Notice of Grant Funding Opportunity

Housing Alaskans Public Private Partnership (HAPPP) is accepting grant applications for capital funding to support new construction and major rehabilitation housing projects in Alaska. HOUSING ALASKANS

A PUBLIC PRIVATE PARTNERSHIP

About Housing Alaskans Public-Private Partnership

Alaska's economic growth and community well-being are increasingly impeded by the lack of housing for much of the state's workforce. Housing development and rehabilitation projects have sharply declined because they do not pencil for what the workforce can afford to rent or buy. Businesses cannot take advantage of growth opportunities because they cannot attract or retain a workforce, and communities are curtailing police, health care, and other essential services due to a lack of housing.

Alaska's housing crisis requires swift action to accelerate housing development. While longer-term solutions are under discussion, and existing public programs provide grant funding opportunities, many pending housing projects need "top-off" funds to complete their multi-source capital stack. Many already have public and private funds but cannot move forward because cost increases or a shortfall in the total needed require more funding. HAPPP complements other grant programs by ensuring that the projects they fund get over the finish line.

HAPPP's unique leveraging of private and public funds is a proven driver to help housing developments cross the finish line. HAPPP collaborates with other funders by leveraging public funds and philanthropic contributions, building upon the project reviews done by other funders, and reducing funding restrictions and paperwork to make it easier and faster for developers to get projects moving.

HAPPP's Board of Directors represents experienced, influential leaders from across the state who are experts in their respective fields and have been confronting housing issues in their communities and for their employees. The Board provides policy and fiduciary guidance to help bring critical housing projects to fruition in Alaska's communities. The Board is assisted by an Advisory Committee comprised of subject matter experts from across Alaska who advise the board on policies, procedures, and projects. HAPPP is fiscally sponsored by the Alaska Community Foundation.

Application Background

HAPPP is dedicated to being nimble, flexible, and responsive to Alaska's need to address the housing crisis more quickly, making it easier for developers to access funds. HAPPP's niche is to be creative with funding and support in the challenging landscape of building a capital stack for a project.

HAPPP has had three previous grant cycles. All provided "top-off" grants to reignite housing projects that, due to cost increases or lack of the final dollars needed in a multi-source capital stack, had stalled and were unable to complete or launch. Eleven projects were funded in nine communities: Juneau, Kodiak, Nikolai, Nome, Palmer, Seward, Sitka, Soldotna, and Wasilla. These projects resulted in 145 new housing units, multi-family, tiny homes, and single-family homes. As either rentals or sales, the homes housed Alaska's workforce, low-income neighbors, those needing supportive housing, seniors, and domestic violence survivors.

Thanks to four new philanthropic and public partnership grants that are targeted to accelerate housing projects, HAPPP is offering this NOFO for up to a total of $1,350,000. This limited fund is available for housing projects ready to break ground or be completed in 2026-2027 or that will expedite and accelerate housing projects in the Western Alaska storm-impacted communities. Projects must already have a robust capital stack, have been well-vetted by other funders, and need only a relatively small amount of capital to proceed. These grants are meant to help projects waiting on the sidelines due to construction cost increases or a financial gap that has prohibited breaking ground or project completion.

Alaska's housing needs are dire. HAPPP is a housing accelerator fund that urgently wants to deliver money to shovel-ready projects that need "top-off" funding to either break ground or complete construction quickly or expedite and accelerate housing in the Western Alaska storm-impacted communities. We recognize that the application period is short; however, this application is targeted at established projects in Alaska that require a small amount of funding to come online and can make use of the funds during the 2026-2027 construction season.

This grant opportunity is completely independent of all future HAPPP funding opportunities.
