The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey made application at Trenton to Federal Judges Reilly, Haight and Davis for a preliminary injunction to restrain Jersey City from enforcing an ordinance prohibiting the storage of explosives there to prevent a recurrence of an explosion similar to the one at Black Tom Island.

Swedesboro public schools opened once more. The attendance is not up to normal.

Readers took 3,064 books from the Vineland public library, of which 473 were non-fiction, during September.

Chief of Police Van Leer has arrested two 10-year-old boys on a charge of setting fire to an old barn in Haddonfield several days ago.

Egg Harbor City sportsmen are jubilant over the stocking of the park lake with about 3,000 rainbow trout. Some of the fish are about 15 inches long.

Rev. T. F. Sowers, for several years pastor of the Clayton Baptist Church, and whose sight has been failing, has resigned and removed with his family to Ohio.

With its chemical engine and steamer both motorized, the Haddon Heights Fire Company has decided to have their hook and ladder converted into an automobile.

Director of Public Safety Kurtz instructed the Millville police to break up Sunday street-corner loitering if they had to fill the city jail. One man was arrested.

Thomas Moore, of Atlantic City, retracted a previous plea of not guilty to a charge of selling heroin, and entered a plea of guilty in the United States Court at Trenton.

Dr. George Jennings, of Burlington, president of the Burlington County High School Athletic Association, presented the trophy, a silver loving cup, won by the Bordentown High School baseball. The presentation was made to Harold B. Butterfield, manager of the team.

An apple tree bearing blossoms was one of the sights that automobilists viewed on the Fairfield Road, Caldwell. According to the farmers this is a sure sign that there will be a heavy fall of snow in twenty-one days.

Edward E. McCall, formerly chairman of the N. Y. Public Service Commission, has gone into the life insurance business. He recently was elected president of the New Jersey Life Insurance Company, capital $300,000, with home offices in Newark.

Subscriptions totaling $250,000 were received toward the $1,000,000 endowment fund of Rutgers College.

A fully-equipped gymnasium has been opened in the basement of the public school of Maple Shade.

The suit of Mrs. Catherine Jordan, of Trenton, to recover $50,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad, was settled out of court for $10,000. Jordan, an engineer, was injured at Lawrence Station on January 5 last while aiding in clearing the tracks following a wreck and died the following day.

Wind-fanned flames and a score of explosions completely destroyed the fertilizer manufacturing plant of I. P. Thomas & Sons Company, at Billingsport, near Paulsboro, involving a loss estimated by Harry Stein, superintendent of the plant, at $100,000. No one was injured.

John Hawkes, eighty years old, of New Brunswick, called on Emerson Cornell, an invalid friend, and started to play pinocle with him to cheer him up. After a run of hard luck Hawkes dealt a hand with which he could "meld" heavily. The lucky hand apparently was too much for him. Without a word he toppled over on the table dead, still clutching the winning cards.

The strike in the Bayonne oil plants ended when 2,500 Polish and Slavish strikers, the last of the 12,000 union men to give in, returned to work.

Postmaster Thomas M. Ferrell died at Glassboro after a brief illness. He was elected to Congress by the Democrats of the First District in 1882. Under President Cleveland's first administration he was collector of Internal Revenue in this district. He also served two terms in the State Senate from Gloucester County. His widow survives.

Albert J. Rhines, of Iowa, newly-appointed Y. M. C. A. secretary in Gloucester county, has assumed his duties. He will direct the work of 16 groups, comprising a membership of nearly 300 boys.

Miss Grace Ople, 17 years of age, of Somerville, a student at the State Normal School, died in the Municipal Hospital in Trenton, from infantile paralysis.

While at work as a laborer for George Lippincott & Son, at Collingswood, Isaac Bacharach, 53 years old, of near Haddonfield, dropped dead. Coroner Schroeder, of Camden, gave a certificate of death from heart disease.

Lewis Kish, 26 years old, was killed by an electric crane at the Roebling plant at Roebling, where he was employed. He was unmarried.

Public schools at Woodstown reopened after being closed because of infantile paralysis cases.

In Montclair there is an apple tree in bloom and bearing apples. John B. Pratt, of Eagle Rockway, is the owner of the curiosity. A brush fire recently scorched a part of the tree and that part is now in blossom.

