

RARITAN COUNCIL HAS NEW TROOP AT PARLIN, N. J.

Officially Installed Last Monday Before Large Gathering of Friends and Relatives

C. KINGERY, SCOUTMASTER

This Addition Makes Total of 22 Troops in Raritan Council at Present Time

Troop No. 101, Boy Scouts of America, has officially come into existence through the efforts of the Raritan Council headquarters for, in the presence of a large number of parents and friends, the troop was officially installed at its meeting place at the Hercules Powder Company in Parlin last Monday night.

Scout Executive Herbert W. Lunn conducted the brief exercises which included the installation of the troop committee consisting of A. B. Nixon, M. G. Milliken, and P. F. Robb, who are officials of the Hercules Powder Co. Following this Clark B. Kingery was presented with his Scoutmaster's commission.

As soon as the troop committee and scoutmaster were officially installed, Scoutmaster Kingery called the troop to attention and the following boys were invested with the badge of a Tenderfoot Scout after having formally committed themselves to the Scout Oath in the presence of the assembled troop and guests: Colbert Bowie, Edward Czrybek, Stirling Jensen, Howard Milliken, Frank Pieck, Rudolf Pieck, John Obal and David Warden. The Tenderfoot badges, were presented by Scoutmaster Kingery and made a very impressive showing at this time. Following this the troop committee again stepped forward and were presented with the charter which had been granted by the National Council and the troop was officially installed as Troop No. 101, Parlin, N. J., of the Boy Scouts of America, which let to a spontaneous applause on the part of the spectators.

An interesting feature of the evening's program was a short address by Scoutmaster J. Tracy Dill of Troop 91, South Amboy, Raritan Council, who spoke on "What It Means To Be A Scoutmaster." Mr. Dill's message was particularly of interest since he has recently completed eleven years of continuous service as Scoutmaster in the troop which he started in 1916.

After the formal part of the program the new scouts demonstrated their ability in knot tying under the direction of Scoutmaster Kingery, followed by several interesting games which amused the parents. Refreshments were served by a few of the ladies present and the troop installation meeting came to an end.

The troop will continue to meet all summer at the Hercules Men's Club rooms and in the fall it is expected that the troop will recruit a few more boys into its membership as soon as the present boys are trained in their second class requirements.

The organization of Troop 101 completes 22 troops under the jurisdiction of the Raritan Council, Boy Scouts of America, which has its headquarters at Perth Amboy and as soon as the summer activities are out of the way, further organization will be carried on so that a still larger number of troops will be organized in this territory.

Baby Clinic Adopts Summer Schedule

Announcement is made that the hours for the weekly baby clinic will be changed during the summer months. The clinic will be open to young mothers and babies, as usual, on Thursdays, but the hours will be from 10 a. m. to 12 Noon.

The ever increasing popularity of the baby clinic is largely due to the invaluable aid given mothers in the care of their babies. An accurate chart of weight is kept, and underweight babies are watched carefully, also the mothers are advised as to the proper methods and times for feeding the baby.

All mothers are invited to avail themselves of this service.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Opening of Lumber Yard, selling Second Hand Lumber Material, on Lefferts street, opposite Chamma's Coal Yard.

WHY SHOULD LOYALTY BECOME COMMUNITY ASSET

Because There Should be a Union of All General Interests Between Merchants and Public

EACH DESERVE PATRONAGE

Patronize Merchants Who are Unselfish and Assist in Any Worthwhile Cause

Did you ever consider what loyalty means to a community? Did you ever ask yourself the question and at the same time be fair and answer it to fully satisfy your own conscience? Are you convinced in your own mind that you are loyal to your neighbors and your neighborhood merchants?

In order for the continued growth of a certain community, it is necessary to have in that community one hundred per cent loyalty on the part of the business interests and residents.

Putting the question to a merchant, he may say that loyalty is trading at home—eliminating the mail order house and buying from the neighborhood store exclusively. The same question put to a doctor may get the response that real loyalty is calling a community physician; to a lawyer, the appeal would be to patronize the home lawyer; the publisher may say that loyalty finds reflection in patronizing his printing plant and having all printing done at home, and at the same time, advertise exclusively in his publication instead of through other channels, which he is thoroughly convinced are not as effective. And the dentist would surely say: "To prove your loyalty, let me do your dental work."

These are, indeed, requirements for loyalty to a community, but there is still an element that does not enter into what we have been calling attention to. It is much larger than most people comprehend. For example, here is profession, or business man, or firm, as the case may be, operating in our community. He or they do not belong to, or contribute to any organization for the progress of this community and neighborhood. THEY MAKE MONEY HERE TO INVEST ELSEWHERE. They are leeches on the community, pure and simple, sapping the community's vitality and offering very little or nothing in return.

Is it loyalty to the community to patronize such men or firms? Do you consider it loyalty to assist the greedy person whose every effort is expended in sapping, or devouring our community? We should remember that it is a requisite of loyalty to support the men and business institutions who support our community and neighborhood, providing, of course, their business is honorable and that they themselves are law-abiding citizens. To be more explicit, the citizen who sits back and takes in the coin and gives nothing or does nothing towards building up our community, from which he makes it, is not a good citizen and real loyalty on the part of the public here would demand that he be given a good rest cure until he wakes up and becomes a real booster, or else vacates his place and gives an opportunity for a live man who realizes he owes something to the community in which he lives and makes a livelihood. As Thomas Gibbons wrote: That man may last, but never lives, Who much receives, but nothing gives; Whom none can love, whom none can thank— Creation's blot, Creation's blank.

When it is possible, trade at home or buy in your community, but when you do this trading and buying, keep uppermost in mind to patronize the merchant who is doing things for our community and not confining his efforts solely and selfishly to his own interests. In other words, give your support to those who labor with and contribute to all forces for the commercial progress and moral betterment of our community. Then why should loyal citizens patronize persons or firms who do nothing for the community? Our particular neighborhood is just what we make it and co-operation is entirely essential upon the part of those who live here, if we are to make the proper progressive stride in this great country of ours.

Away with the community leeches; let us have one hundred per cent loyalty in our community! Thomas Kennelly has returned to the home of his parents on Emerson street, after a four month's stay in Massachusetts, where he was employed.

LOCAL BIKE IDOL IN COMPETITION WITH VETERANS

Wins One of Four Heats in Alternate Sprint Races at New England Veldrome

Riding in splendid form, Johnny Bruskie copped one of four heats in a special match race at Revere Beach in Boston, last Friday. Willie Fenn just nosing Bruskie out in another heat, lost Bruskie the chance of tying the match with the big Italian Orlando Piani.

Bruskie, Fenn, Piani and McNamara treated the fans to some torrid settos. The rugged Piani proved to be in top form and by dint of aggressive riding copped the first place honors in the second and third heats which, together with a second place in the final heat gave him a point total of 13 and the race. Willie Fenn made his 1927 debut here and proved to be as popular as ever, the former rival of Walthour riding into second place honors with a total of 11 points.

However, it remained for Bruskie to surprise the crowd in the sprint for the select. In the very first heat Andy took an early lead and was just nosed out of first place by a final straight-away dash by Fenn. After adding a third place prize in the second mile jaunt, Bruskie defeated the brilliant Piani in the final sprint of the night to take first place, and third in the point summary with a total of nine.

This campaign is one of the most vigorous Johnny has undertaken and riding against such men as McNamara, Piani and Fenn will place him on a par with the best riders in the country. These three men are easily placed among the first ten riders of this country.

Only within the past year has Bruskie developed the necessary speed to entitle him to sprint races. At distances and novelty racing he is considered one of the best that ride the New England tracks.

His accomplishments during the week of June 19th resulted in his winning two out of three special races and also getting home in front, in a five mile open.

Fireworks Display at New Brunswick on 4th

One of the largest fireworks displays to be set off in New Jersey on July 4th will take place at the New Brunswick Carnival for the benefit of St. Peter's General Hospital at Buccleuch Park, New Brunswick. The fireworks will be exhibited by the Llanexcellent Fireworks Company of New Brunswick.

Thousands of men, women and children of this city and Central New Jersey will witness the display which will be set off at Buccleuch Park opposite the carnival grounds shortly after darkness. Buccleuch Park consists of 100 acres of land with wide driveways and accommodations for more than 5,000 automobiles.

As a special attraction for the children, a daylight display will be given on the afternoon of July 4th. This display will be set off on the carnival grounds under the supervision of the general committee in charge of the carnival and a large detachment of police.

A band concert will be given afternoon and evening by the Young Polish American band composed of forty pieces. There will also be an elaborate program of entertainment for the children in the afternoon and the adults in the evening.

More than 30,000 persons have passed through the turnstiles at the carnival since the opening on Saturday evening. The ferris wheel, merry-go-round and swings have been liberally patronized in addition to the open air restaurant on the grounds and the many attractive booths.

The carnival will be brought to a close on Tuesday evening with a mardi gras attraction beginning at 8.00 o'clock.

RETURNS FROM ABROAD

Adam Wachter, local hotel man, returned at noon today, on the S. S. Columbus. Mr. Wachter left two months ago to visit friends and relatives in Europe, also enjoying the many sights and interesting points throughout Europe.

A delegation of friends from here accompanied Mrs. Wachter and the children, to greet Mr. Wachter. A return home party will be held at the home tonight.

Miss Loretta Walsh, of Bloomfield, is spending the wee-end here with relatives.

Mr. Fred is a week-end visitor with relatives in the Borough.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrington, and family, of Pershing avenue, are spending the summer at Bradley Beach.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB IS ORGANIZED FOR RARITAN DISTRICT

To be Affiliated With American Automobile Association and N. J. State Club

HEADQUARTERS AT AMBOY

Carteret is Included in Territory Assigned to Club; Over 100 Already Signed Up

Perth Amboy, June 29—A new association organized in the interest of the motorist of this city and the entire Raritan Bay District, has been officially announced today. The association known as the Raritan Automobile Club, with headquarters at 291 High Street, has been endorsed by the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce. It is affiliated with the American Automobile Association and the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey.

For several weeks past leading men of the city and Raritan Bay District, have been planning the formation of such a club, its worth was soon impressed upon the officials of the American Automobile Association and the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, with the result that the Raritan Automobile Club, holds memberships in these two great automobile associations.

Among those instrumental in the creation of the club are: William C. Wilson, City Commissioner of Perth Amboy, who has been elected President; George A. Disbrow, of Woodbridge, connected with the Perth Amboy Trust Company, who has been made Treasurer; J. Clarence Lewis, of Matawan, Secretary; L. W. Staller of the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce, Organization Consultant; Assemblyman Thomas L. Hanson, and Jacob M. Klein, President of the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce, counselors; Louis P. Book, City Engineer of Perth Amboy and Samuel J. Mason, of Runyon, resident engineer of the Port Raritan Commission, as engineering consultants.

Although the club has been formed quietly, without the glare of publicity, it already has a membership of over 100 with additional applications being received daily. The Charter of the club, granted by the American Automobile Association of Washington, D. C., gives the club full sway in the Raritan Bay District, from Colonia and Carteret on the North to Red Bank, Freehold and Jamesburg on the South and from the Raritan Bay on the East to the Middlesex County line on the West.

The Club is pledged to work in the interest of the motorist, endeavoring to secure good roads throughout the District and to advance such legislation in Trenton, as will work to the advantage of the owners and drivers of motor vehicles. Day and night service is provided all owners of cars who join the club and there are also many additional advantages. Upon joining the club members are provided with a membership card of the Associated Automobile Club of New Jersey and the emblem of the American Automobile Association, known throughout the United States as the three A's.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Middlesex County for the construction of a reinforced concrete pavement on Rahway Ave. in the Borough of Carteret, from its intersection with Washington Ave. North westerly toward Rahway, a distance of approximately 6292 feet and opened and read in public at the County Record Building, New Brunswick, N. J., on Thursday, July 7, 1927, at 2:30 P. M. Standard Time.

Drawings, specifications and forms of bid, contract and bond for the proposed work, prepared by W. Franklin Buchanan, County Engineer, have been filed in the office of the said Engineer at 175 Smith St., Perth Amboy, N. J., and may be inspected by prospective bidders during business hours. Bidders will be furnished with a copy of the specifications and blue prints of the drawings by the Engineer, on proper notice and payment of the cost of preparation. Bids must be made on the Standard Proposal Forms in the manner designated therein and required by the specifications, must be enclosed in sealed envelopes, bearing the name and address of the bidder and addressed to the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Middlesex County, and must be accompanied by a certificate of a bonding Company agreeing to furnish bond in the amount of 100% of the contract, and a certified check for not less than ten per cent (10%) of the amount bid, provided said check is not less than $500.00 nor more than $20,000.00, and be delivered at the place and at the hour above mentioned. The Standard Proposal Form is attached to the specification, copies of which will be furnished on application to the Engineer.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids if deemed to be the best interest of the County so to do.

By order of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Middlesex County,
THOMAS J. MULVIHILL,
Clerk.

Honey Burden Weighs Down Roof of House

Gomshall, England.—There's so much honey in the roof of a Fifteenth-century farmhouse here, called "Cole Kitchen farm," that the ceiling of the room immediately underneath is giving way beneath the weight after 100 years' service as a gigantic beehive.

T. H. English, the owner, says nobody ever tried to get the honey because it would necessitate removing the roof.

In the swarming season the place is smothered with bees.

Impervious to Vaccine

Manchester, England.—A cold in the head is still a cold in the head at the Manchester university, where for seven months experiments have been going on to determine the value of vaccination. Two hundred and eighty-six persons took part in the test.

The conclusion that vaccination against colds has no preventive value was suggested by the results of an experiment carried on by Dr. A. F. C. Davey, Dr. F. R. Ferguson and Dr. W. W. C. Topley.

Students and members of the university staff offered their services for the experiment. Of these 138 were inoculated with a stock vaccine containing eight different kinds of microbes, and 148 were not inoculated.

Results showed that the 138 inoculated persons had 203 colds, the 148 un inoculated subjects had 163 colds during the period of the test and that the average duration of the colds among the inoculated was 13 days and among the others ten and one-half days.

The investigators, however, concluded that the evidence does not justify with certainty any conclusion that vaccine caused any harm.

THOR Ironer Saves Time and Effort $5 Will Put It at Your Service

When a Thor is used ironing is finished in half the time it takes by hand. You sit at ease and guide the pieces through. No extra wiring is required. Move it into any room. Attach it to any light socket. Speed is automatically adjusted. It operates slowly on damp pieces so as to dry them thoroughly as they go through the machine and it passes more quickly over dryer articles. It irons everything with a finish the heaviest pressure on a hand iron fails to give.

When not in use the Thor folds, rolls away and may be stored in a space of two feet square. The machine is finished in white Duco and nickel trimmed.

White materials washed in the Thor never have a gray look. Dirt, once dislodged, falls through the cylinder into a dirt trap below, preventing it from recirculating.

The Thor will wash anything, from heavy blankets to fine laces, quickly and without injury. Each article is lifted into the clean upper suds and swirling water dashed through it.

It's easy to clean the Thor inside and out. Fresh water run into the machine when the electric current is on quickly cleans out the cylinder and a damp cloth removes all marks from the smooth Duco finish of the machine.

CITIZENS OF NORTH CAROLINA FIRST TO DEFY KING GEORGE

Proclamation of Freedom Made at Mecklenburg More Than 152 Years Ago.

In spite of doubting Thomas Jefferson and the reluctance of certain less interested Virginians to admit that anything good ever came out of North Carolina, no sufficient reason now exists for questioning the proud boast that the citizens of Mecklenburg county, in the latter state, did fling defiance in the face of Great Britain in the form of a declaration of independence just thirteen months and fifteen days before the Continental congress in Philadelphia saw fit to make the same decisive move. The date was May 20, 1775, the place was Charlotte, N. C., and the immediate provocation of precipitate action was the arrival of the express with the news of the shooting down of Capt. John Parker's Minute men by British regulars under Major Pitcairn on Lexington common.

It was in 1819 that a newspaper reprint of what was said to be the declaration itself—a document containing several of the phrases of his own famous paper—was called to the attention of Thomas Jefferson by John Adams. Writing to Adams from Monticello, Jefferson said he believed it spurious, because up to that moment he had never heard of it, though he lived in the adjoining state of Virginia. He called attention also to the circumstance that the witnesses appealed to were, most of them, dead.

Jefferson's Mind Open.
However, Jefferson was careful to add that he based his opinion on negative evidence which positive evidence was perfectly competent to overthrow. One of the most valiant collectors of this evidence has been Archibald Henderson, who is otherwise known as the American familiar of Bernard Shaw. Another—furiously assailed when he first collected the data—was Dr. George Washington Graham, who has written a whole book on the subject. The controversy was heated and acrimonious.

On the affirmative side it extended to the insinuation that one of the Virginia champions of Jefferson's priority had used his position as minister from this country to the Court of St. James to abstract from the British colonial archives a copy of the Cape Fear Mercury, which was material evidence because it contained the text of the Mecklenburg declaration printed within the month after it was issued. It was known that such a copy had, in fact, been sent to Lord Dartmouth by Josiah Martin, the royal governor of North Carolina at the time. Martin described it as "the late most treasurable publication of a committee in the county of Mecklenburg explicitly renouncing obedience to his majesty's government" and added that it "surpassed all horrid and treasonable publications that the inflammatory spirit of the country has produced." On the negative side there were charges of forgery and mendacity—the manufacture of history out of whole cloth.

Events Leading to Action.
Assuming the evidence as sufficient, the story of what happened becomes a part of a well-connected series of events in the province whose position between two ostentatiously aristocratic neighbors has sometimes, it is said, deprived her of due consideration. In March, 1774, Governor Martin had dissolved an unruly assembly. In August of that year a convention had met under the governor's nose in New Berne and sent delegates to the Continental congress. For the rest of that year the separate counties had been busy with meetings and preparations, and in April, 1775, the assembly which met by the authority of the crown—the last one—was also a convention. The people forced the court to adjourn without the form of doing it in the king's name. Then they rushed out bearing the sheriff with them, leaving the tory magistrates still sitting on the bench. Afterward: "The people consented for them to meet and close some unfinished business upon condition that it should not be called in the king's name or that the words 'God save the king' should be added by the crier, 'for,' said they, 'we will have nothing done in the name of a king who has his troops slaughter our citizens.' And thus ended the royal authority. For the court, tion of the people. They "transformed themselves from time to time" into one and then the other, so Governor Martin, who was a soldier, said, and thus, as Doctor Morrison sees it, strained the British constitution to the utmost—or, in other words, the breaking point. At the same time, a certain Col. Richard Henderson and his associates, all North Carolinians, had formed a company, with Daniel Boone for field leader, and set up a government in a tract of land which they had bought from the Cherokees without royal warrant. That land, which they named Transylvania and which included a great part of Tennessee and Kentucky, they had practically proclaimed to be independent not only of Great Britain but of North Carolina, and Virginia as well. They asked, indeed, to have it acknowledged by congress as the fourteenth province of the Confederation.

Denounced King George.
Obviously, the North Carolinians were not in submissive mood when the news of the first blood shed in the North arrived. What happened at Anson county courthouse when the messenger rode into that place is recorded in a certain family Bible to which Doctor Henderson has had access. The writer is a young man named Morgan Brown, an eyewitness. He says that the messenger found the county court in session and the magistrates, some of whom were tories, on after closing their record, never sat again.

Gathering of the Citizens.
At Charlotte, some fifty miles away, the messenger appears to have found an assembly of the leading citizens of Mecklenburg summoned from the various "companies" throughout the county by the colonel commandant, Thomas Polk. According to the received chronology, the messenger arrived May 19 and threw the gathering into a fever. The secretary, John McKnitt Alexander, says they "sat in the courthouse all night, neither sleepy nor hungry nor fatigued," and in the morning passed a set of resolutions prepared by Ephraim Brevard. In the resolutions occurred the following declarations: "Resolved . . . That we dissolve us with the mother country and absolve ourselves from allegiance to the British crown; and "Resolved, That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people; that we are and of right ought to be a sovereign and self-governing people under the power of God and the general congress."

It should be noted that the text is taken from Judge Francois X. Martin's "History of North Carolina," which

PAUL REVERE HOME MADE INTO SHRINE

Practically as It Was in the Revolutionary Days.

