

Take Charge of Document Management!

Solutions for every stage of a document's lifecycle.

Document management starts here!

We live in a digital world, yet four million tons of copy paper are used annually in the U.S.* Staying on top of paper is essential for workplace organization and provides many valuable benefits:

- Minimized storage space
- Enhanced security
- Improved access to information
- Reduced operating costs

Follow the lifecycle of a document for tools and tips to boost productivity at every stage.

TIP: Save up to 50% on paper costs by copying on both sides.

write it

When creating documents, writing instruments offer practical performance plus creativity.

Our selection includes colorful pens, reliable markers and more—designed to suit your work style and personality.

TIP: Take note! Writing by hand boosts efficiency by increasing your ability to retain information.

file it

The average office worker uses 10,000 sheets of paper per year.* Put paper in its place and add order with smart ways to file.

Look for expansion files to divide and conquer large documents; colorful files help you easily identify and retrieve information.

TIP: When hanging files in drawers, leave at least 4" of slack so files can move back and forth easily, reducing undue wear and tear.

store it

Employees spend three hours a week looking for misfiled, mislabeled or lost papers.* Take control with solutions to streamline efficiency.

Binders and dividers are masters of organization. When it's time to archive, turn to sturdy stackable boxes.

TIP: Choose lift-off box lids for easy access or string & button closure to keep contents intact, even when box is overturned.