Charged with violating the law by fishing with a stake net in Rancocas Creek, John Cavanaugh and John York, of Bridesburg, Pa., were arrested by State Warden Morton, and Magistrate Throckmorton fined them $20 each and costs.

John J. Burns, of Harrison, whose neck was broken by a dive into the Shrewsbury River at Water Witch, died in the Monmouth Memorial Hospital.

Washington's first case of infantile paralysis was reported, the patient being a 3-year-old son of James Lynch.

The borough council of Merchantville has granted a 50-year franchise to the Bell Telephone Company to lay conduits under certain streets, although citizens protested that there should be a time limit on starting the work.

REVIVE PLAN FOR CROSSING RIVER

New York Bridge or Tunnel Gets Attention.

DOUBTS IMMEDIATELY ARISE

Further Hearing Put Off Until County Counsel Decides Whether, If Essex Participates, It Will Have to Pay as Much as Hudson County.

(Special Trenton Correspondence.)

Trenton.—Dug up from the depths in which it had sunk more than six months ago when referred to a special committee of the Board of Freeholders, the project of connecting New York and New Jersey by either a vehicular tunnel or bridge was resurrected at Newark by the committee at the request of a number of advocates of the scheme. Through a misunderstanding of the law applying to the apportionment of the cost, the hearing was postponed for a week, when legal opinions will be given on the disputed point. Several years ago a commission was appointed by the state to investigate the feasibility and cost of both a tunnel and a bridge.

Its appropriation ran out before the work was completed. Two years ago a law was passed permitting three adjacent counties to appropriate not more than $10,000 each to continue the preliminary work. Since then Bergen and Hudson County authorities have agreed to do this, but Essex has balked. When it was last taken up by the freeholders, participation was lost by a tie vote. Further consideration was then left to a special committee consisting of Freeholders August L. Lacombe, William Cardwell and William Pennington. W. Eugene Turton, counsel for the Motor Vehicle Club of New Jersey; John F. Winchester, secretary of the club; T. Albens Adams and G. K. Kirkham, both of Montclair, and connected with the Manhattan Refrigerating Company of New York and the Union Terminal Cold Storage Company of Jersey City, spoke in favor of the early building of a tunnel. This would cost, according to an estimate given some time ago, not more than $11,000,000.

New York would help. New York is ready to pay one-half of the cost, said Mr. Adams, who was surprised to find New Jersey so slow in taking up a project that would be an asset. Ferry service, which he claimed caused waits, taking from forty to sixty per cent. of teamsters' time, and increased ferry charges he advanced as reasons for the tunnel. It would pay expenses within three years and from then on show a profit, he declared. That the present law assessed the cost upon the counties that agreed to build a tunnel or bridge according to their tax valuations was declared by Freeholder Richard F. Mattia. This had caused him to oppose the project in the past, he said, as he did not think it fair that this county should pay more than Hudson County, which would have the direct benefit of the tunnel. This understanding was disputed by Mr. Adams, who claimed that the apportionment was to be decided upon by the counties participating and by the commission. Mr. Adams, as a taxpayer of the county, would, he said, urge the tunnel, even if Essex were to pay the full cost.

Development Didn't Develop. Another chapter in a country-wide land speculation scheme was sealed at Franklinville when J. F. Nute, tax collector, held a sale of more than 160 pieces of property for delinquent taxes. Most of the property is situated in or near Malaga, where a land development company flourished a few years ago and then faded away. At the sale some of the large pieces, one 40-acre tract and another 160-acre tract, were bought in by interested parties, but it was necessary for the township to buy in about 100 different small lots, because of lack of bidders. These lots were mostly owned by foreigners in distant cities, while some were still under title of the defunct development company. Collector Nute says that his mail is filled with inquiries from persons in all parts of the country, some as far away as Texas and California, seeking information as to taxes on lots, many of which, he declares, have never been recorded.

Colored Man's Futile Bravery. The darkness hid the Karitan Canal from the view of John Kane, No. 349 Perry street, and he walked in. George Stewart, colored, dove to the rescue, but, hampered by rubber boots and an overcoat, he became helpless, and was lucky to save himself. Kane was drowned.

