idents From Isolation—Last day, Nov. 10, at 1:50 P. M.

A. M.; 11:50 A. M.; 1:50 P. M.;

M., and 9:50 P. M.

Noon; 2 P. M.; 4 P. M.; 6 P.
M.; 8 P. M.; 10 P. M. and 12
Midnight.

The parlor coaches of the Perth Amboy-New York line operated by the Metropolitan Interstate Coach Company, of New Haven, Conn., will begin running through Carteret on Tuesday, November 10, according to the traffic manager of the company.
He said that the company is re-arranging its schedule so as to include Carteret on the route. Complete details of operation will be brought to the attention of the Borough Council at its special meeting on Monday night of next week, he said.

Each coach has 26 individual Pulman seats, well heated and apportionately ventilated. The coaches on the way to New York will reach Carteret at 7:50, 9:50 and 11:50 A. M., 1:50, 3:50, 5:50 and 7:50 P. M. The terminal of the company will most likely be the Carteret Inn. There is some possibility that stops will be made in the upper section of the borough. The trip to New York will cost one dollar. The coaches go through Elizabeth, Newark and the 42nd street ferry to the Martinique
Hotel, Broadway and 32nd street.
Returning the coaches will leave
New York for Carteret at 10 A. M. and every hour thereafter. The last coach from New York will leave at midnight.

The first coach for the metropolis will leave next Tuesday at 1:50. Considerable interest is manifested in the line and arrangements will probably be made by the Lions Club, the Chamber of Commerce to have representation when the first coaches leave through here.

It is generally believed that the coach line is one of the biggest accommodations that Carteret can have. In view of the fact that the line is operated on an interstate franchise no tickets can be purchased for Elizabeth or Newark. All tickets must be through tickets to New York.
A violation of this rule would conflict with the Public Service.

A welcome will be extended to the company operating the line by the Carteret Chamber of Commerce.
Maxwell Sosin, secretary of the organization said today that representatives of the local body are making preparations to give the first coach line leaving Carteret on Tuesday at 1:50 a big send off. Mr. Sosin believes that the line will give the borough the much needed service.

The Lions Club may also extend a welcome. The first coach will be at the Carteret Inn just about the time when the local Lions conclude their weekly luncheon-meeting.

Manage to Check Blaze—Number of Stored Cars are Saved
—Damage About $10,000.

The garage of Catri & Weinstein at 71 Roosevelt avenue was almost completely destroyed by fire which broke shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The blaze is believed to have been started in the office and stock room of the establishment from a stove. Within a few minutes the flames enveloped the entire structure and the flames went through the ceiling of the building.

Members of the local fire companies responded quickly to the scene and managed to get out of the garage a number of automobiles. According to the report three automobiles

ALL ARE INVITED

Organizations Are Urged to At- tend Parade—Big Time Is Planned in Connection With Pre-War Dance.

by the Roosevelt Post No. 263,

Wednesday. The legionnaires will hold a parade in the evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The line of march follows: Starting point at Borough Hall; through Cooke avenue to Washington avenue, to Roosevelt avenue; to Pershing avenue, to Roosevelt avenue, to Lafayette street and point to a big success of the day. It is the aim of the legion to stress the meaning of the Armistice Day so that the people may know the importance

HALLOWE'EN GAY TIME FOR YOUTH

Carteret Celebrates Mystic Hol- iday—Many Parties Are Held Throughout the Borough— Masked Parade Enjoyed.

Hallowe'en was given its usual attention in Carteret on Saturday night and as the result there were parties galore for the older folks and a free reign for the younger element.
Noise was a predominating feature and the children who could procure horns were heard long and loud far into the night. Impromptu parades were held by the kids, who called upon neighbors in masks and uttered not a sound lest their voice betray their identity.

Along Roosevelt avenue children were seen wearing their sister's or mother's housedresses. Throughout Carteret could be seen the golden glow from colored lights appropriate for the season. The usual Hallowe'en games were played.

Here and there was evidence of youthful mischief, but the police reported no undue disturbances, Chief Harrington having issued an edict warning to the boys not to molest property.

A brilliant Hallowe'en party was held by the Young People's Society of the Presbyterian church on Friday night. It was a brilliant affair and attended by a large gathering. A wonderful "Ye Olde Time New England" barn dance was held by the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church on Saturday with a big crowd in attendance. The cake walk was won by George Morgan and Mrs.
John Dunne. Other societies of churches also held informal Hallowe'- en parties for their members.

LEGION DRIVE BEGINS MONDAY

American Legion Posts Throug- out the United States to Start Drive for the Rehabilitation of the Disabled Soldiers.

NAME COMMITTEES

Citizens Committee Also Ap- pointed to Assist Legionaires— Mayor Mulvihill Heartily En- dorses the Drive for Funds.

The drive of the 11,000 posts of the American Legion with the 6,400 units of the Auxiliary in the United States for funds for the rehabilitation of the disabled soldiers and child welfare will commence on Nov. 8, 1925, and continue for one week.

Commander Ruckriegel has appointed the following committee of the American Legion to take charge of the campaign: Edwin Casey, chairman; Clarence Slugg, Nathaniel A. Jacoby, Jack Price, Thomas Jakeway, Charles Rapp, William Hagan, Aaron Meltzer, Morris Cohen, A.
Webb and Frank Hanry.

In addition a citizen's committee has been appointed to assist the Legion in this work. This committee consists of Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill, Councilmen Andres, Phillips, Lyman and Ellis; Joseph A. Hermann, Emil Stremlau, John H. Nevill, Henry Harrington, Walter V. Quinn, John
S. Albright, Thomas G. Kenyon, George Dalrymple, William J. Lawlor, Joseph C. Child, Edwin S. Quinn, John Harrington, H. A. Hennessey,
James J. Mullav, Edward J. Coughlin, William V. Coughlin and William D'Zurilla.

These committees met a week ago and organized for the drive. It is proposed to divide the committee into teams, which will visit every section of Carteret during the drive.

The purpose of this drive is to raise an endowment fund of $50,000 - 000, the income of which will guarantee a solid basis in perpetuity for the programs of disabled men's rehabilitation and child welfare. The endowment is to make secure the national rehabilitation service.

The problem is that restoring to physical, mental and spiritual health and to a status of self-support and self-respect, a man who has suffered the wounds, disease, and shock incident to war.

The motto of the American Legion is "Temporary Care—Permanent Care." New methods of caring for and treating the patients are being developed and men are going forth cured and well every day who but for the long, insistent battle of the American Legion would have gone to insane hospitals for life.

While the disabled soldier is in the hospital, his home must be preserved, his wife, and children aided and encouraged and his own mind relieved of worry.

Equally as important as the treatment of the disabled veteran is the work of the American Legion in taking care of the children of deceased soldiers. The program of the Leg-ion's child welfare work is to provide a home for every homeless child of a veteran. Already billets for the care of these children have been established at Otter Lake Michigan, and in Kansas; and are now under consideration to New Jersey and Tennessee.

The American Legion is doing a wonderful work and every citizen of Carteret should welcome the opportunity to help in this humanitarian cause.

Endorsement By Mayor Mulvihill

Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill endorses the fund as follows:
"I heartily endorse the work that the American Legion is undertaking and I urgently ask that all citizens of Carteret give to the greatest extent of their ability, to help the great cause of providing hospitals for disabled soldiers and homes for the children.

WORKERS ARE EASY FOR LOCAL BOOTERS

Soccer Club Trims Perth Amboy Eleven By 10-0—County Title Was at Stake—Worst Exhibition of Soccer Seen Here.

The Workers Soccer Club of Perth Amboy proved an easy mark for the Carteret booters in a loosely played contest at Brady's Field, Sunday afternoon. The large crowd of spectators on hand saw the locals trim the Amboyans by a one-sided score of 10 to 0.

In this contest was involved the county championship, but the form displayed by the Workers did not seem to reveal the fact that the title was at stake. The Perth Amboy team lined up with the same players who won the county league pennant last season. They are credited with displaying one of the most weird exhibitions of soccer seen on Brady's Field, even though they are supposed to be a title contending team.

Bill Elliott, Herman, Bruce, Igso, and others were the scorers for Carteret.

This Sunday the locals will oppose the Hungarian Club of Perth Amboy at Brady's Field. The county championship will again be involved.

Blue and White Win From Seaters, 12-0

Several long runs by Pete Herman and two touchdowns by Lou Lehrer were sufficient to give the Carteret High School football eleven the verdict in its very first game in local gridiron history, last Saturday afternoon at Brady's Field. The local cohorts romped home a winner over the second team of the New Brunswick High School by a score of 12-0. Both tries for extra points after the touchdowns were missed on account of the muddy field.

Coaches Hagan, Bodnar and Wiseman were well pleased by the showing of their boys. They will put their proteges into action again today at Milburn, where they will meet the high school eleven of that place. Milburn is expected to give the locals a stiffer battle than the county seaters.

Whirlwinds Drop Game

The Whirlwinds lost their first game of the season on Election Day afternoon, dropping a hard fought contest to a combination of the Diamond and the St. Joseph elevens. The score was 12-0.

Murtagh ran eighty yards on the kickoff to score one of the touchdowns for the winners; while Currie tallied the remaining score.

AMBOYS BUSY

Play Three Games In Four Nights—Trim Paterson.

Three games in four nights is the Perth Amboy Metro League schedule starting this Saturday night at the Auditorium.

On Saturday night the Amboys play the strong New Yorkers in a return go, the Sedran-Dreyfus, Malone, Kellett, White, Fahrner, Cohen, Gordon and Norman machine having recently won from the Amboys and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Sunday the Amboys go to Newark for the Newark opening and on next Tuesday night, Willie Marron is to bring his fast going Yonkers outfit to the Auditorium court.

Amboy registered its first victory in the big league on the home floor last Saturday night by 27-23 when the fast going American Legion team of Paterson was stopped in an extra session event. One of the biggest crowds of the season witnessed the tussle.

Carl Friedman, Rutgers Prep coach and a former college star, will be of big help to the Amboys, the fans believe.

Rahway Tied By Queen City Eleven in Surprise

The heavy Rahway High School varsity gridiron machine has had its goal line finally over run by an enemy ball carrier. The Crimson warriors played a 7-7 tie game with Plainfield on Election Day, the Queen City lads scoring their points in the final quarter when Hetfield tallied a touchdown. Rahway outplayed their opponents, but they could not push over the necessary winning credits.

On Friday the Class B champs wallowed Irvington by a score of 20-0. Nick Coppola starred by making three touchdowns.

Tomorrow Roselle Park will be engaged in a tilt at Elizabeth's new Warinanco Park.

Armistice Day

ARMISTICE DAY falls this year on November 11. It is the Day of the Gold Star Legion, those valiant boys who helped to strike the final blow that we might pursue our lives in peace, happiness and prosperity. They gave us the last full measure of devotion for us.

In clustered graves on the hillside of Suresnes, in Flanders fields, in Arlington, in every American city and hamlet they sleep. Out where all is silent. But their valiant spirits live on in unseen presence.

We who remain are under eternal bonds of fidelity to our fallen heroes. They have made the Supreme Sacrifice to an ideal. We must re-consecrate ourselves to that same ideal.

Let us affirm our loyalty to the flag whose bright colors still wave gloriously because of our heroes usefulness and valor. We must brighten the lives of our disabled veterans, the living heroes whose skies were darkened in tragic moments. We can honor our dead by serving our living, an investment in service that pays dividends no money can bring.

Next Wednesday, Armistice Day of 1925, let us bare our heads in reverent memory. Let us rededicate ourselves to the service of God, Country and Comrades. Thus we can observe the Day in its true spirit.

Patronize New Line

BEGINNING on Tuesday of next week, the luxurious coaches running between Perth Amboy and New York City will make a stop in Carteret to pick up passengers. Carteret owes a gratitude to B. Schultz, president of the company for taking favorable action on the request of the council to run his line through here.

Now it will be up to the people of Carteret to patronize the line. It is very fortunate that Carteret will be supplied with a direct service to New York City.

It would be well for representatives of local bodies to give the first coach line at 1.50 next Tuesday, a big send-off to show that Carteret is interested in the new venture of the company.

For Those Who Gave the Most

THERE rests with the American Legion, in conjunction with governmental agencies, the major responsibility for the care and cure of the disabled men of the United States forces in the World War, and for the proper care, upbuilding and education of the orphaned children of those who gave their lives in battle. This trust was imposed upon the Legion when it was chartered in Congress in 1919.

The responsibility for the disabled and orphans can not be met by the Legion without assistance from other Americans, and it should not. The duty is one shared by every citizen.

In order to carry out the program of the Legion an endowment fund of $50,000,000 is to be raised, and the income will be used in perpetuity for the programs of disablement men's rehabilitation and child welfare.

The Legion is asking this endowment fund from its own members, and the American public jointly. The Legion asks is confidently in the knowledge that it will be given and that it will be the backbone of the most important public service confronting the American people today.

The drive for funds will commence on Monday, Nov. 9, and will continue for one week. When the committee, who are giving their time unselfishly for this work, approach the citizens of Carteret, they are urged to give liberally for the humanitarian work. In 1921 New Jersey gave over $2,000,000 to the war orphans of Europe, and the need for assistance here is just as great.

Interest in Schools Highest Civic Virtue

It is estimated in the bureau of education, Department of the Interior, that there are approximately 12,000,000 children enrolled in the different types of rural schools in the United States. About nine million of these children come from farm homes. The others live chiefly in small villages, but are part of the farm population. To provide the best modern educational advantages for these children is a cause worthy of generous sacrifice if that sacrifice is necessary. The money that we pay in taxes for the education of our children is our very best investment, provided that we are wise enough to insure that it is well spent. How can we do this? Generally, so far as the ordinary farm citizen is concerned—the man in the road, to paraphrase a popular expression—by showing an intelligent interest in the school all the year round. Not spasmodically, but constantly. Is there a board member to be selected? Then go to the voting place and help select the best person for the job. Is a new schoolhouse, or are repairs for an old one needed? Then do your part to insure that the building is the best the community can afford. Is a teacher to be employed? Do all you can to see that the school board members are encouraged to get the best teacher available. Raise the salary if necessary, but do not be satisfied with a cheap teacher. The board will follow the sentiment of the community in regard to the qualifications and salary of the teacher.

Do your part in creating a community sentiment favorable to a good school. The citizens of the community are responsible for the quality of the farmers' school—not just the members of the school board.

Variety of Horned Sheep

Some sheep have no horns at all. As is well known, the usual number of horns possessed by a sheep is two. In the case of many kinds of breeds, only the males have horns. The unicorn sheep of Nepal and Tibet has both horns completely welded together into one. Four-horned sheep are common in Iceland and the Hebrides, and are found also in Africa. Eight-horned sheep are known.

PUBLIC SERVICE Men and Women

The Field Engineer

PUBLIC SERVICE companies are builders, constantly adding to the material wealth and prosperity of the State. They give work to thousands of mechanics, artisans and engineers, practically continuously employed in carrying forward the tremendous PUBLIC SERVICE construction program.

The Field Engineer—the man with the transit—not only makes the preliminary surveys upon which plans for improvements and additions to plant are based, but he takes an important part in the construction job itself.

Since the birth of PUBLIC SERVICE back in 1903, some $180,000,000 has been spent in extension and betterment of plant, and other millions will be spent in the future to keep utility service abreast with public needs.

For all this work The Field Engineer is a necessary and useful workman.

JANITORS ARE GIVEN SALARY RAISE

Dr. J. J. Reason Added to Forfe of Borough's Med- ical Inspectors—Doctors Wantoch and Messin- ger are Re-appointed.

The Tuesday session of the Board of Education was one of the busiest this year. The board has made many important appointments, final preparations were discussed for the opening of the new high school. There was also general routine business.

Miss Jane Packard and Miss Marie Nielsen, of the Middlesex County Tuberculosis League appeared before the board in behalf of the Christmas seal sale.

Miss Packard urged permission to allow the sale of seals in the public schools of the borough. She said that Carteret was the only school system where the seals are not being sold. Miss Packard explained that 200 tubercular cases from Carteret are now receiving aid from the league. Last year, Miss Packard informed the board, this borough contributed only $500 while in reality the league spent approximately 65,000 for their care. On motion of Commissioner Lewis N. Bradford, the permission was granted.