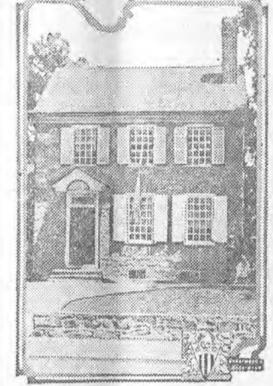

The home of Paul Revere in North square, Boston, Mass., was built sometime between 1650 and 1680. It was purchased by Paul Revere in 1770 and he lived in it until 1800. The house, which is now owned by the Paul Revere Memorial association, has been restored to its original condition and is open to the public. Once inside the small paneled entry one sees the flight of stairs that rise sharply to the second floor. From the entry one passes through a left-hand doorway and finds himself in a pine-paneled room. The walls on all but the fireplace are covered with quaint wall paper. The other downstairs room is the old kitchen. This room is both paneled and plastered. Above the fireplace on a narrow shelf are found sundry candlesticks and other paraphernalia. One of the most interesting things in the entire kitchen is the toddy warmer, shown in the accompanying sketch, which was made by Paul Revere himself. When in use, the straight iron rod of this utensil was removed from its resting place in the thimble-like cap, and after being heated in the coals of the fireplace.

Washington's Fervent Prayer at Valley Forge.

This is said to be word for word the prayer that Washington sent up to the Great White Throne of God in that dark hour of the republic when his barefoot army shivered in the snows of Valley Forge: "Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; and entertain a brotherly affection and love for each other and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large; and finally, that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

or ale, producing a burned taste which was much esteemed in those days. Near the fireplace is a battered baby's cradle fashioned from a barrel (see illustration). Its worn rockers and scarred sides testify to its ancient origin and faithful service. Though Revere's memorable ride was undertaken over 150 years ago, thanks to Longfellow's immortal poem, "Paul Revere's Ride," practically every school child knows the story well. When criticized for mentioning neither William Dawes, Samuel Prescott, Sexton Robert Newman, nor Captains Pulling and Barnard in the poem for the parts they played on that memorable night, Longfellow replied, it is said, that the name Revere was a poetic one, and that it would do no one any harm because the poem would soon be forgotten. But historians show that he was wrong, for they have been founded on that poem. In fact, it is claimed that if it had not been for the poem, Revere would not have been honored in so many ways. —Putnam Magazine.

Parted 24 Years, 3 Reunited by Letter

Philadelphia.—But for a letter opened by mistake Henry J. Littrell, seventy, of Alayista, Va., might never have been reunited here with his two sons, who have mourned him as dead for 25 years. Some twenty-five years ago a storm and flood razed a small town in the Middle West where Mr. Littrell had taken up his residence, and after it abated he had vanished. Although the sons searched for his body for days, they never found it. Some time later he was declared "dead" by the courts and his estate was disposed of. Two weeks ago James Littrell, Jr., a grandson, was taking a business trip through Virginia. He had requested his associates to address his mail to general delivery along the route he proposed to pursue. At Roanoke he received a letter addressed to "Littrell," with the first name erased. Believing it to be his own, he opened it.

Inquiries at the post office disclosed that the letter must have been meant for Henry J. Littrell. The younger Littrell decided to deliver the letter to the person it had been sent to. The old man and the young man began to talk and before long discovered their relationship.

A recent survey made throughout the United States shows that more than 1,200 cities and towns have adopted ordinances requiring that all of the city's milk supply shall come from tuberculin-tested cows. This sentiment is growing very rapidly throughout the United States, and in a short time probably every city and town in the country will require the tuberculin test for all cows supplying milk to be sold within its borders for human consumption.

Especially The Fourth

The Fourth of July is the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence of these United States. It is a holiday. The average citizen and his family expect to enjoy a "rest," by motor, by rod and line, by golf-club, by swimming suit, by picnic-basket, by the noisy and futile fire-cracker; some, perchance, by a good old snooze at home.

The two facts remain; the Fourth of July is an important anniversary; it is a holiday. How would it be for every American to combine, for as little as five minutes, those two facts; devote part of the holiday to thoughtful consideration of the anniversary?

Do we commemorate this Fourth the fathers who were the heroes of a magnificent event; or do we celebrate rather the fruits of their efforts? Would the Fourth be the great day if it is their efforts had come to naught, or if the United States had become a less imposing people? The truth is, we celebrate both; both the fathers who founded and the wonderful thing that has grown from that foundation. In other words, we are remembering all good citizens of that day, and since that day, who have contributed to the national welfare. Each Fourth marks a year in which many useful men and women have crossed the line; their memory, too, is enshrined, or should be, in the celebration.

To bring it nearer home, the time will come when we, too, are part of the past for which the people of the United States will exult some Fourth of July. Does the quality of our citizenship, our service to the nation, merit that consideration? Shall we have contributed anything at all to warrant our successors in perpetuating the occasion for anything other than the noble foundation?

It is a fair question, and a necessary one. The duty of citizenship is not arduous, although plain. It implies a high standard of national government, the choice of good men of steadfast purpose for public office, the intelligent and unselfish participation of every American in the business of government. A subject worth giving five minutes of your time to.

Shun The Peddler

The summer season, now at hand, brings with it an economic ill that annually takes a toll of thousands of ill gained dollars. It is the itinerant peddler, the house to house door bell ringer and those of his kind who travel from place to place plying their trade and imposing on the credulity of the unthinking, offering bargains in this and that which most always turn out to be inferior merchandise sold at higher prices or in short measure. It is well to beware of these fellows and the plausible stories that they tell to engage the interest and confidence of their prospects.

They are of many varieties and with as many kinds of merchandise to sell. There is the oil cloth salesman who travels about in a truck and delivers the goods "on spot." More often than not his goods are of an inferior character and the yardstick that he uses is far short of standard. The purchaser usually finds both to be the case but always too late, for the bird has flown. Then there is the "sailor" who "happens to be in port for a few days," as he says. He, too has a good story. For he tells his prospect that he has smuggled in a few suit patterns which, because they have escaped the payment of duty, he offers to sell at an attractive price. Often he says there is enough in the patterns for a three piece suit. One may be lucky enough to get two of the three. And usually its wearing qualities are far below par. Inferior articles of these and many other kinds are peddled about hither and yon during the summer months. The automobile has been a great aid to this kind of chicanery for after he has landed a few gullible prospects a day's journey will take him far away and beyond the reach of the buyer who discovers that he has been victimized.

What better insurance can there be than buying from the home town merchant? If for any reason the article proves unsatisfactory he is ready and willing to correct the trouble and satisfy his customer. Not so with the peddler—he is gone tomorrow or yet today if the chase gets too hot. He is not seeking to satisfy his customer—he is after the money alone. The home town merchant stakes his reputation and his success on his record for fair and honest dealing. He may be found at his place of business day in and day out, year in and year out. There is nothing elusive about him. When folks want support and contributions for this and that, they know where to find him and he gives willingly and generously. Did anyone ever hear of the itinerant merchant contributing a single cent for the advancement of a local cause? There is one real way of insuring good goods at reasonable prices, one way of getting good value for the dollar expended and that is to buy of the reputable home town merchant.

A pedestrian should always have himself under control.

Government Regulation of Agriculture Only Hope of the Farmer

By MELVIN A. TRAYLOR, Chicago Financier.

Railroad operations are supervised by federal and state commissions and their rates are regulated to provide adequate financial support and at the same time to impose no undue burden on the public. Something along the same line can be worked out in agriculture. Basic prices in agriculture can be regulated, but not until there is some restriction on production.

Bankers are to a large extent responsible for many of the mistakes of the farmers by encouraging unsound practice in agriculture and by failing to work out remedies for the ills that now beset the farmer in nearly every section. No banker would lend money to commercial or industrial concerns unless he were sure the enterprise was on a paying basis. How many bankers make their agriculture loans on a similar showing?

Agricultural conditions have caused the failure of more banks in the last three years than in the previous twenty-five-year period. This is sufficient to emphasize to bankers the importance of stabilizing this fundamental industry in the United States.

This can be done through balanced production and sound credit policies.

Preserved for Posterity

Design of the shrine set up in the Library of Congress to hold the original documents of the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence with the original signatures of the signers. The shrine is placed directly above the entrance to the library.

SHRINE WORTHY OF HISTORIC DOCUMENT

Independence Declaration Given New Place of Honor.

After nearly a century and a half the Declaration of Independence rests for the first time in a permanent shrine under the golden dome of the Library of Congress at Washington.

Yellowed with age, and with the signatures slowly fading, the parchment on which the Declaration is written has been kept for the last 30 years locked away in the Department of State. Very few people had ever seen it or knew what had become of it. But it was impossible that this, the most precious document in American history, should be allowed to fade into oblivion, and at last steps were taken to gratify the wish of patriotic Americans to see the original fundamental document on which their independence rests.

A handsome marble shrine was prepared for it in the Library of Congress, close to the national capitol, where, guarded in every possible way from further deterioration, it can be seen by future generations for centuries to come.

Altar of Freedom.

The shrine is built like an altar piece, with the Declaration in a marble case with heavy bronze doors, flanked on each side by an American eagle. Below it in a much larger case is the Constitution. Two layers of heavy plate glass, with a film of specially prepared gelatin between them, cover the two documents, and neutralize the harmful effects of the lights, so that they will not fade further.

The small piece of parchment on which the Declaration is written has had a most thrilling history, for the fate of the charter of liberty was closely connected with the vicissitudes of the early days of the young republic.

Within a few months of its signing in Philadelphia its travels began, for by December news came that Washington had been forced back over the Delaware, and congress lost no time in moving to Baltimore, taking the parchment with it.

When the tide of war swept the British back, congress returned to Philadelphia, only to leave again six months later, when General Howe advanced on that city. The Declaration was then housed for a time in Lancaster, Pa., and later in the courthouse at York, where it stayed till it was brought back to Philadelphia.

Two days later, with the British defeated and liberty assured, there took place the first celebration of Independence day, with wild scenes of jubilation and loud cheers for the "Perpetual and Undisturbed Independence of the United States of America."

Again Forced to Move.

For a time the document stayed in Philadelphia, but in 1783 it was taken on another journey, this time to Princeton, N. J., and for a strange reason. Owing to the looseness of the Confederation, congress was unable to collect taxes, and could not raise money to pay the army, which finally took matters into its own hands. A small body of soldiers marched to Philadelphia and demanded their arrears of pay at the point of the bayonet, and congress, which had successfully defied the powerful British empire, now decided that discretion was the better part of valor, and beat a hasty retreat. They moved later to Annapolis, then back to Trenton, N. J., and finally transferred the seat of government to New York city.

When George Washington became President, the state documents were handed over to him, and later were taken back to Philadelphia. Then, when it was decided to build the national capital at Washington, the Declaration was taken to the city and kept there in various places while the state buildings were constructed.

In 1814, it barely escaped destruction by the British, who after the battle of Bladensburg advanced on Washington and burned the capitol, the White House, and other government buildings. But fortunately Secretary of State Monroe realized in time that the British would take the city, and gave orders that the most important documents in his charge should be removed as quickly as possible. The Declaration was packed in a wagon and taken with other documents up to Leesburg, Va., where it was hidden in a barn till the British had gone and the danger was past.

Faded, but Legible.

Back again came the Declaration to Washington, where it stayed till it was taken to Philadelphia for a time for the Centennial exposition. In the meantime, as might be expected, the fragile parchment had suffered quite a little damage from frequent handling, and its many, generally hurried, moves from one place to another. So bad did its condition finally become that it was feared it would fall to pieces altogether, and it was withdrawn from the public view and locked up in a steel safe in the State department.

Now once more, faded, but still legible, it has been brought out, and there in its permanent resting place this small piece of parchment will stand as an enduring monument to remind the thousands who pass before it of the great principles of American liberty for which their fathers fought and died.

"The wonderful variety in legs," says the Ohio State Journal, "continues to challenge our interested attention, and we see many that would make very good pipe cleaners if it weren't for the feet." But with a curve-stem pipe that turn can be made.

EVANGELINE'S EDEN ENGULFED BY FLOOD

Acadians Again Driven From Their Homes.

Washington.—The United States' sixth Great Lake, the Lake of the Mississippi, larger than Ontario or Erie, has engulfed the Evangeline country.

When it broke the Atchafalaya river's west dikes, the flood lake rolled its shores over and beyond St. Martin and St. Landry parishes.

"Again the Acadians have been driven from their homes," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters. "And the disaster is greater, by number of sufferers, than that visited upon Evangeline's people in her time."

Only 8,000 Acadians were expelled from Nova Scotia in 1765 by Massachusetts and British bayonets to be scattered over the earth from Detroit to Corsica and Cayenne. Fifteen hundred of them found their way to New Orleans; many pushed on to Bayou Teche, 150 miles west. There they increased to some 150,000, occupying 15 parishes, or counties, when the flood spread over their homes, towns, and lands.

Beautiful is the land, with its prairies and forests of fruit trees; Under the feet a garden of flowers, and the bluest of heavens

Beeding above, and resting its dome on the walls of the forest.

They who dwell there name it the Eden of Louisiana.

All year 'round the orange groves are in blossom; and grass grows more in a single night than a whole Canadian summer.

Turn to Stock Raising.

"For a poet, Longfellow's geography is fairly good. Basil, the Acadian blacksmith, has become a herdsman in 'Evangeline.' Most of the refugees in 1765 did turn to stock raising with a few cattle given to them by charitable French merchants of New Orleans. Descendants of the Acadians gave up stock raising for sugar cane when Etienne de Bore, a Louisianian, discovered how to crystallize sugar from cane syrup. They have helped to make Atchafalaya valley the Sugar Bowl of Louisiana.

The route over which Longfellow takes Evangeline serves very well for a visitor today. Fifteen miles below Baton Rouge, where,

Sweeps with majestic curve the river away to the eastward,

They, too, averted from their course; and entering the Bayou of Plaquemine,

Boon were lost in a maze of sluggish and devious waters.

"This bayou admits to the 'lakes of the Atchafalaya,' where 'water lilies in myriads rocked on the slight undulations,' and rocked for years until the Mississippi broke through, threatening to make the Atchafalaya river its real mouth instead of an abandoned one.

"By Evangeline got to Bayou Teche the poem does not clearly relate. Many swamp lanes communicate. The Bayou Teche parallels the Atchafalaya, but it is a true river out of the reach of swamps and bordered by Druid oaks. The two early centers of Acadian settlement were Opelousas and St. Martinsville on the banks of the Teche. Now the flood has reached St. Martinsville for the first time in history and swirls at the foot of the 'Evangeline' oak where her boatmen landed. An Acadian descendant gave the Evangeline oak, with 150 acres of land, for a state park.

"While to readers of 'Evangeline' the inhabitants of southwest Louisiana are still Acadians, to Louisianians they are 'Cajans' or 'Cajuns,' a corruption of Acadian. Four kinds of Frenchmen inhabit the state: the Creoles, natives of French and Spanish descent; Frenchmen, who were born in France; the San Domingan Creoles, and finally the Nova Scotian Acadians, the 'Cajans.'

"The typical Creole frequents the city; the 'Cajan' remains a countryman.

Raise Perique Tobacco. "The savor of the 'Cajan coast comes to us even though we never travel there. It rises steaming from chicken gumbo soup—real gumbo soup—a 'Cajan' creation. It rides on the blue smoke wreaths from many pipes, for perique tobacco is also a 'Cajan' product.

"Under the sad banners of Spanish moss waving on Evangeline's oak at St. Martinsville, one hears a different ending to the story Longfellow has given us in verse.

"Evangeline's real name was Emmerline Labiche. 'Cajans' say, and Gabriel was Louis Arconeaux. They were deported on separate ships, but Emmerline landed in Maryland. Emmerline heard that Louis was in Louisiana, so she set out to reach him, and after many hardships came to St. Martinsville.

"Gabriel had gone, according to Longfellow, but Louis was there. In fact, local legend holds Emmerline rushed to Louis, the first person she saw at the landing. Louis told her gently that he had despaired of seeing her again. He had married. When she heard this her arms slipped from his neck. Her mind became blank. Emmerline, day by day grew more frail. She drooped and died. 'This is the 'Cajan' story.

"They buried her in the little churchyard near the tree where she found Louis; the little churchyard where water now laps at the ancient graves. She has slept there undisturbed beside the bright bayou where bloom acres of sky-blue water-hyacinths in years when there is no flood."

WIDE BRIMS AND SHEER FROCKS TELL A FASCINATING STORY.

THE stage is "all set" for about as enchanting a midsummer fashion scene as fancy can picture. For both matron and flapper the mode has prepared delectable frocks of fluttering sheer chiffons, topped with big drooping-brim epeaux whose colorfulness will happily join forces with the tones and tints of growing flowers and summer skies.

The gowns and hats in the picture are typical of the mode whose reign is foretold for this summer. While these lovely costumes portray the general trend toward hats big of brim and frocks daintily sheer, only the individual ensemble can convey the glory of color which will be achieved throughout dress, headwear, footwear; likewise every accessory.

Long snug-fitting sleeves are an outstanding feature of the multi-colored, beflowered chiffon frocks as now worn. A charming vagary of the mode is to omit applied trimmings in styling these sheer transparencies, arriving at effect by a most intriguing handling of the fabric, in multitudinous drapes, panels, tiers and the like.

Side-fullness is becoming quite a factor in styling. This same is put into practice in the instance of each of the gowns in the illustration. For the dress on the standing figure, a wide sash of self-material tied over the left hip answers to the call for the now-so-extremely-modish big-bow trimming, at the same time giving the impression of a generous side-fullness.

The seated figure adopts a shirred side-insert which, while it assures the desired fullness, also attains an uneven hemline, which is also a matter of outstanding style importance.

As to the printed motif for chiffons and georgettes, fashion runs to extremes from tiny florals to huge flowers, especially roses. Colored velvet ribbons, also shoulder flowers of self-fabric, are favorite trimming details.

CHARACTER

CHARACTER is a most important factor in the economic and social world. Remove character from business and you have bankruptcy. Remove character from society and you have the downfall of civilization. What is this subtle, hidden and mysterious force which is of so much value in life? What is character? It is easier to tell what it is not than to tell what it is.

Character is not what a person assumes to be. Mere conventional imitation is not character. Imitation of pretense is like a veneered piece of furniture: it soon discloses the "real" when the outer surface is removed. Character is not what a person thinks himself to be. His standards may be very low in the scale of moral values and thus he deceives himself. Character is not what some other person thinks we are. The opinion which others may have of us is our reputation, and reputation is not necessarily character. Character is neither assumption, imagination nor is it reputation.

What then is character? Character is what a person is in the organic unity of his secret thoughts. It is our true self divorced from all assumptions. No person's character can rise higher than his ideals, and ideals are thoughts reaching out for the highest possible realization.

Character expresses itself in some unconscious moment, in some un-studied deed. When taken unawares a person expresses his real self. A heart set right and strong is not likely to go wrong when temptation comes in the flash of a moment. It is not so much in a studied act as in an unconscious act that character is usually revealed.

A person always lives his moral life from within outward. "Out of the heart are the issues of life." It has been said that a person can successfully lie with his mouth but not with his eyes. The face is the index of character, because it is the mirror of the thoughts and intents of the heart. "He who steals my purse steals trash, but he who steals my good name not only takes that which enriches him but makes me poor indeed."

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

MADSTONES

MADSTONES are not as common now-a-days as they used to be, but they have by no means been relegated to the dust bin of things that were in the world of folklore. Every now and then you will run across one and there are many thousands still in this country who have an abiding faith in the madstone's efficacy. In this country the madstone's reputation rests upon its supposed power of curing or preventing hydrophobia.

People who do not desire to be considered superstitious and yet believe in the madstone will tell you that it cures by absorbing the poison when applied to the wound caused by the bite of a rabid dog. This idea is scouted by the medical profession and the American Philosophical society, who in investigating the madstones in use in Pennsylvania in 1889, found that they were smooth pebbles evidently selected on account of some peculiarity of shape or marking, and the most famous of them all was a piece of white feldspar entirely lacking in the powers of absorption attributed to it.

The serpent-stone, which all over the world is supposed to be a cure for the bite of a venomous serpent, is but a duplicate of the madstone. Pliny calls the snake-stone the "serpent's egg" and the ancient belief was that the stone was either an egg of the serpent or—as was more generally believed—was extracted from the serpent's head and cured by sympathetic magic. The "Druid's glass" is the name for them among the Welsh and Irish, and in the large collection of madstones and serpent-stones in the Museum of Scotch Antiquaries many are actually pieces of ancient glass, or, like the highly prized Pennsylvania madstone, polished feldspar.

The madstone superstition, it will be seen, has a pedigree going back to primitive man and is based on sympathetic magic. The first madstone was undoubtedly a bezoar—that calcareous deposit sometimes found in an animal—as the serpent-stone was supposed to be a bezoar taken from a serpent. Gradually these magic stones became any pebbles or pieces of glass selected by the Druid priests—or by the superstitious inhabitants of Pennsylvania.

The Bargain Bait

The bargain bait has lured many to spend money foolishly.

