Expectations from the Agency and training guidelines for our clients, staff and training the new staff.

Day One/shift 1: New staff are to watch cares and the tasks are explained to the new staff, by the orientating staff.

Day Two/shift 2: New staff perform the cares and tasks with guidance from the orientating staff.

Day Three/shift 3: New staff perform all cares and tasks independently. Orientating staff are there observing the new staff, may assist with questions and/or safety issues.

This is the third day/plan: if the new staff feel comfortable and safe with all requirements of the shift. Also if the client feels safe and comfortable with the new staff working independently. The orientation staff is signing off the training sheet that these requirements are completed.

Before you leave the home, the office is to be called to be informed that the new staff can or cannot work independently. If they are not comfortable then more training will be arranged.

Transfers/cares if a client is not in the need for a transfer and/or certain care that is normally required example: toileting, going to bed etc. the orientation must still be done.

The client will have to pretend there is the need in order to have the training take place to keep everyone safe.

We need everyone to be involved with the training: the clients, staff, new staff, nurses and office to be successful and keep everyone safe and on schedule.

Any questions please call the office 507-214-8007

Sincerely,
Lori Mortensen
