

Terms and Conditions

All of us at BakerBag want you to get years and years of use from your new BakerBag.

Our Customers know exactly how they want to use BakerBag and understand that the life of the bag depends on how it's used and it's care.

BakerBag is not intended for use with liquids. It is not a people or pet carrier. It is intended to collect and transport solid materials by hand. It's full 140 US gallon/0.53 cubic meter volume would exceed a standard baker scaffold's weight rating of 1000 lb/453.6 kg. We recommend keeping the weight under 500 lb/226.8 kg, about half a baker scaffold's maximum weight rating.

Avoid punctures and sharpened edge materials when possible. While the 18 ounce PVC is strong, it is susceptible to slicing with a sharpened edge.

BakerBag is sold for use within an existing baker scaffold, yet BakerBag makes no claim regarding the manufacturer's recommended uses for their product. Used properly, BakerBag should not damage a baker scaffold aside from general wear from use. BakerBag accepts no liability for damages to any component of the scaffolding, nor damages arising from misuse of the BakerBag.

Over time, general wear and tear is expected. We trust our customers will extend the life of their own BakerBag in many innovative ways, from tarp repair tapes, patches, clips, clamps, rivets, and more! Share your stories and ideas with us and we will share your success with all our customers!