Football Injury Fatal. Duncan Chamberlain, 20 years old, of Hightstown, died at St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, of blood poisoning, resulting from injuries received in a football game at Peddie Institute a week ago. Young Chamberlain was taking a post-graduate course at the school and was a very good football player. In last week's game he received a bad scratch on the heel. Little attention was paid to the wound at the time, but it became painful, and he went to a physician. Blood poisoning had set in and nothing could save him.

Gray Quits Jersey Guard. The resignation of Major Alexander P. Gray, Jr., of Paterson, as Adjutant of the 1st Brigade, National Guard of New Jersey, is awaiting approval at Trenton. Major Gray has been with the militia since 1897, and was sergeant in the 5th Regiment during the Spanish War. He bases his wish to retire on business reasons, but it is said the major may be in line for appointment as Adjutant General, as General Wilbur Sadler, Jr., who holds that rank and is on sick leave, may not be able to return to his duties.

GRIDIRON ELEVENTS ARE QUICKLY MADE

USING BUCKING MACHINE AT HARVARD

When thousands of people are thrilled by the struggle of two college football teams they gather from the intricate moves and counter-moves and from the high example of team play that the contestants have given an unusual amount of their time to practice in order to reach this advanced state of development. Not only do the crowds which view the intercollegiate contests reach this conclusion, but those who attack intercollegiate sport and who seek to reform it claim that one of its greatest problems is to reduce the great amount of time utilized in the practice of teams for games.

A study of the facts brings to light the surprising information that college athletic teams, especially football eleven, which are more highly perfected than other intercollegiate athletic organizations, are developed in considerably less time than is generally supposed. And in some instances not more than six hours a week is given over to practice.

All of this is a result of scientific management on the part of coaches and trainers. It has been found, where it has been necessary, that splendid teams are produced in a minimum amount of time, especially where preliminary training has taken place in the early fall. The Army, especially, and the Navy, have little time to give to athletic sports at the two service academies, which is the explanation given by their athletic authorities for the failure of these two teams to show the highly perfected team play that the big college eleven masters. Nevertheless, in 1913, because Prichard and Merrill had spent some time during the summer in forward passing and receiving, that game brought to light the fact that in spite of only six hours a week given to football practice, after the United States Military Academy opened its doors in the fall until the game was played, its team showed the highest development of the forward pass and of team play of any college eleven in the United States up to that time.

FRANK GOTCH RETIRES

Champion Wrestler Gives Reasons for Quitting Mat.

Does Not Believe He Is as Good as He Was Half Dozen Years Ago—Will Stay on Farm and Enjoy Company of Family.

"I have retired from the mat," says Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, "not because I do not think I am capable of defeating them all, but because I do not think I am quite as good as I was, say half a dozen years ago. I am thirty-eight years old, and time will tell, sooner or later. I think it would be later for me, but, just the same, I do not want my friends to back me with their money, believing that I am better than I was ten years ago. I am not better. I may not be as good."

Will Enjoy Life. "I never dodged a match and I gave them all opportunities to win my championship title and so my retirement will not merit nor will it deserve criticism. The retirement is made at no small sacrifice, for under an agreement with a moving picture company I was to receive $85,000 for two more matches. I will not wrestle again. I have enough money. I want to stay on my farm and enjoy the company of my wife and family."

The champion wrestler stated that strength, endurance, speed and skill were essentials to a wrestler who is successful. "Mental work is also necessary for any great success in the game," Gotch said. "One must think constantly and think quickly. One should have his moves figured out far in advance of what one is actually attempting. One must, in other words, have system and it took me years of patience and study to accomplish my methods.

Brains and Brawn. "In training, also, it's brains over brawn. The man who trains with his brain can get more good out of twirling a match than an athlete can get out of a five-pound dumb-bell who does not use his brain. It's the systematic and not the mechanical training that counts. The man who shows dirt in the street eight hours daily is mechanical. The trouble with many wrestlers is that they are mechanical. They do not use their brains in training."

"When I run I watch every step. I figure just where I shall place my foot. That makes me think. And it also makes every muscle employed the slave of my mind. Try to move a muscle in your arm without moving the limb. You can't? That is because your brain is not master of your muscles. There isn't a muscle in my body that I can't move at the command of my brain. It is because I think as I train. Wrestling is an all-around developer of muscles, and as such it does not leave a man weak at any one point."