Edwin Casey, chairman of the endowment fund committee of the Roosevelt Post No. 263, American Legion, requested permission to conduct a drive in the schools in behalf of the fund, similar to the steps taken during "Old Ironsides" week. This was granted on motion of Commissioner Isadore Schwartz.

The report of the supervising principal shows an enrollment of 1,362 boys and 1,271 girls. There are also 34 boys in the continuation school and 58 girls.

The Teacher's Professional Circle requested the use of the new high school auditorium on the nights of December 19, January 21, February 21 and April 13. On motion of Commissioner Theodore Bishop, the application was granted with the understanding that these dates do not conflict with other bookings. The Circle will give a series of concerts.

Commissioner Frank Brown suggested that the board print a souvenir book for the opening of the new high school, in it to describe the various features of the new building and equipment. Mr. Heil appointed a committee to secure data on costs.

"Old Ironsides Week" at the local public schools conducted for the week of October 19 netted $124.41, according to a report made by Miss B. V. Hermann, supervising principal of the schools.

On motion of Commissioner Robert Jeffreys permission was granted to the Carteret Parent-Teacher Association to use the high school auditorium on December 10 and 11 for benefit entertainments in response to a request of Mrs. Charles H. Byrne, president of the association.

The Samaritan Club of Odd Fellows' hall was given permission to use the high school auditorium on the night of December 15.

Commissioner Alfred Nannen sent the board his resignation. He wrote that it was not possible for him to attend the meetings. President Heil appointed George A. Dalrymple, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, to succeed Nannen and fill his unexpired term.

It was decided to open the night school classes Thursday night of this week. The following teachers were appointed: Evening school, Miss Catherine Higgins, Miss Alma Kretter, Miss Catherine Donovan, Mrs. Elizabeth Connolly; foreign born classes, Miss Elizabeth McGinley, Miss Mary Ziembka and Miss Mary Connolly. Miss Catherine Comerford

LEGION HOLDS PARADE-DANCE

Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill Gives Interesting Talk on Armistice Day to the Legionnaires at the Borough Hall.

DANCING ENJOYED

Brilliant Pre War Ball Is Held In German Lutheran Hall With a Large Attendance—Many Enjoy the Dancing.

Armistice Day was fittingly observed by the Roosevelt Post No. 263, American Legion, and its Ladies' Auxiliary on Wednesday, Armistice Day. At the request of Commander Fred Ruckriegel, citizens of the borough decorated their homes with flags to pay tribute to the fallen heroes in the war.

The evening's ceremonies started with a parade through the streets of the town with borough officials, organization representatives and the American Legion Fife and Drum Corps of Rahway at the helm. The parade started at 8 P. M. The paraders started from the borough hall and went along Cooke avenue to Washington avenue to Roosevelt avenue, to Pershing avenue, hence over Roosevelt avenue, Lafayette street and to the German Lutheran hall.

The group which took part in the parade was augmented by many others, who assembled outside the hall, where Mayor Mulvihill gave an eloquent talk on Armistice Day. Pleasing addresses were made by Recorder Nathaniel A. Jacoby and Edwin Casey.

A dance, which was attended by several hundred couples followed. Young and old enjoyed the dancing to the tunes of Al Ritter's orchestra. Jack Boos and his merry-makers supplied the entertainment during the dance intervals. Members of the ladies' auxiliary of the post helped with the function.

Edwin Casey, chairman of the endowment committee, reported progress in connection with the raising of the funds. He said that the Board of Education has granted the legion permission to seek subscriptions among the schools students, since the cause is an unusually worthy one.

SUNDAY BLUE LAW IS VIOLATED HERE

Chief of Police Henry J. Harrington and Staff Were Busy Sunday "Checking Violators" in the Borough.

Members of the police department were busy Sunday making up a list of violators of the ancient vice and immorality act. Those who operated a car, who had their shops open for business were registered. Today, Chief Harrington and other chiefs are holding a conference with Prosecutor Joseph E. Stricker at New Brunswick as to what should be done with the 750 people who so violently disobeyed the law passed in 1776.

On Saturday, a warning was given that automobile drivers and merchants who have their shops open would be arrested. Many heeded the warning and stayed home. A large number of people stayed away from church, because they had no way of getting to church. Then the rain came and the "violators" subdued a bit. If the weather was good, the police may have been able to register the names of 14,000 people, who one way or other "violated the law on the Sabbath Day."

MONAGHAN TALKS ON ARMISTICE

Counsel of Board of Education Addresses Large Gathering at Meeting of Carteret Parent- Teacher Association.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Charles H. Byrne, chairman with the singing of "America." There was a minute of silence in honor of the fallen heroes.

At the business meeting, the association has decided to offer prizes to schools, who have the greatest parental representation at meetings. The prizes will be offered at the end of the year. A total of 44 new members were enrolled.

A musical comedy "Kathleen" will be presented under the auspices of the society on December 10 and 11. More than 200 students will be in the cast.

A fine entertainment featured the program. Miss Grace Van Pelt gave a brilliant piano selection. A vocal solo "Rose of the Eve," was splendidly rendered by Miss Gladys Kahn. Miss Van Pelt also gave a ukulele selection. "The Gypsy Love Song" was sung by Miss Grace Barker.

Mrs. Byrne gave a report of the county meeting and state convention. There was a big attendance. Refreshments were served.

"Armistice Day" was the topic of Attorney Francis A. Monaghan, who was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Carteret Parent-Teachers' Association held Tuesday night. Mr. Monaghan said in part: "Memories crowd fast upon the mind as the circling months bring us again to this memorable anniversary. There is not one in this presence who does not have some personal interest in the great events upon which the occasion it commemorates, placed the seal of finality."

"For some of those who are today, that interest is tinged with a profound sadness, that yet is a proud sorrow and borders on the realm of joy. Many fell for whom our hearts mourn today, and history has no fairer or more inspiring page than that which records the splendor of their devotion and the completeness of their sacrifice."

Mr. Monaghan concluded: "The American soldier went forth to battle for the cause of human justice and freedom with no hatred in his heart for any people. He died for his country without question or complaint with faith in his heart and hope on his lip that his country should triumph and its civilization survive. As a representative soldier of the world's greatest democracy he offered his life as a sacrifice for the victory of her principles of right and justice over the armed forces of autocracy military rule."

ABOUT MIGGLES' ALLEY

By HERMAN BROWNSON

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

His real name was Tim O'Hagan, but in Miggles' alley he was familiarly known as Shingles. This was because, while a bootblack by profession, he spent a large share of his life on the roof of a five-story tenement house, tending his baby brother. On this particular occasion, however, he rose above his calling of bootblack and nursemaid, and became a hero.

The region about Miggles' alley is not precisely a hotbed of heroism. Indeed, there is probably not a corner of America in which the poverty-stricken and depraved of all nations meet in such strength as here, where the social sewers from the four corners of the earth seem to empty themselves. But Shingles, looking down upon the streets from the high plane of the tenement housetop, saw more of the color, and whirl, and bigness of the streets than of their mud and meanness. He saw the circus parade as it swept gleaming by. He saw the crowd pouring through the neighboring streets—a black river of humanity.

Best of all, he looked almost daily on the wonderful maneuvers of a fire company, whose engine house, opposite one entrance of the tenement house, was Shingles' favorite resort. On those rare occasions when he was free to ply his trade, Shingles earned several dimes and nickels, and incidentally many golden opinions, from the good-natured fire ladders, who recognized a kindred spirit in this mite of ten. And when chained by duty to his post on the roof, Shingles could, if he liked, exchange occasional salutes with the objects of his worship as they lounged in the street below. As for those moments when the alarm gong rang, and his friends at the engine house jumped into their places on the hose carriage or the hook-and-ladder trucks, and were whirled off to scenes of adventure, those were periods of combined pride and pain to Shingles. The pride was for his comrades; the pain that he, by reason of his ten years and absorbing occupation, was cut off from any share in these deeds of daring. Only in make-believe could he climb ladders and rescue people from burning buildings; and, while it was easy to play circus parade with the baby and pussy cat in a soap-box on rollers for the hand chariot, the heroism of the fire ladders called for a greater exercise of talent.

On this June morning Shingles' mother, who was today engaged in scrubbing at one of the big insurance buildings on Broadway, left the youngster with his charge on the roof, screaming back strict injunctions to the boy to keep the baby amused. To this task Shingles addressed himself with an ardor born of the beautiful day and the necessity for some occupation for the long hours that stretched between now and supper time. What would he do to amuse the baby and incidentally himself? Why, "play fire," of course. His engine-house experience, joined to his observations from the roof, gave him a familiarity with the fire ladders' modes of operation that resulted in the most stirring realism. The baby seemed pleased, and listened with open-mouthed wonder, while big brother imitated the clatter and clangor of the engine gong or the hoarse shouts of the firemen, and gazed with special delight at Tim's astonishing climb up an imaginary ladder as foreman of the rescue corps. Indeed, he was so much amused by this new game that he did not wince while Shingles tied one end of the clothes-line around the tiny figure, puffing and blowing laboriously for imaginary smoke the while. Baby even thought it great fun, until brother bore him over the edge of the roof and began to let him down, down—a tiny morsel of humanity dangling five stories above the pavement of Miggles' alley. Then fun changed to fright, and baby set up a lusty howl. It was this scream that aroused Shingles from his realistic play to the grim earnestness of the situation. There was no ladder waiting below; there were no brave comrades—only himself, a mite of ten, clutching in his small hand the very end of the rope from which dangled the helpless figure of his tiny brother. Real fear gripped at the little fellow's heart. Slowly, painfully, he began to pull in that endless length of line. Inch by inch he brought that tiny, swaying figure nearer to the housetop. Then suddenly a knot in the rope caught in the iron railing. Cold perspiration rolled down the little fellow's cheek. Already his strength was failing him. To slacken a single foot meant to loosen his hold altogether. He tried to call for help, but the shrill little voice attracted no more attention than had the baby's feeble wail. In the neighborhood of Miggles' alley children lift up their voices in lamentation so often that nothing short of an alarm of fire or murder excites special notice. Suddenly, in this moment of agonizing terror, the boy was seized by an inspiration. On his left rose a large chimney. Around this the little fellow drew the taut rope, making it fast to the clothes-hook in the masonry. Then he rushed to the edge of the roof, and shouted: "Fire, fire, in Miggles' alley!"

At this sound the firemen lounging in the street below leaped to their feet. Looking up, they recognized the figure on the roof's edge as that of their little comrade, and, convinced that this was no false alarm, rushed into the engine house. A moment later the street below resounded with the rumble of trucks, the whang of gongs, and the rush of the surging crowd. In this focal point of cosmopolitan New York, where a quarter of a million people are located within a stone's throw of a common center, the elements of a stirring scene are always at hand. At the sound of the alarm, Chinamen crept from their basement bunks in Mott street—reeking with opium and dazed by the noise; long-haired Hebrews tumbled into the alley from their sweat shops; swarthy Italians came pell-mell from their hovels; and the Arab lost his fez, which, in the surging crowd, was trampled under foot. By the time that the engines and hook-and-ladder company reached the alley they found it jammed with a mass of excited humanity, whose eyes were focused upon a tiny white bundle that swayed in mid-air, 70 feet above the pavement. At once the firemen realized that they had been duped; but the necessity for effort did not escape them. Up shot the great ladders, one above another, and then an agile rescuer began the swift ascent. The crowd cheered in a babel of tongues; but as the climber reached the last few rounds, and began creeping out over the slender threads toward the precious prize, a hush fell upon the multitude. Now he was almost there—now he stood directly under the dangling mite—now he put forth his hand with extreme caution. The crowd stood on tiptoe. Not a soul breathed. Then, just as the strong hand touched the hem of the little frock, the child began struggling once more, this time so violently that, in the very moment of apparent safety, it slipped from the noose and fell.

In that moment even the hardened faces of the multitude below, accustomed to sights of all degrees of danger and wickedness, blanched with terror; eyes bleared by drink or opium were shudderingly averted from the awful scene that seemed inevitable. Meantime the tiny bundle of humanity, in its wild plunge downward, struck a rope stretched across the alley hanging full of wet clothes. The strand broke with the strain, and the child was lost in the flying mass of white. A few stray rags fluttered down—but the baby? It had disappeared like a wraith. Strong arms outstretched to make a desperate effort to catch the flying waif fell helpless at many a side. The vast crowd stood speechless, dumfounded.

An instant later a deaf old Irish woman in the second-story tenement looked up from her work and gave a shrill cry of surprise as she saw crawling through the window that led from the fire-escape where she had just laid her feather-bed to air, an almost naked child with scarlet bars around its little body. "By all the saints together!" she cried, dropping on her knees, "if that kid didn't rain down from heaven o'll niver say another pather noster as long as I live!"

And it took the combined eloquence of Shingles and his distracted mother to convince the old lady of the child's earthly origin.

Hard to Cope With

Fire Beyond Reach

In a score of different places in these islands underground fires are smoldering. Some have been alight for many years and are fair imitations of volcanoes on a small scale. The fuel in most cases is coal.

A pit between Ayr and Girvan caught fire in 1847 and was still burning at the beginning of the present century. "The Steaming Bug," the country folk call it.

Landore, an important junction station near Swansea, was for some time rendered useless by an underground fire said to be burning in old chemical and metal refuse. The platforms were hot and the whole place was poisoned by fumes. The town of Dudley has suffered severely from a slow burning going on deep beneath its foundations, which at one time threw out fumes of deadly gas, half-poisoning many people.

It is easy to understand coal catching fire, but more difficult to comprehend land blazing up. Yet this phenomenon happens quite frequently. Some years ago there was a remarkable outbreak at Halsall Moss, near Birkdale. A potato farmer piled unslaked lime on one of his fields and set fire to the peaty soil that had been rendered bone-dry by a month of sunshine. A wind got up and soon three acres were ablaze, the fire biting deep into the ground.

Two years ago there was a similar outbreak near Shrewsbury. The burning of a pile of brushwood started it. The fire caught into the roots of a great tree and five weeks later the tree crashed down. Then the whole earth was found to be afire, and the fire spread until winter rains put it out—London Tit-Bits.

Degeneration

"The American people used to read Thoreau and Emerson. Today their idea of intellectual enjoyment is to gloat over films of pretty girls in bathtubs."

The Boston critic, Everett P. Wheeler, was addressing a women's union. He went on:

"A sight-seeing motor bus was gliding through Boston's historic streets. The man with the megaphone was raising the instrument to his lips for another spiel when a pretty girl gave 'is coat tail a yank and said impatiently:

"Aw, say, cut out that heavy stuff. You've told us enough about the splendid Oliver Wendell Holmes of Boston. Now can't you show us inside a few of them for a change."

Electrical Cooking

The first public dinner to be cooked electrically was served in 1885 at the Cannon Street hotel, London, England. The dinner was in honor of the then lord mayor of London and the dishes served and the means of cooking them created quite a sensation. Today there are in the United States more than 10,000 communities where electricity for cooking purposes is supplied at a special rate.

The Waiter

A woman, complaining of her lodger to a police captain, said: "He is a grave digger, and tells me he is anxiously waiting for me."

CROWS AND THE CROPS

AS A rule crows are birds of evil omen. But there is one condition under which a farmer may see a crow to his advantage. If a solitary crow is seen walking about a field just before it is put to seed then it is an omen of good crops. But should the lone crow perch on a limb overlooking the field as the seed is being put in the corn will run to stalk and there will be precious little grain. And if the crow caws the crop will be a total failure.

This is because the crow—or the raven, which is practically the same thing—is an attendant bird of Odin, the chief of the Norse gods, and Odin had a direct interest in agriculture, as many stories of him attest. It was formerly the custom in the Scandinavian peninsula to leave standing in the field after the harvest a sheaf of wheat "For Odin's horses," and the god is represented as once having protected in person a field of rye near Trotenborg in which rye grew with astounding fruitfulness. Now when the bird of Odin walks quietly over a field, inspecting it, he is acting for his master—giving it Odin's protection. This is mythology, a survival of the Norse religion. But in the perching of the crow upon a limb overlooking the field we see the introduction of magic. He is perched on a limb—a stalk, as it were—and so, by sympathetic magic, the future crops will run to stalk in imitation of the limb upon which the crow perches. The ancients not infrequently mixed up magic with their mythology.

