To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to wholeheartedly recommend Henry Leingang for any studio work opportunities. As a songwriter, arranger and producer, I have had the pleasure of working with Henry over the last year, and I can confidently say that he is one of the most talented and dedicated musicians I have encountered in over 25 years of studio production and recording.

Henry possesses an incredible natural gift for music that sets him apart. He has an innate ability to create bass lines that not only complement the music but also elevate it.

Henry's adaptability in various musical styles and across genres demonstrates his flexibility and eagerness to perform and deliver solid parts.

One of the standout qualities I admire about Henry is professionalism. He approaches every project with enthusiasm and a strong work ethic, always ready to go the extra mile to ensure the best outcome. Henry has brought a positive energy and focus that makes collaboration enjoyable and efficient.

Henry would be a valuable asset to any studio environment. His talent, combined with his motivation and adaptability, makes him an ideal candidate for studio work. Whatever style of music you are producing, I am confident that Henry will exceed your expectations.