The big city store advertises "Rare Bargains." The Housewife, eager to save, spends time and money to make a shopping trip.

She buys the "Bargains"—and then buys other things at Higher Prices, and the Bargain Bait has served its purpose.

There is no bargain in such buying. You pay more—but you get no more. And mostly you get less.

Tree Rings Clews to History and Weather

Life Story Is Revealed in Own Cross-Section.

Washington.—Announcement by Dr. A. E. Douglass of the University of Arizona that the study of the sequence of tree rings is likely to be of value in long-time weather forecasting recalls that tree rings already have furnished valuable clews to dating pre-Columbian history of America.

This method was used in conjunction with pottery types in fixing the time when Pueblo Bonito, New Mexico, flourished as the metropolis of America in the years before 1492.

Trees Our Oldest Inhabitants.

Dr. Nell M. Judd, leader of the National Geographic society expeditions to Pueblo Bonito, with whom Doctor Douglass collaborated in applying his method to the Pueblo Bonito ruins, writes:

"The oldest living things in America are its big trees, the sequoias of the Sierra Nevada. The pines and Junipers of Arizona and New Mexico are much younger than the sequoias; but, like the latter, they are older than any other living thing in their own neighborhood. Some of these upland trees are between four hundred and five hundred years of age, and it is not at all improbable that still older ones may be found.

"The life history of almost every tree is revealed by its own cross-section, this year's growth being recorded by a new ring. If any given year has been one of scanty rainfall, the particular ring for that year will be relatively thin; and, conversely, if the rainfall has been abundant, there will be a corresponding increase in the thickness of the annual ring.

"Periods of drought or excessive moisture, it has been learned, tend to repeat themselves at fairly regular intervals, resulting thus in a more or less orderly sequence of thick and thin annual rings which do not vary, to any marked degree, in all the trees of any one district.

"Certain of these ring series possess individual features that quickly identify them, no matter in what locality they may be found, and these are naturally utilized by the investigator as 'keys' to the problem he is seeking to solve. And what is true of living trees is likewise true of dead trees, and beams or roofing timbers from prehistoric ruins, like Pueblo Bonito.

"From the foregoing it will be obvious that if any overlapping series of annual rings can be discovered—that is, if a given sequence of rings can be found both in a beam from Pueblo Bonito and in a tree still living—it will be possible to date the former with reasonable exactness.

Tree Calendar's "Missing Link."

"Such a direct connection, however, with no intervening links in our time chain from the beams of prehistoric Pueblo Bonito to the living trees of northern New Mexico, is rather beyond the range of possibilities; the explorer's task is rarely quite so easy as that.

"It seems necessary, therefore, in the present case, to find a 'connecting link' in this time chain, and that was the especial object of a subsidiary expedition authorized by the research committee of the National Geographic society in connection with the exploration of Pueblo Bonito.

"Cross-sections from 49 timbers unearthed during the explorations of two seasons were examined by Doctor Douglass with very instructive results. These beams, taken from the eastern portion of Pueblo Bonito, all seem to have been cut within a period of 12 years.

"Some timbers exposed in the northwestern quarter of the ruin, however, were cut several years earlier, thus corroborating the archeological evidence previously presented."

Cemetery Centuries Old Found, History Unknown

Chester, Pa.—Curiosity-seekers have discovered an abandoned burying ground near here, said to be the oldest in the section, as dates of 1698, 1704 and 1735 are decipherable on the few remaining stones, which also show the family names of Ford and Smith.

The two-century-old cemetery is located in two states, Pennsylvania and Delaware, as the Mason and Dixon line runs directly through the property, located in the most southern part of Lawncroft cemetery, on the Wilmington pike. A cluster of trees stand guard at the rapidly vanishing plot, which is on a hill, overlooking the valley between the two states. Inquiry fails to find anyone to relate its history.

Nothing but quietness and comfort and ease and good cooking, that is—the best things that ever happened.

When Better Automobiles Are Built, Buick Will Build Them

344,679 car owners say Buick will be their next car

A general and impartial survey of automobile owners recently conducted by a great organization, shows that 344,679 owners of other cars intend to change to Buick next time they buy a car.

These owners have compared their cars with Buick—in performance, in economy, in comfort, luxury and dependability. And they have decided that Buick offers greater value.

Examine a Buick at your earliest opportunity. Find out why so many owners of other cars are changing to Buick every day.

ROMANCE OF CHEVROLET TEST CAR NUMBER 112

Read What this Little Car Went Through and Marvel at Its Wonderful Endurance

A romance of the General Motors Proving Ground at Milford, Michigan, comes to light today with the announcement that Chevrolet test car number 112 has been retired from the Proving Ground service after withstanding the withering strain of 46,150 miles in four and one half months over various types of roads and a wide range of driving conditions.

Number 112 had a standard light delivery panel body on the standard commercial car chassis and had been taken out of regular production at the Flint plant. When, in the course of the usual routine, it was replaced at the Proving Ground by another Chevrolet, it still had in it many miles of untested transportation, engineers declared, despite the gruelling experience of so many miles of terrific test driving.

Forty miles out of Detroit in the hills and vales of Livingston County, where the great outdoor automobile laboratory is located, this Chevrolet, like others there, underwent supreme tests, the car was called upon to go through all the types of service an automobile may be heir to—and more.

It was kept on test for 135 days, "working" on an average of 341.8 miles a day. There were days when it was driven more than 500 miles in order to try its stamina. In addition to the test work at the Proving Ground, the car carried mail to Detroit and return each day, permitting of a study and check of the car under actual road traffic conditions.

Engineers and technical men who drove and checked the car at the Proving Ground had in mind the many difficulties an automobile has to contend with in its lifetime. They thought of the driver who speeds his car over rough, rutted roads; they considered the motorist who rides his clutch; they had in mind the man who habitually tramps on his brakes, another who races a cold motor, another who asks his car to pull out of a mud hole in high, and so on.

Although they realized at the same time that only a very small minority of drivers do these things today, they wanted to study the ability of the Chevrolet to withstand these abuses and to be constantly on the watch for developments that might further improve the product.

Although the Proving Ground boasts some fine stretches of pavement, number 112, during the four and one half months it was on test there, never left the gravel and dirt roads, except on its trips out of the grounds as a mail car.

Asked why, a Chevrolet engineer replied: "Concrete makes it too easy."

THE MINUTE MAN

By ISAAC BASSETT CHOATE

Bilthe speeds the plow this warm sweet day of spring,
When April's sun has broken winter's reign,
Unclasped the hold frost had on lake and plain;
Swift hurry swallows north on eager wing;
To plowboy's whistle thrush and blue-bird sing.
The brook runs glad, escaped from icy chain
Which tyrant winter forged, but forged in vain;
All fields and woods with songs of freedom ring.
Now hails the plow in furrow, ready hand
Grasps ready musket in defense of right;
The plowboy is a soldier at command,
His country serving well; before the night
Shall sound of musketry assurance bring
That now hath Minute man succeeded king.

If you were killed by a lunatic you might have trouble collecting your life insurance, says C. K. Ogden, science editor of the Forum Magazine. The whole trouble, he says, would be that the lawyers don't understand words. It seems a little hard to believe that lawyers don't understand words. They certainly use a lot of them. You insure against injuries inflicted on you. But to "inflict" is to "act," and an insane person cannot legally act. There is even a court decision to this effect. And the reason lawyers think insane persons cannot act is that "their mind is gone." But this merely shows how thoroughly lawyers, and other people, are the slaves of their words. They have failed to analyze the real meaning of what they are saying.

While the country is pondering the drift away from the farm to the city, the United States Department of Commerce puts out a census of manufacturing which shows that in five years, from 1919 to 1925, there disappeared from industry 605,755 wage earners. This reduction in the number of industrial workers is attributed to mergers, labor-saving devices and increased efficiency of the workers themselves; but it is mystifying in connection with the desertion of the farms.

HOW AERIAL MAPS AID IN PLANNING DEVELOPMENT OF ELECTRIC BUSINESS

An aerial map of approximately 200 square miles of its territory has been made for Public Service Electric and Gas Company. This map shows the company's activities in the territory photographed and will be an excellent aid in planning future developments and extensions. Hamilton, Maxwell, Inc., and the Fairchild Aerial Camera Corporation, of New York City, took the aerial views.

The process of making an aerial map is an interesting one. The area to be photographed having been determined, the scale is then chosen. In this instance an original scale of one inch to 800 feet is used. This means that each photograph made on 8 x 10 negatives portrays 51,200,000 square feet of the earth's surface. To obtain pictures to this scale a twelve inch lens is used at an altitude of 9,600 feet. The pilot of the aeroplane must keep his ship at 9,600 feet plus or minus two per cent to maintain the scale. In windy or gusty weather this is difficult to do and at the same time fly a true course and an even keel, each of which is essential to correct aerial photography.

The territory being photographed requires approximately nine hundred exposures on 8 x 10 negatives. Each photograph overlaps the photographs of adjacent territory on each side by at least fifty per cent.

When the negatives have been developed, they are plotted on a keyed map to determine the exact territory they cover. When this is done they are numbered and prints are made. These prints are called contact prints and are used to determine the necessary enlargement or reduction to bring the negative to the scale of one inch equals 800 feet.

After all contact prints have been given a proper ratio correction, prints are made from the original negatives according to the ratios determined. These prints are called ratio prints and must be matched for scale and color. This requires skill and particularly where some 900 prints must show no variation in color or size.

Courtesy Fairchild Aerial Camera Corp. Aerial Mosaic Survey of Bayonne

While the ratio prints are being made, the engineering department is laying out a base map on boards from four to eight feet. On these maps they plot absolute known distances within the territory photographed.

On these maps the ratio prints are placed. This gives a double check on the ratio prints. As soon as all ratio prints are placed and checked for errors in scale and color, the composite "patch work" map is photographed by a special camera. The negative from this camera is used to make enlargements which are the finished maps.

HOPE FOR TITANIC SHAFT IN 2 YEARS

Sponsors in Washington Seek More Funds in Congress.

Washington.—Obstacles which for fifteen years have blocked the erection in Washington of a statue commemorating the 1,500 victims of the Titanic disaster are slowly being cleared away. Members of the Woman's Titanic Memorial association hope that their objective will be reached in another two years.

Organized shortly after the disaster in 1912, the association promptly raised more than $40,000 for the memorial, but it was not until 1917 that a bill authorizing use of public grounds for the purpose got through the legislative jam in congress. Then the site which had been selected was denied.

A new site was chosen, on the Potomac near the ground dedicated to the Lincoln memorial, and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney of New York went ahead with completion of the statue from a design approved by the Fine Arts commission several years earlier.

The new site was under water, but plans had been made for construction of a sea wall as part of the program for linking Potomac and Rock parks.

Appropriations for the wall were hard to get, however, and work on it had to be suspended in 1922, after only part of the riprap foundation had been put in. The last congress granted $25,000 for resumption of the work, but that was enough to provide for little more than repairs on the old foundation. Engineers estimated that another $175,000 would be needed.

Mrs. William Howard Taft is interested in the plan, which is under the guidance of Mrs. John Hays Hammond, first secretary of the association, and Mrs. Robert S. Chew.

These women are confident that the necessary appropriation will be granted by the next congress and that soon afterward they will be able to complete their task.

It is announced in a dispatch that a new electrical current controlling device is so sensitive that it can be set going by the wink of a gnat, or the fall of a dewdrop. But how many people want to carry around a pocketful of gnats?

COUNCIL AT ODDS OVER PASSAGE OF SIDEWALK ORD.

Members of Borough Council Are Opposed to Sidewalks on End of Roosevelt Avenue

E. RAHWAY SEWER MEETING

Councilman Brown Objects to Ordinance That Regulates the Height of Awnings

The reading of an Ordinance providing for the construction of sidewalks and curbs on Roosevelt avenue from McKinley street, westerly to the borough line was contested by members of the Council at the meeting Tuesday evening. Many of the property owners in that section are of the opinion that the improvement is not necessary.

A remonstrance, signed by seven residents, who are affected by this ordinance, was read, petitioning the Council not to pass the ordinance.

Councilman Frank Andres said he could see no real reason why the improvement was objected to as the sidewalks were badly needed in that particular part of the town. "It is hazardous for pedestrians, under the present conditions, and numerous accidents that have occurred there, would not have happened if sidewalks had been laid," said Mr. Andres.

Mr. Elmer E. Brown, representing the objecting property owners, differed in opinion with Councilman Andres. He said that sidewalks at this time were not necessary as none of the property along that line was developed and the property owners would derive no benefit from the improvement.

Councilmen Coughlin, Brown, D'Zorilla and Vonah thought that the Council should follow the wishes of the majority of the property owners.

Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill although favoring the improvement, laid the matter over to be taken up at a future meeting.

Two ordinances for the paving of streets were taken up on final reading and were approved and adopted. They are as follows, Emerson street from Washington avenue to Noe's Creek and High street from Washington avenue to Romanowski street.

Mayor Mulvihill spoke of the fireworks evil. "Everyone is in sympathy with a move to abolish the sale of fireworks," said the Mayor. He pointed out that many children were injured and often maimed for life through the playing with firecrackers. The Mayor requested to have an ordinance drafted to prohibit the sale of explosives. On motion this was ordered.

Mayor Mulvihill announced that the engineer has practically completed the plans for the East Rahway sewer and that another meeting will shortly be called with the property owners in that district.

Borough Clerk Platt was directed to write to the Public Service Railway Company to repair its crossing at Carteret and Pershing avenues.

A petition was received from the Warner Chemical Company urging the Council to vacate portion of two streets which have never been publicly dedicated and which now form a part of the Warner plant property.

An ordinance to prohibit the erection of gas tanks, barber poles, signs or any other obstruction on or above the sidewalks and regulating the height of awnings to seven feet above the sidewalks, was brought up for final passage. When the section relating to the awnings was read Councilman Brown objected, saying that the shop windows would have no protection against the sun. The ordinance was laid over till next meeting.

The curfew ordinance, requiring children under sixteen years of age to leave the streets at 10 o'clock at night, became a law, when it was passed at the final reading.

The Council confirmed the report of the Carteret Fire Company No. 2 that William Canning was named a member to fill the place of Anthony Wilhelm.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, on behalf of The Infant Welfare Fund For Palestine, wish to express many thanks to the members of the local Chapter of the Hadassah and their friends, for their splendid co-operation during the recent drive for the collections for this worthy cause. ## HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON SERIOUS ROBBERY CHARGE

Young Man Holds Up Pedestrian
Tuesday Morning; Many Cases
Disposed of at Court Session

John Lynch, age 22 years, of 22 Emerson street, waived preliminary hearing when he was arraigned before Recorder Nathaniel A. Jacoby, in the Police Court Tuesday evening.

According to reports of the police, Lynch has managed to escape the clutches of the authorities for various alleged misdemeanors. On this occasion he is accused of holding up a pedestrian at 2 o'clock on Tuesday morning and relieving him of watch and chain.

Police Sergeant Andres and Patrolman O'Rourke, arrested Lynch and recovered the stolen articles.

A large number of cases were disposed of in the court last night, with a gallery of spectators that filled the courtroom to overflowing.

Three months in the workhouse was given Charles Turner, of 81 Warren street. His home was raided Saturday night by the police. His companion, Mrs. Helen Jasper, was fined $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Mary Carr was fined $25, charged with disorderly conduct. She is alleged to have struck a demented woman.

Benjamin Lovely, of Colonia, was fined $10 on a charge of operating a car without a license.

A fine of $25 was imposed on Steve Verish on a charge of assault and battery.

Thirty days in the workhouse was given to Andrew Rusniak, who was accused by his wife of beating her. Asked why he beat the woman Rusniak readily replied that "she got too fresh." Mrs. Rusniak displayed bruises on her hands.

A group of young boys below sixteen years of age were fined in connection with the theft of a rowboat from Jacob Smith. The boys, after stealing the boat, attempted to paint it over, but the owner halted the youngsters in their task.

A total of $131 was collected in fines last night.

Five Day Outing To Thousand Islands

According to the reservations already made with Mr. Hugo Hirt, local representative for Humbolt Grove No. 20, United Ancient Order of Druids, a large number of local Druids and friends will attend the Excursion to the Thousand Islands, in September.

A special train on the New York Central Railroad, leaves New York on the morning of September 2nd. The trip will be for five days starting September 2nd and returning Labor Day evening.

Everything is included in the initial fare, bus, meals, 100 mile auto trip, two trips by special boat among the islands, one, a daylight ride and one moonlight trip. The excursion is open to all.

Full particulars can be had by communicating with Mr. Hugo Hirt, 127 Emerson street.

I. O. O. F. Install Officers

The installation ceremonies of the newly elected Noble Grand of the Odd Fellows will be performed at the meeting tonight, with District Deputy Grand Master Gallagher officiating.

The outgoing Noble Grand, S. Srulowitz, will be replaced by Louis Vonah. The committee to arrange the social time that will follow the ceremony promise all that attend the meeting a fine time.

Contractor Walter V. Quin is constructing a sun-parlor to the home of Emil Wilhelm, at 187 Roosevelt avenue.

W. C. & E. PLANT BELIEVED TO HAVE CHANGED HANDS

Local Plant is Taken Over by Foster
Engineering Co.; to be Foster-
Wheeler Eng. Co.

Although no authoritative statement has been issued by the officials of the Wheeler Condenser and Engineering Company, it is rumored that the local plant, and its subsidiaries, were absorbed by the Foster Engineering Company.

Various stories are circulated that financial difficulties have been experienced by the Wheeler Company since their buying out of the Servel Corporation. Within the last year various changes in the official staffs has taken place.

Employees about the plant know of these rumors, but have heard of no substantial reports confirming them.

Three Local Girls Presented With Medals

A letter from the Jewish National Fund was received by Mr. S. B. Freedman commending him for the work of the three young girls whom he had working on flower day. The flower day was held to raise funds to be turned over to the National Fund in the hope of Rebuilding Zion. The letter is as follows:

Jewish National Fund of America
114 Fifth Ave., New York City
July 5, 1927.

Mr. S. B. Friedman,
7 Salem Avenue,
Carteret, New Jersey.

Dear Mr. Friedman:
We certainly appreciate the efforts of the three dear children, Anna Friedman, 13 years old; Anna Daniel, 11 years old; and Siemar Greenwald, 11 years old; who collected on Flower Day the amount of the check which you have sent to our office.

The story will be published in an issue of "Dos Yiddish Folk."

Relying upon your whole hearted co-operation we are, in the hope of Zion Rebuilt,

Cordially yours,
Jewish National Fund,
L. Shapiro.

P. S.—As an expression of our thanks we are enclosing three medals for the little girls.

MRS. J. M. CONNELLY DIED LAST WEDNESDAY

Mrs. E. Walsh, of Bloomfield, is spending a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John S. Olbricht, of Washington avenue.

Dennis A. Fitzgerald spent Tuesday afternoon in Elizabeth.

BIG HOOK-UP FOR RELAYING STORY OF COMING FIGHT

Dempsey-Sharkey Fight to be Broadcast by at Least Thirty
Different Stations

The boxing match between Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey, which will take place at the Yankee Stadium, New York City, Thursday night, July 21, to ascertain which of these two contenders will be allowed to challenge Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world, will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company through at least 30 stations of the Blue and Red Networks, under the sponsorship of the New York Telegram and the 25 other Scripps-Howard newspapers.

There is a possibility that the seven stations of the Broadcasting Company's Pacific Coast Network will also be linked into the special chain which will simultaneously transmit the event. Whether the West Coast stations are included or not, National Broadcasting Company officials predict that the Network which will transmit the bout will be the largest ever assembled for a boxing broadcast.

Two nationally known N. B. C. announcers will describe the contest for the huge radio audience. Graham McNamee, famous for his microphone pictures of World's Series baseball games and other athletic events, will describe the action during the bout, while Phillips Carlin, manager of WEA, whose voice was heard by radio listeners for the first time in months during the Washington reception of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, will take over the microphone between rounds and furnish interesting side-glances on the fighters, the crowd and the contest.

It is expected that the Dempsey-Sharkey bout will go on the air between 9.30 and 10.00 p. m., E.D.S.T., (8.30 and 9.00 p. m., C.D.S.T.). Since it is impossible to determine beforehand at just what moment the various preliminary bouts will be finished, arrangements have been made for a special musical program, which will be furnished from the studios of WJZ, New York. The augmented studio orchestra, together with various soloists, will be prepared to present an interesting program, beginning at 9.30 p. m., E.D.S.T., provided that the main bout of the evening is not ready to begin at that time.