Improving Transit Service

What Is Being Done and What Should Be Done To Provide An Adequate Transportation System for New Jersey People

A CHANGE IN ORGANIZATION

Within the last few days a change has been made in the form of organization of Public Service transportation companies.

The management of the affairs of each of the six operating divisions is now in the hands of Division Managers, invested with authority in respect to all details of service, who report directly to the Vice-President in Charge of Operation.

Each has his headquarters at a central point in his division, and in him is centered responsibility for the direction of all divisional departments, including transportation, roadway and maintenance of equipment and overhead line.

This change was made to secure within the companies further co-ordination and consequently better efficiency, and between cars and buses further co-ordination, and in both cases, better service for the public.

It is part of the contribution which the companies make to the general improvement of local transportation service, and the creation of a transportation system, equipped to meet the needs of the people for safe, adequate and convenient transit.

Our Division Managers are at your service!

They want your suggestions, your complaints and your help. Communications, personal, by telephone, or by mail, made to them will receive their prompt attention.

For the Central Division the Division Manager is P. F. Maguire.

His office is at 271 North Broad Street, Elizabeth.

His telephone number is 9700 Emerson.

DO IT NOW

At the general election last week, the people of our borough have by a large majority approved the plan of the mayor and council to eliminate Noe's Creek and construct a trunk sewer. The Carteret News has been boosting the project all along has never doubted that the people would turn such an important improvement down.

Now, it is up to the council to carry out the people's wishes. The engineer can now get busy on whatever preliminary work that is necessary; the finance committee can now work out the details of a bonding issue, so that when the spring arrives, contractors can get busy on the work. There is much advance work to be done and our town fathers have only a few months in which to prepare it. "Do it now," should be the slogan.

CARTERET TO BENEFIT

Since this borough has a large number of wage earners, hundreds will benefit by the new income tax cut. More than two hundred million dollars of the annual burden of seven million federal income taxpayers will be removed under the income tax revisions voted by the House Ways and Means Committee at Washington this week.

By increasing the exemptions from $1,000 to $1,500 for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married persons the committee relieved more than one million persons in the small income class from the necessity of paying any tax as well as reducing the burden of all others on the federal tax polls.

Community Building

Any Attention Paid to Lawn Is Fully Repaired

Thoughtful builders always save the top six or eight inches of soil excavated and use it as a top dressing over the remainder of the lawn. The more fertile, of course, a lawn can be made the quicker and better the grass and other plantings will grow.

One of the best methods for improving the fertility of a lawn is by the application of well-rotted stable manure. Frequent top dressings with a good complete fertilizer add much to the fertility of a lawn.

Old lawns, if the weeds and coarse grasses have driven out the finer velvety grasses, may be improved much by plowing or spading the sod, turning it under to a depth of eight or ten inches, following this by a thorough cultivation, and then reseeding at the rate of one to two bushels of June grass to one to two bushels of red top, and eight pounds of white clover per acre. Some of the commercial lawn mixtures may be substituted for this mixture with less trouble. A smooth, well-sodded lawn can be obtained in two or three years by frequent clipping.

For the average person wishing to beautify a lawn, the suggestion to study carefully lawns laid out and landscaped by experts as well as home-planned lawns is well worth while. Many useful ideas can thus be picked up and applied.

To Co-Ordinate Ideas for City Beautifying

Bringing the most foresighted ideas in city planning and regional planning to focus through the tests of practicability and experience will be the purpose of a newly formed joint committee on the establishment of standards in subdivision planning and subdivision control, which will represent the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the National City Planning conference and the American Institute of City Planning.

Ireneus Shuler of Omaha is chairman of the committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards authorized by the directors of the association to co-operate with similar committees of the planning organizations to make possible unification of effort of the specialist in city planning with the realtor who is actually engaged in the work of city building. The joint commission will study methods of controlling growth of new residential and industrial areas, particularly of areas contiguous to cities but outside their corporate limits.

Have Fixed Plan for City

Greater value may be derived from a plot of ground that is to be developed for building purposes, providing a comprehensive plan is first prepared. The adoption of a limited number of styles of architecture to be employed is the next step to be determined. The village or community idea embodies a comprehensive plan and a protective one. The purchaser of a home in this sort of development is then assured of a house equal or better than his own and, in addition, enjoys the privilege of cementing a closer friendship with his neighbors. Such a home-owner will naturally evidence a keen desire to do his share towards the proper care of his own particular unit in the village. Quaint winding streets or roads, properly shaded with trees and dotted with ornamental lamp standards and sign posts, at once impart an air of distinctiveness to a community. Comparing such an arrangement with the usual stereotyped right-angle intersections of roads found in most communities makes one wonder why the village idea was not developed long ago. Then, too, a great deal of thought and study is required for a proper landscape treatment of a village; this, in itself, is a most important factor in the success or failure of the undertaking.—Philadelphia Ledger.

City Looks to Future

Durham's (N. C.) new source of municipal water supply, situated on the Flat river above the present site will be provided by a modern dam which will impound sufficient water to make the city free of the fear of drought for years to come, even considering the rapid growth of population and industry which will require water far beyond the present amount of supply. In determining to spend liberally for the provision of this fundamental civic equipment, the city has also given much thought to the future and is seeking scientific advice in the acquisition of data, so that when the problems arise the facts will be obtainable upon which to cope with them.

Provide for Soft Water

One of the requirements of houses in suburban villages, particularly those whose source of water supply is an artesian well, is soft water.

Hard water has its uses, and to be frank, they are many, but when the housewife wants to turn out a dainty job on her personal garments, or for the table linen, there is nothing like soft water to do the work. Clothes washed in soft water turn out much whiter and snowier than those washed in hard water.

Happy Musical Knowledge

"Music can, indeed, be a medicine; but we must be our own doctors. Happy the man who, like the dog that is out of sorts and makes straight for the kind of grass that will make him beneficially sick, knows what music to 'take' and when to take it."—Ernest Newman.

State of Transition

Mars Beauty of City

The bent of our towns and cities to ugliness is no doubt an effect resulting from two causes. The first and more important of these causes is the loss of tradition and a consequent blind uncertainty of purpose; the second is the state of transition between one motive and another. Was ever transition beautiful? Never. Shifting standards are productive of a thousand inharmonies. Every one of our cities is a clamorous discord. Even where the old dirt or gravel path between the lilacs and the cinnamon roses remains, its simple beauty is an affliction, because the neighboring concrete walk or motor car track laughs it to scorn. In front of the grave and sweet colonial dwelling, a square two-car garage squats in absolute ferocity on the very edge of the sidewalk. The necessary telephone poles spoil the beauty of the surviving old trees. Everywhere, the effort to do something; everywhere, no doubt, the effort to create something beautiful, or at least something pretty; but nowhere any intelligent concurrence in a plan, nowhere a suggestion of harmony. We have wonderful, splendid business buildings, and between them rows of one or two-story business barracks, with poles, billboards, vacant lots with the rubbish of waste or construction. Things are in the making, and making is disorder.—Boston Transcript.

Septic Tank Makes for Safe Sewage Disposal

In the country, where wells are used, care should be given to a safe disposal of sewage. The introduction of the water system and modern plumbing has brought about a much greater use of water and a consequent question as to the safe disposal of the increased sewage, the New York World says.

The old-fashioned cesspool in a loose soil might be able to take care of a larger amount of sewage, while the pores of the more compact soil are apt to clog with semi-solid matter and require frequent cleaning. It is possible to place a cesspool so that the sewage will not contaminate the water supply, but its continued safety is always open to question.

The improved method of sewage disposal requires a septic tank through which all sewage passes slowly and is then distributed over a suitable area through tile pipe just below the surface of the ground.

This treatment of sewage is highly scientific and costs but little more than the cesspool. The best feature is that it is safe. The septic tank is placed below frost outside, or if necessary in the cellar, the point being that it must not be colder than 50 degrees and pipe line connecting must be able to carry off and dispose of the fluid discharged, and the tank should have capacity enough to insure time for the septic action to take place.

Distinctive Town Styles

The time is not far distant when our countryside will be dotted with villages, each employing a distinctive style of architecture, imparting an atmosphere of foreign lands to the traveler. The designing of buildings for such a village provides large and fascinating fields for the architect, and the problems to be solved have unlimited possibilities.

A successful solution must first preclude monotony that usually is associated in cases where one style of architecture is used. The entire village must be fundamentally a composition of mass and color; the details and variations will follow in the natural course of development. This method of building entails no greater expense than the usual way, but requires a greater amount of study and thought. The results obtained, however, are gratifying and worthwhile.—Exchange.

Building Better Homes

The building industry is perhaps the nation's most accurate index of improved standards of living by the people. It is in the home that one finds expression given to the universal desire of all persons to live more conveniently, comfortably and efficiently. One of the outstanding characteristics of Americans is our spirit of progress. As succeeding generations become better educated and more prosperous, there is fostered a corresponding desire to live in more agreeable and comfortable surroundings. Inventions and innovations are constantly being introduced which raise the standards of convenience and efficiency in the average American home.

Plan to Shift Taxation

Los Angeles will vote on an amendment to the constitution of the state which exempts from taxation $2,000 worth of improvements on land to each individual taxpayer, and exempts all personal property from ordinary taxation. This, it is contended, will shift some of the burden of present taxation from the active business owner to the passive owner of land and speculative profits.

For 1925 there was authorized for extension and improvement of PUBLIC SERVICE electric plant some $30,000,000; for gas plant some $5,000,000; and for transportation facilities an amount almost as large.

That means new buildings, new lines, new mains, new buses, new cars, and many other new facilities the character, size, extent and functioning of which must all be planned in advance down to the minutest details.

The translation of the ideas and determinations of executives and engineers into working drawings from which the construction force obtains the data that enables it to put the carefully thought out plans into effect is the job of The Draughtsman.

There are hundreds of draughtsmen constantly at work putting on paper PUBLIC SERVICE projects for improving service to the people.

FIVE LIBRARY TRUSTEES APPOINTED BY MAYOR

COUNCILMAN CHARLES A. PHILLIPS, JOHN H. NEVILL, JOHN GROOM, FRED L. WOODS AND MRS. HELENE DALRYMPLE ARE THE MEMBERS NAMED

Special Meeting Will Be Held On Monday Night of Next Week to Consider Preliminary Plans and Various Details of Big Project—Other Business of Importance Transacted.

TO GET BUSY ON TRUNK SEWER

At the meeting of the Borough Council held Monday night, Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill appointed five members to serve on the Board of Trustees of the Carteret Free Public Library in accordance with the new State laws under which the library now operates. The matter was taken before the voters at the recent election and approved by a big majority.

Councilman Charles A. Phillips was appointed as member of the board for a term of five years, Building Inspector John H. Nevill, four years; John Groom, three years; Fred L. Woods, two years, and Mrs. Helen Dalrymple, one year. The appointments are effective December 1, of this year.

The Board of Education requested in a communication that their account be credited with $30,000. This was authorized. Borough Clerk H. V. Platt was directed to write again to the Public Service Railway Company regarding the erection of waiting rooms at the trolley terminals in Chrome and East Rahway.

Councilman Frank Andres urged quick action on Noe's Creek trunk sewer. He said that considerable preliminary work is to be done and no time should be lost in getting the project under way. ## TO INSPECT NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

Commissioners Will Soon Go Over High School Structure Preparatory to General Opening of New Building.

GIVE ASSIGNMENTS

Dr. J. Reason Will Be Medical Inspector at High School—Doctors Messinger and Wantoch to Retain Their Places.

Considerable discussion was held by the members of the Board of Education on Tuesday night in regard to the formal opening of the new high school. Commissioner George A. Dalrymple, appointed last week member of the board to succeed Alfred Nannen, took his seat at the Tuesday session. Mr. Dalrymple presented the required affidavit to the district clerk.

Miss Kathryn E. Donovan resigned from the staff of the night school teachers. Miss Donovan explained that the evening work interferes with her regular day class duties. It was accepted. W. E. Cooper, special insurance agent, submitted to the commissioner various recommendations for the insurance of the schools. The report was referred to the finance committee for further study and advisement at the next session.

The commissioners have decided to print an illustrated souvenir booklet bearing information on the new high school and to be distributed at the formal opening.

The clerk was directed to write to the different contractors and subcontractors to ascertain when the high school structure will be fully completed. Upon receipt of the information, the commissioners will make an inspection trip.

Dr. Samuel Messinger will remain medical inspector of the Nathan Hale and Washington schools. Dr. Joseph Wantoch will look after Columbus and Cleveland schools. Dr. J. Reason was assigned to the high school. Commissioner Theodore Bishop objected to this assignment plan. He thought that the older physicians should be assigned to the high school and Mr. Reason should look after schools now visited either by Dr. Messinger or Dr. Wantoch. The original assignment, however, stands having been carried by a majority vote, which was as follows: Heil, yes; Coughlin, yes; Jeffreys, yes; Schwartz, yes; Dalrymple, yes; Bradford, pass, and Bishop, no.

SARZILLO GETS 6 TO 30 YEARS

Pleads Non Vult to Second Degree Murder Before Justice Kalish at New Brunswick on Monday.

G E T S CLEMENCY

Judicial Clemency is Granted Local Italian Who Shot and Killed Port Reading Man Last August.

Antonio Sarzillo, fifty-two years old, of Louis street, this borough, prominent in various civic and Italian circles, was sentenced to a term of from six to thirty years in state prison at New Brunswick on Monday by Supreme Court Justice Samuel Kalish. Sarzillo was indicted on a charge of first degree murder for having shot and killed Frank Yocdeic, proprietor of the Woodbridge Inn at Port Reading on Sunday evening, August 2.

The trial of Sarzillo was scheduled to go on Monday morning. Everything was in readiness, when Edmund A. Hayes, counsel for the defendant announced that his client will enter a plea of non-vult to second degree murder. Non-vult means placing oneself at the mercy of the court.

Hayes described to the court that Sarzillo was an industrious worker, that he has been in this country for over thirty years, that for the last twenty years has been engineer in New York, that he bore a good reputation. He said that Sarzillo's troubles started in June, when his wife left him and took their little girl with her. She then became infatuated with Yocdeic, the court was told. On top of it, Sarzillo received three black mail letters, warning him, that if he would try to get back his wife he would feel the consequences.

Assistant Prosecutor John E. Toolan, advised the court to accept the plea. He too, spoke favorably for Sarzillo and substantiated the remarks made by Mr. Hayes. He pleaded for judicial clemency.

Justice Kalish before issuing sentence said that in view of the remarks brought out, he should receive clemency.

Mrs. Sarzillo and the daughter were in court when the sentence was pronounced. They wept bitterly when Sarzillo was led to state's prison to begin serving his sentence.

Chamber of Commerce to Call General Meeting

The Chamber of Commerce of which former Mayor, Joseph A. Hermann, is president, is preparing to call a general meeting to arouse more enthusiasm in the borough to ask that plans now being worked out by the New York officials regarding the proposed subway through Staten Island to include Carteret as a point of stoppage. "Only through united action can this be accomplished," declared Attorney Maxwell Sosin, who is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The people are just beginning to realize the future of our borough and only by organization of the residents, business men and factory officials can big things be done here," said Mr. Sosin, to a News reporter.

A definite date of the meeting will be announced in a few days. Many new applications for membership are fast coming in.

Drives Auto Into Pole

Blinded by glaring lights of a car which came from the opposite direction, Frank Babouski, of Elizabeth, drove his machine into a ditch and then into a pole Sunday night. The top of the car was torn. The driver was not hurt.

The house was beautifully decorated in pink and blue. The couple received many beautiful and useful gifts. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a Cameo ring and the groom's gift to the best man was a combination pen and pencil.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cortelyou will reside at 45 Linden avenue, Westerly Port Richmond.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM ST. MARYS

Blue and White Eleven Smothers South Amboys by 10-0 Score Here Saturday — Play Title Game Today.

The St. Mary's High School football team was entertained here last Saturday in a fast contest at Brady's Field by the Carteret High School gridgers and left our precincts smarting with the sting of a 10-0 defeat. The local team fought hard throughout the battle and proved far superior to their South Amboy rivals, who never had a look in the game.

