

WATER RUNS DRY

The Sides between Kelsey and Christian

An Epic Vision: Part of The League Of Extraordinary Actors

INT. CORBIN HOME - DAY

KELSEY and CHRISTIAN are in the midst of a heated conversation.

KELSEY

You wanted me to be honest right?
That's what I am doing...being honest.

CHRISTIAN

How am I supposed to react when you tell me that you are planning to leave me?

KELSEY

I said I am thinking about it.

CHRISTIAN

Semantics. If you've gotten to the point where you are thinking about
it then that is not a good sign.

KELSEY

I love you Christian but I am unhappy. I am unhappy and I don't know why.

CHRISTIAN

Then go to therapy. Why are you assuming that your unhappiness is about our marriage?

KELSEY

Because it is.

CHRISTIAN

(matter of fact)

You just said you don't know why.

KELSEY

I don't know the root of it but it lies somewhere in our marriage.

CHRISTIAN

Kelsey that doesn't make sense.
Please seek therapy before you make any crazy decisions.

KELSEY

It may not make sense to you, but it makes perfect sense to me.

CHRISTIAN

Then explain it? Make me understand your words and feelings because you are saying two different things right now.

KELSEY

When I am away with my friends and family, I feel fine. Joyful even. But when I am here alone with you in the house, I feel uneasy and anxious.

Christian thinks he understands and for a moment he feels good about decoding her dilemma.

CHRISTIAN

There are a lot of bad memories here with the baby. Its probably about that situation and not about me.

KELSEY

I wish it were that easy.

Christian's frustration quickly returns.

CHRISTIAN

See this is what doesn't make sense! You tell me you don't understand how you are feeling. I try and decode it with other possibilities and you respond as if you know the real reason but refuse to tell me. Have I done something???