The list of stations which have already signified their intention to broadcast the bout is as follows: WEA and WJZ, New York; KYW, WEBB, WGN and WMAQ, Chicago; KDKA and WCAE, Pittsburgh; WJR and WWJ, Detroit; WBZ, Springfield, Massachusetts; WBZA, Boston; WHAM, Rochester; KSD, St. Louis; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester, Mass.; WTIC, Hartford; WGR, Buffalo; WFI, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WCSH, Portland, Me.; WSAI, Cincinnati; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WDAF, Kansas City; WGY, Schenectady; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville; WMC, Memphis; WTAM, Cleveland; WSB, Atlanta.

M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC NEXT WEDNESDAY

The committee in charge of the Annual Sunday School Picnic of the Methodist Episcopal church have announced the date as being next Wednesday, July 13. The place decided upon finally is Cliffwood Beach and no better site can be found for a genuine picnic and a jolly get-together as these events always turn out to be.

The time for leaving Carteret has been set at 10 o'clock sharp. The trip will start at the Methodist Episcopal church and will be made by bus. A cordial invitation is extended to all parents of the children to make a special effort to be among those present.

If it rains on Wednesday the same arrangements and plans will hold for the following day, Thursday.

PROUD PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. William Riddle, Jr., of High street, are the proud parents of a baby boy born to them this morning. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Dr. Joseph Wantoch purchased a new model Studebaker Coupe, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schwartz, of Lincoln avenue are enjoying a motor trip through Canada, visiting the various points of interest.

Mrs. G. Goodchild was a visitor to Cranbury, N. J., over the 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gallagher, of New York, spent Sunday with Mrs. Jane Gallagher, of 191 Roosevelt avenue.

4TH CELEBRATED HERE WITH ONLY MINOR INJURIES

Six Minor Burns Sustained From Fireworks; 4th Quiet Throughout the Borough

The people of Carteret experienced one of the most quiet Fourth of July celebrations in the history of the Borough. Only six minor casualties were reported. All of these caused by faulty fireworks.

Many accidents were, however, prevented by the watchfulness of the police, when children were apprehended in the act of setting off fireworks in a dangerous way. Chief of Police Harrington kept a double shift of officers working during the evening.

Mayor Mulvihill at Tuesday night's Council meeting, asked the Council to consider the drafting of an ordinance to prohibit the sale of fireworks. "If an ordinance is adopted at this time, merchants will have ample notice that the sale of fireworks are prohibited and any that are stocked by the merchant will be at his own risk," said the Mayor.

Recorder Jacoby To Become a Benedict

A marriage license was issued in New York City Wednesday to Miss Helen Faith Labeda, twenty-one, of 218 Sherman avenue, Perth Amboy, and Nathaniel A. Jacoby, recorder of this Borough. When applying for the license, the couple did not say when or where the ceremony would take place.

Miss Labeda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Labeda. She is employed as child hygiene nurse by the Board of Health of this Borough. Mr. Jacoby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Jacobowitz, is a lawyer here with an office at 47 Roosevelt avenue.

LATIN SOCCER CLUB WINS LARGE TROPHY

The Latin Soccer Club gained its greatest victory Sunday at Brooklyn, when they defeated the Goyan F. C., champions of the Spanish League, 3 goals to 2. The local were trailing two goals behind when Sloan on passes by Elliott and Forrest scored two goals. Extra time had to be played and the locals scored through Forrest in the first minute. This was a great goal, Sloan passing to Elliott, who carried on and gave to Forrest and he scored with a fast drive.

Crab in goal and Rubian at full-back put up a great defense after this and stopped all attacks.

Next Sunday the locals play at Grant City, S. I., the Espano F. C., of Perth Amboy, for a cup. The cup won Sunday was the best the club has ever won, being two feet high.

FORESTERS MEET TO HONOR ONE OF OLDEST MEMBERS

Office of Past Grand Chief Ranger
Will be Bestowed on Otto
Staubach, Sr., Tuesday

A grand gathering of Foresters is expected to meet at Odd Fellows Hall on Tuesday evening, to honor, in a fitting ceremony, one of the oldest members of Court Carteret, Otto Staubach, Sr.

Supreme and Grand Officers will be present, to bestow the honors of a Past Grand Chief Ranger, on Mr. Staubach. Chief Ranger John D. Robinson said that he was certain every Forester in the Borough would be present to help make the ceremony the greatest in the history of Carteret Forestry.

"It is only fitting that Mr. Staubach, the greatest member in the local order, receive the greatest tribute that we can bestow on him," said Mr. Robinson.

The meeting will start promptly at 7.30 o'clock, so that the business session will be over before the arrival of visiting officers. The publicity and new member committees hope to greet the visitors with a flock of applications for membership. A real treat in the line of entertainment has been arranged.

Tuesday evening, July 19 a big delegation of members of Court Carteret will journey to Jersey City to take part in the honoring of Supreme Secretary Thomas M. Donnelly. Buses and cars will leave Fire House No. 2 promptly at 6.45 p. m., and Fire House No. 1 at 6.50 p. m.

St. Joseph's Parish Excursion on July 17

The Excursion Committee of St. Joseph's parish, announce all necessary arrangements completed for their annual outing to East Long Branch and Highland Beach, on Sunday, July 17th.

All indications, from the reports of the committee, are that it will be the greatest gathering ever to entrain on an excursion from this Borough. East Long Branch and Highland Beach were again chosen for the excellent facilities for outings that are afforded there. Fine bathing and various forms of entertainment, insure the excursionists a wonderful day's pleasure.

Excursion tickets will be exchanged for railroad tickets beginning next week. This arrangement will assure a more certain degree of comfort and avoid confusion on the train.

Value to Any Town —

Keen interest is being evinced in the campaign now being conducted by The Carteret News with the cooperation of Carteret boosters, for the stimulation of more home buying and the support of Carteret business institutions.

The people should realize that the interest of the business men and their own interests are kindred, and that all must co-operate in order to bring about greater community prosperity.

In analyzing the home-buying situation, the chain store and the mail order house cannot be overlooked. These chain stores are doing a lot these days toward making luggage-carriers of the housewife. The mail order houses are harming the merchants hereabouts more than the people realize.

If these institutions were of any benefit to the consumers, or to the retailers, it would not be so bad, but neither the consumer nor the stores derive any substantial benefit from these agencies.

In patronizing the mail-order houses, the consumer is sending money out of his own locality, depriving local merchants, who pay taxes toward the upkeep of their community, of the business they are entitled to, and in the long run he is paying dearly, in spot cash, for his folly in buying blindly.

Chain stores are of doubtful value and a menace to the legitimate merchant in the community. Chain stores are not a new thing, for they were in operation among the Chinese more than 2,000 years ago, and were discontinued by them because such stores were found to be of no particular economic value in dispensing merchandise.

Both the chain stores and mail order houses are, as a rule, owned by big capitalists, and judging from the dividends their institutions are able to pay to their stockholders each year, the profits must be enormous. It is reported that one mail order concern, selling direct to consumers, last year declared a 50 per cent. dividend; so one may fairly assume that their patrons paid dearly for the merchandise they bought.

The consumers, by patronizing such big organizations, are making millionaires of capitalists whose prosperity never helps their communities, and are draining their own localities of the money which rightfully belongs there. In nine cases out of ten, the local merchant will meet the catalogue price and "go one better" by guaranteeing the merchandise and make immediate delivery of it.

The dollar sent away with a mail order is gone forever. If spent at home it stays here and works. Whether it goes into civic improvements—via taxes, better schools, churches, streets—it circulates at home.

Spending a dollar home is putting a mortgage on it to come back to the spender; spending it away from home is bidding it good-bye. Furthermore, buying at home what can be seen, measured and weighed is legitimate business, while buying a "cat in the bag," comes pretty close to gambling.

The sooner the people "pass up" the mail order houses, the better off they will be and the more money they will save for themselves, as well as benefiting their own community or locality. Every dollar spent at home adds just that much wealth to the community.

On an inside page of this issue of this paper appear the names of the business men of Carteret who are interested in a greater stimulation of more home-trading.

They are business men of Carteret who have confidence in Carteret's future; they must have or they would not back their faith in this community with the investments they have made, and pay taxes on these investments besides spending large sums every year to maintain the establishments that stand before the local people and everybody else, here and beyond our limits, as monuments of their implicit confidence that can and will make good.

The business men know that nobody will boost Carteret except those who live here and whose interests are here. To expect this help from outsiders is futile. Therefore, don't impoverish this community by taking the money out of it. Every dollar spent at home means increased home valuations and comforts.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

HUMAN MIRRORS

WHAT we see in another is the reflection of what lies deepest in our own natures. Some one has said that it takes a thief to catch a thief. What seemed to be an unsolved problem by the police department of one of our large cities was quickly and easily solved when an ex-convict, now living an honorable life, was set to work on the task. What remained unsolved in the hands of those who had not learned from actual experience was readily apprehended by one who understood because he had the experience.

A mirror reflects whatever is set before it. It is powerless to create the image itself. A mirror is not responsible for what it reflects. The element of responsibility lies with the one who sets up the object to be reflected. A mirror always tells the truth. It cannot lie.

We are responsible to ourselves for what we see reflected in other people. It is the malice in our own natures which readily recognizes malice in some other. We suspect in another the weaknesses of our own hearts. The selfish person detects selfishness, the dishonest person dishonesty. The other person is only a mirror in whom we see the fault that is part of our own experience. The pure readily sees the pure. Goodness reflects goodness, and goodness outshines genius.

The most valuable criticism of ourselves is what criticism leads us to discover in some one else. No other evaluation of ourselves is quite as correct as this.

Could Stand One More Period of Bickering

Here's one they tell about a Holyoke police officer, according to the Springfield Union.

It was in midwinter. There had been a heavy snowfall, and the weather was bitter cold at two o'clock in the morning when the patrolman spotted an aged man shuffling along toward him. The man was coatless and hatless and wore a pair of slippers. His teeth were chattering as he pleaded with the officer to accompany him.

"My wife threw me out," he said. The officer went to the home. The door was locked. The woman of the house refused to admit them. Yes, she had thrown him out. No, she wouldn't let him in, she was all through with him.

"Why, you wouldn't treat a dog like that on a night like this," urged the cop.

"I think more of a dog than I do of him," answered the wife. A relative living downstairs heard the racket and, coming up, was admitted by the wife. As the door opened the officer got his foot inside.

"Come now," coaxed the officer, "let him come in again."

"I tell you I'm done with him," shouted the good wife. "He's never been any good. He's sixty-six and we've been like this since we were married."

"How long have you been married?" the patrolman inquired.

"For thirty-eight years," was the reply.

"And you've been fighting all those years?"

"Yes, all the time."

Whereupon the patrolman threw the full weight of his body against the door and it opened wide. Then he reached over and hauled the old man in.

"If you have stood him for thirty-eight years you can stand him for another night," said the officer. And the old man stayed inside.

East Indian Religious Wars

Antagonism on the part of Mohammedans against the Hindus in the vicinity of Habiganj, India, has grown so bitter that it has been necessary for the deputy commissioner to take steps to protect the Hindus. Falling recently to prevent the Saraswati Puja procession before the mosque, for which the Hindus had obtained a police license, Mohammedans slaughtered a cow in the heart of the Hindu neighborhood. They also held an indignation meeting at Baula. At Gopaya Hindu tanks were polluted by heads and bones of slaughtered cows. Pieces of bones were found tied around the neck of an idol of Saraswati of the Jogendrakisor Institute. In the night Mohammedans attacked a motor car on its way to Shalstganj and beat the driver and passengers. Hindu life and property are in danger in many parts of India.

Courtship Record in '90s

Roy Tucker, a Fulton (Mo.) young man, bet he could take 50 girls buggy riding on 50 consecutive nights and collect a lock of hair from each one. This was back in the gay '90s. He won the bet, but found the quest so pleasant that he kept on until he had 100. Amid a collection of 1,200 other antiques he now has these trophies neatly mounted. At this curl-collecting period Tucker was a student at Westminster college. There was a time limit to the wager and for several hours Tucker seemed doomed to defeat. All the girls were "dated up." But Tucker had a happy thought. He took his sister out riding and got a lock of hair from her—Capper's Weekly.

The Two Critics

Sherwood Anderson, the novelist, said on his return from Paris:

"In Paris, one day, I went to an exhibition of spring fashions at a famous dressmaker's in the Rue de la Paix.

"Two elderly women sat behind me, and when a tall mannequin came out in a very audacious evening gown I heard one of them give a snort and say:

"That creature is a caricature."

"A caricature?" said the other woman. "Oh, no, Jane. Not a caricature. A takeoff!"—Minneapolis Tribune.

Airman's Camera

The camera used by the aviator in plotting the view below is a marvel of ingenuity. Its operation is almost automatic and when an exposure is made there is a permanent and complete record made of time, altitude, number of the film, angle of the machine at the time, date and data about the lens. A special film has been made for the newest camera, which is the largest film ever spooled. It is sixty-five feet long, sufficient for 100 exposures.

The Jellerbys had adopted a baby. A certain friend on hearing of it, said: "Vell, Meester Jellerby, I hear you haf taken a poy to raise. Yes, very goot. Ven you date a baby you haf some choice, but ven you half a baby, you dake shust vot you can get."

Scene of Miracle

Bethany village is on the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives, about two miles from Jerusalem. Among the ruins the visitor is shown what is said to be the house of Martha and Mary and the grave of Lazarus.

World-Famous Cathedral

Next to Naples, Milan is one of the large cities of Italy. It stands in the great plain of Lombardy, in northern Italy. Its cathedral, commenced in 1386, is one of the most striking ecclesiastical edifices in the world.

GINGHAMS AND LINENS FAVORED FOR SUMMER AFTERNOON FROCKS

FASHION is showing a delightful democratic spirit this season, inviting cotton fabrics and other wash weaves to share equal style prestige with formal silks and satins in this matter of costume-making for her season of summer conquest. Leading stylists are especially honoring gingham with flattering attention. Frocks made of it are endorsed for daytime social events ranging from bridge party to country club sports events.

One cannot but appreciate the appropriateness and the charm for almost any daytime occasion of the lovely gingham frock in the picture. This smart model serves as an object lesson as to the possibilities afforded by gingham when in the hands of a master stylist. Note in this "dressy" gingham the trend to a normal waist-line.

The very essence of chic is also expressed in ensembles developed of gingham. Among smart cotton fashions many suits are evolved of gingham, using a solid color with plaids or checks in this wise—a skirt of the plain with inset plaited fans of the plaid, this topped with a solid colored coat lined throughout with the plaid, with matching collar, cuffs, revers and belt.

Very smart, too, are ensembles of printed with plain linen. Charming daytime frocks advocate the jacket costume of plain for the skirt with a coat of the figured.

For the home dressmaker as well as the professional, gingham and printed linens are proving of endless inspiration. Among the suggestions offered in making up the handsome wash weaves is a sleeveless dress of solid-colored linen with a long coat of gay-print linen.

Another variation is a two-piece suit of printed linen consisting of jacket and skirt. A separate jumper of white shantung completes this ensemble.

The swagger set are wearing three-quarter length coats of bright solid-colored linen with frocks of either printed linen or silk.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Twelve years' imprisonment was the penalty he received, but he escaped and returned to the publication of further "Memoirs of the Dauphin." With the Revolution of 1848 the public interest in missing princes had waned a good deal, and Richemont found himself unable to impress the public with his declarations. He died in 1853.

Naundorff's tale was the most remarkable of all. He arrived in Paris in 1833, even dispatching an emissary to Richemont's trial to protest "in the name of Naundorff" against the claimant. His first act on opening his campaign was to send a letter to the Duchesse d'Angouleme, calling upon her to appear in court to accord him recognition as her brother, the missing prince. The result was an immediate opportunity for Naundorff to recount his story on the stand.

Rallied to His Call. Here, there and everywhere sprang up the "Naundorffites" to rally at his call. With a full 200 documents in support of his representations, Naundorff was marshaling by far the most important mass of evidence yet adduced by a claimant to the throne. The court heard the evidence and banished him from France.

After a further effort to continue his campaign from England, Naundorff turned his interest to inventions and while on a visit to Holland in connection with a "discovery" was permitted by the Dutch government to reside in Delft. Stricken by a sudden illness, he died just after his wife and daughter had been summoned from England. To "Naundorff, the inventor," who had brought Napoleon, Josephine and a legion of other historic figures into his testimony and who had told of imprisonments, persecution, rescues and wild adventure as the lost prince, the Dutch government accorded a great funeral. Soldiers bore the bier and public men followed it to the grave.

The most picturesque and important claimant had passed. It was Naundorff who asserted that as the Dauphin he had been carried to the top of the tower and hidden there by friends while another child was put in his place. When the substitute died, his tale ran, the body was removed from the coffin and, drugged with opium, he was smuggled into it. On the way to the cemetery in a carriage he was removed and the empty coffin was buried.

Among the theories advanced and given wide credit in connection with the death of the Dauphin is the one that states that the unfortunate prince was murdered in the Temple in January, 1794, and that a feeble child was substituted in his cell. When this child in the course of time succumbed, it was given out that the Dauphin had died a natural death and the substitute was interred as Louis XVII. Not even the tale of L'Aiglon, France's other pathetic prince, can compare with that of the Dauphin in its hold on the imagination. Many throne pretenders have sprung up in history, but never in such numbers as those who have aspired to be hailed as Louis XVII.

spring into instant fame as the first claimant, gathering a small court about him and declaring that the elder Hergenvault had provided the substitute in the tower, while he himself was the real prince. Hailed for a time in Spain as the authentic Dauphin, Hergenvault was arrested on his return to France and sent to prison for four years. But no sooner was he free than he collected once more his circle of followers and resumed his pose. For a second time he faced the court, which sent him to Bicetre, where he died, still proclaiming that he was the Dauphin.

A drummer boy tried it next. He confessed eventually that he was the son of a clockmaker. A third contestant pointed to the mark of a fleur-de-lis and crown and the Bourbon initials on his thigh as proof that he was the prisoner of the Temple. Both found adherents who were loyal to them.

The popular mind refuses to believe that romantic figures pass away. So firmly had the tale of the substitute child gripped the public that it became the foundation of every "missing Dauphin" claim that appeared. Mathurin Bruneau, the son of a shoemaker, returned to France from America to press his claim to the throne. He went further than his fellow-claimants, issuing a series of proclamations in the name of the king of France which promptly landed him behind prison bars.

Up to the time of the fall of the Bourbons the "missing Dauphins" had uniformly been persons from the lower ranks of society; but now a totally different type of claimant—an individual of natural gifts with the ability to convince influential circles—was about to appear. In this classification are listed Naundorff and Richemont, the two men who gave the government of France the most to think about in connection with their representations.

It was in 1831 that Richemont made his bow with the publication of the "Memoirs of the Duke of Normandie, Son of Louis XVII." The work was an imposing, seemingly well authenticated claim, backed by many documents and statements from important persons.

Fate of Richemont. Unfortunately for Richemont, however, he seems to have been possessed of a natural liking for intrigue of all varieties. Following up his memoirs with a volley of pamphlets and mixing enthusiastically in a host of political intrigues, he rapidly became such a thorn in the side of the government that the police made a descent on his lodgings, where they unearthed papers of a treasonable character. One more "Dauphin" went on trial, this time charged with conspiracy against the life of the king and the safety of the state.

He created a sensation by declaring that he had disclosed his identity as the Dauphin to Louis XVIII, but had refused to press his claim to the throne at the time, fearing that it would precipitate a civil war. He told a tale of being rescued from the Temple in a basket of laundry and of travel in Italy, America and Brazil.

"Charity" Much More Than Material Help

Charity is a much abused word. There are many persons who believe its consummation is the mere giving of money. There are others who believe that its demands have been fulfilled when a helping hand has been given to a person in distress. They confound charity with compassion. There are still others who conceive it as something like an irksome duty that must be performed, and the sooner the better.

But real charity goes deeper than any of these things. A man may find satisfaction in giving a portion of his wealth to the establishment of an institute of public benefit; but charity has not flooded his heart until he has recognized the good that is in the worst of his enemies. When he has done that, he has risen far above the importance of public benefactions. He has demonstrated that his spirit is nobler than those things from which his riches were gained.

A man during a distressful emergency in which a fellow mortal is thrown, may find satisfaction in giving him temporary relief; but this act of kindness becomes inconsequential compared with his effort to see in an enemy even the broken light of Good. His kindness becomes insignificant when it is compared with his forgiveness of a heavy wrong that has been inflicted upon him, for forgiveness is one of the noblest forms of charity.

Charity in its truest sense belongs to that indefinable quality in man which distinguishes him from the rest of earth's creatures. In practice, it is powerful enough to move a world into the splendid circles of brotherhood and understanding.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Washington.—Some decided contrasts between the old and the new are being furnished as the capital gets down to the actual work of beautifying the downtown section, parts of which for years have been a constant irritant to those artistically inclined.