The first score of the melee came in the third period after the two teams had fought in a deadlock during the first half. Herman, who captained the team in this contest, kicked a field goal from placement to give the locals their first score. In the final quarter Armour blocked a punt and fell on the ball for a touchdown. Herman also made the additional point from placement.

Carteret had good teamwork, but there were some shining lights. The two ends, Lynch and Ellis, played a sterling game at their positions. Nadel performed in great style at tackle, being a big factor in checking the visitors' attack, and Joe Sexton, Lehrer, Herman, and Armour also played well. Sam Rosenblum continued his good playing which featured the Millburn victory a week ago.

The locals will play the Metuchen High School machine at Brady's this afternoon in a game which will decide the Middlesex County championship. Metuchen has a strong team and Carteret is expected to encounter very stiff opposition. Joe Sexton was selected to captain the local team during the remainder of the season.

Coroner's an Old Office

The word coroner is from the Latin "corona," a crown, and it implies that a coroner represents the sovereign in the performance of the duties of his office. There were coroners in 1275, but it is not known what their duties were. The office of coroner as it exists today was created by British act of parliament in 1276.

The Steam Shovel Operator

The breaking down of electric or gas service in a community like this would be a calamity affecting thousands of homes and hundreds of industries.

To prevent such an occurrence Public Service Electric and Gas Company keeps in storage at its various electric and gas plants more than a quarter million tons of coal, and The Steam Shovel Operator is kept busy caring for it.

He puts in the piles where it is stored, and when it is needed for the always hungry boilers he loads into cars for transportation to the unloading pits from which the conveyors carry it to the coal bunkers.

The maintenance of continuous service depends, of course, upon a number of factors, but none is more important than coal supply, which it is the job of The Steam Shovel Operator to handle.

OUR BLESSINGS; ART OF BEING THANKFUL

Time to Take Stock of the Good Things in Life.

FEW of us, I suppose, often stop to analyze the things which touch us most or mean most to us. Our greatest blessings, perhaps, we sometimes try most to avoid.

If today we should each take stock of the personal blessings for which we should thank the good Lord, what would they be? Not the same for all of us, perhaps, and yet for most of us very largely the same.

For myself I am most thankful for work—for the necessity and the opportunity of regularly doing something; for the joy of the weariness that comes from mental or physical toil. One of the saddest objects in the world is a man who does not like to work, who cannot work, or who has no work to do.

Just the other day I had a letter from a young fellow who through misfortune and illness has for three years been unable to work. "Will you not pray with me," he wrote, "that I may soon be strong again, for it will be the happiest day of my life when I can go to work."

I am thankful next for opportunity. "I never had a chance," a hopeless, shiftless failure said to me only a few days ago. I am glad for my "chance," for the far-reaching daily outlook to learn something new, to do something better, to help someone who is down and to stir someone to greater ambition and greater effort.

I am thankful for health, for the strength and energy that are needed to do the work that presents itself every day, to meet the problems that sometimes seem too difficult to be solved, to accomplish the duties that multiply and crowd upon one and sap one's vitality and try one's courage.

I am thankful for friends, for the joy of home and home ties, for the loving association and help of those with whom I am daily in contact and who every day make work sweeter and life more worth while.

I am thankful for life itself and for all it has meant and for all that it may mean here and hereafter.

And you who read these words will, as you read, perhaps, set down the catalogue of your own individual blessings, which, though they may not be the same as mine, will yet be made more real and more vital because you have turned your thoughts to them.—Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

The Thanksgiving Myth

by Jane Osborn

DORA LOUISE GRAYSON, in spite of caressing brown bobbed hair and starry blue eyes, found herself at twenty-five a full-fledged doctor of medicine, working in the clinic of the Children's hospital.

Somehow, worn, anxious mothers looked at her with so much trust and so much confidence, she wondered how it had all come about. Sometimes she doubted her own powers of endurance to go on.

Talmadge Scott, after several false starts and several years of business, at thirty found himself in possession of his degree of doctor of medicine. He wondered sometimes how it had ever occurred to him that he could possibly be anything else besides a doctor.

For several weeks Doctor Scott had been stopping every day at the Children's hospital to speak to Doctor Grayson, who received her little patients in the room right across the corridor from the small operating room where he worked two hours every morning. In all his life he had never known a woman doctor before; he tried to imagine, but could not conclude, what sort of person she must be.

"Clinic is closed tomorrow," he remarked the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. "I suppose you will have dinner with friends."

"Thanksgiving dinner?" she queried. "I am afraid I don't feel in a very thankful mood. I'm thousands of miles from home. Do you still believe in turkey and cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie?"

"It's a pretty myth," he said. "If Dora had been a keen observer she might have noticed that a look of disappointment passed over Talmadge Scott's face, and if he had been a mind reader he might have been aware of her own disappointment. Not being so gifted they parted with a brief farewell."

Talmadge Scott knew where Dora Grayson lived. All Thanksgiving day he thought of her, in spite of efforts to put her out of his mind. Several times he found excuse to pass her apartment. At half-past six, as he felt for the first time since breakfast the need of food, he again walked by her house. It was then that he was rewarded for all his diligent waiting, for Dr. Dora Louise Grayson just then came out of the door of the apartment house.

"Are you going to dinner?" he asked, and Dora admitted that she was going out in search of something to eat. "But you don't care about the old, traditional Thanksgiving feast?" she queried. "It's funny how people have clung to the tradition."

"Isn't it?" he said, and then, "As we both seem to be going out in search of nourishment, what do you say to combining forces?"

Ten minutes later they were seated opposite each other in a white-tiled eating establishment. Dora had declined Talmadge's invitation to go to a more expensive place.

"A salad is all I want," said Dora. From a tray being borne past them came whiffs of aromatic turkey and stuffing, that somehow made Talmadge's mouth water. Yet he said, looking instantly at Dora, "Yes, a salad and tea. I think that's what I shall have, too."

So they supped together, and somehow as they ate Dora felt a funny sobbing sensation—as of intense homesickness and disappointment, and Talmadge felt a curious sort of melancholy.

After it was over and Talmadge had paid the insignificant check, they went together as far as the corner and there Dora left him.

Thirty minutes later Talmadge

Scott, after some irresolution, entered the restaurant of the Sterling hotel. He allowed the head waiter to lead him in ceremony to a table near a babbling fountain. He was about to order and in search of such delicacies as turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie when he noticed that the girl at the table beside him wore a hat like Dora Grayson's. Why, it was Dora Grayson! And before her there was a small platter of steaming turkey, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce—

They exchanged smiles, and then Talmadge Scott found himself at her table sitting opposite her. Dora blushed with extreme embarrassment.

"You see, I just had to have turkey. It may be a myth—all this business about Thanksgiving—but I like it."

So they feasted leisurely and happily together. Later there were explanations. "I was going to ask you to dine with me," said Talmadge Scott, "but when I began to talk about it you seemed to pool-pooch the idea of Thanksgiving dinners—"

"And I'd made up my mind to ask you to come and have dinner in my little apartment with me. I was so anxious to cook it. But you said something about the Thanksgiving myth, so I didn't."

It was after dinner together that Dora asked Doctor Scott to her little apartment, where they talked before the cheerful glow of the open fire in her living room.

"I've always wondered just why a girl like you studied medicine?" he ventured to begin.

"I've wondered, too," said Dora. "It all seemed so wonderful and so easy in medical college. But now I'm practicing by myself, I wonder, too—"

"It seemed," Talmadge went on, "as if you were the sort of girl—the sort of girl that would want to marry—that just couldn't escape marriage—"

"But I never wanted to marry anyone but a doctor," she began, and then stopped in confusion.

And this gave Talmadge Scott the cue for his first and last proposal.

Not an Ancestor
1925's turkeys are descendants of Aztec fowls, and not the wild species that the Puritans ate, explains a Field museum wizard. So long as our Thanksgiving bird is a descendant and not an ancestor, we shall accept this discovery with equanimity. One year we remember trying to carve an original Aztec eagle, and judging by the nicks it put in the knife, his name was Iztuikatzopotepec.

To the Turk
Some pray, some play, this thanksgiving day. Some even have to work; but come what may, we're here to say: Hats off to the Turk. —Atlanta Constitution

Thanksgiving

By TOM BRADSHAW, in Chicago Herald-Examiner.

JEHOVAH, God of lands and seas, Of winter's winds and summer breeze, Lead ear today while from the ranks Of millions swells a prayer of thanks

For all that hope and faith hath brought, For summits reached, for lessons taught, For life and health and peace and love, Jehovah, harken from above!

Jehovah, God of years untold, Of saint and sinner, youth and old, Give ear today—th' peoples stand With thankful hearts abroad the land,

To give Thee thanks for blessings new That come with ev'ry morning's dew— That follow on till night is nigh, That aid them live and help them die,

That shower on them through th' years, That mingle happiness with tears, That stop not till their race is run, And centuries sing, "Thy will be done!"

When a Penguin Woos
Male penguin, when mating, go from nest to nest in parties, and when one of them sees a hen which takes his fancy, he places a pebble at her feet. If a pebble cannot be found, he goes through the process in dumb show.

Beer 5,000 Years Ago

Reference to the beer tax of B. C. 256 in the new papyrus from Oxyrhynchus, at the British museum, is not the earliest allusion to such beverage. The "Book of the Dead," compiled 5,000 years ago, refers to hek, which resembled ale.

Our Thanksgiving

by Emily Burks Adams

WE HAVE all heard remarks similar to the following: "Well, I don't know what I have to be thankful for! Just think of the money we have lost, and then we seem to give up our dear one. It just seems like our lot is worse than anybody's!"

One, on hearing such, feels like singing, "Look all around you, find some one in need, help somebody today." We thankless creatures! The only thing that occasions such a remark is the fact that we are all blessed with too much. We are all millionaires, if we would but take into account our wonderful opportunities and the grand privileges with which God has endowed us. When one has a feeling that his is a sorrowful plight, he has only to look around to see many in worse circumstances. We are too prone to count money a great asset, and if we do not figure a large bank account on which to draw, or live in a mansion, like unto our neighbor, we are inclined to feel that our blessings are few. Money never made a home. A mansion oftentimes shelters that which falls short of being a home.

What is a home? Home is the abiding place of men, where contentment is, and love abounds. A place where children make you glad; where children play and laughter resounds; where friends may come and take away some kindly thought to help each day.

The one great thing for which we can all be thankful, and it reaches beyond and palace, and is more pronounced than at any period since the days of our Pilgrim fathers—is the great love being manifested by humanity. We have all learned that we cannot exist, one without the other.

Water never rises above the source. The home is the source of civilization, and we have awakened to the fact that the humblest home, the vilest hovel,

"Home is Where Contentment is, and Love Abounds."

have a place in the great scheme of American civilization. Truly we are our brothers' keeper; we cannot live unto ourselves nor can we rise above the source—the nucleus of civilization—the home. All our great leaders have come to this realization. The ministers are advocating social and community service—the government is backing it. The nation has failed to become Christianized from within the four walls of churches, and so on every hand is a cry for social betterment—a call for the best of our talents to be used for the development of boys and girls socially. Back to the home is the slogan, for unless our homes are perfected, our community bettered and our love for humanity strengthened, our nation cannot attain the highest standard.

So for this great move we are thankful, and as we render our thanks to God, let us pledge ourselves anew, realizing more fully our responsibilities to our home, to our community and to God.

A CHEERFUL GUY

I have absolutely nothing to be thankful for. You can be thankful you're not dead, can't you? What! And me carrying a big life insurance.

We're Thankful

We're thankful for Mayflower Pilgrims— Those people of sturdy stock Whose ocean was thirty thousand miles. When counted by the clock.

God's Goodness

God's goodness hath been great to thee. Let never day nor night unhalloved pass. But still remember what the Lord hath done.—Shakespeare.

The Happy Girls

Girls are cheerful things. We evolved this gem of thought by watching three of them—perfectly contented under one umbrella.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Can Tell Coal's Thickness

What About Police Raise

THE voters of the borough at the election held November 3 approved by a big majority the plea of the police officers to increase their wages. Since the matter has been favorably acted upon, the Borough Council, too, should not delay in getting the police raise matter in shape, so that the patrolmen get their raise.

Of course, the proposition did not stipulate when the raise should go into effect. This probably should have been added on the ballot. However, the council has now the right to arrange matters, so that the additional pay is found in the envelopes of the cops, when their next pay day comes along.

The council did well in bringing the trunk sewer to the fore last Monday. It is good work and surely will bring the present administration a fine praise from the people of Carteret. The sooner the creek is eliminated the better the borough will fare.

It Does Not Hurt "Red" Grange as Student That He Is Great in Football

By DAVID KINLEY, President University of Illinois.

ARE there too many student activities? Yes and no. I am one of the people who believe that the very existence of the great number of activities that go to make student social life as apart from their studies is evidence that there is a place for them. One cannot believe that these thousands of young people are spending their time and energy in multiplying activities without getting some benefit. They are in a way living the life that they will live afterward; as members of a community they will be bound to take part in its activities. What are these activities? Are they not in general the same as those that characterize student life?

We people who set ourselves up as the priests and prophets of improvement are constantly telling our "tired business men" that they should have other interests than their business. If it is bad for them to give their whole strength and time to their vocations and it is advisable for them to have avocations, why is not the same thing true in student life? Of course one can overdo the serious work of life just as truly as he can the frivolous phases of life.

It does not hurt "Red" Grange as a student that he is a fine runner and so great a football player. In fact, some of the dash, the spirit, the enthusiasm, the level-headedness, and the vigor that make him a good football man are transferred to his work as a student. He is a student most of the time; a football player part of the time. I believe he does his studying better because of the confidence that he gets in himself from his great football playing.

There Is Now to Be Established a Fifth Estate—the Estate of Science

By ARTHUR D. LITTLE, in Address to Franklin Institute.

There is now to be a Fifth Estate—the Estate of Science. Government, as we now have it, is power without knowledge; science is knowledge without power.

The laboratory is as much God's temple as the church. The guiding principle of the Fifth Estate has been ever one of service. The scientist himself does not reap the benefits of his discovery. It is the world which enjoys the fruits of his toil.

And despite all that can be said to the contrary, brains produce the wealth of the world. Labor is productive only when guided by brains. And should labor be deprived of this guidance its productivity would cease.

If the influence of brains and the tutelary effect of the scientific method were removed from the world for a generation, the earth would relapse into barbarism.

When You Are As Safe on a High Mountain Peak as Anywhere Else

By CARL BLAUROCK, Colorado Mountain Club.

Yes, there is danger in mountain climbing. But there is that in walking on a city street. What is more important, you are your own danger in the mountains. There are no other people except those of your party to reckon with. If you know them you feel safe. On a crowded street the other fellow is your danger and you don't know him. The worst danger of all in mountain climbing is the tenderfoot. I recall one occasion when I had to tell a rattle-headed novice that if he did not put himself absolutely in our hands for the rest of the trip and do what we directed he would have to take the back trail at once. Just so long as you keep your head, do not get rattled, and do not have some greenhorn to contend with, you are as safe on a mountain as anywhere. You never get in a tight place that you cannot figure your way out of, if you have time and keep your head.

"Such a Heaven Is Unthinkable. My Happiness Is in Pleasurable Activity"

By DR. C. W. ELIOT, President Emeritus Harvard University.

The usual conception of heaven to the dying man is a place of refuge from pain, of rest from monotonous drudgery. To me such a heaven is unthinkable. My greatest happiness is in pleasurable activity. Joy in work is my ideal of existence, here or hereafter. An existence of idleness, of relief from work, would be wholly unbearable.

Institutional Christianity has condemned a portion of humanity to torments. The new religion will make no such pretension and will teach no such horrible and perverse doctrines. But sentiments of love and beauty and reverence will remain and increase.

The new religionist will not worship his ancestors, but will feel his indebtedness to preceding generations. The new religion will have saints, but canonization will be based on grounds somewhat new. It will teach such authority as will develop co-operative good-will

WHAT THANKSGIVING SHOULD MEAN TO US

Pilgrim Men and Women at Plymouth Set Example.

THANKSGIVING is a day unique in the list of holidays—not perhaps, so unique in its conception as in the meaning which the day has come to have. We think of it as a day of getting together. The dinner is its symbol. Faith in the goodness of God and a reverent and formal prayer of thanksgiving for His bounty is its avowed purpose.