Tennis, Golf and Football. Former Originated in Ball Games of Greeks and Romans—Latter Was Raged With Youths.

Tennis is, perhaps, the oldest of modern games. It is said to have originated in the ball games of the Greeks and Romans. The racket was introduced during the fifteenth century in France, where the game was very popular, and imported into England about the same time.

Of the origin of cricket we know but little, though it was possibly identical with the club ball of the fourteenth century, and was first called "handyn and handoute."

Bowling greens and alleys were once plentiful in London, and Henry VIII made an alley at Whitehall. The earliest trace of the game appears in an old print of about six centuries ago.

Golf, or "goff," seems to have made its first appearance in the bandy ball of Elizabeth's reign, which was played with a club tipped with horn. Prince Henry, the son of James I, occasionally played at this game, which was very popular among the young noblemen of his day.

Football became such a rage with the London youths of the fourteenth century that a law was passed to prohibit it being played, as archery—then an important branch of education—was becoming thoroughly neglected.

Is Chance to Return? There is a rumor floating around the North side now that Frank Chance may be the next manager of the Cubs. Word comes from the Pacific coast that the Peerless Leader will think favorably of the opportunity if it comes to him again.

Rousch Sure of Job. Eddie Rousch is sure of a regular berth with the Cincinnati Reds next year. Manager Mathewson believes that he has shown enough ability this last season to entitle him to a place,

AGREE ON CO-SLOGAN

Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit baseball club, is a great football enthusiast. Fielding H. Yost, coach of the Michigan football squad, is a keen baseball fan. Each leader respects the prowess and opinions of the other and both are agreed that the first sentence in the baseball book should be first in the football calendar. Their co-slogan is, "The best defense is a strong offense." Jennings often has termed Cobb, Crawford and Veach the best pitching staff in the league.

GOLF PLAYED IN TIMES PAST

Smollett's Observations of Game as Played by Scotch—Guard Against Attacks of Distemper.

Now, of course, there are still one or two men who think golf is a more or less good game, but they should hear what the English writer, Smollett, thought of it back in 1766, an exchange remarks. Said he: "Of this diversion the Scotch are so fond that, when the weather will permit, you may see a multitude of all ranks mingled together in their shirts, and followed the ball with the utmost eagerness. Among others, I saw shown one particular set of golfers, the youngest of whom was turned of fourscore. They were all gentlemen of independent fortunes, who had amused themselves with this pastime for the best part of a century without having ever felt the least alarm from sickness or disgust. Such uninterrupted exercise, co-operating with the keen air of the sea, must, without doubt, keep the appetite always on edge and steel the constitution against all the common attacks of distemper."

FUMBLE IN FOOTBALL GAME

Arthur Poe, Famous End on Former Princeton Teams, Would Infract Distance Penalty.

From Arthur Poe, the famous end on the Princeton teams of 1898 and 1899, comes a suggestion that a fumble in football should not result in the loss of the ball, but should incur a distance penalty only. This is a radical suggestion, but not one to be dismissed without careful consideration.

Poe, it will be recalled, defeated Yale in 1898 by getting the ball out of a Yale halfback's arms just as the latter was scoring on Princeton, whereupon Poe ran the entire length of the field for the winning touchdown.

C. C. Mahan of Princeton Tackling Dummy.

Hence, Poe's suggestion carries with it the personal prestige of a great player who won a great game as the result of a technical fumble.

Poe contends that the entire work of a year, coaches, counsils during the winter, individual practice of the players in spring and summer and combined coaching and practice throughout an entire fall should not be nullified by a fumble which can happen at any time to the very best of players, has been designated by the most reprehensible word in football, "fuke," carrying satisfaction to a winning team but not credit.

Poe's suggestion is that a fumble be penalized by the loss of 15 yards, or if made within one's 15-yard line, by half the distance to the goal line, the fumbler's side still to retain possession of the ball. This in general is the suggestion. It, of course, involves details, a definition of a fumble, etc., but all of easy solution.

Canadians Show Well.

In the recent military sports at Stamford Bridge, near London, in which several thousand athletes of various nationalities took part, the Canadian athletes showed up well. In the 100-yard dash Maple Leaf athletes finished first, second and fourth. The Canadian team also won the inter-domain relay race. In the military marathon the Canadian team won first prize for the fastest time, the race going to the Norfolk yeomanry, who had five minutes start.