In the block adjoining the massive Post Office department building, whose foundations include labyrinths of cellars below the ground, an entire city block occupied by stores and other business houses was razed, and not a single basement was disclosed.

When the brickwork and other walls were removed, a job requiring a very short time, the ground beneath was found to be so smooth that it was immediately pre-empted by motorists as a place where automobiles might be left indefinitely without the dread of finding them ticketed for parking too long.

In the next war the whole population will be engaged, "without regard to age or sex," as the new French defense law puts it. Women will be mobilized, not for fighting service "in the beginning," but for work behind the front. The old peasant on the slopes of the Alps or Pyrenees will be as much subject to aerial attacks as the soldier at the front. For the enemy is going to work on the same principle, it is expected, that is without "regard to age or sex." Parliament passed the law unanimously, with the exception of the Communists. Libel Suit in Paris Court Revives Mystery of French Heir.

Paris.—Once more across the scene in France there moves the tragic figure of the "Lost Dauphin," the pathetic uncrowned Louis XVII, who died a prisoner in the Temple and around whose personality a score of legends have been woven. Still the tale persists that the unfortunate prince escaped; still recollections are brought forth of the dozens of pretenders who have claimed that they were the authentic heir to the Bourbon throne of France. Only the other day in a Paris court there was enacted an echo of the famous Naundorff case when Louis Charles Jean Philippe de Bourbon, calling himself the rightful king of France, brought an unsuccessful action for libel on account of statements published about Naundorff, his grandfather, says the New York Times.

Was the ten-year-old Dauphin rescued from his prison tower by royalists and taken to England? Did he make his way to America and end a long life there, as some have asserted? Eminent historians have busied themselves for years producing proofs of the prince's death and dismissing the reports that he was seen in other countries long after the date of his burial.

No less than 25 "lost Dauphins"—the foremost of them Naundorff—have appeared before French courts to press their claims. Hergenvault, Fruchard, Marassin, Mathurin Bruneau, Dufresne, Persat, Auguste Meves, Fontolive, Richemont—these are only a few of the "missing princes" who each in his day collected enthusiastic partisans and disturbed the government of France.

The little Louis XVII who saw his royal father and Marie Antoinette, his mother, go from the Temple to the guillotine had not been dead five years before there were signs that the tale that he was still alive was finding its sympathetic audience. In a work by a certain Regnault-Warin it was detailed how the Dauphin was smuggled from the Temple tower in a wooden hobbyhorse and a dumb and sickly child left in his place. This was the child, it was asserted, that died in the prison. The Dauphin himself, according to the romance, was hailed as king at Fonteno and later put aboard a ship for America. The ship was seized by a republican frigate and the Dauphin died between its decks.

Wide Variety of Claimants.
The Regnault-Warin volume inspired many claimants to the throne. Startlingly alike are the tales narrated by the various "Dauphins" as they were brought before the court. Hergenvault, the son of a tailor,

The Old Parlor

Somebody has waked up, all at once to the fact that the old parlor is gone. Not only here in America but in London and all over England and almost everywhere in the Western world.

And now, complain certain elderly romancers, dreaming of times past, parlor and drawing rooms have gone out and nobody saw them go.

In the beginning the parlor was intended for use. It was the part of the house where the family was to have its private life and pleasure and comfort, safe from every intrusion.

The Country Doctor

The scarcity of the country doctor as a source of keen popular interest is matching the scarcity of teachers in the rural districts which has been met by consolidations and the employment of specially trained "teachers helpers."

Patients improved when they heard his horse's hoofs on the road. All the people for miles around were as members of one big family so far as the doctor was concerned.

Family Reunions

Family ties are said not to be as close as they used to be, and yet many families are having reunions where a large number of near and distant relatives are gathered together.

An obstacle in the way of such associations is created by the scattering of families all over the country. Where a family used to settle down in its home town or near by, the present generation is likely to scatter all over the land, and some may go to foreign nations.

Back in old history people looked to their families for protection. Tribe fought against tribe, and if you were attacked and your safety assailed, your government might not be able to do anything for you, but your kinsmen would rally and beat off the tribe that menaced you.

Those old times of tribal warfare are happily gone forever. But the members of a family tribe now can reflect that they no doubt share certain traits handed down from common ancestors.

About all a rolling stone gathers is momentum. Raising a family costs almost as much as it is worth.

Self-Respect the "Pearl of Great Price" That America Has to Offer

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE, Editor and Scholar.

WHAT is the difference between an American workman scurrying about the debris of an excavation, busy with a dozen kinds of tasks, and an Egyptian laborer grubbing up debris across the ocean, watching his cursing foreman with snakelike cunning, doing as little clawing in the earth as possible, filling as few leaky baskets as possible, and groaning with every load deposited?

The western man has self-respect. That is the "pearl of great price." Because men in America may be self-respecting, millions have come flocking to our shores from all over the globe.

Our faults may be many. Granted that our politics may be corrupt. Granted that much of our standardization is ugly. Granted that in distributing the products of commerce and industry we have quickly elevated millions into living standards which they do not appreciate and cannot evaluate wisely.

America has the "pearl of great price"—self-respect—to offer. That is what is turning to our shores the millions from all over the world. That is why they come trooping—ready to lay down their lives, their traditions, eager even to give over that dearest of all inheritances—their own nationalities—that they may seek and find in America "the pearl of great price."

MONUMENTS OF ART ON GOTHIC LINES

Human Intellect Reflected in Cathedral.

The resumption of services in the cathedral of Reims marks the return to the world of one of its great art monuments. When the flood of war dashed over northern France, the city of Reims was in its course.

Cathedrals were the greatest achievements of the human intellect in the thousand years of the reorganization of Europe after the fall of the Roman empire. In 1140 the abbey church of St. Denis, a few miles north of Paris, was begun by a remarkable man, the Abbe Suger.

It used to be thought that the long avenues of pillars, with their branching arches and traceried lines, were inspired by the forests of northern Europe. It is now known they were otherwise derived, but it has been said that the Gothic is Robin Hood architecture of the wild places, energetic, adventuresome.

PARIS MILLINERS USE EARRING ORNAMENTS AND BUCKLES

DINGLE-DANGLE, dingle-dangle goes the earring ornament at the side of milady's hat as if to proclaim its entree into the realm of millinery. Sometimes an idea is launched which takes the world of fashion by storm. This is exactly what has happened in regard to the new earring ornament from the side of a snug-fitting little chapeau, the idea has gained momentum until the vogue is at this moment one of surpassing importance. Especially is the new earring trim performing a bit of magic in the way of contributing becomingness to the hitherto not-always flattering-to-the-face snug helmet-shape or molded-to-the-head skull caps. Promise of becomingness no doubt accounts for the fact of hat after hat being animated with cunning ornaments which sometimes require more than a passing glance to discern whether they are really pearl-set earrings revealed from beneath the "bob," or decoration for the hat. Eym brimmed hats sometimes subscribe to earring embellishments, as will be seen in this picture, where, posed to the right below, is a handsome multi-colored hat with the fashionable earring trim, suspended from each end of a "slave-bracelet" band. While this model is enhanced with a pair of earrings, it is just as good style, particularly for the snug-typed hat, to pose a dangling ornament at one side only. Just-from-Paris hats emphasize a wide use of buckles, especially for little felts and ribbon hats. The smart felt shown at the top to the right in the picture illustrates a smart buckle placement. Not only buckles and earrings are in favor, but there is a decided trend toward employing ornaments of all sorts. Among popular ideas dagger pins and twin pearl pins stand at the top of the list. A clever use of two sets of twin pins is shown in this group of hats, also the effectiveness of the dagger pin as a trimming for the small hat. JULIA BOTTOMLEY. (© by Western Newspaper Union.)

Youth, Simplicity, Mark Silhouette

Contrasting Fabrics, Colors, Are Featured in Newest Fashion Card.

Originality marks the silhouettes which Paris has set her stamp of approval upon in the spring collection of frocks. There is a general departure from lines which have been accustomed to lend chic to the mode. For instance, there are now gowns with or without waistslines, frocks which feature odd shoulder treatments, bolero effects, the softened blouse effect and skirts of varying lengths and fullnesses.

Perhaps one of the most outstanding features is the use of contrasting fabrics in the newest frocks. This striking note introduces not only contrasting materials, but contrasting colors. The two-piece mode, of course, best illustrates this new fashion. The most successful models show color and fabric details worked with subtlety and a harmonious result.

There is generally to be noted a softening influence in the silhouette. A band of embroidery, or a border of applique, or passamenterie, piping, fagoting, cross stitch or any other form of needlework, serves to feminize the effect of the dress. In the tiered gown many striking models are shown which display the use of contrasted colors and materials. Other costumes introduce a new note in the geometric plan, with ornament details.

Printed fabrics hold an important place in the fashions. These in general follow the same lines that are to be found in the frocks of a plain fabric.

The bow is a distinct fashion note of extreme importance. It may be found at all points of the dress, the

Make Your Dreams Come True By SYDNEY J. BURGOYNE

I WOULDN'T give two cents for the man Who didn't have a "DREAM," A vision toward which to work and plan, And not to drift with the stream.

But it isn't enough to dream, and sit Just planning—there's work to do, And you've got to pitch in and tackle it To make that dream come true.

Or while you are dreaming, the other chap Is going to sail in and win, And write his name all over the map That you had the chance to begin.

It's easier—sure!—to sit around And simply dream away The days and years—but I've never found Any joy in the easiest way

So roll up your sleeves with a smile and say: "Here's right where I start in To make my own dream true TODAY, And I'll be the one to win!"

So DREAM—by all means—but then go out And hustle the whole day through, And then there won't be the slightest doubt About making your dreams come true.

So here's to the man who buckles in With vigor—and so succeeds In being happy and able to grin— As he turns his "dream" to DEEDS! (Copyright.)

Village Is Abandoned When Factory Closes

Plymouth, Conn.—The deserted village of Oliver Goldsmith finds a parallel in the village of Graystone not far from here. Shutters are falling from the windows and gardens are growing up with weeds. Trains no longer stop at the station.

The village was once called Hoadleyville, after Silas Hoadley, pioneer clockmaker of America. When the clock factory went out of existence the place was abandoned.

Mythological Satyrs

In Greek mythology the satyrs were a race of woodland deities who roamed the hills in the time of Bacchus, whom the Greeks also called Dionysius. They are represented with long ears, flat noses, a man's body and the legs and hoofs of a goat.

European Buffer States

Poland is spoken of as a "buffer state" for the same reason that Switzerland is—that is, because of its geographical location. A buffer state is one which intervenes geographically between larger states and lessens the danger of rupture from immediate contact of their unfriendly elements.

Lotus Fable

The lotus tree of North Africa is the jujube. There is a fable in which it is said that this tree makes strangers forget their homes.

Worthy of Monument

Speaking of mute, inglorious Milton—A machine is said to have been devised to take the noise out of steel riveting and the inventor's name is not given.

Expression Is Homer's

The expression "welcome the coming, speed the parting guest" was used by Homer in the Odyssey.

SLY VAGABOND POSES AS KING

Polish Peasants Hail Him as Scion of Ancient Royalty.

Warsaw.—"Captain von Koepenck" has been outdone by Joseph Szewczyk, and the peasants of Miloszka have shown themselves more credulous than even the victims of the German impostor. That is doubtless because nowhere is the longing for restoration of the good old times of king and throne and court stronger or more vital than in a Polish village community. Taking advantage of the latter fact, Joseph Szewczyk, being out of work and impecunious, manufactured a lot of imposing looking documents heavily encrusted with seals, and with these easily persuaded the peasants of Miloszka that he was a descendant of the ancient kings of Poland, and was the rightful heir to the throne, who had been wickedly kept out of his kingdom by his enemies and by the wicked Republicans. Indeed, he represented that the republican government was at that very time seeking to get hold of him, to imprison him or perhaps to put him to death, and he implored his loyal "subjects" to protect him.

Rally to "King." The appeal was effective. Young and old, male and female, the peasants rallied about their "king," and a bodyguard of fifty stalwart men was organized. Joseph promised that on the anniversary of his name day he would issue a royal manifesto which would bring all Poland to his support. Meantime, he was unable to take possession of the royal palace, but would be content for a while with the farmhouse of the chief landlord of the village, the landlord being at the moment absent at Warsaw.

This modest request the loyal peasants determined should be granted, and the bodyguard with hundreds of supporters marched to the premises in question. As the house was locked up a royal levee had to be held in the open air. This so increased the pretensions of the "king" and the enthusiasm of his followers that they determined to take possession of the house by force. And this was done after a hard fight with knives, hatchets and cudgels. Preparations were then made for the defense of the house against any attempt of the landlord to regain possession. An improvised throne was erected in the hall, and Joseph, arrayed in purple robes and bearing other insignia of royalty, assumed sovereignty over his kingdom.

Presently, however, the landlord arrived from Warsaw, where he had received word of what was going on at his home. He was accompanied by a posse of police, and after a few shots had been fired and some lively club-work performed, the peasants were dislodged and the house was restored to its owner. The "king" did not want to exchange his throne for a prison, but the police were inexorable.

It was established that the "king" was nobody but Joseph Szewczyk, an out-of-work impostor, and he was accordingly disposed of. But the peasants are said to be inflexible in their belief that he is their rightful monarch, and they await the hour when the machinations of the Republicans against him shall be defeated. Meantime, his exclusion of his sovereignty over them must be endured with patience as the will of an inscrutable Providence.

Poem Parties Revived by Japanese Emperor

Tokyo.—The Imperial monthly poem party, one of the features of Japanese court life, is to be resumed after having been suspended several months because of the death of Emperor Taisho.

A subject for each poem party is always provided by his majesty. For the remainder of this year, Emperor Hirohito announced the following subjects upon which the versifying guests might try their hands: June, "The Thread"; July, "The Duckweed"; August, "The Cool Wind"; September, "Moonlight in the Garden"; October, "A Chrysanthemum by a Mountain Road"; November, "Ice in the Date"; and December, "An Icy Night." The poem party is held on the fifth day of each month.

How Rude!

North Bergen, N. J.—Fellow in court for sending a girl mash notes said he thought the girl was in love with him. "Don't think any woman is ever in love with a man," said Recorder Alfred Miles. "They only love themselves."

Wilson's Peace Points

The fourteen points that President Wilson offered in a speech before congress on January 8, 1918, as essential in any consideration of peace with the central powers, were: Open diplomacy, freedom of the seas, equality of trade conditions, reduction of armaments, adjustment of colonial claims, settlements of Russian questions, evacuation and restoration of invaded French territory and return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, readjustment of Italian frontiers, free development of the peoples of Austria-Hungary, determination of the relations of the Balkan states, settlement of the Turkish question, an independent Poland, and the formation of a league of nations.

Relic of Cliff Dwellers

The lost burial grounds of the Casa Grande (Ariz.) cliff dwellers, probably a thousand years old, have been found by an expedition from the Southwest museum, Los Angeles. A funeral urn of beautifully shaded red on buff coloring and containing bone fragments and ashes of the dead was the first finding of the expedition. It revealed that two forms of burial—cremation and earth interment—were used by the cliff dwellers.

Soles Glued on Shoes

The mending of shoes has been greatly facilitated by a foreign system of cementing the new sole over the old one in place of sewing. It requires the use of a cement which has been made for the purpose and which is entirely waterproof. The parts are held together in heated clamps while the glue is being made. The new process is said to be much more rapid than the old and more economical.

Glittering Rhinestones Used on Slipper Straps

Center straps of rhinestones can now be purchased at the shoe counters. These are easily attached to evening slippers and add a glittering effect that is desired on most sandal models. Of course, the rhinestone center strap requires a shoe that is especially suited for its purpose. That is a shoe which either has an ankle strap to which the top of the center strap may be attached or a shoe which is designed to tie in front. Some center straps are extremely beautiful, being made of metal set with rhinestones in ornate design. They clasp to the vamp and have a slide at the top through which the ankle strap of the shoe extends.

Flowers Are Used for Decorating Millinery

After several seasons of untrimmed hats milliners in Paris seem not to be able to resist again calling upon flowers for decorative effects. Chiffon roses on felt hats are one version of the new fashion. Leather roses on taffeta shapes is another form. Thus far, the flower-trimmed hats are shown only for wear with summer sport and afternoon costumes. However, there is no movement away from the familiar untrimmed shapes which rely on their own line for tailored morning and practical sports costumes.

Are you helping to pay the rent of the sky-scraper stores?
Are you contributing to the taxes, insurance, interest, employees' wages, and the hundreds of other expenses of the big department stores or mail-order houses?
Most surely you are if you are buying anything from them.
Every dollar's worth of goods sold by such business houses must help pay these expenses. These costs are enormous and must be paid—and if you buy, you pay.
Isn't it better economy to buy from the merchants of your own community?
You pay less and you get more, and your money stays where it will be invested for the good of your neighborhood.

LINDBERGH JOINS SELECT COMPANY

Now Member of the "Did It Alone" Club.

Washington.—He did it alone! Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has joined a choice company of solo explorers and adventurers, because "he did it alone."

Dr. David Livingstone, Henry Stanley, Alexander Selkirk (Robinson Crusoe), Capt. Joshua Slocum, Capt. Harry Pidgeon, Lieut. Andrew S. Rowan, John Colter, and Sir Galahad, did it alone.

"Adventurers 'on their own' have earned the world's best glory wreaths," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

David Livingstone sleeps in Westminster abbey because, traveling by himself, he revealed the geography of the dark heart of Africa. David Livingstone was lost three years to the world when Henry Stanley—alone, except for native carriers—cut through the Congo to reach Livingstone at Ujiji and leave supplies and medical equipment for the missionary explorer.

"The solo adventurer who carried the 'message to Garcia,' like Colonel Lindbergh, wore the American uniform. Elbert Hubbard told the story which thrilled and still thrills; how the young officer on the eve of the Spanish-American war took the message from President McKinley for the commander of the Cuban insurgents deep in the trackless forest; how he crossed to Cuba, braving capture and death as a spy if caught; how he delivered the message to General Garcia which put hope in the hearts of Cubans.

Sailed Around the World.

"Difficulty in making a living in New England prompted Capt. Joshua Slocum to embark on an adventure of unparalleled excellence. Alone he sailed the 'Spray' around the world. Last year Capt. Harry Pidgeon also circumnavigated the world in a still smaller boat, 'The Islander,' a yawl 34 feet long and 10 feet 9 inches on the beam. He returned to Los Angeles, his home port, after an absence of three years, eleven months and thirteen days. On one leg of his voyage Captain Pidgeon did not see a speck of land, a sail, nor the smoke plume of a steamer for 85 days.

"Courage when it goes alone has ever caught men's imaginations. The early birds gave Galahad, Beowulf and St. George, the dragon slayer, no weapon bearers or assistants. More is the credit to the traveled Gulliver, to the Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's court and to Jack the Giant Killer, in the opinions of enthusiastic readers, because they did their deeds without aid. The boy stood on the burning deck," and the poet, who knew the public's preference for heroes, said, 'whence all but he had fled.'

"Many lone adventurers have died here. This has been true of trail makers in the Middle and Far West. While Daniel Boone and David Thompson, he who mapped by himself the country between Lake Superior and the Pacific coast, made their chief expeditions with helpers, each traveled much alone. John Colter left an estate of $220, although he accompanied Lewis and Clark and by himself discovered what is now Yellowstone park. Colter's story shows one of the hazards of traveling alone; no one would believe his descriptions of Yellowstone wonders because he had no partner to confirm them.

"In a cemetery in Shanghai stands a solitary headstone to Frank N. Meyer, plant explorer, who by introducing new plant varieties into the United States, did much to promote American agriculture. Although Meyer had Chinese helpers he pursued constructive adventure without white companions and finally sacrificed his life in a Yangtze river accident.

Alone in China. "Out in China at the present time is Dr. Joseph Rock, who prefers to travel alone. His hazardous journeys to Tibet and Yunnan have yielded, among other finds, the fruit of the chaulmoogra tree, which has been found to cure leprosy. When Peary discovered the North pole he had the Eskimos with him, but he was the only white man to stand on top of the earth!

"Alexander Selkirk's true story proved so pathetically lonesome that Daniel Defoe found it necessary to give him that fictional companion, 'Robinson Crusoe.' Selkirk, the real Crusoe, had a misunderstanding with the captain under whom he sailed and asked to be put off on uninhabited Juan Fernandez island near the Chilean coast. Here British sailors from the 'Duke' found him four years later, scarcely able to talk, surrounded by pet goats, parrots and cats. He was dressed in the skins of goats which he was able to catch by his amazing keenness. A bronze tablet on the island now marks 'Selkirk Lookout.'