But its greatest profit to us may come from the thoughts it invokes of that little band of hardy men and women who knew what it meant to face hunger; to know hunger and stick to an appointed task. That task happened to be the opening up of that new land which was destined to provide so bountifully for you and me who have inherited it.

They were sticklers—those from whom this heritage has come down. Hardly? Yes; but with a ruggedness that was not alone a physical attribute. They experienced the primal lessons: want, fear, and the need of strife. But they stuck. And they won. That first Thanksgiving day was for them a solemn rite. If they—that band of Pilgrim men and women—could feel so honestly thankful for God's bounty as it was measured out to them at Plymouth in 1621, what one of us in this day and generation but needs be ashamed to feel less. It was a solemn occasion, but how could they else but be happy? Let us be happy on this Thanksgiving day. But, too, let us not forget.—Frank H. Sweet.

Thanksgiving Praise

Alone, dear Lord, of all my nights and days,
I cannot sing Thy goodness, far too vast
For my weak utterance. Let me humbly cast
Upon the sweep of universal praise
My single tribute; let the morning raise
My anthems for me; let the storied past,
In varied hallelujahs nobly massed,
Exalt the infinite story of Thy ways,
Where'er the blossoms glad in loveliness
Reflect Thy beauty, or the bird's bright song
Has holy skill the Father's love to bless,
Or where the shining stars through ages long
The soul of worship silently express,
Grant me a lowly place in that thanksgiving throng.
—Anne R. Wells, In the Continent.

RECOUNT BLESSINGS AND RETURN THANKS

Well for Nation to Be Reminded of God's Gifts.

THERE is no more important day in our national calendar than that on which we are called upon by our national and state executives to assemble in our accustomed places of worship to render devout thanksgiving to God for our blessings, both collective and individual.

It is well for our entire nation thus emphatically to be reminded of its dependence on God and of its obligation to Him.

It is well for us both as individuals and as a people thus seriously to take account of our blessings and thus formally and ultimately to express our gratitude.

For we are entirely too much inclined to magnify the ills we suffer, the difficulties we encounter, and the disappointments which befall us that we lose sight of the things which, if received and used in the right way, enrich and ennoble our lives. One need not make a very diligent search in order to discover a vast number of things in this favored land of ours which call for thanksgiving. Nor does it require much further investigation to make clear that the ills which afflict us most deeply are due, not to any failure of divine beneficence, but to our own sins and follies. And what is true in this regard of the nation is true also in large measure of each individual. Our only unbearable troubles are those which we bring upon ourselves through our disregard of the laws of God. So long as we remain in vital union with Him, the real values of life are still left us, whatever sorrows may overtake us. The occasion which bids us recall our mercies may also be an occasion of repentance. For it not infrequently serves to remind us of blessings squandered and opportunities neglected. It is well to express in words our appreciation of the good gifts that come down from the Father of light, but such expression becomes mere mockery if we use these gifts unworthily. It will be well, therefore, if we make Thanksgiving day a time of heart-searching. Are we as individuals as a people, seeking to render service to our fellows that is proportionate to our advantages and opportunities? Or are we dishonoring the God whom we praise with our lips by living in Pharisaic self-complacency and selfish disregard of the needs of our less fortunate brothers and sisters? Rightly observed, Thanksgiving day might mark the beginning of a revival that would revitalize the church and purify our national life.—Sunday School Magazine.

A Stolen Thanksgiving

Stella G.S. Perry

ANNOY ran in, her arms full of brown November leaves, the last that had clung to the little oak tree on the lawn.

"The'll look perfectly ducky with tawny autumnal and a bit of evergreen," she said. "A small yellow pumpkin and some rosy berries and a little red and white ribbon will make it a lovely centerpiece for the table."

"Nancy says to her sister, who had not turned out of the window at the fall leaves scattering across the lawn. "What's the matter, Nancy?"

"Jane turned then briskly, her face flushed with the effort to hold back tears. "I don't see how you can fool yourself, say, Nancy."

"Thanksgiving! Oh, I guess you're thankful for the general theory that you ought to be glad to be alive. But I confess I can't see any reason for making a holiday about it this year."

Nancy laughed. "I read your history book, Miss Schoolmarm. Thanksgiving is not just a holiday for celebrating the goodness of the Lord—our family, but just the amount we're able to do for ourselves."

"Jane called in spite of herself. "Well, we've part of the turkey and cranberry sauce, but the little crowd, she said tenderly to the new signs of tears on her sister's cheek. "But I suppose you're right. We can go through the motions of having a regular home, anyway."

"This house is regular enough, whatever else it is," said Nancy with her ready laugh. "I believe Aunt Janet would get so sick if there were more chairs on one side of a room than the other."

There was indeed, little in common between Miss Janet Laidlaw, head mistress of the Vista Avenue School for Girls, and her two nieces and assistants, Nan and Jane had been "half-educated all over the world," as their aunt said sarcastically, by their artist father. When he died—insolvent, of course, Miss Platte commented—she had felt it her duty to provide for them. Besides their knowledge of languages and art, she thought, might be valuable to her school, even though they knew little else. The rigid, old-fashioned school for girls had developed so far that cheap teachers were a consideration.

Her niece, staggered by the death of their merry, wonderful father, with debts to their inheritance and just enough knowledge of life to realize that it would be hard for two young ladies who knew everything in general and nothing in particular to find employment, had welcomed the offer—at first. They had come from their gilded life to this grim, grim school in the hills.

"The worst of it is that Aunt Janet's as sorry as we are that she asked us. "We're here for a success, Nan," Jane sighed. "Heigho! Anyway, they'll be away over Thanksgiving, even Aunt Janet, and we'll have each other alone. You're not listening, Nan?"

Nan's eyes were shining. "A regular home," she was repeating. "Jane, let's have one just for a day, even if we have to steal it. Are you spunky enough?" She pointed dramatically out of the window toward a wooden shed and a weathervane on the beach trees.

"The Golden Glade cottage. Why—what?"

"Nan! Nobody's lived in that building there in a long time. There's some furniture, books, and books and pictures in an open packing case. I went in with old Mary the day she died, and she showed me every room. Aunt Janet, there are cushions in a corner and a cast-iron stove and a table just like father's. And—pardon me, please, I've used to have Jane, you'll say?"

"Will you send away the servants for ever Thanksgiving and let us go over there and fix it all up, just like a real home? For Thanksgiving. Just in the studio home again, because for that's what it is. Belongs to an artist. I know where Mary kept the key. Nobody passes down that place. Jane dear! Please!"

"The artist! It isn't very respectable conduct, Nan. But—"

"Nancy rushed her sister into action. The servants dismissed, the conspirators stole into the pretty cottage, nestled in the wild back road where no one passed. Soon they were busy arranging their home-for-a-day. Nancy hung the pictures on their old hooks in the wall—pleasant, quaint pictures with personality—she said, while Jane set the comfortable well-worn books on the shelves.

Next day, Thanksgiving Day, they took possession. The Laidlaw candlesticks with their yellow candles, the pumpkins, fruit and autumn decorations graced the green-stained table. Dinner was keeping warm on the little stove, and the pretty peasant dishes were waiting to receive it.

"It's trespass or housebreaking or some crime," Jane laughed. "But it's what I want for!"

"Anything's allowable for self-protection," Nan replied. "Besides, we're going to pay everything back." She sighed. "It's just the matter of if my father would have done it. It's always a sharp rap at the door."

"They opened it to face an elderly man, who was just trying to himself, aloud. "There is someone here."

"Are you the owner of this cottage?" Nan began immediately.

"The visitor seemed amazed at the question. "No," he answered, laughing. "One would naturally suppose that you were the owners." Confused, embarrassed, Nancy blurted out, "Oh, no! It isn't ours. We stole it—for Thanksgiving. Won't you come in?"

"You did what?"

"We borrowed it. We don't know whose it is. Won't you come in?" And he entered, his eyes twinkling at the adventure.

"My name is John McAndrew," he introduced himself. After a moment's startled scrutiny, the girls threw themselves upon him, crying out together: "James McAndrew! Our Jimmy Mac! Oh, we're Nancy and Jane Laidlaw grown up! Don't you remember? In home when we were little."

"John Laidlaw's name! Do I remember?" He put his arms about them. They drew him into the easy chair beside the old fireplace and told him their story. "But how did you come here today?" they asked him. "I was passing by and felt I had to turn in here to see the old place where John Laidlaw and I used to live and paint when we were kids."

"Father once lived here?"

"When we were kids, he repeated. "I felt it," Nancy whispered. "After dinner as the twilight and the yellow candles were dying, James McAndrew said: 'Do you see why we met here today? I think John Laidlaw brought us.'"

"He always said father's being gifts to the darling," said Jane. "I would never do, then, to disregard the fairy gifts," he said. "So from now on, shall we not stay together, the three of us? I'm getting on and I'm alone. And Johnny Laidlaw sent me to his father. Sent me to them, because—listen the wild heart of him!—they're like he was and stole a Thanksgiving."

All Good Furniture Polishers Use Hands The kid brother of a major league recruit was very proud of big brother and lost no opportunity to tell his acquaintance that Brother Bill was now a big league player. Bill happened to be present on one of these occasions and discreetly exclaimed: "Big league ball player! But! All I am is a furniture polisher. I never get any chance to play ball."

Bill's father, hearing the remark, corrected his son, saying: "Well, I dunno, Bill; maybe you are a furniture polisher, but all the good furniture polishers I know do their job with their hands."

IT WAS A DEAD HEAT

By ALFRED L. HUTCHINSON

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

MISS LILLIAN TOMPKINS was in a most embarrassing position. Many a fair lassie has two strings to her bow, but it is rarely that a maiden has two beaux of equal importance to her heart strings. That was what troubled Miss Tompkins.

Tom and Jerry, as her rival lovers were known, were equally acceptable to her, but reason as she would, she found herself unable to make a choice.

Stranger still, the rivals remained the best of friends. I was left to Miss Lillian herself to suggest a way out of the three-cornered dilemma. It proved a most perplexing problem for her to solve, but she gave each an equal chance.

"On the first day of June I shall be at my uncle's farm in Idyl Wyld, which, as you both know, is about one hundred and twenty miles distant. You shall each start from my home here at precisely ten o'clock on the morning of that day. The one who reaches me first prepared to have the marriage ceremony performed shall be my choice."

Such was the decree of Miss Lillian, and the two lovers agreed to respect it.

A few minutes before ten o'clock on the eventful day the rivals met in front of the home of Miss Tompkins. Like two gladiators entering the arena they shook hands and then, at the stroke of the town clock, each mounted his bicycle and cut loose for the courthouse. It had been stipulated in Lillian's decree that a marriage license should not be applied for until after the race had begun, and as each arrived at the courthouse the same moment they drew cuts to see which should be served first. Luck was with Jerry, who lost no time in making known his mission.

"I want a marriage license, Mr. Clerk, please."

The blank which the official handed him was hurriedly filled out, signed, and returned with the proper fee.

"You need a witness to this application, some one who knows you," directed the clerk.

"Here, Tom, just witness this," demanded Jerry of his friend, who stood near waiting his turn.

Tom complied with the request, the license was issued and Jerry made way instantly.

"I want a license, too," demanded Tom, who duly made out his application and returned it to the clerk.

"You also need a witness," said the latter, without examining the document.

Tom looked about for Jerry, but he was already out of sight. In the meantime the clerk had read the application and, noting that the bride was the same in each, continued, "Never mind; a witness won't do you any good. I can't issue a license."

"Why not?" questioned Tom in astonishment.

"You have applied for a license to wed Miss Lillian Tompkins, and I have just issued a license for the marriage of the same lady to another man."

"What difference does that make?" queried Tom, impatiently.

"It makes this difference. The laws of this country do not permit a woman to have two husbands at the same time."

"True," exclaimed Tom, "but the laws of this country do not prohibit you from issuing a license to one hundred men to marry the same woman at the same time."

"Here," eagerly seizing the arm of a legal friend who had just entered, "is my witness and I want the license as applied for, and I want it quick. You are wasting my very valuable time."

"How is it, Mr. Lawyer?" asked the clerk.

"Tom is right. It is your duty to issue a license properly applied for."

Upon this advice the application was witnessed, the license issued and delivered, but the parley of the clerk had given Jerry a full ten minutes' start. Nevertheless, Tom laughed in his sleeve as he placed the document in his pocket.

There had come to the city a short time previously a professional aviator, who gave public exhibitions in his up-to-date flying machine.

"Will the birdman agree to make a flight to Idyl Wyld with me as a passenger?"

This was the happy question that had suggested itself to Jerry during his anxious planning how he might outwit his rival.

"For five hundred dollars cash," said the professor, without a moment's hesitation, "I will land you at Idyl Wyld, alive or dead, between sunrise and sunset on the first day of June."

Equally quick came Jerry's response. "The figure you name proves that you are a high flyer, but the prize I am after is worth it."

An agreement was accordingly drawn up, duly signed by both parties, and after Jerry had cautioned the aviator that "mum" was the word, he proceeded to purchase a wedding ring, and calmly await the day.

Minds of lovers, like those of great men, frequently run in the same groove.

On the afternoon of the very day that Jerry had arranged for his journey by air line, the aviator was visited by Tom.

"How much to land me at Idyl Wyld on June first and keep the agreement strictly secret?"

"Five hundred dollars cash, and I'll keep mum as an oyster."

With the agreement duly signed in his pocket, he felt so sure of success that he, too, proceeded to a jeweler's where he made a "confidential" purchase. As a matter of fact he also felt just a little pity for Jerry.

All this happened in the last week of May, which gave the professor ample time for a trial flying trip to Idyl

Wyld to select a suitable place for landing his valuable cargo as per contract.

When Jerry arrived at the professor's headquarters with his marriage license in his pocket, he was laughing in his sleeve at the march he had stolen on his rival. He had already won first chance for a license, and now he felt so sure of winning Lillian that he almost pitied Tom.

The aviator greeted him cordially, but wasn't quite ready to start. Something about one of the wings wasn't just right, he explained, and he was giving it the necessary attention.

Five long minutes passed, and his passenger was growing impatient. "It is better to start right than to have a breakdown and perhaps a broken neck," said the aviator.

Three minutes more, and still the professor wasn't ready. Suddenly a streak of dust was seen to rise far down the street, and the next moment Tom came into view. With his head bowed low, pedaling for dear life, he didn't notice that another passenger was waiting.

Tongue-tied, the astonished rivals stood gazing at each other for a full minute. "What a fool I was not to make it a condition that there should be no other passenger," was the unspoken thought that flashed through the mind of each.

It was Tom who first found voice: "No use, old boy, you can't lose me."

Jerry's reply was cut off by the "all aboard," from the professor. Motioning Tom to a seat at his right and Jerry to one at his left, he took his own place while his assistants gave the machine a start. They were quickly in the air, and soon headed toward Idyl Wyld, speeding at the rate of a mile a minute over villages, fields, and forest. The day was perfect, the air still, the flight most successful, but not a word was spoken.

Shortly after noon, while Miss Lillian was engaged in gathering a bouquet in her uncle's garden, she was startled by a strange, loud whirring noise overhead. Looking upward she almost doubted her eyes as she beheld a descending airplane carrying three men, rapidly passing over the house. Hastening to the piazza to get a better view, she saw the machine coming lower and lower and alight in a pasture about a quarter of a mile distant.

The next instant all was clear to her, as she recognized her lovers, as they came sprinting "cross lots" towards her. Ignoring the public road, on which the pasture and house fronted, the rivals chose a short cut in their efforts to be first at the goal. As Lillian, with throbbing heart, stood watching the mad race over a newly plowed field through barbed wire fences, and over a rocky stream, her astonishment gave way to a loud burst of laughter, and when, a few moments later, the breathless lovers appeared, neck and neck, before her, each tendering his license, they resembled a pair of football stars, emerging from a scrimmage, rather than nattyly attired would-be grooms. Quickly gaining her composure, she announced her decision:

"It is a dead heat."

"But," she continued, "you are in time for dinner, which will be served at two o'clock. This will give you time to brush up a bit, and my uncle, here, to whom I take pleasure in introducing you, will be glad to look after your immediate wants."

Miss Lillian returned to the piazza, where presently she was confronted by the professor, who had wisely chosen the road.

