapped, others were envelopes slipped quietly into hands, baskets of food, warm coats, or simple acts of kindness. Each gift carried the same meaning: honoring Christ by caring for others.

As Christmas drew near, the 43 churches of the Ashe Baptist Association stand united—not just by location, but by faith, service, and love. In the cool mountain air and falling snow, amid songs and prayers, meals and memories, the true spirit of Christmas lives on. And in the quiet moments between carols and candlelight, one could almost imagine the hills themselves bowing in worship, rejoicing in the season of Emmanuel—God with us.

Your servant, David

Clothing Pantry

The holiday season is a time of joy and celebration for many; however, for some, it can also be a time of hardship and isolation. Thanks to Project Star, ARC was able to nominate 18 of our senior neighbors for sponsorship and provide Christmas gifts from their personal wish lists. Sharing in the gratitude, smiles, hugs, and even tears made this experience incredibly meaningful. We are deeply grateful to everyone involved in this program for helping us deliver extra Christmas love and joy each year.

We are also thankful to Quiet Givers, who awarded ARC a $1,250 grant to help address the increase in food insecurity caused by recent government cutbacks and shutdowns. This funding allowed us to purchase additional nonperishable food items to meet the growing needs of our community over the past few months. We are grateful for this partnership and their continued support of our neighbors.

Discipleship Tip of the Month

Happy New Year!

On New Year's Eve, the house fills again—not with gifts, but with hope. Bibles scripture are read, clocks are watched. At the final seconds, everyone stands still, holding their breath together.

When the countdown reached zero, it isn't a loud joy that arrives first, but a calm certainty. Christmas is now a fond memory, neatly wrapped and placed behind them. Ahead waited a year untouched, open as fresh snow.

We step into it smiling, carrying the warmth of Christmas forward, and greeting the New Year not as strangers, but as friends ready to begin again. God is in control so lets follow him in 2026!