"One nonstop solo trip, not as long as that from New York to Paris, was made between Boston and Lexington by another hero who traveled alone, Paul Revere."

Have Sweet Tooth. Atlantic City, N. J.—Americans seem to have a sweet tooth. They eat $25,000,000 tons of candy a year, but that's not enough for members of the National Confectioners' association.

One-Man Tugboats Now Being Used on West Coast

Anacortes, Wash.—Man power is too valuable these days for duplication, so one-man tugboats for towing have gained favor. Towing conditions on the British Columbia coast and in Puget sound are causing the change in methods. Navigation laws require boats of over 32 feet length and nine feet beam to carry certified captains. There is no limit to the power equipment. Thus 30-foot boats are being fitted with 45 to 100 horsepower oil engines and one man does the tending, steering, planting the towlines and stands watch.

LOVELY FOR SUMMER TROUSSEAU IS A LACE AND CHIFFON NEGLIGEE

MILADY'S boudoir is the scene of a picturesque warfare, where the negligee of ultra-feminine type is arraying its beguiling charms against the gorgeous and modernistic coat and trouser mode. So far the score is a tie, therefore stylists declare that due recognition shall be given to each. Speaking from the viewpoint of the ultra-feminine negligee, one is tempted to indulge in rapturous terms of "perfectly lovely," "adorable" and "just darling," in describing them. To come down to "what's what" in teagowns and boudoir apparel, of the daintier type, it is largely a matter of lace and chiffon, styled in an alluringly feminine way. Which means that befrilled and beflowered robes are lending their enchantment to the boudoir scene.

Sheer fabrics, too, abound in unstinted quantity. The exquisite negligee in the picture is just such as should be included in the trousseau of the summer bride. It would be entrancing in pure white or in any of the "sweetly feminine" pastel colorings. For the more formal types, yards and yards of filmy lace or chiffon transparencies resolve themselves into flowing draperies, with sleeves lending their identity in voluminous panel and angel-wing effects. Many of the newer negligees use chiffon and cobweb-like all-over lace, half-in-half, sometimes the floating panels being entirely of lace, with wide borders of the lace at the hemline of the robe.

For daytime wear during the warm-weather months, dainty little negligees which really look like summer-time frocks are made of flower-printed voiles.

NO PERIOD WITHOUT CRADLE AND BABY

Earliest Component Parts of Civilization

The cradle is thought to be as old as civilization. At any rate it is a very ancient piece of furniture that had its place in the very earliest homes. It has come down through the ages together with the many cradle songs. During its existence many styles have been used, and baby has slept in the tree-tops and in all degrees of magnificence. The date when the cradle first assumed its characteristic swinging or rocking is not known, but the small four-posted beds on rockers were common before the Fourteenth century. As early as 1223 the cradle was used to impart to the people of Assisi the real meaning of the Incarnation, says a writer in the Pathfinder Magazine.

The oldest form of cradle known is an oblong oak box without a lid. Originally rockers on cradles were detachable, but like other household appliances this one has been subject to the changes of fashion in shape, adornment, etc. The original and simple shape persisted for several centuries, then the hood made its appearance. During its time the cradle has been paneled, carved, inlaid, and mounted in gilded bronze. In the Eighteenth century cradles became very elaborate, especially those used for state occasions. In modern times they have become lighter and simpler, the old hood usually being left off entirely or replaced by draped curtains. It was about the middle of the Nineteenth century that iron cradles were introduced along with iron bedsteads. Now this ancient article is more often called the "bassinet." Bassinets are usually made of delicate wood frames, iron frames or wicker.

In this country the Indian mother still hangs "baby, cradle and all" to the branch of a tree, where the wind rocks the little red bundle off to sleep. These cradles are usually made of a framework of bark, very warmly lined and packed into a sort of shoe, then both baby and cradle are strapped with reindeer thongs and lashed to the tree. The value of one superior Indian cradle is said to be equivalent to the value of a good horse. Some American babies take over the old family clothes basket (sometimes a new one) for their cradle, while others have elaborate bassinets lined with fancy silks and satins. In all lands cradles are inevitably connected with songs. Generations of mothers have sung: "Hushaby baby in the tree-top" and others.

Defies Passing Years

Auto traffic does not bother John Fitzpatrick, who recently celebrated his one hundred and first birthday at his home in London. "He enjoys every minute of life," said his daughter-in-law. "He likes nothing better than his pipe, and sometimes indulges in a cigarette. When he goes out for a stroll the traffic seems to hold no terrors for him. In fact, he almost dictates to the drivers when he wishes to cross the road. He simply stands still and dares the traffic until the drivers pull up and allow him to cross the road. When I have difficulty with needle and thread he takes them from me and passes the thread through the eye without the least trouble."

Branford Theatre Now Using Cooling Device

The most modern air conditioning and cooling equipment available has been installed and is now operating at the Refrigerated Branford Theatre, Newark, and will continue thru-out the hot spells of summer.

Persons who will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend the Refrigerated Branford will find the playhouse so cool and delightfully comfortable that it can easily be termed "Newark's Greatest Summer Resort."

Popularly, the ingenious machines and devices of this air conditioning system is known as Manufactured Weather. What it actually accomplishes is to completely wash out all air entering the playhouse. During the summer season the temperature and humidity are automatically reduced to the point essential for comfort.

The equipment at the Refrigerated Branford has been designed to supply more than 30 cubic feet of fresh conditioned air a minute for each person in the theatre. The cooling and reduction of humidity during the summer are produced by the operation of a refrigeration machine which supplies cold water to the spray chamber through which the air must pass before permitted to enter the theatre.

The scientifically conditioned air is then diffused into the theatre without permitting any drafts or air-currents. The used air is withdrawn through openings in the floor and other low points in the playhouse.

The Refrigerated Branford's temperature during the hottest days of summer will always be maintained at seventy, the ideal temperature, regardless of the heat outside.

SCHOOL PROJECT IN EAST RAHWAY IS UP TO VOTERS

A Special Election Will be Held on Tuesday, July 26, to Decide Necessity of School

BIDS FOR FENCE OPENED

Commissioners Protest Bill for Moving of Playground Apparatus; Meets Again July 28

A special election on Tuesday, July 26, to decide whether a new school building shall be erected in the East Rahway section, was the decision reached by the Board of Education at their meeting Tuesday. The question that the voters will be asked to vote on is whether or not there shall be purchased a tract of sixteen lots known as the Christenson Tract for $2,500. A further referendum is whether or not there shall be erected on this tract a school structure and furnish the building for a cost not to exceed $82,000 and to authorize a bond issue of $85,000.

After considerable difference of opinion by the Board, the High School was chosen as the most convenient polling place. The polls will be opened at 3.00 p. m., and remain open for one hour or as long thereafter as is necessary for the voters to cast their ballots. Some members were in favor of holding the election at the Nathan Hale School or Washington School. Commissioner Coughlin objected to this move, favoring the High School for its central location.

Commissioner Schwartz objected vigorously to furthering any plans for the East Rahway section, contending that there were only forty-nine school children in that section. Mr. Schwartz also doubted very much that any marked increase in the population of that neighborhood would take place in the near future. Rough calculations based on the number of school children and the cost and upkeep of the school would cost approximately $600 for each of the forty-nine pupils.

Bids for the fencing of the High School and playground were opened. The Cyclone Fence Company bid $2,627; The Anchor Post and Fence Co., $2,748.16 and the Atlas Fence Co. bid $2,850 on a special type of fence and $2,522 on an ordinary type complying with the specifications. The latter was the lowest bid. There was considerable discussion of the fence proposition and the matter was finally laid over to a future meeting.

A bill from the R. E. Fyffe Corporation for $1,495 for removal of old playground apparatus to the new playground and for some new pieces, aroused protest upon the part of Commissioner Charles A. Conrad who contended that the bill was too high. It was referred back to the athletic committee for investigation.

Attorney Elmer E. Brown, solicitor for the Board, presented an opinion regarding insurance for employees of the Board. In part the opinion showed that the Board is not liable for injuries where employees receive more than $1,200 per annum. He advised insurance against death by accident as, he cited cases where Boards of Education had been held liable for support of dependents.

Commissioner Conrad who is a contracting plumber told the Board that he would tap a main and install a drinking fountain in the playground free of charge.

The Board adjourned to meet again on July 28.

WHEELER C. & E. CO. HEAD DENIES FALSE RUMORS

Mr. J. J. Brown Emphatically Asserts Rumors Concerning Plant Are Without Foundation

Mr. J. J. Brown for many years president of the Wheeler Condenser and Engineering Company has called our attention to the fact that the article published in last week's issue of THE NEWS, concerning rumors of the Wheeler Company, merging with the Foster Engineering Company, is untrue.

Further statements by Mr. Brown are as follows: "Neither the Wheeler Condenser & Engineering Company, nor any of its subsidiaries, have been absorbed by the Foster Engineering Company. "The Wheeler Condenser & Engineering Company has experienced no financial difficulties by 'buying out of the Serval Corporation' or for any other reason. The present financial condition of the Wheeler Company is stronger today than it has ever been in its history.

"The Wheeler Company has never owned a share of stock of the Serval Corporation, nor has it been affected in any way by the finances of that Corporation. The Serval Corporation at one time did own a stock interest in the Wheeler Company, but this stock was later resold by the Serval Corporation to, and is now held by, the same parties from whom it was acquired by that Company. "There has been no change in the official staff or management of the Wheeler Company. The Directors, executives and the operating staff are the same as they have been for several years past."

BIG CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY FOR NATIONAL SAFETY

It is Entirely Up To the Individual Says W. C. Wilson, President of Raritan Auto Club

NEED OF QUICK REMEDIES

John J. C. O'Shea Issues Statement Commending Raritan Automobile Club

Each individual must do his share if 1927 is to mark the most successful campaign ever conducted in the cause of safety. National agencies are preparing to launch vigorous attacks on the careless pedestrian and the careless motorist and their main objective will be to gain co-operation of individuals in both classes.

This prospect is linked up with the season of "good resolutions" by William C. Wilson, City Commissioner of Perth Amboy, and President of the Raritan Automobile Club, who declares that "citizens can do no more in the interest of safety than making and keeping a resolution to contribute their share by driving and walking in obedience to the law."

"Like all other problems involving the mass, safety narrows down to the individual," says Mr. Wilson. "We can have sound regulations governing traffic and still have the same number of accidents if individuals persist in taking reckless chances.

"We are certain to see in 1927 the most intensive campaign in the interest of safety. The American Automobile Association and the Associated Auto Club of New Jersey, with which this club is affiliated, are laying the groundwork for a nation-wide educational campaign.

"None of us will question the need for action. The situation would be appalling were it not for the hopes raised by the tremendous amount of thought given to the subject.

"It is up to each individual, old or young, motorist or pedestrian, man, woman or child to think 'Safety' and govern his every move on the street or highway accordingly.

"The best way for the motorist to promote 'Safety' is through organization channels, and the best organization in this neck of the woods is the Raritan Automobile Club, 291 High Street, Perth Amboy."

The article below this is a statement by John J. C. O'Shea, District Agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and a Director of the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce.

"As a member of the Board of Directors of the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce, representing the Life Insurance Division, it was my privilege to vote at a recent meeting in favor of the resolution endorsing the movement to organize the Raritan Automobile Club.

"This Club, under its Charter, becomes actively identified with the American Automobile Association, an institution which now numbers nearly 900 affiliated Clubs throughout the United States with its National Headquarters at Washington devoted to the interests of motorists whether at home or on tour.

"The Raritan Automobile Club is also affiliated with the Associated Auto Clubs of New Jersey, Inc., the State organization representing the A. A. A. and our Membership work will tie in from now on with a state-wide campaign for members through which it is intended to put New Jersey on the A. A. A. map of the United States.

"In the territory assigned to the local Club, which comprises all of Middlesex County and the Northern half of Monmouth County, there are about 40,000 registered car owners. The benefits derived would justify each and every one of these motor car owners in seeking membership at once.

"The service rendered by a well regulated Auto Club to the individual member becomes proportionally more valuable as the membership increases.

"There is no type of organization known wherein the service rendered will return so high a percentage of value in dollars and cents as through a well managed Automobile Club. The New York Automobile Club, affiliated with the A. A. A. estimates an average value per member of more than double the annual rate of dues.

"To equal or even exceed this record the Raritan Automobile Club needs only the wholehearted moral and financial support of the motorists throughout the Raritan Bay District.

"It is therefore a pleasure to state once more that I am proud to be a member of the Board of Directors of the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce, a body of men having the foresight to assist in the promotion of the Raritan Automobile Club which will go far toward adding to the attractions of the Raritan Bay District."

AIDING MERCHANT ALWAYS HELPS TO ADVANCE TOWN

Out-of-Town Buying and Mail Order Support Should be Discontinued Entirely

BOOST BUSINESS LOCALLY

When You Buy From Any Mail Order House You Are Actually Gambling

You should buy from Carteret merchants because it pays you, as we have convinced you in the foregoing articles of the series. It means money in your pocket.

And it means out of your pocket if you don't. Our argument is as simple as a-b-c. If you make a practice of shopping at the city stores, or if you order your goods shipped in by mail, you have only to figure up what these goods have cost you, and compare the total with what the same bill of goods would have cost had you bought it at home.

For instance, the railroad or trolley fare, your hotel bill, the time you waste, the goods you buy that you don't need, the higher prices you pay on account of the stupendous overhead at the city store—all these things must be paid out of your pocket in addition to the value of the goods themselves, plus a reasonable profit.

In the case of the mail-order purchase, there are your money-order and postage fees, the time you have to wait for the arrival of the goods, the freight charges, time lost in exchanging goods that are not what you ordered, the annoyance of not getting the grade you thought you ought to get at the price—these and other charges must be added to what you actually pay for the goods.

The so-called "bargain" is the lure that awaits the unwary customer in both instances.

For every loss you sustain from these two methods of buying, the community suffers a double loss. Whether you reside in the limits of Carteret and work there, or whether you reside outside and consider that residence on the farm frees you of all obligations toward the town, when you spend elsewhere for your needs that should have remained in the community, you weaken the business life of the community by just so much.

What this drain would mean if everybody in the community followed this short-sighted policy is not far to seek. Bankruptcy would be the result, with merchants being forced out of business, stores bearing "for rent" signs, the taxable property of the community suffering a decline and its attractiveness as a business and residence center suffering eclipse.

Buy of the home-town merchant and you assure Carteret of a permanent booster. He does not plan to stay here for a certain length of time and then to move to some other place, he is here to stay, for it is his home, and the home of his children. Like every other parent, he wants his children to have the best possible start in life, and while he is working for this end for his own family, he is taking the lead among those other parents who harbor the same ambitions for their children.

To maintain this leadership our home-town merchants must be supported. They set the pace, and rally the forces of good citizenship. Take the roster of your merchants and convince yourself that this is so. The men in your general stores, in your drygoods and grocery stores, your hardware and implement dealers, your druggists, your harness shop and shoe store men, your tinsmiths, your garage men, your elevator men and your produce dealers, your lumber merchants and dealers in building supplies, the men running your dairies and creameries, mills and factories, as well as other employers of labor, and others in these various affiliated lines.

Their leadership deserves the support of every good citizen in town. In fact, every man, woman and child in the community has a moral responsibility in the matter. These men work for the good of the home-town, and therefore everybody who has the welfare of the community at heart is in duty bound to work with them and sustain them in the things they are trying to accomplish.

Buy from Carteret merchants—NOW and ALWAYS!

Make a date to go down on the Excursion this Sunday, July 17. Under auspices of St. Joseph's Parish.

RELIEF FROM HEAT ASSURES SUCCESS OF LOCAL OUTING

Many Will Seek Relief at Seashore via St. Joseph's Excursion on Sunday to Highlands

The present heat wave has brought a flood of last minute requests for tickets, for the Excursion of St. Joseph's Parish to Highland Beach and Long Branch on Sunday.

A sufficient number of coaches have been secured to insure plenty of room on the train. The committee have made all arrangements possible for the comfort of the excursionists.

Atlantic Highlands and Long Branch have added attractions this year, and both places are fast becoming very popular as seashore resorts affording pleasure seekers either ocean or river bathing, many pavilions for basket parties and amusements.

The scenic aspect about the Highlands is the finest along the coast and attracts many, while the bathing in the Shrewsbury River at Highland Beach affords much safety for the children.

The train schedule is as follows: Train leaves: Chrome, 10.51 a. m.; Liebig's Lane, 10.54 a. m.; Carteret, 11 a. m.; East Rahway, 11.10 a. m.; Port Reading Crossing, 11.15 a. m. and Perth Amboy, 11.23 a. m.

Returning the train will leave Highland Beach at 7.30 p. m., stopping at East Long Branch.

CAREFUL MEDICAL EXAMINATION FOR CAMP APPLICANTS

Over Two Hundred Successful Candidates Have Passed Their Entrance Examination

HEALTH STANDARD IS HIGH

The Committee on Nursing Will Visit Camp Daily and Closely Watch the Children

The Middlesex County Kiddie Keep Well Camp has enlisted the voluntary services of a large corps of nurses and physicians to keep up the health standards of the Camp. The Committee on Admissions of the Camp consisting of the following: Dr. William London, Chairman, Dr. B. H. Siroff of Perth Amboy, Dr. L. A. M. Feher and Dr. F. C. Johnson of New Brunswick and Dr. A. A. Pansy of South River, have examined all the children who have applied for admission to the Camp. In addition to this number they have examined more than 200 children, some of whom were not suitable candidates for the camp as they were up to normal weight, others who were found to be too undernourished to benefit at the camp and have been sent to the Preventorium at Farmingdale and still others who are only slightly undernourished and who are on the camp waiting list and will be admitted if any vacancies occur. All the children had a second examination on the day of their admission to camp by Dr. William London to see that no contagious entered the camp. In addition to this Dr. London goes out to the camp weekly for an inspection. He also together with his committee oversee the general program of the camp, prescribe the amount of rest periods and the diets.

The Committee on Nursing, of which Miss Marie Nielsen, Supervising nurse of the Middlesex County T. B. League is chairman, visit the camp daily and if there are any symptoms which seem to be dangerous, the nurse immediately takes these children to the doctors on the emergency committee; Mrs. M. C. Winckler, New Brunswick, Miss M. F. Armstrong, Miss Matilda Olsen, Miss Anna Petersen, Miss Gladys Dames, Mrs. Helen Mortensen of Perth Amboy and Miss Helen Hackett of Carteret.

The doctors on the emergency committee are on call for any accident or sudden illness. The camp has been in operation for three years now and there have been no accidents or no child has been sick enough to require his dismissal from the camp.

There are now 75 children at the camp and almost every town in the county is represented. Almost every nationality group and religious creed are represented.

Motion to adjourn was carried. H. VO. PLATT, Clerk.

Be it Ordained by the Council of the Borough of Carteret:

1. The owner or owners of the lands fronting or bordering thereon are hereby directed to construct, pave, repave, curb, recurb, improve and repair at his or their own proper costs and expense, the sidewalks on both sides of Longfellow Street, between Washington Avenue and Blanchard Street, in the Borough of Carteret, on or before August 25, 1927, in the manner following, to wit:

Said sidewalks shall be curbed or recurbed with good quality "Blue-stone" not less than four feet long nor less than sixteen inches deep and four inches thick for twelve inches down from the top measured at right angles to the face, and the back shall be free from projections of more than two inches and shall be paved with a sidewalk constructed of concrete not less than five feet in width, the outer edge parallel to and three feet inside of the curbline and laid to the established sidewalk grade allowing a rise of one-quarter of an inch to the foot from the curbline toward the property line. The concrete sidewalk shall be constructed of an eight inch cinder sub-base and a three and one-half inch base of 1-2-4 concrete and a one-half inch one to one and one-half mortar finish; all work shall be done under the supervision and direction of the street committee and the Borough Engineer; providing, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to effect any sidewalks or curbs on said street now in good repair and constructed on said grade and slope, said sidewalks being now paved in accordance herewith.

2. In case the owner or owners of any of the lands fronting or bordering on said street, shall fail to construct, pave, repave, curb, recurb, improve and repair the said sidewalks on or before the date above fixed, then the Borough Council shall cause such work to be done, and the costs and expense thereof shall be assessed upon the lands benefited.

Introduced July 5, 1927. Passed on first and second readings July 5, 1927.

Advised with notice of hearing, July 8, 1927 and July 15, 1927. H. VO. PLATT, Borough Clerk.