"I called to inquire," said he, "if either or both of your visitors desire to make the return trip with me. They engaged me merely to bring them here and left me so hurriedly that I had no opportunity of asking them if they wished me to carry them back."

Miss Lillian was impressed with the young man's fine face and courteous bearing, and when, after a brief chat, he laughingly asked her if she would like to take a little spin in the air just as an appetizer for dinner, she accepted without a moment's hesitation. Proceeding to the pasture lot the pair were soon soaring cloudward, a number of ruralists, whose curiosity had attracted them to the strange machine, having given them the necessary send-off.

Overcome by the fascination of the novel experience, it was some time before Miss Lillian found words to express her delight. The conditions were ideal for an exhibition flight, and the professor quickly proved himself an adept in aerial gymnastics as well as a most agreeable fellow traveler. It took but a few questions to develop the fact that both had mutual friends at the colleges which they had attended. And they had not been amid the clouds half an hour when Miss Lillian found to her joy—that thousands have found too late—that the girl who cannot decide between two suitors loves neither of them well enough to become his wife.

She married the bird-man. The rival lovers?

Very generously the professor consented to carry them back to the city that afternoon, without money and without price, as he put it.

The Simple Life

I have thought, when walking in the woods through a certain retired dell, bordered with scrub oaks and pines, far from the village and affording a glimpse only through an opening of the mountains in the horizon, how my life might pass there, simple and true and natural, and how many things would be impossible to be done there. How many books I might not read!—Thoreau.

Work for Success

Too many people live as though they expected fortune to smile on them year after year, and fall to court fortune as they should. They seem not to appreciate that good luck results from pluck. "Heaven helps those who help themselves,"—Grit.

Deductive Reasoning

"I wonder who invented the radio?" asked Bobby. It was a deep question for Benny to answer, but he is the kind of boy who believes in taking a shot at anything. He doesn't believe in ever admitting that he is stumped so he replied promptly: "I don't remember his name exactly, but it was some guy who had to come in early."

His Shirts Not Too Clean

The owner of a wireless installation was annoyed by the behavior of some boys of the neighborhood who disconnected his aerial. He wrote indignantly to the teacher of the school the culprits attended to complain of their conduct and to demand their punishment. "I would prosecute them," he wrote, "only I haven't got a license for my wireless."

A THANKSGIVING

—by W. H. PIERCE

WE THANK thee, thou Most High, for youth,
For, though 'tis fleeting, yet forsooth
'Tis filled with freshness and with hope,
And all unfathomed is the scope
Of pain, of sorrow, or of sin,
And sordid cares ne'er enter in
The bright young years, and naught is seen
Save through the rosy, golden sheen
That shimmers in the summer sun.
Hope wins the race before 'tis run,
And knows, though skies may weep today,
The morrow's sun will drive away
All clouds. And so we say, in truth,
We thank thee, thou Most High, for youth.

WE GIVE thee, Master, thanks for age—
The whitened hair that marks the gauge
Placed on our brows by passing years
Tells us our weary journey nears
Its ending, and our backward glance
Is keen and searching, lest perchance
Some stumbling-block of ours be placed Athwart the path some soul has traced;
The morrow—that is left with thee,
For we have learned humility;
We know ourselves; this lesson taught By hard experience, has brought
The weary sojourner his wage.
We give thee, Master, thanks for age.

WE GIVE thee, Father, thanks for death.
Relying on thy word, which saith
"I am thy way," we take thy hand,
And, by thy side, just waiting, stand Ready the little step to take
'Tween Here and There; to sleep, to wake,
To live again, and so to learn
The lessons from which now we turn
As deep and far beyond our ken,
We blind, unseeing sons of men;
We do not hear, we cannot see
And, helpless, can but turn to thee,
O, Father, and with trembling breath,
We thank thee most of all for death.

TURKEY you are strutting

Your wattles change in hues as

Your puffed-up pride we would not censure hard
If you could but your ugly feet discard.
We're not impressed at all; your Seem like the ghostly rumbles from

A BOY'S OPINION of THANKSGIVING

by Mary Graham Bonner

WHEN I go out to parties
I never eat all I can,
Yet they say that I must grow
So I'll become a strong man.

When I go out to dinner
I have to be too polite
Yet if I don't grow a lot
I'll be a miserable sight.

Thanksgiving of 1714 Made Matter of Record

The following account of a Thanksgiving dinner held in Danvers, Ill., in 1714, from the pen of Rev. Lawrence Comant, has been handed down to posterity:

"When ye services at ye meeting house were ended ye council and other dignitaries were entertained at ye house of Mr. Epes on ye hill near by, we had a bountiful Thanksgiving dinner of bear's meate and venison, the last of which was from a fine buck shot in the woods nearby. After ye blessing was craved by Mr. Garrich word was brought that ye buck was shot on ye Lord's day by Pequot, an Indian, who came to Mr. Epes with a lye in his mouthe like Ananias of old. Ye council therefore refused to eat ye venison, but it was afterward decided that Pequot should receive 40 stripes save one for lying and pro-faning ye Lord's day, restore Mr.
Epes ye coste of ye deer, and considering this a just and righteous sentence on ye sinful heathen and since ye blessing had been craved on ye meate, ye council all partook of it, but Mr. Shepard whose conscience was tender."

Improving Transit Service

What Is Being Done and What Should Be Done
To Provide An Adequate Transportation System for New Jersey People

TO KEEP THE FIVE CENT FARE

Municipalities served by Public Service Railway Company are among the comparatively few in the United States in which the Five Cent Fare is still effective. For the 272 cities of 25,000 or more population the average rate is 7.56 cents. For the group each of which has a population of 50,000 or more, New York City excepted, the average rate is 7.31 cents.

And New York is excepted because its taxpayers are contributing more than $10,000,000 a year to the cost of service!

The Five Cent Fare in New Jersey municipalities is a distinct advantage not only to the car rider but to merchants, manufacturers, business people and home owners.

Five Cents should, if possible, be retained as the Fare Base.

It has been possible so far because the company has to the full extent of its power reduced waste, practised economy and increased efficiency during a period in which the company has foregone that "fair return" to which in law and equity it is entitled.

It will be possible in the future only if the same methods of efficiency and economy are extended through the entire field of local transportation.

Useless duplication of service must be eliminated, injurious and unnecessary competition done away with, traffic regulated so as to speed up operation, and the unfair burden of paving charges removed from the shoulders of the car rider.

Hope for the retention of the Five Cent Fare and the extension of transit facilities to meet public needs rests upon the accomplishment of these things and upon a unified system of cars and buses under a single management.

HIGH SCHOOL IS NOW READY FOR OCCUPANCY

William Misdom is Appointed Janitor of New High School—John Olbricht Fails to Accept Position.

SCHOOL SESSIONS THERE SOON

The Board of Education at its special meeting on Tuesday night, devoted considerable time discussing the plans for the opening of the new high school. President Edward J. Heil was informed that within a few days all the fixtures will be installed in the classrooms, so that the commissioners can set a definite date for the inspection of the handsome structure. Architect George Brooks advised the board that as soon as everything is set, an inspector of the State Board will be notified to pass his ok on the building. This is conforming with the requirements of the state board.

All doubts as to whether the auditorium of the new high school will be ready December 2 when the Carteret Fire Company No. 2 holds its concert, have been cleared. The commissioners were informed that men are busy installing in the seats in the auditorium, surely to be ready for use before that date. The board authorized the purchase of a curtain for the auditorium, same to be ready for next Wednesday.

Francis Monaghan, attorney of the board, explained to the commissioners various phases of the collective insurance plan, now being considered in connection with insuring the schools.

John S. Olbricht, engineer of Fire Company No. 2, thanked the Board of Education for appointing him as custodian of the high school, but was sorry that he could not accept the position since he would relinquish years of service as fireman. On motion of Commissioner Robert Jeffreys William Misdom was appointed janitor with a salary of $200 a month.

Commissioners William V. Coughlin, Isadore Schwartz and Frank

Brown were appointed as a committee to determine a rental for the use of the new high school auditorium. Commenting on the rental, President Heil said that the board does not wish to make a heavy charge, but it would be no more than fair to assess the users a sum that will cover all expenses.

Commissioners Alex. Lebowitz, Brown and Swartz will confer with the medical inspectors of the borough and adjust a plan for covering the schools. President Heil, in appointing the committee, said that each physician should have an equal number of pupils to look after.

Miss B. V. Hermann, supervising principal, advised the board that the evening classes show a fine enrollment. There are 132 students in the regular classes and sixty students in the classes for foreign born. Mrs. Margaret Lloyd and Miss Helen Bosworth were appointed teachers for night classes.

Permission was granted to the Carteret Parent-Teacher Association to use the Columbus school for a rehearsal in accordance with a letter sent by Mrs. C. H. Byrne, president.

Hermann Brothers notified the board that sidewalks are being laid on Washington avenue and the fence at the playground would have to be moved. This will be complied with. District Clerk Coughlin was delegated to attend the December meeting of the State Federation of District Boards to be held at Trenton December 4.

In a petition signed by the teachers of the public schools the board was requested to grant them a fifteen day sick leave annually. This was referred to the teachers' committee for further consideration.

Treasury Department Will Purchase Bonds

According to an announcement made public today the Treasury will purchase $50,000,000, or thereabouts, of Third Liberty Loan 4 1/2 per cent Bonds of 1928, at the lowest prices offered, if at or below the price of 101 1/2 and accrued interest. In announcing this purchase Secretary Mellon made the following statement:

"From time to time the Treasury makes purchases for the Cumulative Sinking Fund on the market or through brokers. It is proposed to determine the feasibility of making such purchases, in part at least, directly from the holders and thus to give all holders Third Liberty Loan Bonds the opportunity to sell with the understanding that the lowest offers may be accepted within the limits stated below. This procedure will save commission charges to the sellers and to the Treasury.

"The Treasury now solicits from all holders of Third Liberty Loan Bonds proposals to sell these bonds. From the lowest proposals received the Treasury expects to purchase Third Liberty Loan Bonds to an aggregate amount of $50,000,000, or thereabouts, if offered below or at 101 1/2 and accrued interest. All proposals should be handled through a bank or trust company, who will deal with the Federal Reserve Banks, which are the official agencies for the Treasury in these transactions. Proposals must be received by a Federal Reserve Bank not later than December 10, 1925. Payments for the bonds accepted will be made of December 29, 1925.

The Treasury reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

Any additional information desired can be obtained from Mr. Kenyon of the Carteret Trust Company.

Band Concert Here Next Wednesday

A large attendance is expected at the concert which will be held in the auditorium of the new high school next Wednesday night under the auspices of the Carteret Fire Company No. 2. The Metropolitan Military Band will play many interesting selections. Miss Grace White, soprano, will be the soloist.

MONAGHAN FOR COUNTY BERTH

Local Attorney Is Being Boosted by Democratic Leaders for the Office of Assistant Prosecutor.

IS ENDORSED HERE

Reports Say That the Leaders Throughout Are in Favor of the Candidate—His Nomination Seems Sure.

Francis A. Monaghan, attorney of this borough, will most likely be the next assistant prosecutor of Middlesex county, according to newspaper reports throughout the county this week. Mr. Monaghan, according to the reports, is being boosted for the office by various Democratic leaders of the county, headed by Former Mayor Joseph A. Hermann, who started to boom the local man.

Mr. Hermann admitted that he is working in behalf of Mr. Monaghan and further that he is seeking the full support of other leaders to put Mr. Monaghan across for this important office. He says that the Carteret lawyer is a most able man and the logical man to get the post. Mr. Hermann declares that Mr. Monaghan has been working ardently for the Democratic party for a number of years and he deserves recognition at this time.

Mr. Monaghan is now counsel for the Board of Education and formerly was counsel for the Board of Health. He is also counsel for the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association Firemen's Relief Association, Exempt Firemen's Association, Carteret Building Loan Association and a number of others. He is a director of the First National Bank here and also counsel for the banking institution.

From general indications it appears that Mr. Monaghan will get the position.

JERVIS NEVILL TELLS OF RESCUE

Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nevill Describes Experiences When Clyde Liner "Lepane" Went Aflame Last Week.

WAS A PASSENGER

Jervis Went This Time to Florida With His Wife By Train—Had to Come Home for More Clothing.

While fire was taking its toll in dollars through the destruction of the LLenape, the liner of the Clyde Company, on its way to Florida, the courage and heroism of the men and women aboard was related here this week-end by Jervis Nevill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nevill. Young Nevill was one of the passengers on the boat bound for Florida. He lost all his belongings in the fire and had to return home. He and Mrs. Nevill left for Cocoa, Fla., on Saturday by train.

Nevill described how flames sweeping the steamship were sending scorching bolts into crowds along the decks. They were turning the wind-swept boards into furnaces. In the midst of all this, Nevill says, when a moment of unguarded panic might have meant death to 300 persons, calm settled over the blazing, smoke shrouded craft.

Tragedy, played its part, of course as it does in every great disaster of the water, Mr. Nevill says. There were long hours of suffering and trial and times when things looked dark; but out of that arose the other thing; the good humor of the American crowd. In all their suffering they were patient.

Nevill further relates how he went on top of the deck, how he made an attempt to get near the radio operator and possibly aid him, and how he helped the crew of waking up passengers from their berths. When the fire started, Nevill was aboard the deck taking a stroll.

The little town of Lewes, Del., opened its arms to give shelter to the survivors who were brought ashore there by half a dozen rescue boats. The rescued were carried to the Presbyterian church where steaming coffee was served and all the food supply of the village was used for suffering people who had lived through the long night of terror.

A special relief train was assembled before noon and carried the survivors of the disaster to Wilmington, where most of the passengers showed their gameness and grit by continuing their southward journey aboard the train. Young Nevill, among others, went to New York by another special train.

"There was no stampeding and I saw no instance of cowardice," said Nevill. "But I noticed that the officers had to force some members of the crew to fight the fire. We faced death for fifteen minutes while the flames were encircling the ship."

HARMONY SOCIAL CLUB TOLD OF MIAMI SHORES

Letter to Members of Local Organization from Edward Walsh and Theodore Phennig is Particularly Interesting

PRONOUNCED "MIAMAH SHOWS"

Edward Walsh, popular insurance agent, and Theodore Phennig, who are spending some time at Miami, Fla., on business, sent the following letter to the members of the Harmony Social Club, stating what kind of a place Miami is. The letter follows:

"To Our Fellow Members
"Miami Shores" correctly pronounced "Mianah Shows" a la Floridian, the song we sang in our first minstrel and now the residence of Ted & Ed, the well known tourists (we like us).

"The land of Sunshine," Moonshine and Monkeyshine. The sunshine is here in large portions, in fact, they sell you real estate, but you are buying the climate, which is largely composed of sunshine.

Moonshine, two bucks a quart, 800 Horse Power, Bonded goods five dollars for a like amount, via the Bahamas.

Monkey Shines, an act put on by the real estate men, you buy land and later find out that the beautiful lake that the salesman told you was situated on the property, is located directly over your lots.

Real estate, the universal topic, a hundreds! millions!! its got us dizzy. If our mutual friend John D. Rockefeller walked down the streets here and heard some of the conversation, and none of this crowd talk in whispers, he would feel like an elected candidate for the poor house.

Palm trees, cocoanut, orange, pineapple and grapefruit groves, giant cockroaches, alligators, red ants and coats and hats (conspicuous by their absence) are some of the reasons why its "always June in Miami" as the advertisements tell you.

"The Magic City" emphasis on the Magic, some of the sleight of hand stunts that the waiters pull, in palming off a couple of eggs on you, that should have had their necks wrung instead of being boiled, would make Houdini blush for shame and turn green with envy.

Where the winter spends the summer and they're about ninety-eight winters ahead, to date, people, mostly northerners, if they took the census now and subtracted it from the census of two years ago, it would be hard to realize that there was anyone left in the Northern States to buy coal, sneeze and store away their B.V.D.'s among the well known moth-balls.

Citizens, natives of Miami, are few and far between. After you have been here six weeks, acquired a coat of tan, bought a pair of white knickers and discarded your coat and hat, you automatically become a native. Construction work, buildings, nothing else but and I don't mean per-laps. Skyscrapers, towering 10 and 20 stories above the city line, rivet guns banging away day and night, ships awaiting their turn in the harbor to unload lumber and building materials, trucks roaring up and down the streets, everybody busy, prosperity on all sides, make it more than convincing that Miami, beg pardon, "Miamuh," is well on the road to being "The Wonder City of the World."

