Kuklok's Corner

Greetings TRM families. Can you believe that September is now behind us? October will bring cooler weather, all of the pumpkin flavors, and my favorite part, football season in full swing. The students have enjoyed the changing weather and finding all that nature has to offer in the shift to Fall. We experience cold in the morning and warmth in the afternoon, please remember to have your children ready for all that this season gives us with varying temperatures throughout each day.

As I continue to evaluate our communication methods and our processes and procedures, I want to invite families to attend one of two open listening sessions in October. They will both be on Monday, October 17th with one in the morning and one in the afternoon. I encourage families to attend via the Google Meets links below if you want to share ideas, strategies, or success stories with me. I want this to be a productive time for you to bring your solutions based approaches to what you are seeing from the parent lens. I will also be able to describe some of what goes on behind the scenes to help families gain clarity around some of the systems and processes we are building out to remain sustainable into the distant future. The meeting times and links are below.

As you take the weekend to relax and recharge, please take some time to focus on the strengths and gifts your children and families bring to your family each day. We have the privilege of seeing your children as problem solvers, innovators, creators, and collaborators; we experience each of their unique gifts every day here at TRM and we hope that you experience some of the new knowledge they come home with each week as well. My best as we move into a new month of magical moments.