"PIGS IS PIGS"

Frank Powell, director of the Fox Film Corporation's, William Fox, president, production of Grace Miller White's famous book "From the Valley of the Missing" as a photoplay, is a painstaking individual when it comes to securing realism in every picture he takes. Naturally his insistence on the authenticity of every property used in pictures made by him has led him on some strange quests; but on none more unique than his recent search for a red pig, to be used by the twins Flea and Fluke in "From the Valley of the Missing," in the big County Fair scene.

An ordinary pig would not do. To "photograph" just right it had to be a red pig. But it appears that Augusta, Ga. and the environs thereof are singularly lacking in rubicund porkers. A still hunt by Mr. Powell, and his associate Sam Kingston, failed to reveal a single member of the porcine family that was not either white or black or both at once. But the news of their quest spread and one morning an aged darky appeared with a pig of just the required color. But he wanted a hundred dollars for it. Finally, as time was short and the picture had to be finished, the negro won his point and went on his way rejoicing. That night it rained cats and dogs. In the morning Mr. Powell went to inspect his new possession in the pen that had been built for it at the back of the hotel. To his amazement a snowy-white specimen occupied the sty where the evening before had been bright red one. The rain had washed the color off! At last a real red pig was found, however, and the pictures made. But when the company started to re-when Manhattan was reached another north on their special train, it was found that the pig; which was needed in some studio scenes to be made in New York; could not be transported on account of the quarantine due to the foot-and-mouth disease scare. So when Manhattan was reached another muddy porker had to be secured; but this time with less trouble. "Pigs is pigs, except when they are red ones," declared Mr. Powell, "and then they're the devil."

If you think you'll lose, you're lost.

For out of the world we find Success begins with a fellow's will,
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are,
You've got to think high to rise,
You've got to be sure of yourself before

You can ever win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go;

To the stronger or faster man;
But sooner or later the man who wins,
Is the one who thinks he can.

Women's Auxiliaries

The 22nd Annual Conference of the Women's Auxiliaries to the Y. M. C. A.'s of New Jersey will be held in Perth Amboy, Friday November 10. A very interesting program has been sent out from the State Office and as Perth Amboy is so near to Roosevelt, it is expected that a large delegation of women from here will attend.

Mrs. A. C. Clark who visited the local auxiliary last winter, will, as president of the Perth Amboy Auxiliary, give the address of welcome. Mrs. N. H. Stewart of Summit, president of the Women's Executive Board is the presiding officer. The morning hours are given over to discussing business. Luncheon will be served by the Perth Amboy Auxiliary.

The afternoon session opens at 2 o'clock with a special musical program. The address of the afternoon will be given by Mr. Fletcher S. Brockman, Associate General Secretary of the International Committee. Further information may be secured from Mrs. Calderhead, Secretary of our local Auxiliary.

Meeting, Friday, November 3rd

A call meeting of the Roosevelt Women's Auxiliary will be held Friday, November 3rd at 2.30 at the home of Mrs. Wilson. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for the winter months.

George W. Perkins, Jr., son of a millionaire, devoted a large part of his summer vacation to Association Work, and Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of President Wilson, spent several weeks on the border delivering addresses in the Association buildings.

Every state in the union has sent Y. M. C. A. secretaries with the troops to the Mexican border. New Jersey responded with the first order for mobilization and Y. M. C. A. camps were constructed before the troops arrived. The tents were equipped with writing tables, stationery, the daily papers, games, baseball equipment, quilts, Victrolas, pianos, ice water, small stores, etc. They were crowded to the limit, men writing letters, others reading or playing.

While we have seemingly escaped the danger of open conflict on the border, yet the boys are in gravest danger morally and physically. The

ELECTION NOTICE

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF REGISTRY, PRIMARY AND GENERAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that the district Board of Registry and Election in and for the Borough of Roosevelt, County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey, will meet as follows:

September 12, 1916 at 10 A. M. for the purpose of making a house to house canvass.

District No. 1 will meet at Conrad's store, 78 Rahway avenue, Carteret. District No. 2, will meet at the Borough Hall, Woodbridge avenue, Chrome.