Living conditions—high, but not as high as we expected, you can get a place to park your weary bones for about a dollar a day a person, two in a room, even if it is so small that Fido would have to wag his tail up and down, because he would not have sufficient room to manipulate it sideways and as we heard someone say their room was so small that he had to open the door to put his shirt on. But then no one uses their room much for anything but sleeping and here is where that climate business sneaks into the situation again.

Let me give you, to the best of my ability, an idea of the congestion here. Place—Miami; Scene—Miami avenue and Flagler street, the intersecting of Main streets of the city. Time—between 8 A. M. and 12 P. M. any day.

Take the Broad and Market street traffic at its height, multiply it by 50, and 4 or 5 Sunday Shore road jams, then add 4 Georgia Cracker Cops, one on each corner, about a quarter of a million pedestrians, busses, Toonerville trolleys, police whistles, smashing fenders, screeching ambulances and patrol wagons, a gross of motorcycle cops, sprinkled with a goodly portion of white knickers and silk stockings, mix well and there you are.

There is no speed limit, your floor board is your governor, step on it, all the way down and "ridem cowboy." All one way streets and O'Boy do you get a pretty bawling out for riding slow and blocking the traffic and for crossing the street without the cops' signal. Jay-walking—Page 7—Sec. 2. Minimum Fine 25 Bucks.

But all in all it's a great country and we are feeling fine and so my beloved brethren, we are with you in spirit if not in person, and hereby endorse the first chapter. One Arm Joe will pass the plate—Amen.

BANQUET IS HELD

Excellent Menu Served—Various Resorts of Work Are Heard Posts of the County Are Heard—Legionaires Pleased.

Legion posts of Middlesex County and their ladies' auxiliaries held interesting sessions in the borough on Monday night. While the men were assembled in the veterans' room of the Memorial Municipal Building, the ladies went through their business program at the Presbyterian church.

A. W. Day, secretary of the American Legion Convalescent Home in Toms River gave an interesting report on the finances of the home and work being done there.

He read an audit which was just prepared showing the home's balances. Commanders from several posts reported that their posts have gone over the top with the endowment fund quota. Commander Fred Ruckriegel of this borough reported that Carteret will also go over its quota. It was decided to hold the next county meeting at Sayreville.

Holger G. Holmes announced his candidacy for county commander and Clarence H. Slugg for vice commander. At the next session officers for the ensuing year will be elected. The ladies unit meeting was opened by Mrs. O. K. Stults of South Amboy, county chairman. Miss Jane Cook read the by-laws of the county ladies auxiliaries.

MUCH HUMOR IN MIXED MINSTREL

Employees of U. S. Metals Refining Company Will Give "Old Plantation Days" at New High School on Dec. 4.

The Lesters' Thanksgiving

Katherine Edelman

ALL over the Middle West the Indian summer lingered, like a visitor loath to depart, and everywhere people were enjoying to the full the lovely November days. Each morning the sun came up, a flaming ball of fire shining through the haze that lay so heavy over the horizon. And in the evenings the sunsets out in the open places were things to gladden and delight the senses.

"Looks as if the Indian summer was going to last over Thanksgiving this year," Charles Lester remarked to his family at the dinner table one evening. "It sure makes a fellow wish to see a little more of the country."

Which remark started one of the family to thinking what a lovely thing it would be to have Thanksgiving dinner out in the woods, and everybody seemed to agree with the speaker except mother, who protested very forcibly, saying that it would not seem a bit like Thanksgiving not to have a big dinner at home like they had always had. Besides, she reminded them, that Mr. and Mrs. Welborn were coming to dinner with them on Thanksgiving, and they would have to stay at home.

But she offered a compromise; she would see that dinner was served very early and if each one would help with the dishes and things after, they would still be able to enjoy a long afternoon in the woods.

"Mother always thinks of a way out of everything," twelve-year-old Harold cried, and the rest of the crowd agreed with him. For after all, Thanksgiving dinner is Thanksgiving dinner—a treat no real human being would want to miss.

True to her promise, mother had the big turkey with all the fixings on the dining table at an early hour. The Welborns had been advised of the program for the day and had brought their car along, as even the Lesters'

All Were Glad They Had Stayed Home for the Feast.

big car would not hold all the happy crowd. Mother had seen to it that the family had only a light breakfast, so everyone was hungry. And how good it all tasted; plates were passed many times and all were glad they had stayed at home for the feast. And the fun they had after, helping mother; each one was given some particular task to do and almost before they realized it everything was spick and span.

And the wonderful afternoon they had; how each one of them enjoyed it. They had chosen a lonely little by-road after they had got out some distance, and there were many new and interesting things to see. There were few nuts and persimmons left in a few places, and mother found some wonderful leaves that had somehow escaped Jack Frost's touch.

The almost full moon was just coming up as they got on to the main highway on their way home, and the beauty of the night thrilled each one and brought the real meaning of the day very close to them.

Afterwards Mrs. Lester declared that this was the only Thanksgiving she had ever known when there were no leftovers from the feast, for when they got home from the long drive they were all ravenously hungry again, and the supper that followed was enjoyed as much, if not more, than the big Thanksgiving dinner had been.

Autumn Days

O, Autumn, laden with fruit and stained With the blood of the grape, pass not, but sit Beneath my shady roof; there thou mayst rest
And tune thy jolly voice to my fresh pipe.
And all the daughters of the year shall dance!
Sing now the lusty song of fruits and flowers.

—William Blake.

The Moving Sign

Uncle Eph says: "Talking 'bout Thanksgiving, if you're thankful that you're livin', that's a sign you're movin' right along; movin' strong an' steady, an' we're pretty sure you're ready to raise the celebratin' thankful song."

Mirrored Animals

Animals can see themselves in a looking glass, but they do not necessarily recognize themselves. They have not our intelligence to understand the image, and the reflection lacks their particular mark of identity—the smell of the original. On the other hand, the reflection sometimes "gets across" to an animal, in which case the animal is usually angry, afraid, or puzzled.

A Thanksgiving

by Frank H. Sweet

THIS is the brink of winter,
But the harvest-home as well.
The bounteous yield
Of orchard and field
The farm storehouses swell.
Heaped in the barn and cellar,
Till the bins can hold no more.
In crib and in shed,
And on rails overhead,
And up on the attic floor.
Pumpkin and squash and yellow grain,
Gold that the farmers find,
And safely stored from the cold and rain
Apples of every kind.

Tons of hay in the monster mows,
Stacks of fodder to feed the cows,
Bags of cranberries, red and round,
Bushels of nuts the boys have found—
Everything to add to the cheer
Of Thanksgiving Day drawing near.

The Thanksgiving Goose

by Christopher G. Hazard

PHRAIM STRUT wrote "the Puritan tradition must be preserved in America," as he labored on his Thanksgiving day oration. "Our country has indeed become a new world, so cosmopolitan is its character, and our task is the Americanization of America. Personal integrity and honest work are the essential elements of our national welfare," he continued.

These laudable and well-expressed sentiments so pleased their author that he was reading them the third time when his boy Samuel, surnamed the judge on account of his argumentativeness, and his girl Louise made evident the fact of their disputation under the library window. It appeared that the discussion concerned the material for the approaching feast and that the question was that of turkey or goose, arrangements having been made for the traditional bird, but a relative having signified his intention of bestowing as an alternative the mate of a gander. "Father thinks we couldn't be thankful for anything but a turkey. I heard him say that it is as much the emblem of the day as the eagle is of our country. He said that last Thanksgiving," said the judge. "Well," replied his sister, "it doesn't make so very much difference to me what it is as long as there is enough of it and plenty of stuffing, but I think mother ought to settle it, she's the cook." "We'll have a goose anyhow, if you're there," rejoined the ruffled Samuel, but he assented to a change of venue and to bringing the case before the lady of the house, and the court was adjourned to the kitchen.

Mrs. Strut being absent, however, the opinion of Dinah, who was agitating the various constituents of pumpkin and mince pies, was desired. With no result from this busy official but a continuation of the song that she was singing:

Grasshopper sittin' on a switcheater vine, a switcheater vine, a switcheater vine, Turkey gobbler comed up behime and yanked him off de switcheater vine.

The children were left to the conclusion that turkey had won the suit, until the returning mistress reversed the decision, replying to Samuel's "But I think turkey is so dear" with the remark "I think it, too." So that they all marched to the goose step when the day came round.

Upon the Top of the Machine an American Flag.

The result rather worried Mr. Strut, however. Combined with the facts that his address had seemingly failed to enrapture his audience, and that it had given a rather hollow sound even to himself, and the further fact that his concealed disappointment over the absence of his favorite bird had induced a fit of indigestion, was an increasing consciousness that he was himself a member of the talkers' brigade rather than a soldier in the army of tollers at upon the foundations of a better future. Although un-punctured by age and disability, he was off the road of actual affairs, being of that leisure class that, living upon accumulated competence, spends its time in discussion rather than persuasion, out of contact with the hard conditions of the real service of progress.

In the endeavor to walk off his chagrin and dissatisfaction, Mr. Strut came upon a group of Italian laborers and was struck by their hearty and joyous dealing with the question of social progress as they toiled in their road making; and a little later he drew near to another force of aliens who were at work upon the foundations of a new building. These last had taken of sand and rocks and cement and poured the mass into a concrete mixer, placing upon the top of the machine an American flag. These concrete illustrations of true Americanism so affected the observer that he might have been heard as he told himself that there was more progress going on than he was actually concerned in that sand, cement and pieces of Plymouth Rock were still going into the racial material of New America, and that to build American institutions under the American flag was also his business. He even said to himself in his sense of usefulness and humiliation that perhaps he, himself, had been a Thanksgiving goose.

CENTRAL DIVISION HEAD FOR PUBLIC SERVICE RAILWAY CO.

Philip F. Maguire Appointed Manager and Charles P. Woodnutt, Assistant Manager—New Plan To Help General Public.

Matthew R. Boylan, vice president in charge of operation, Public Service Railway Company has announced changes in divisional organization on five of the company's six divisions, which will concentrate authority and responsibility in the divisional heads, and localize the control of operation and service. At the same time he announced the appointment of ten officers who will administer the affairs of the divisions under the system.

Under the new plan, the offices of division manager and assistant divi-

The following appointments are announced by Mr. Boylan:

Essex Division—James M. Symington, manager; Spencer G. Harvey, assistant manager.

Hudson Division—Milton G. Stratton, manager; David H. Roszel, assistant manager.

Passaic Division—Joseph E. Rutledge, manager; Harold E. Whitman, assistant manager.

Bergen Division—Ray S. Price, manager; Frank J. Roszel, assistant manager.

Central Division—Philip F. Maguire, manager; Charles P. Woodnutt, assistant manager.

All of the men appointed were taken from the railway organization. Four of them entered the service as cadet engineers; two of them as conductors and two as members of the engineering department. Seven are natives of New Jersey.

Of the two men assigned to the Central Division, Mr. Maguire, manager, entered the employ of the Plainfield Street Railway Company August, 1896. He was appointed inspector at Plainfield in November, 1899, and in 1903, was made supervisor in charge of the Union Line, Plainfield lines and the Rahway line.

Mr. Maguire entered the employ of the maintenance of way department April 1, 1906, to gain further experience in this work and was appointed assistant superintendent of maintenance of way in 1915. He has been superintendent of the Central Division since March, 1919.

Mr. Woodnutt, assistant manager, went with Public Service Railway Company as a cadet engineer in July, 1910. From April, 1913, to March,

ROCKEFELLER MEETS OIL DRIVERS ON ROAD

Magnate Gives Employee and Rival New Dimes.

New York.—Harold Riley, who was driving a big Standard Oil tank truck, stopped as he rounded a turn on the hilly road between Riverdale and Bloomingdale, N. J., and came to a stop as he saw a gasoline truck of the Tidal Oil company approaching. Charley Stout of Dundee Lakes was driving it.

"Leave any business for me?" said Charley, coming to a stop.

"I pretty well oiled up the whole country," said the Standard Oil man.

A costly closed car coming from Riverdale stopped between them. A door opened and an old man in a gray cap and gray duster stepped briskly out on the road.

Pleased by Recognition.

"We're lost boys," he said to the two drivers. Then, addressing himself to the driver of the red Standard

Oil truck, he asked: "Can you tell me the way back to the Oakland-Suffern road?"

"Go back to Riverdale and take the right turn, Mr. Rockefeller," said Riley.

Historical Character
The nickname "Rob Roy" was given to Robert Macgregor, a Scottish adventurer, who assumed the name Campbell in consequence of the prescription of his clan by the Scottish parliament in 1662. He is the Robin Hood of Scotland, and the hero of one of Sir Walter Scott's most popular novels. He was a partisan of the "Old Pretender"—the son of James II—during the Jacobite rebellion in 1715. —Kansas City Star.

PUBLIC SERVICE Men and Women

The Trench Digger

There are more than 3,600 miles of gas mains, owned by Public Service Electric and Gas Company, under the soil of New Jersey and the labor of The Trench Digger put them there.

He's dug, blasted and bored until he has created a "super" gas system extending from the Hudson to the Delaware, and serving some 175 different municipalities.

When you see him at work in the public streets and roads you know that new homes are in the building, or that more housewives are ridding themselves of the drudgery of coal-burning stoves, or that additional industries have turned to gas, the "ideal fuel."

A very useful member of the PUBLIC SERVICE family and of the community is The Trench Digger.

PHILIP F. MAGUIRE

division manager have been created, and the office of division superintendent, formerly the highest in the division, abolished.

The division manager reports directly to the vice president in charge of operation and to him will directly report the various divisional department heads and other officers, including supervisors in the transportation department, division master mechanic, division roadmaster and division line foremen.

This form of organization gives the division manager direct control of all departments in his division. The system heads of the transportation, road, mechanical and line departments form the staff of the vice president in charge of operation and will work with the division managers in an advisory capacity as to all matters affecting their respective departments.

For some time the system now to be put into effect in the Essex, Hudson, Passaic, Bergen and Central divisions, has been effective in most of the details in the Southern division and satisfactory results to both the public and the company have resulted.

Its extension to the company's other divisions will, it is believed by the executive officers of the company, result in closer contact between the car-riding public, public authorities and those directly responsible for the company's service in the various divisions, and is a great step forward.

Texas Cowboy, 95, Still Active, Rides the Range

Childress, Texas.—Supple as a youth in muscle, vigorous and hearty, H. R. Mangum, ninety-five years old, is still riding the range on the big ranch of the Smith brothers, near here.

He is said to be the oldest cowboy still in active service in the country. Mangum has been a cowhand ever since he came to Texas from South Carolina, three-quarters of a century ago. He was well along toward middle life when the famous Chisholm trail was established. He went up the trail with herds of cattle many times.

In his early life he worked on ranches in the southern part of Texas. As the wild lands of the more western parts of the state were opened up he went with the venturesome cattlemen into their new grazing territory. He was upon the frontier when Indian raids were common and when buffaloes populated the unbroken region by countless thousands.

Mangum says that he has observed no set of rules of living. He "went the usual paces" of a cowboy in the stirring days and has devoted himself to hard work and life in the open air.

Boy Finds Pail of Gold While Diving in California

Marysville, Cal.—"Rainbow's End" has been found—the old legend is true.

The pot of gold lay at the bottom of a 12-foot pool of water in Dry creek, near Robbins.

Twelve boys of Yuba county found it as their flashing bodies plunged deeply into the limpid water—and one of them bumped his head upon reality, in the shape of an old, rusty tin pail.

Half filled with nuggets and dust of gold, the value of the find has not yet been estimated. It may be worth thousands. The boys are not particularly interested in how many.

The old pail bears on its side the legend of a man's name, now undecipherable, and the date "1868."

Care of Umbrellas

With a little care umbrellas will wear much longer. If ribs are oiled at the joints, they will not rust and break off. The oil should be applied carefully with a toothpick or a broom straw to prevent it from getting on the material which covers the umbrella. Wet umbrellas should be left open until completely dry to avoid mildew and discoloring.

CHARLES P. WOODNUTT

1916, he was foreman in the maintenance of way department in the Central Division. He was executive clerk to the superintendent of maintenance of way from March, 1916, to October, 1917, and acting roadmaster in the Central Division until April, 1918. He then saw military service overseas until August, 1919. On returning to this country he was appointed roadmaster in the Essex Division.

