CARTERET HIGH SCHOOL stands for forty years of hard work and service. In 1926, the original building was erected. Owing to a growth in the borough's populace, more room was needed, resulting in the Louis Street addition built in 1946. Again in 1965, because of a need for larger facilities and additional classrooms, the Herman E. Horn annex was constructed, creating a symbol of progress.

Dedication

To you, our class advisors, we dedicate our LOUDSPEAKER. We dedicate it to your efforts to enlighten and to instruct. We dedicate it to the long hours spent on our behalf, to the efforts of four years of guidance—the guidance which has prepared us for tomorrow. . . .

CLASS HISTORY

Firmly planted among our "Flash Gordon" lunch boxes, shoulder strap book bags and hobby socks, we arrived at CHS in September, 1962, to begin the first phase of our high school education. After the initial shock of not finding the pool and the elevator and realizing that the tickets sold by the seniors were for non-existent activities, we finally adjusted ourselves to our new social standing—the lower of the lower.

Knowing that each class must have its leaders, we elected officers (late, but we did elect them). Better late than never, for John McGowan, Mary Ann Di Paolo, William Sanderson, and Deane Page proved capable of accelerating the wheels for the Class of '66. With the success of our dance, Freshman Frolic, we augmented our image in the eyes of the upperclassmen.

September, 1963, was the dawn of change . . . our hobby socks were replaced with stockings and we exchanged our lunch boxes for a seat at Donnie Dee's and Audrey's. Class elections held October 14 (a wee bit earlier this year) yielded a quartet who all had seats in Mrs. Kobrin's homeroom. Kenneth Kovacs, Joyce Cheslak, James Byleckie and Deane Page were faced with the task of preparing the Halloween Harvest dance a mere fifteen days after their election. Attempting to get on the better side of the upperclassmen, we sponsored the first CHS car wash the day before the Junior Class Prom. Aware of the expenses of the oncoming year, we galloped into our last social event, a second dance, Western Rhythm on May 22. We did it again! It was the first time casual dress was allowed at a school function.

The war was on—Nicky versus Collegiate. Our mode of dress was now categorized; you were either high rolls and shades or levis and desert boots. Although our mode of dress was divided, we signed a truce and joined forces to make the class functions successful.

Junior year, the polls revealed a total female slate—Deane Page, Joann Kiesling, Valerie Erceg, and Veronica Sirockman, who led us through the numerous activities of the year.

Again we staged our dance Macabre on Halloween Eve. Later in the year, we were finally initiated as upperclassmen when our Junior rings arrived on February 17.

With the Diary of Ann Frank, April 2 and 3, we were afforded the opportunity to display our talents on the stage. Proving to be a thespian in her own right, Marilyn Brown will long be remembered for her title role.

They said it couldn't be done, but we did it! The Junior Prom was held out of town. The rays of the "Hawaiian Sunset" cast their shadow on the Elizabeth Carteret Hotel, May 21.

On September 13 school began for 322 anxious seniors who stepped not only into the last phase of their high school careers but also into a new building. Now, at last, we had earned our right to sell tickets to the swimming pool; however, these inanities no longer interested us. The seniors who walked into the school that fateful September 13 were no longer the children of 1962, for along with the gaining of twenty-two classrooms and almost as many courses, the seniors had gained an air of dignity.

Putting first things first, Allen Jackson, Andrea Hila, Jo Ann Tomasulo, and Frank Versegi were elected to lead us through a year of momentous decisions.

Again on the eve of Halloween, the class sponsored the first activity, Halloween Hullaboolu.

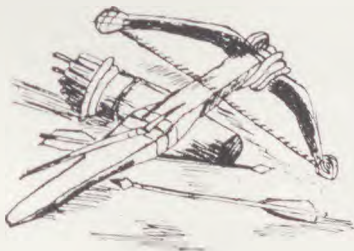

December saw the birth of the senior class production "Once Upon a Mattress" starring "dauntless" Joe Kleban and "dainty" Mary Jane Kowalski.

The consummation of our high school years, the Washington Trip, was made possible mainly through the success of the December 4 candy sale.

We returned from three days in Washington and soon found ourselves thrust into practice for commencement exercises.

As we went through the motions of graduation (over and over and over again), our thoughts reverted to the memories of the dinner dance held only a few weeks previous and of our various accomplishments.

On June 15 we were no longer pretending; the day had come when we were to take leave of the institution which had been our home for four years. However, we were not looking back. With diploma in hand, we look toward the future. . . .

IN RECOGNITION . . .
Members of the Class of 1966 now attending
Stevens Institute of Technology
Hoboken, New Jersey

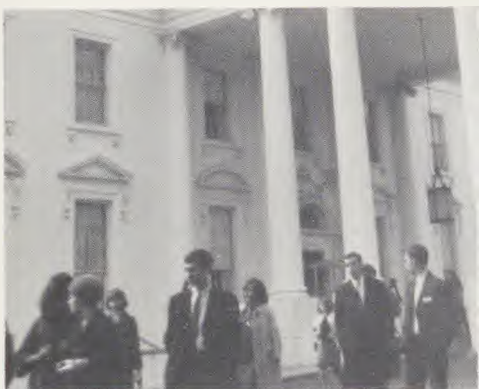

*The day is done; the sun leaves from the sky.
The purple, dusk blue, orange of the west
Now form the perfect setting for our sigh—
But now we know we go to meet the best.*

*In daylight's dazzling light we quickly ran—
Not thinking that too soon it would be passed
Not knowing that remembering makes the man
Not seeing that this sun might be our last.*

*Through four short years, four years of life we'd spun
Together, planning, hoping, sharing dreams,
Preparing for the never ending sun
That life would be—joy bursting at the seams.*

*In living this, just walking on and on,
We soon remembered it would all be gone.*

KATHRYN SZCZEPANSKI

"Some hospitality, they didn't even invite us for dinner."

"I wanta go home."

"Who did that?"

Isn't he the man who wrote the "Declaration of Independence"?

"You sure Soupy Sales got started this way?"

"This hurts you more than it hurts me."

"99, 100, anyone around my bus is it!"

"Does anybody else have a cure for hiccups?"

GIRLS' CHORUS

MARCHING BAND

The Marching Band takes part in all local parades and festivals and supports and boosts the enthusiasm of the crowds at the annual football games.

CONCERT BAND

The Concert Band perfects educational, instrumental entertainment by choosing the more classical form of music as a basis for their study.

COLORGUARD

The colorguard leads the band members at all functions. As flag bearers and rifle carriers, the members participate in local contest for drill teams.

SENIOR TWIRLERS

"My finger nail broke."

"V-I-C-T-O-R-WHY?"

"Gee, I didn't think that curlers would hurt under these helmets."

"You've got to team up and tackle."

"Which goal post did you say was ours?"

Powder Puff Football Game

"One potato, two potato . . ."

"Water anyone?"

"Look out, I've got to sneeze."

Student's Day

"But you said that you could type 150 words a minute."

Feeding time at the zoo.

"Presenting the great . . ."

"It's the principal of the thing."

"And we crown you dunce-for-a-day."

"The trick is to see who can make it the biggest."

"It's a bird, it's a plane, it's . . ."

"I got it, I got it, I got it!"

"Is this a girl's game?"

"Hup, two, three, four, CHARGE!"

"If we don't make a basket now . . .?"

Sports

“For when that one great scorer comes to mark against your name, he marks not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game.”