Second meeting of said board will be held on September 26th, 1916, between the hours of 7 A. M. and 9 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of registering voters and upon this date a primary election will be held for all political parties, for the selection of candidates to be voted for at the general election to be held, November 7, 1916, between the hours of 6 A. M. to 7 P. M.

For the following offices:
For President.
For President Electors.
For United States Senator.
For Members of the House of Representatives.

For Governor.
For 3 Members of Assembly.
For Surrogate.
For Bond issue for State Roads.
For Mayor.
For 2 Councilmen.
For 5 Justice of Peace.
For 5 Constables.

Third and last meeting of the Board of Registry and Election will be held on October 31, 1916, between the hours of 1 and 9 o'clock.

WALTER V. QUIN

conditions are notoriously bad, dangerous even for the hardened men of the regular army, but particularly dangerous to raw militia. The Y. M. C. A. responded at once and are helping the men in their hour of need.

Sterling Ranch Notes.

A secretary on duty at the temporary Association building at Sterling's Ranch, Texas, a camping place for troops, on practice marches, sends the following notes:
Grand Rush. Attendance 2250.
138 writing at one time, 30 in line for places, 40 in water line at ice barrel.

Father Duffy, Chaplain of the 69th New York Regiment called to express his appreciation of the work.

You are doing a great work down here. Its effects will be seen still more when the men get home—Col. Johnson, 12th New York Infantry.

The Y. M. C. A. is just like a gift from God to us fellows.—Private, 69th New York Infantry.

A major of the 60th New York came into the little building for stationery, and while there remarked, "You have Y. M. C. A.'s everywhere, don't you? My brother now in Alexandria, Egypt, says it is about the biggest thing over there."

Many Men of Many Kinds

There is a varied assortment of men among the secretaries doing duty along the Mexican border. In one thing they are alike; all are devoted to their work.

One of the most interesting men is S. Ralph Walkingsick, Jr. son of a full-blooded Cherokee Indian chief. He is a junior at Dartmouth and a star in athletics and an active promoter of Association work in college.

Another is S. J. Chuan, General Secretary of the Chinese Students' Christian Association in North America methods in view of their possible adaptability to his own country.

Hallowe'en Social

A big masquerade Hallowe'en social will be promoted by the members of the Y. M. C. A. Hallowe'en evening Tuesday, October 31, 1916. Friends of members are given a cordial invitation to attend. The program will start promptly at 8.30, guests being taken thru the subterranean passage, and many things that have been planned will interest the older folks as well as the younger ones. As far as possible the Hallowe'en Committee urges all to masquerade and suggests simple customs such as sheet and pillow or other inexpensive dress.

Admission is by ticket only, the same may be secured free of charge by applying at the Association office or from any member or committee-man.

The camp-fire girls and the boy scouts are given a special invitation.

Members of the boy's department of the Y are also invited but children in general under 16 years unaccompanied by parents will not be admitted. No tickets will be given out after 6 p. m. Tuesday. The Main door will be locked from 6 to 10 o'clock. Committeemen will be dressed in like customs and will be recognized as such from their gards.

The program consists in part as follows: Subterranean passage; The House of Mysteries; The Palace of Satan; The Book of Life; Hallowe'en Games; Ye Olde Folke Dance; etc.

Current Comment.

A Mr. Muller, as fine a gymnast as has ever come into the Borough became a member of Mr. Gibson's Leaders' Corp and will specialize on senior nights in horizontal bar work and tumbling.

The city is a failure which is merely a place where people are born, do their work and die. Only that city approaches success which becomes a good place in which to live a large household in which the spirit and purpose of the family are extended to include the whole community.

The Outlook.

What is the Young Men's Christian Association?

It is a high-grade, low-cost young men's club, Christian but not sectarian.

It is an athletic organization that does not use men to promote athletics but uses athletics to develop men.

It is a night school for young men who work by day.

It is a home for young men away from home.

It helps young men not only to help themselves, but to help the other fellow.

It is a place for young men to find friends and to make themselves friends to a man who needs friends.

It has no creed but is controlled by representatives of churches. This keeps it a Christian organization but prevents it from becoming another church.

Its fellowship, clubrooms, gymnasium, baths, classes, and all other practical advantages are opened to all young men, of all faiths or of no faith.