John D. Rockefeller.

Oil truck, he asked: "Can you tell me the way back to the Oakland-Suffern road?"

"Go back to Riverdale and take the right turn, Mr. Rockefeller," said Riley.

Art and Life

"The artist depends for his success on the so madness and range of his relations with life. It seems to me that the fruitfulness, the productivity and the power of a man's work in art depend on the fruitfulness and reality of his relation to life, and that the depth and force of a man's ideas are determined by the closeness of his relation."—Hamilton Wright Mabie.

Buy Christmas Seals

THE greatest gift is life, but man is not privileged to give that. However, the greatest gift is health and that man can give by buying Christmas Seals again this year. The sale of the Christmas Seals begins today. If every man and woman in Carteret will buy a few of the little health stamps the figure that must be sold this Christmas season will be quickly distributed and another year of effective warfare against the white plague will be assured.

Carteret contributed last year only $500 for this great work, although records show that over $2,000 was spent to help patients from this borough during the year. The Christmas Seal is the standard of one of the most hopeful and dramatic fights ever made against disease. The fight is being made against one of the oldest plagues that have affected man.

Many have regained their health in Carteret through the work of the Middlesex County Tuberculosis League and therefore it is entitled to the generous support of everyone in furthering its efforts to lower the death rate from this disease.

The Coming Holiday

FOUR weeks from now will be Christmas. Christmas in Carteret is always a merry Christmas, because forty thousand dollars are distributed by the two local banks to the Christmas saving club members. This money is almost a guarantee to the merchants in Carteret that business will be good each year. Christmas shopping is better some years than others, but every year there is the rock-bottom prosperity which means the rock-bottom of happiness.

Never before have the deposits of the Carteret banks run so high and certainly never before has been available for Christmas distribution. While it is true that much of the money that will be received from savings fund will be spent for purchases of various kinds, many more of the thrift depositors will allow their savings to remain in the banks and continue to bear interest.

Persons who have not tried the plan of making weekly deposits in a Christmas savings fund should enroll themselves for 1926. There should be satisfaction in making payments week by week, but the thrill will come when a substantial check is received from the bank in December 1926.

American Wives Wanted by Italian Officials

Rome.—Recently a bill was introduced in the Italian senate to raise the pay of cabinet ministers to $250 a month. At present the salary is about $120, while under secretaries receive less than $20 a week.

Thirty dollars a week is the amount Italy pays Signor de Stefani for administering the national budget of nearly $1,000,000,000 a year and doing it with scrupulous honesty. The small salaries of cabinet ministers have been serious obstacles to the careers of some of them. Frequently ministers are unable to accept social invitations because they cannot return the hospitality in a worthy manner. Hence it is of great practical value to a minister to have a wife with an independent income. The ideal is to have an "American wife," in Italian thought the equivalent of "millionairess."

A minister with an "American wife" need not worry about the social part of his career. It is said in bitter jest that the first duty of the ambitious Italian diplomat is to go to the tea dances and flirt with the American girls.

New York.—His trachea so affected that he could not breathe and with death imminent Samuel Grizen, thirty-six years old, a janitor, submitted to an emergency operation in an ambulance of Reception hospital while his family and scores of curious passers-by looked on. The operation was not successful and Grizen suffocated before it was over.

SPECIALISTS
We don't blame you at all for not taking your watch to the plumber when it needs repairs. It stands to reason that a plumber doesn't know as much about watches as a watchsmith does. Neither does a doctor, nor a carpenter, nor a farmer. The watchmaker is a watch specialist.
Our bank specialization fits us to be of service to you financially. There is more to this old bank than the checking and saving department, more than making loans and the issuance of drafts. Important as these services are, they do not complete the list.
Medicine is not the important thing about a doctor, nor is the tool box the important part of a carpenter. The importance of either and of any specialist is the amount of knowledge back of his work.
This then is our importance; the nineteen years of knowledge back of our work—knowledge that is valuable, and is at your service.

BLUE AND WHITE IS IN TWO FAST, TILTS

Owned By Metuchen, 20-6, and New Brunswick, 14-0—Herman Makes Touchdown on Kickoff But Referee Overrules.

After winning three games in a row by wide margins, the Carteret High School football team was defeated twice. The strong Metuchen High school outfit trimmed the local aggregation on Brady's Field last Saturday, 20-6, and New Brunswick took the measure of the Blue and White, yesterday, at New Brunswick, 14-0, in a game which added much prestige to Carteret's gridiron glory.

Metuchen was a little too much for the locals who played sterling ball and held their opponents scoreless in the first half. Metuchen took advantage of Carteret fumbles and in this way tallied the deciding points. Herman, as usual, was the main light in the contest for Carteret, scoring the lone touchdown.

In the game with the county seat eleven, at Neilson field, yesterday, Carteret greatly outweighed, about fifteen pounds to a man, held on stubbornly and kept down the score in one of the most courageous fights seen on the gridiron this fall. The heavy Brunswick players battered the local boys, but it was not until the final quarter that they were able to put a touchdown over the line.

Touchdown On Kickoff
Their victory over the Blue and White did not add any laurels to their crown, for the umpire was favoring the homesters. Herman dashed to a touchdown on the kick off in the second period, but the umpire called the ball back to the forty yard line where he claimed a Carteret player held on to a New Brunswicker and enabled Herman to get by without being brought to the ground.

Many rooters on the sidelines protested but the official did not change his ruling. The break was the undoing of Carteret's chances of victory. Gwalaki and Herman sparked for Carteret. Lehrer hurt his leg and had to be removed from the battle.

Better Buick operating costs are very low. This car is thrifty—both in purchase price and in ownership.

Students Enter Ford School of Technology

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 24.—The first group of foreign students to enter the Ford School of Technology following its approval by the Department of Labor as an immigrant school are twelve engineers from Czechoslovakia. These students were sent by their government to spend two years studying the Ford industries.

Passports carried by the newcomers entitle the men to remain for a period of one year with the option of renewal. Most of the party, nine of which are university graduates, will exercise their option, it is understood, and remain in this country to complete their courses.

In a communication of officials of the Ford School of Technology the Czechoslovakia government stressed the importance of instructing the visiting engineers in the operation and maintenance of tractors as well as automobiles. An intensive program intended to raise the efficiency of farming has been launched by that government in which tractors will play an important part.

Interchange Current for Betterment of Service

Keeping in step with the trend of the times in electric power development and particularly with that phase of it which has to do with inter-company connections, a reciprocal arrangement has recently been made between the Staten Island Edison Corporation and Public Service Electric and Gas Company whereby 5,000 to 10,000 kilowatts of power may be interchanged between the two companies whenever such need arises.

This is one of a number of inter-connections that have been made between Public Service and adjoining companies for the exchange of electrical energy and for the betterment of electric service generally.

Two lines have been run from the outdoor substation of the Public Service Perth Amboy plant in Buckingham avenue, under ground to Arthur Kill, thence by submarine cables to Tottenville, connecting at a point north of the Tottenville ferry slip, the underground cables built by the Staten Island company.

The cables are 350,000 circular mill, three conductor, and are armored for submarine use. Two trenches six feet deep were dredged each side of the channel in which the cables were laid.

ONE QUALITY is the one absolutely essential thing that a radio receiver must possess. A radio that brings in distant stations and that cuts out all interference, is greatly to be desired. But—if the music it does bring in is twisted and tortured into unrecognizable noise, the radio is a confounded nuisance and should be stored away in the attic with other relics of the past.

Today the great demand is for clear, sweet music and natural speech. We can supply that demand with the new Freed-Eisemann Radio Receivers—noted for their pure tonal quality. U. S. FOREST FIRES CAUSE HEAVY LOSS 92,000 Acres Burn 29,000,000 Acres in Year.

Washington.—Nearly 92,000 forest fires swept 29,000,000 acres of public and private lands during the calendar year 1924, according to a report just compiled by the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. The actual money damage was $38,000,000, exclusive of damage to young growth, watershed protection, wild life and recreational facilities.

The figures, say forestry officials, clearly reflect the bad forest fire conditions which prevailed last year, especially in many southern states and in California. Compared with the calendar year 1923, the 1924 figures represent an increase of 24,000 fires, and compared with the nine-year average an increase of 45,000 fires, or nearly 100 per cent. In acreage swept by flames, the 1924 figures are only slightly larger than those for 1923, but are almost double the acreage figures representing the nine-year average.

Money damage in 1924, estimated at $38,000,000, is $10,000,000 above the 1923 estimate, and $18,000,000 higher than the nine-year average of $20,000,000. Damage to young growth, watershed protection, wild life, and recreational facilities, and losses to the lumber industry, including wages and other economic values, are not included.

Was a Bad Year. William B. Greeley, chief of the forest service, states that the material increase in the number of forest fires reported during 1924 is partly the result of more complete reports, although 1924 was a very bad year in many sections of the country.

"Excessively dry weather was experienced in California and in the Gulf states," said Chief Forester Greeley, "and in these states the 1924 fire figures show great increase over the nine-year average. Smaller increases are also shown in most other states."

An analysis of the 1924 statistics shows that incendiary fires top the list with 21,000, or about 23 per cent of the total. Brush burning comes next with 10,000 fires, or 18 per cent, and fires caused by smokers is third with 13,000, or about 14 per cent. Other chief causes of forest fires in 1924 were railroads, camp fires, lumbering and lightning. Lightning is considered the only natural cause of forest fires. Only six per cent of the 1924 fires were started by lightning.

Public Opinion a Needed Weapon. "The greatest single agency with which to combat forest fires," said Colonel Greeley, "is public opinion. No thoughtful citizen can read the 1924 figures without coming to the conclusion that the fight against forest fires is his personal fight. The federal and state governments are doing their utmost with the funds and equipment allotted to them. It is high time that a more effective weapon is placed at their disposal, and that weapon is an outraged public opinion."

The figures given in the forest service report apply to all public and private lands in the United States and not merely to the national forest areas under the jurisdiction of the United States Department of Agriculture. On these latter areas, which embrace 157,000,000 acres, the number of forest fires during 1924 totaled 8,247, the area swept by flames was 602,000 acres and the money damage was estimated at $1,500,000.

Aged Woman Says Girls Swimming Is Age Wonder

Boston.—That girls actually go swimming at Nantasket and other public beaches is the greatest change in manners that Mrs. Ezra Brown, one of Cohasset's oldest residents, has noticed in her long life. The dearly loved elderly lady whose house is a favorite visiting place of the young and old people in the town, declared on the eve of her ninety-second birthday that she doesn't begin to be as much impressed with the radio, automobiles, telephones and other signs of progress that have cropped up during her lifetime as she is with the way young girls have changed their manners.

Explorer Discovers New Race in Western Siberia

Irkutsk, Siberia.—Prof. B. N. Gorodkov, Russian explorer, who has traversed western Siberia, reports the discovery of a hitherto unknown race on the River Poora. Altogether Professor Gorodkov has discovered five clans containing 600 people. The local Samoyeds call the tribe "Poyan Ha Sova," which means "forest people," while in their own language the tribe call themselves "Neshen," which means "men." Their language is entirely different from that of any of the other nationalities populating western Siberia. The Neshen people differ also from their samoyed neighbors by their dark hair and complexion. They have no intercourse with their neighbors and very few of them engage in fishing and hunting beyond the borders of their own little country.

BOOTERS PLAY TIE WITH AMBOY TEAM

Carteret Soccer Club Plays One of Best Games Seen Here—Portuguese Opponents Know Football—Score Tied at 4-4.

The Carteret Soccer Club played a thrilling game with the Portuguese Soccer Club of Perth Amboy at Brady's Field last Sunday afternoon. Both teams fought hard throughout and at the end of the struggle the score was tied with four credits for each team. The several hundred fans on the sidelines saw one of the best games played here in some time.

The visiting eleven countered the first goal when Wally Overholt, the local goalie, had no chance to stop the shot for the goal. Patricia equalized the score with a pretty shot and Bill Elliott put Carteret in the front with another neat shot. The half ended with the local booters in the lead, 2-1.

Game Hard Fought
After the rest, the boys went back at it again hammer and tongs. Fighting like Trojans, both teams managed to make some pretty plays during the course of battle. Elliott counted another shot and put Carteret still further in the lead, but the Amboy tossers fought hard and staged a rally, which tied the score at three all. Elliott came through again for Carteret with a goal, but the visitors also tallied and the game ended in a tie.

This Sunday at Brady's the local club will engage the Favorites of Staten Island in a game which is expected to be a harder one than that of last Sunday. Carteret handed the Favorites a trimming at Alco Park, Linoeumville, earlier in the campaign and the Island boys will be back here this week to even the score, if possible.

The following men were in the Carteret lineup last Sunday: Overholt, Such, Moss, Another, Bruck, Herman, Patricia, Lyons, Elliott, O'Donnell and Donnelly.

Rahway and Nutley In 7-7 Deadlock Saturday

Rahway High School and Nutley battled to a 7-7 tie in a brilliantly played contest at Nutley last Saturday. Nutley, formerly Rahway's hardest rival for Class B honors, is now in the Class A division and the tie did not hinder Rahway's claims on the state title in its rank.

Captain Coppola, Doty and Ivans starred for the Crimson as usual. Doty scored Rahway's touchdown and Coppola and Ivans helped a great deal. Ivans is a local boy and bids fair for All-State honors. Charley has two more years of high school football left and he looms as Rahway's most formidable player in the two seasons to come.

The score by periods:
Rahway ..... 0 7 0 0—7
Nutley ..... 0 0 0 7—7
Touchdowns—Doty, Jones. Points after touchdowns—Crowell, Jones.

ROBINS TAKE LEAD IN HARMONY LOOP

Trip Up Crows in Two Games Out of Three—Sparrows Also Lose—Blue Birds Win Two—Interest Going at High Pitch.

Blue Birds	10	11	.476
Sparrows	6	15	.285

The Robins took undisputed possession of first place in the Harmony Social Club Bowling League, Tuesday night, by taking two games out of three from their rivals, the Crows. The match was an interesting one and each tilt was decided by a fairly close margin.

Due to the fact that Thanksgiving Day fell on yesterday, the regular scheduled match for last night was pushed forward to Tuesday, also. The Sparrows, still dogged by a losing streak, dropped a pair of games to the Blue Birds. The tail-end team had three blind scores in its total and, in spite of this handicap, gave their opponents a stiff battle.

Interest High Pitched
Much interest is being centered in this league, which is going over big at the present time. The bowlers are hitting the timbers a little better and six hundred scores make frequent appearances. The Robins have a strong team and look good as far as winning the pennant is concerned, but the other three teams are giving the red breasts a scare.

Chinese Led in Canals
It is said the Chinese understood canal building at a very early period. They are believed to have been the first to invent locks to raise vessels from one water level to another. Evidently canal locks were in operation in China at least 1,000 years before the Christian era. In Europe there is doubt whether it was the Dutch or the Italians who first used locks on canals.

Improving Transit Service

What Is Being Done and What Should Be Done To Provide An Adequate Transportation System for New Jersey People

WHAT PREVENTS TRANSIT DEVELOPMENT?

There was never a time in the history of New Jersey when the necessity for an adequate system of local transportation by cars and buses was greater. Population is increasing, suburban territory is being developed, industries are employing more workmen, and additional thousands are depending for transit on these common carriers.

Still the two companies—Public Service Railway and Public Service Transportation—upon which the great bulk of this tremendous task of carrying the people falls, are, because of the conditions under which they operate, in many ways powerless to provide that comprehensive system of transportation which the community needs.

They have spent millions of dollars to provide necessary facilities, they have accepted the suggestion of the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners and are operating at a Five-cent Fare; they have vastly increased the economy and efficiency of their operation, and they have built up one of the greatest systems of car and bus service in the world.

Yet they are today, and have been, operating at a loss and only the financial strength of the Public Service organization has saved the main transit system of the state from collapse.

The remedy for the conditions which threaten New Jersey's prosperity is to be found in such public cooperation as will do away with unnecessary, wasteful, and uneconomic competition, remove from the car rider the burden of unfair paving charges, accelerate the movement of cars and buses through traffic, and permit the development of a completely coordinated system of car and bus service.