NOTICE Notice is hereby given that the foregoing ordinance was introduced at a regular meeting of the Council of the Borough of Carteret held on the 5th day of July, 1927, at Borough Hall, at 8 o'clock, P. M., the said Borough Council will consider the final passage of said ordinance, when and where any person or persons whose lands may be affected by this ordinance, or who may be interested therein, will be given an opportunity to be heard concerning the same.

H. VO. PLATT, Borough Clerk.

Mother Slays Baby to Send It to Heaven

Frackville, Pa.—Mrs. Mary E. Heine, aged twenty-seven, of Frackville, is in the county jail at Pottsville, charged with shooting to death her three-and-a-half-year-old son, William, an only child, as he slept in his bed.

"Now I am sure he is in heaven," said Mrs. Heine, after she fired four bullets at the child. Two of the bullets went through the boy's head and he died in the State hospital, Fountain Springs.

Mrs. Heine was committed to the county jail by Squire Punell. She is believed to have been temporarily insane. She has been melancholy for some weeks. Her mother, Mrs. Peter Franks, hearing the shots, rushed into the child's bedroom, and with the help of Mrs. Snyder, a neighbor, wrested the revolver from her daughter's hand. Mrs. Heine appeared calm a short time after the shooting.

Lone Doughboy Buried in Rumanian Mound

Bukharest, Rumania.—A solitary American doughboy is buried in the cemetery of Bellu here where Rumania places her distinguished military dead.

He is Edward Newell Ware, first class private in the United States army from 1892 to 1919. He died of sickness while working with the American relief administration in Rumania.

Rumania never forgets the presence of this lone soldier on alien soil. On the day when the soldier dead are honored flowers are always placed upon his grave.

California Coed Wants to Fly to Honolulu

San Francisco.—The realm of transoceanic flyers, which thus far has belonged exclusively to man, is threatened with an invasion of the fair sex.

With two women already making plans to fly over the Pacific as fellow adventurers with the men who will pilot the planes, a coed at the University of California recently appeared with an offer to accompany any Pacific flyer who would take her along as a companion. She is Miss Rose Anderson.

The two who are making definite plans for flights are Miss Mildred Doran of Flint, Mich., who expects to take passage with Angie Peddler, Michigan aviator, who has entered for the mainland-to-Honolulu flight, and a woman who has made plans to fly from Dallas to Hongkong.

Mothers "Check" Babies in London Theaters

London.—Parking facilities with attendants for babies and perambulators have been arranged for at a new cinema in Edmonton, a London borough.

Mothers who check their youngsters may be summoned from the theater, in event of an emergency, within a minute or so by the number of their baby check being flashed on the screen during the film performance.

Sidney L. Bernstein, proprietor of the new Edmonton movie house, says the scheme has worked so successfully that the idea is to be adopted in the string of ten cinemas which he controls.

Faithful Mongrel Finds His Way, 45 Miles, Home

Milwaukee.—Mickey is only a four-year-old mongrel dog, but under his yellow coat beats a heart whose life is loyalty to his master, William Rose Jr., eight. Two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Rose and William went to Wauwatosa, Wis., taking Mickey with them. Leaving him there with friends, they returned to their home here and thought they were rid of the mongrel. But Mickey is back home. The dog found his way, somehow, over the distance of 45 miles, which he never before had traversed.

Black Eyes New Style

London, England.—Black eyes are now the style among the smart Mayfair set. The black eyes are furnished by beauty-parlor experts and not by pugilists.

Brocade Stocking Fad Introduced in Paris

Even Paris has been startled by a new style. Cafe crowds on the boulevards recently were aroused by the new brocade stockings in which many young women suddenly appeared. These stockings, the most sensational of the spring styles, when worn with very short skirts are most arresting. Heavy embroidery is combined with generous open work, and black is the favorite color.

War Hero With Many Medals Asks for Job

Los Angeles, Calif.—An appeal to City Engineer Shaw to find in his department a position for Louis Van Iersel, said to have received more decorations than any man who served in the World war, was made by Dr. A. D. Houghton of the state committee of the hospital department, American Legion. Iersel, whose health was unimpaired during the war, formerly worked in the city survey department of the engineer's office.

Iersel has received medals from the King of England for life-saving at sea; the French Croix de Guerre for rescuing 16 wounded comrades; a second Croix de Guerre for capturing 65 Germans, five of them officers, during the battle of the Argonne; the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Medaille Militaire; the Italian War Cross the War Cross of Montenegro, and 111 memberships in the American Legion and the Disabled Veterans of the World War. He also received the "Hero" medal of the Breakfast club recently.

One-Horned Rhinoceros Is Found in Java Jungle

Berlin.—A scaly monster of the pre-human ages of the earth, surviving into modern times on the swampy fastnesses of southern Java, is reported to the scientific journal, Die Umschau, by Dr. P. Vageler.

It is described as a one-horned rhinoceros, related to a form already known elsewhere in the East Indies, but differing from it in that its hide is closely covered with small, horny scales. It also has enormous front teeth, like those of the hippopotamus. It has often been described by the natives under the name "Tanggiling," which means "scaly beast," but Europeans were incredulous. Finally photographs were brought out of the jungle showing the animal.

Faked Insanity Gains Liberty for Prisoners

Alamo, Tenn.—For pure "hokus pokus," Will Vaughn and James Legon, negroes, who had been in the local jail on charges of larceny and housebreaking, seem to have carried away the prize.

About ten days ago Vaughn became a raving "maniac." County authorities had him examined and he was carried to Bolivar. A few days later Legon "threw a fit" also. He became so wild that it took several men to manage him. Striking at everybody near and biting his tongue, he was adjudged insane and carried to the hospital for treatment.

Now comes the news that both have escaped from the Bolivar institution, and reliable information has been gathered that the whole proceedings with reference to their state of health was faked.

Wife Slain in Flat She Rented as Actress

San Francisco.—Mrs. Frances Elliston, twenty-five years old, pretty blonde wife of Roy Elliston, a local resident, was shot to death by an unidentified man in an apartment which she had rented under the name of "Miss F. (Tiny) Thomas." She had lived in the rented apartment a few days and had given the impression that she was an actress.

The shooting followed a terrific struggle for life, in which the woman struck her assailant on the left temple with a sugar bowl, inflicting a wound from which blood streamed as he escaped down the hall, waving a pistol and intimidating residents who tried to stop him. The woman's husband furnished police with clues expected to result in his capture. He also said the woman was on friendly terms with a man he did not know.

INDIANS HAVE NO SINGLE RELIGION

Beliefs Among Various Tribes Differ.

Washington.—Nearly 100,000 Indians in the United States are untouched by Christian doctrines, the board of Indian commissioners recently estimated, and remain to all intents and purposes pagans, presumably still holding in large measure the beliefs of their ancestors. What these primitive Indian religious beliefs are is told in a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Poetic fancy and a natural tendency to describe newly encountered beliefs and customs in terms of those already familiar have given white people many false ideas in regard to the religious beliefs of the American Indians," says the bulletin. "Some enthusiasts have pictured the typical red man as noble and ethical beyond his white brother, believing in a fatherly 'Great Spirit' and striving to live the good life that he may go after death to the 'Happy Hunting Ground.' This is a fallacy.

Have No Single Religion. "There is no single religion of the American Indians. Instead the beliefs differed widely in different sections and among different tribes. There was, however, a general similarity of views, and these were about what could have been expected from people of a relatively primitive degree of culture. Nowhere does what could truly be called the conception of a 'Great Spirit,' an overruling deity, emerge.

"There were greater and lesser spirits, to be sure, but the characteristic Indian belief is in a multitude of spirits animating animals, objects and the various forces of nature. Nor were these spirits inherently good or bad, morally. They might help or hinder the individual in his activities or health, and whether they did the one or the other was the test of their 'goodness' or 'badness' for him.

"The primitive Indian has no conception of a hell; nor is his entry into the spirit land dependent on his conduct. He enters it as a matter of course, he believes, and continues there whatever activities have interested him in this life. To some tribes this is a 'skyland,' to others it is merely a region of the earth, 'in the west,' 'across the sea,' or 'beyond a river.' Others believe the villages of the dead to be near their villages but invisible.

Believe in Magic.

"Coupled in the mind of the primitive Indian with a belief in many spirits is a belief in magic, through which the spirits can be influenced. The medicine men possessed the secrets of such magic, it was believed, and often interceded. All Indians believe in the possession of a soul which leaves the body at death. They also believe that it leaves at other times, and some tribes ascribe illness to this absence of the soul. The services of the medicine man are sought to recover the missing soul. Belief in a continuing soul did not lead to ancestor worship as among Eastern peoples.

"Most Indian mythologies do not concern themselves with creation; they assume the existence of the earth and deal with its peopling and with the origin of arts, customs and rites. All these are supposed to have come by a sort of revelation. "Some tribes, however, especially those of the Pacific coast region, do have a creation myth. In some it is 'Old Man Above,' in others an animal such as the coyote or the silver fox, who makes a hole in the sky, comes to earth and creates the animals and men. In some of these myths there is only water beneath the sky, but the descending being creates the earth in the form of an island which grows.

Morality Well Developed.

"Morality and ethics were well developed among American Indians. They have a strong sense of conscience and many individuals are strikingly benevolent. The tribal morality was strict. He who lied, failed to keep his promises, or stole within the tribe was disgraced. Murder, too, was punished. War removed ethical barriers among Indians as it has among most people in all ages. It then became a virtue for the Indian to kill his enemies and to take their property.

"On the whole, the Indian's religious beliefs may be described as being wholly practical and as springing from fear of the more or less hostile forces of nature that surround him. His various rites arose from his efforts to propitiate or to take advantage of these forces."

Form "Cavalry Troop" in China; Use Ponies

Washington.—Lacking a cavalry troop and feeling that one might be useful, officers of the Fifteenth United States infantry, guarding part of the Tientsin-Peking railway in China, have improvised a mounted outfit with their foot soldiers.

One officer and thirty-four men of the headquarters company were told off for this duty. Their mounts are Mongolian ponies, which range from 13 to 14 hands in height and average about 700 pounds in weight.

The Fifteenth infantry headquarters company platoon has been trained by Capt. H. M. Henderson in horsemanship, cavalry drill, patrolling and street fighting, with frequent practice marches of 18 to 40 miles.

Peril Lurks in Bathtub, Accident Check Shows

Hartford, Conn.—The bathtub is one of the most dangerous articles of furniture in the American home so far as accidents are concerned, the annual analysis made for 1926 by the Travelers' Insurance company shows. The use of the bathtub is far more hazardous than getting in or out of bed and even more risky than occupying a step of a supposedly unstable ladder.

THE VACATION WARDROBE SHOULD INCLUDE A SIMPLE JERSEY FROCK

OF COURSE you are not thinking of starting on that vacation trip without a smart jersey sports frock. If so, be of good cheer, for there is yet time to change your mind, and it's a fact your wardrobe would be sadly lacking without a pretty, becoming jersey one-piece dress or jumper suit. Nothing equal to jersey for faithful service! A jersey frock has the faculty of being tucked into any corner of auto trunk or week-end suitcase, coming forth at the propitious moment unwrinkled and ready to wear.

The jersey frock in the picture is a likeable model, because of its extreme simplicity; likewise its extreme modishness. It makes its style appeal in such smart details as a to-the-front plaited fullness, also its twin-belt effect, these two-in-one belts being outstanding in the season's showings. Clever innovations are continually being introduced in the styling of jersey frocks. They are such as tend to maintain a lively enthusiasm for the dress or suit or ensemble of jersey. There is, for instance, the unique method of employing several shades of the same color, as in case of a blue jersey frock, which seams several cone-shaped sections together, ranging from navy through deift and marine, to palest tint, the entire crossing the blouse from one central point like rays of the sun. So deftly are the colors assembled and the fabrics manipulated, the effect is rather that of an ombre material which is dyed in the knitting. Metallic interknit effects are smartly exploited in jersey. Lovely for summer sportswear are pastel colored or white jersey frocks embroidered with gay woolen yarns.

The Fellow Who's Satisfied

By EVELYN GAGE BROWNE

LOOK out for the fellow who's satisfied. And who thinks he knows it all! He has missed his chances and never tried. So he's due for a good hard fall. He believes there's nothing more to know. That he's quite as smart as they make— In fact he thinks he's the whole show And most other folks a fake. But while he was patting himself on the back, This poor, self-satisfied guy: He got switched off on a one-way track While the chances passed him by. You've got to be up and doing today, With your eyes on the goal ahead, And you've got to be quick or the chance gets away, And the other chap has it instead. You can't sit around in this age of ours When there's such a lot to do, And every one of life's wasted hours Means just that much loss for you. You must have still higher things in view, And know there's a lot to learn, That there's always something better to do And a chance at every turn. And the man who knows that he doesn't know, Is more than half on the way TO KNOW, and make his knowledge grow More vital with every day. So don't be content till you've done your best, And never be satisfied Until you've met the hardest test, And have tried, and tried, and TRIED! And THEN don't be satisfied, My Friend; For there's greater things to do Than were ever done—and there's just no end To the chances in store for YOU!

Bet on Bryan in 1896; Still Has His Whiskers

Romulus, N. Y.—A monument to the late William Jennings Bryan and his unsuccessful aspirations for the Presidency hangs here in the whiskers of a supporter who vowed never to shave until the great Commoner became President. William Hilkert is the Bryanite whose beard grows on and on. He made the compact with William Dempsey, another ardent supporter of Bryan, when the Commoner first ran for President some 30 years ago, and arranged with Dempsey to trim his hair and shave him publicly in honor of the predicted victory. The victory didn't materialize, but the beard did. Upon Bryan's last defeat Hilkert decided he was through even with voting, and hasn't cast a vote for any candidate for any office, national, state or local, since.

Pet Cat Gives Life to Save Eight From Gas

New York.—A pet cat gave its life to save eight persons from death by coal gas asphyxiation. Scratching on a bedroom door of one of the apartments in a six-story tenement house in Monroe street, the cat awakened an eighteen-year-old boy, who detected the fumes and spread the alarm. The cat's body was later found under a table.

So Now We Know

The Egyptians developed writing in three stages, first they wrote symbols for the idea that they wanted to represent, for instance for a bee they made a picture of a bee; for a leaf a picture of a leaf. Then they combined both symbols and they expressed such an abstract thought as belief, a combination of "bee" and "leaf." Student's examination paper for matriculation at an eastern college.

New Metal Alloy

Harder than steel or softer than lead, according to the way it is made, is a new alloy reported in Popular Science Monthly. It was discovered by T. D. Kelly, London chemist, who calls it softium, and declares it to be impervious to powerful acids. It may replace platinum, he says, wherever that costly metal is used in industry because of its resistance to oxidation and corrosion. The alloy is prepared from oxides and earth metals.

Reforestation the Only Practical Solution of the Flood Problem

By CHARLES LATHROP PACK, American Tree Association.

OUR population is increasing at the rate of about 1,000,000 a year. Couple the flood situation and the population increase. Trees at the headwaters play a big part in flood control.

This condition helps to cause floods. The available supply of rain water needed for the thirsty crops is wasted as flood waters. This is one of the lessons of deforestation set forth in the forestry primer which we published to mark 1926 the semicentennial of forestry.

Reforestation must enter into any plan for control of the Mississippi. Every acre of land in this valley, the nation's bread basket, contributes to flood conditions. Failure to hold the absorptive surface soil of fields and pastures against the denudation of erosion has contributed to a much more rapid removal of the water that falls upon these eroded lands.

University Students Interested in Public Policies Only as Citizens

By DAVID KINLEY, President University of Illinois.

In the years since the war there has been a notable increase in the attempts to use college and university students for purposes of propaganda. Conferences have been called by individuals, "representatives" of students and institutions have been sent to attend them, and resolutions have been duly drawn up to be presented to congress or the President, or to some other public authority.

I have refused to participate in any of these conferences. I have taken the ground that if the students wish to participate, they are free to do so; that if they wish my help I will give it; but that I have no right to send one or two students, picked by myself, to any conference and say that they represent the 13,000 men and women of the University of Illinois.

Conferences of the kind referred to have been called mainly to help on movements for or against some particular public policy. Such matters are not students' business. Their interest in those matters is their interest as citizens and not as students.

Atmosphere of Fear From Bottom to Top in World of Business

By ANNE W. ARMSTRONG, Business Problem Lecturer.

Our great businesses are breeding atmospheres in which fear flourishes. Granite walls, marble corridors, smart uniformed guides, hushed ante-rooms, luxurious suites—the environment conspires to awe what with all its bravado is the essentially timid human spirit.

But it is not merely a question of the problem of the right kind of home-like and amiable scenery. To be candid, it is the business leader far more than the business scene that prevents business life from fulfilling more of the conditions of the good life.

But there is also fear at the top. Business leaders are plagued day and night by visions of Bolsheviks and a hundred other bugaboos. Many business men see industrial spooks everywhere and they live in a state of perpetual fear.

If it is not fear, what is the source of that savage abuse heaped upon anyone who presumes to point out a single business blemish? In Roosevelt's day, he was, at worst, a muckraker. Now even the most friendly and good-humored critic of business has become the garbage gatherer. Or he has fastened upon him the supreme epithet of condemnation—"Uplifter."

We must get rid of fear in business. It is destroying character. It is limiting production. It is keeping business back.

Tenets of Christianity as They Should Be Applied to Industrial Matters

By SHERWOOD EDVY, Author and Lecturer.

I can see no other alternative as a Christian than to grant equal right to employers and employees to organize and choose their own representatives. If we deny that right I can see no other result than violence.

Before the Reformation, religion was the one great passion of life. With the Reformation came the separation of the sacred and the secular and religion was divorced from business and politics. The church became silent on great moral issues. For long centuries the church had been the ally of the poor, but then it became identified with the successful interests and we witnessed the strange spectacle of labor drawing apart from the church.

Some of the things necessary if Christianity is to be applied to industry are a fair living wage, fair hours of work, security of life and employment, opportunity for labor to have some voice in determining its own working conditions, and some stake in the prosperity of the business.

There must be profit in industry if industry is to succeed, but whose should the profit be? Is our property ownership or stewardship, privilege or responsibility? The gain socially created should be socially shared. Can we not apply our political principles to our industrial life? Cannot our industries be made of the people, by the people and for the people?

In our great industrial centers should we not realize that the greatest factor of all is not our machinery but our men?

Wife Raids Cigar Box; Chastisement Upheld

Atlantic City, N. J.—A husband has full control over his cigars and his wife may not molest them, it was decided here by Magistrate Andrew Jacoby. Charged with assault and battery, Duco Johnson was haled into court by his wife. She testified that during a party at their home she distributed cigars from a box her husband had "selfishly hidden," and that he then struck her. Other testimony indicated that this began a general melee in which husband, wife and guests took part.

Magistrate Jacoby dismissed the charge because Johnson was "as badly battered as his wife" and because "a man's cigars are his inviolable property, to do with as he wishes."

BOY SWIMS FLOOD TO SAVE MARINES

Brings Warning of Damaged Bridge in Time.

St. Louis.—Garland Bowman, seventeen-year-old high-school student, swam a swollen creek and likely saved a Missouri-Kansas-Texas train, carrying several hundred marines en route to San Diego, Cal., from accident, it is announced at the company's offices.

The youth, at about 5:45 a. m., discovered a portion of the track had been washed away between Walnut and Fort Scott, Kan. He swam the swollen creek which had done the damage and ran to inform a station agent near Walnut. The train carrying the troops had just left Hepler, the last stop before Walnut. The railroad man and Bowman raced up the track. But they saw the headlight of the approaching train and realized they could not gain the other side of the creek before the train did. They lighted their flares and waved them; the locomotive slowed down and stopped just before it reached the washout.

Earlier in the morning the engineer and fireman of a southbound M.-K.-T. train were drowned and 18 persons were injured a short distance away, but on a different route from where the marine train danger was averted. The accident was caused by the overflow of Flat creek. Some time later a northbound train, rerouted because of the wreck, was wrecked a short distance south, and on the same line from where the marine train was halted. Flat creek also caused the trouble at this place. There were no serious injuries.

Knitting Woman Juror Makes Britons Gasp

London.—May women knit while serving as jurors in court?

One woman has already done it in Justice Ivory's court, to the consternation of antifeminists, and there does not seem to be any way to stop the practice. The middle-aged woman who established a precedent took off her hat in a businesslike manner when she entered the jury box, produced her knitting and went to work.

She listened attentively to the proceedings, looking up from time to time when something interested her especially. It was clear that she was following the proceedings carefully, so there was no opening to charge her with inattention.

On another occasion a woman juror passed chocolates to other women who were serving on the jury. This was done discreetly and no judicial notice was taken of the act.

Women witnesses who were waiting to testify have frequently knitted in British courts, especially in war times, and no attempt has ever been made to stop this practice.