It is not an experiment, but it is the survivor of many experiments. While other young men's organizations, social, athletic, educational, ethical and even religious, have failed this has succeeded and is now in successful operation in over eight thousand places in North America and throughout the world.

Members bringing in non-members to the Y are requested by the Committee of Managers to secure a visitor's card for their friend. The bowling committee rules that with November 1st nonmembers will be charged 10 cents per game straight for bowling.

A NOVEMBER BRIDE
While on a recent visit with friends in the borough, announcement was made of the forthcoming wedding of Miss Elizabeth Beard of Hornell, N. Y., and Mr. John Gross of Roosevelt. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride on November 15. Miss Beard is well known here and the announcement was a surprise to many of her friends.

BERNARD KAHN'S MOTHER HERE
After spending four months on a journey from Rasan, Russia, Mrs. Taba Kahn, mother of Bernard Kahn the furniture dealer, will reside with her son in the borough. In her journey Mrs. Kahn travelled through Siberia, Japan, China and landed in Seattle Wn., from which city she came by rail to Roosevelt.

Alice in Telephoneland
No. 3 OF A SERIES. ALICE VISITS THE TELEPHONE CENTRAL OFFICE.
THE thing that surprised Alice most upon entering the telephone central office was the quietness of the place. It seemed almost as quiet as her own schoolhouse on Saturdays. Instead of a bedlam of jingling bells and excited voices, she heard only the subdued hum of the operators' voices answering calls. It reminded her of a busy beehive, except that there were no drones.
Alice listened attentively while the young lady who had charge of the room, the Chief Operator, tried to explain.
"When a subscriber desires to make a call," she began, "he signals the Central Office, the operator picks up one of the plug-tipped cords that you see at the base of the upright section of the switchboard, inserts it in a little hole, or 'jack', that marks the end of that particular subscriber's line, and answers with 'Number, please?'
"The subscriber gives the number he wishes to call.

"ALL FAILED BUT TANLAC," STATES MRS. MAY REPASS

Trenton Woman Describes The Master Medicine's Work in Her Case.

"After treating for a long time and obtaining no results whatever, it is only fair to state that your Tanlac has done what other medicines failed to do." So spoke Mrs. May Repass, whose husband works at the Mott Iron Works, and who resides at 59 Annabelle avenue, Trenton.

"I was in a terribly rundown condition for a long time. While my appetite was good, the food seemed to produce no strength and I felt weak and sick all the time. My sleep at night gave me no rest, for I would awaken just as tired and languid as when going to bed. My nerves seemed always on the jump—little noises startled me—and finally rheumatism developed.

"The different treatments and medicines I took brought no relief. One day I decided to try Tanlac. For quite a while before I had seen the statements of other people, telling how Tanlac had helped them, so I made up my mind to get a bottle.

"I'm now starting on my second bottle and am feeling like a different person. The rheumatism is much better, the old tired feeling is entirely gone and I'm feeling much stronger. My nerves are stronger and steadier and I sleep fine at night, awakening refreshed and ready for the day's events.

"Tanlac is in a class by itself. It has helped me more than anything else I have ever used, and I believe any woman who suffers as I did will find it equally as good."

Tanlac is distributed in Roosevelt by Reason's Pharmacy—Advertisement.

FRIENDLY TAPS

Say Bill when is that play coming off?

Some "Soccer Player" Bill, are you ever going to win a game.

Paul is giving dancing lessons already. Ash Pa and Ma.

Did you have any cake Sunday night Lewis? It was good stuff!

It looks as if "Miss Muslin" is well in the running for the cooks job.

She says she is going to be a typewriter—some talking machine now.

Everybody had some of Bill's candies. They seemed to strike the right spot.

"Good night shirt" Bill, it will come in handy at Xmas. Don't all speak at once girls.

There are some very active members, so Bill said when he got struck with a banana.

Another job for the minister a young woman in Lowell street wants to be hooked up. She is some singer and plays the glad game.

LOAN FUND

There are a great many young men and young women who have not sufficient funds to pay for a business training but could have good situations if they had a knowledge of bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting. Now, owing to the great demand on us for competent people by the business firms of New Jersey and New York, I have concluded to advance money to a limited number of young men and young women to pay for a short course of study in the above subjects (they to reimburse me as soon as they get employment), and I will also secure for them good positions, following the completion of their course. Write or call to see me.