Music's Forward Strides

One of the interesting subjects discussed by the musicians at their recent meeting in Chicago was whether America is musical. Practically all the famous musicians of Europe come to this country for final recognition and to collect the money American music lovers pay so readily to hear them. . . . Men and women who are fond of music and interested in musicians are learning that they have talent at home and that such talent should have a chance to develop. . . . Children of the public schools are learning about good music every day. All will not become musicians, but many will learn to tell the good from the bad, and those who have talent will be helped to develop it, says the Indianapolis News. Nobody wishes to ban the artistry of the old world, but the feeling grows that there is an opportunity for American music and musicians if those who are capable of fostering such development will work together.

It is an interesting new plan to end down the mortality at grade crossings which has been put into effect by Pennsylvania state police working in conjunction with Pennsylvania railroad officials, says the Philadelphia Record. The experiment has first been inaugurated on the Sunbury division of the railroad, troopers being placed on duty at dangerous crossings, with orders to arrest automobile drivers who do not observe caution signs and warning bells. Later, it is said, a general order will be issued from Harrisburg to all troopers in the state. The idea, of course, is to stop the playful practice among motorists of trying to beat a speeding train to the crossing. Since there is a law providing for the arrest of those who unsuccessfully attempt suicide, there is no reason why the principle of that law should not be applied to these other foolish people who hold their own lives and the lives of others so cheaply.

THE saying, "To bell the cat," comes from one of Aesop's fables. A colony of mice having suffered greatly from the sly tricks of a cat, met together to devise a remedy. A young mouse rose at the meeting and bravely proposed that a bell should be hung from the cat's neck and thus timely notice of her approach would always be given. This suggestion was greeted with great applause by the colony until a wise, old mouse, put the pertinent question: "Who will bell the cat?" Hence the expression, "To bell the cat," has come to mean to destroy or thwart a common enemy at a great personal risk.—Anna S. Turnquist.

ODD WAYS YIELD TO MODERN TREND

Americans Cause Important Changes in Albania.

Tirana, Albania.—Picturesque costumes of Albania are succumbing to progress, and America has a large share in causing the metamorphosis.

Albanians have been called "more Turkish than the Turks" because of their faithful adherence to traditions imported by Mohammedan invaders centuries ago.

The United States government came to conflict with the Mohammedan faith in its purchase of a site for a new legation.

American shoes are popular with all classes. The peasants and mountaineers cling most avidly to ancient custom, but even at weddings American shoes may be seen worn in odd contrast to native costumes.

Of the country's 700 motor cars, 600 are American, the preference being explained by the statement that "American cars are the best climbers and swiftest."

An American who tried to introduce modern farming methods was vanquished by the old-fashioned donkey and stunted Albanian ox.

Tree Comes to Meet Farmer at the Barn

Pomeroy, Ohio.—Alonso Kesterson has never believed in fairies, but now—well, consider the evidence: Mr. Kesterson, who is past the age of believing in fairies, owns a farm just outside Pomeroy.

"I wish that old tree was down in the barn lot," he confided to his grandson the other morning. "I like them apples special and it's gittin' too hard to climb up there."

Show Dog Vaccination

Paris.—Vaccination of dogs has done much to stamp out rabies, it was agreed by scientists attending a recent rabies congress at the Pasteur institute.

Japan, Italy and the United States, it was said, had vaccinated several hundred thousand dogs. The results have shown that dogs so treated developed rabies in only a small percentage of the cases.

$10,000,000 BUG AIR FORCE TO MAKE WAR FOR FARMERS

Recruits for Army of Aerial Fighters Being Trained by Bureau of Etymology.

New York.—An aerial fighting force numbering untold millions of European bugs that look like small, fighting biplanes will be loosed upon America within the next few years and will fight under the banner of the American farmer to make the world safe for field corn.

Recruits for this vast army of air fighters are being trained and multiplied by Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of etymology, at the government laboratory in Arlington, Mass., under an appropriation of $10,000,000.

The plan is, says Doctor Howard in Farm and Fireside, to employ a principle of "bug-eat-bug" in fighting the corn borer by developing a European type of parasite which preys upon the enemy of America's greatest crop.

One of the most spectacular types of these aerial warriors, is a wasp-like insect that drives its stinger with unerring accuracy through a corn-stalk to the tunnel where the borer is hidden and lays its eggs of slow death upon it.

Beats Wife to Death in Hunt for Savings

New York.—The lure of a few hundred dollars which he believed his wife, Helen De Mars, sixty years old, had concealed in her stockings, caused Edward De Mars, fifty-eight, to beat her to death with a hammer in their West Seventy-first street apartment, he confessed recently.

The woman's body, with head crushed, was found lying across the bed. Her stockings, in which she was accustomed to put money she collected from some 20 roomers in the house, were slit from the tops down.

De Mars said he had found no money in his wife's stockings as he expected.

The police declared Mrs. De Mars had several thousand dollars in a savings bank and had made out a will leaving $7,000 to her husband. She also had at least one insurance policy for $1,000 of which he was the beneficiary.

De Mars, six feet tall and weighing more than 200 pounds, was an ironworker, but in the last ten years had worked at odd jobs. The De Mars were married 20 years ago in Norristown, Pa.

Blaw Restores Memory

Toronto.—After losing his memory twenty-five years ago and wandering over the world as a seaman, Frank Burgess has regained his faculties as a result of a blow on the head by a falling tree. When he recovered consciousness he was able to recall past experiences in Australia and South American ports.

Fish Culture Increasing

More than 190,000 persons in the United States are engaged in fisheries or the fishing industries, a business that represents an investment of $202,000,000, according to the annual report of the bureau of fisheries, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Fish culture is steadily developing in this country, supporting the contention that an acre of water can be made to produce as much nourishing food as an acre of land, the report shows.

About $200,000 worth of trout eggs are produced by commercial firms each year and surplus fish are marketed at good prices. The annual output of goldfish is approximately 20,000,000, valued at $350,000. More than 150,000 acres of oyster grounds are under lease from Massachusetts to Florida.

Hoboes Fatten on Good Nature of Housewives

New Britain, Conn.—Any good hobo with a hard-luck story can make from $12 to $15 a day, in the opinion of Prof. W. E. Bailey, formerly of Yale, who lived the life of a tramp three summers and then for ten years conducted a hobo's lodging-house.

"Thanks to the American housewife, the easiest thing a tramp does is to eat," he said in telling of his experiences at a Rotary club's dinner. "The only objection he has to the American housewife is that she insists on feeding him cake and pie when what he wants is a slice of meat between two pieces of bread."

Briton Finds New Way to Get Auto Repaired

London.—A new way to get one's automobile repaired has been discovered by a London man. The formula is to leave it standing alongside another one of the same make in the hope that the owner of the other car will mistake it for his own and put it in order.

Any way this happened at a seaside resort recently. A Londoner returned in the evening to the place where his car was parked but on getting into it he found that it wouldn't start. Thereupon he climbed out, removed and cleaned the spark plugs, turned up the magneto and adjusted the carburetor. The car started off beautifully just as the real owner rushed up shouting, "Police." The first man then found his own car just behind the one which he had so kindly repaired.

Likes "Poker Face"

London.—The tennis expert of the Westminster Gazette is quite enthusiastic over the fair Helen of California. Her victory over bare-legged Billie Tapscott of South Africa the critic describes as "a miracle of hitting" by "a demure figure of gracious efficiency, without parade, without the suspicion of a side, without a fragment of fanfare."

South Sea Flappers Taking to Clothes

San Francisco.—Too many clothes are ruin of the South Sea Isles. Not only for romance's sake—but although Joseph Darnard, bishop of Samoa and the Union Islands, devoutly believes in romance—but for reasons of health, clothing is undesirable in the tropics.

The bishop, interviewed here on his way to Rome after 22 years in the islands, is a proponent of the theory that aborigines are best off when left alone.

He is definitely opposed to allowing South Sea islanders to wear trousers, shirts or collars.

Nor, he says, should tropic maidens adopt even the flimsy lingerie of their civilized sisters.

The tappa or cotton cloth, worn from neck to knees by the women and about the loins by the men, is a sufficient garment for all uses in the South Seas, the bishop declares.

"These people were constituted, born healthy; clothing reduces their vitality and contributes to the ills which have nearly exterminated some races of islanders," he says.

"The islanders can be civilized without clothing. Their condition should be improved, but it is wrong to revolutionize the ways that nature has taught them to live."

Community Loyalty

Loyalty to the Community means Everything.
It is the Essential Factor to Community Growth and Development.
Merchants who operate in the Community and Spend their Money elsewhere are not deserving of your support.
Merchants who sell you in the Community and invest in your Community are the ones you should rally behind.
It is a Requisite of Loyalty to support the men and institutions who support our Community.
Trade at Home whenever it is at all possible.
But when you do trade in the Community, patronize the Merchant who is doing things for your Community and not confining his efforts solely and selfishly to his own interests.
Give your support to those who labor with and contribute to all forces for the Commercial Progress and Moral Betterment of our Neighborhood.
Remember—Loyalty Means Everything To Our Community.

A Word to the Wise

By Greenberg, the Bargain Creator—
 Folks:—

Here I am with the greatest underselling event ever put before an intelligent buying public. I am closing out our entire Summer Stock in the shortest time possible; nothing can prevent me. I have gone through my complete stock, cutting and slashing prices of my own free will; nothing has stood in my way. I have left a trail of wrecked prices, using no discrimination in this onslaught. No reserves, everything in the store included in this great maelstrom. Taking this paper, laying it down without reading it is like throwing away money.

In my attempt to clear out my entire Summer Stock to the BARE WALLS, I have forgotten costs and losses. Folks come up here and I'll show you what I mean by price wrecking. I will make a this Great Sale on Friday at 9.30 A. M.

Hoping to see you all here I am,
 Yours for Bargains,
GREENBERG.

DOCTOR TURNS "MR. HYDE" AND SLAYS BANKER

Holder of Legion of Honor Suddenly Suffers Complete Moral Breakdown.

Paris.—A murder trial in which love of one sort or another is not the dominating theme is rare enough of itself in France to be marked as unusual. But a murder case in which this is but one of a score of distinctive details has recently focused public attention, daily providing all sorts of unexpected complications. It was the trial at Aix-en-Provence of Doctor Bougrat—distinguished as a war surgeon and holder of the Legion of Honor—who is accused of having killed and robbed Jacques Rumebe, official in a Marseilles bank, in March, 1925.

From the scores of witnesses who testified it was gleaned that Doctor Bougrat in recent years suffered a complete moral breakdown. The prosecution submitted that the doctor, after marrying into a fine family and prospering with an enviable clientele, suddenly developed such wild habits of night life and drinking that his wife left him. Bougrat's practice dwindled and changed until, it is said, he served only the lower classes of the city.

Check Reveals Crime. Finally, two months after Rumebe disappeared with $5,000 francs on his person, which he had drawn that Saturday to pay the bank workmen, the bank official's body was found stuffed in a cupboard of Doctor Bougrat's operating room. Only the fact that Bougrat had been arrested for cashing a worthless check led the police to search his house. Incidentally, Rumebe's wallet with its $5,000 francs was not on his person, nor his gold watch and diamond ring.

Stuffed Body in a Cupboard.

Many strange things had happened to patients of Doctor Bougrat in the two years previous. Some had complained of taking injections in the doctor's office, of losing consciousness and recovering with their money and jewelry gone. Some had awakened in cellars with no memory of what had happened after their visit to the doctor's office. They reported thefts of large sums of money, pointed suspicious fingers at the suave physician, but his explanations to the police were always beyond reproach.

Expert With Poisons. But court testimony brought up more charges than ever. These, the prosecution maintained with considerable success, reveal Doctor Bougrat as an expert handler of poisons and drugs. Is he a master in the art of administering deadly poisons? The excited townsfolk have recalled instances enough to lead them to think so.

Throughout the trial, despite the charges enumerated against him, Bougrat maintained surprising self-control. He was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor.

Boy Fires Barn, Hides and Is Burned to Death

Youngstown, Ohio.—Frightened when matches he lighted set fire to hay in his father's barn, George Best, six, jumped into a feed box, closed the lid and was burned to death when the flames destroyed the barn, located near here recently.

A nine-year-old brother, Robert, on the second floor, hurried to rescue the child, but was met by flames. His clothing afire, the older boy was forced to retreat to the second floor. He was seriously burned.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Best, were unable to rescue the younger boy. Robert escaped by jumping to the ground.

Dig Up Ruins Believed to Be Timur's Palace

Samarkand, U. S. S. R.—Remains of walls of what is believed to have been one of the palaces belonging to Timur or Tamerlane, the renowned Oriental conqueror of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, have been unearthed by excavators here. The walls appear to have been richly decorated with frescoes and other ornamentations.

"Timur the Lame," who carried his victorious arms from the Volga to the Persian gulf and from the Hellespont to the Ganges, had his capital in Samarkand, once the richest city in the Orient, and it was from there that he started on his famous expedition to conquer India. From this venture he is said to have taken back to his native city an immense quantity of spoil and 90 elephants laden with stones of a peculiar quality with which to build his palace.

GHOST STORIES HELP SELL OLD CASTLES

Find Spooks Enhance Value of Property.

London.—Ghost stories are being bought and sold in the London real estate market as a result of the discovery that old castles with spooky reputations are preferred by buyers, particularly wealthy Americans, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Not that the purchasers believe in ghosts, but there is something about owning a home with a tradition of being haunted that makes it worth thousands more, in the estimation of many purchasers.

England is well supplied with good ghost stories, and the list is constantly being added to, largely, it is believed, because candles are still extensively used for illumination and the dim light of a candle is very favorable, according to scientists, for producing the condition that leads to seeing things that aren't there.

Ghosts have always had one drawback from the standpoint of careful investigation—they are usually seen by people who don't want to see them, and almost never by persons who go looking for them. There is a simple explanation for that, and for the ghosts that are heard as well as those that are seen. The visible ghosts, scientific investigators declare, exist only in the eye of the beholder, and the audible ones in his ear.

Sounds Are Amplified. Everybody, even those who have never claimed to have seen a ghost, has lain awake at night and heard queer sounds, abnormally loud, even though they would have been inaudible to anyone else, because they existed only in the hearer's own ear. The sounds were made by blood pulsing through the veins of the ear. Picked up by the eardrum, which amplifies them just as a radio receiver amplifies an incoming signal, the ear sounds, heard in moments of apprehension or nervousness, can easily be imagined to be the stealthy steps of a burglar or the movements of a more ghostly visitor, particularly if one is sleeping in a centuries-old castle well supplied with ghostly legends.

As for the ghosts that are seen, they are classified medically as Purkinje images or Sanson specters, both named after their discoverers, and it is in seeing them that the weak light from a candle plays such an important part. Purkinje discovered that under certain conditions, the blood vessels of the retina, that film at the back of the eye which is directly connected with the nerve leading to the brain and which really sees the image focused on it by the eye lens, could produce images of its own. To do that, though, a dim light is necessary as a bright illumination furnishes so much light that the blood vessels do not cast their shadowy reflections. It is as when one meets an approaching automobile at night. If the car has bright lights on that flood of light blinds the eye, whereas if the dimmers are turned on the retina is able to distinguish all the details of the roadway clearly.

How It Is Explained. Like the Purkinje image, the Sanson specter is produced within the eye either on the front surface of the cornea, which is at the front of the eyeball, or on either the front or back surfaces of the crystalline lens, a convex lens like that in a camera, which focuses the image on the retina. When you look through a street-car window under certain light conditions, you not only see the passing buildings outside, but likewise images of the people behind you, or buildings on the opposite side of the street, the images being formed on the window glass. The Sanson specters are something of the same sort, tiny images, usually badly blurred, of things which are at one side, out of the direct line of vision. But the optical nerves, accustomed to placing things they see by their size and relation to other objects, transmit a message to the brain saying that these blurred specters are ahead, and, like the images on the street-car window, you can look right through them and see solid objects behind.

Given a dim candle flame and a condition of nervousness, grief, or even indigestion, it isn't hard to imagine that you are seeing images of ghostly figures, particularly as they appear to be almost transparent, and move and shift position as you move.

Finds Substance to Prevent Blood Clotting

Baltimore, Md.—From the liver of dogs Prof. W. H. Howell of the Johns Hopkins university has prepared an anti-coagulant that will keep a sample of blood in a practically normal condition for 24 hours. Clotting is nature's protection against bleeding to death, but this tendency of the vital fluid to congeal after its exposure to the air offers serious disadvantages in blood transfusions and certain types of important experimental work. This new clot-preventing substance, which has been named heparin, is of great interest, therefore, to surgeons, pathologists and other specialists who deal with blood, particularly those who make the various blood tests used in detecting disease.

There You Are!

New York.—Mrs. Ruth Aronson Kracks Wickey was married on Friday, August 13. Now she is seeking a divorce.

Smelly but Bright

Acetylene gas is a compound of carbon and hydrogen, which has a most offensive smell, but burns with a brilliant flame.

Tart Temper

A tart temper never mellows with age, and a sharp tongue is the only edge-tool that grows keener with constant use.—Washington Irving.

The glee club has escaped from the campus confines and is spreading its influence to song through every phase of American life. A count by Arthur Chapman shows that organized song groups, which only a few years ago were limited almost exclusively to colleges, now are lifting their voices by the hundreds in such widely varied institutions as packing plants, department stores, railroad offices and steel mills, where officials and employees, singing side by side, are developing a new understanding and esprit de corps through song. What's more, the lowly working man, and probably a recent immigrant, is likely to be the star of any of these industrial glee clubs, in the opinion of Arthur D. Woodruff, probably the most widely known glee club conductor in America.

If you really want to get a thing done, set a time limit, says the American Boy Magazine. If you don't pin yourself down to something definite, the chances are good that you'll loaf along all day. Instead of telling yourself that sometime you'll learn to swim and sometime you'll read Ludwig's biography of Napoleon, say to yourself that by August 1 you will have that book read and that by September 1 you're going to be a pretty fair swimmer. Set a time limit—this summer.

Little Girl Carried Three Miles by Wind

Rock Springs, Texas.—An apparently well-founded story that Myrl Burrows, six, one of the uninjured survivors of the tornado catastrophe here, was carried three miles by the twister and gently dropped, was given credence here among Red Cross relief workers. The child, who said the wind "carried me away," was found three miles from the demolished home of her parents, under circumstances discrediting any theory that she could have wandered to that spot. The youngster said she was dropped there by the wind.

California Woman, 82, Is Expert Wood Carver

Los Angeles, Calif.—Although past her eighty-second birthday Mrs. Adelaide Samuels Bassett is a proficient wood carver. Several of her wood-carvings, including "Rip Van Winkle," "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," "Oliver Twist," "Hickory Dickory Dock" and many conventional designs in book ends, are exhibited here.

The figures are carved with great attention to detail and require the use of specially constructed and exceedingly fine tools, which she employs deftly and without wearing eyeglasses. "Old age need never be a deterrent to accomplishment," says Mrs. Bassett. "In the hours not employed in my professional woodcarving I am a gardener." Mrs. Bassett is also the author of several children's books and has published many poems.

Bang! Playful Seal's Life Ended by Bullet

Lynn, Mass.—A motorist on the North Shore motor road the other day noticed a seal swimming and diving by the roadside. He stopped and watched it. Other motorists stopped and watched it. Dozens deserted their cars and stood around the bank applauding the antics of the seal. There was a hopeless traffic jam. Frate patrolmen threatened, pleaded, but the throng of nature lovers took no heed. Meanwhile the road became more thoroughly blocked. A riot call brought an extra detail and Sergeant Lyons, crack rifle shot, and his rifle, Bang! A few bubbles appeared where the seal had been. Nature lovers returned to their cars; traffic went on.

Not Too Strenuous

"So you want a job on the railway, do you?" asked the man seated behind the big office desk. "Yes, sir," answered the applicant, a rather frail-looking person. "What kind of work?" The other hesitated. He looked vaguely about the room. "Well, sir," he began. "I'm not over strong, but I think I could walk around with the man who taps the carriage wheels to see whether they are in order and help him to listen."

India Wearing Shoes

Persons of the upper class only wore shoes in India until recently, but at the present time shoes are sent from Europe in rather large numbers. And their use has become quite general in all parts of the country. At first the natives showed no inclination to keep their shoes in an orderly appearance, but later they became addicted to the use of shoe blacking and the wearer of European footwear now takes pride in maintaining an immaculate finish. The hairnet industry in Chefoo, China, kept 17,000 women and girls busy in 1921, but now only about 2,000 make a living at this work.

'Very Touched' French Rival of 'Delighted'

Paris.—"Very touched" is President Doumergue's equivalent for "T. R.'s" "Delighted!" Every time any visiting sovereign, statesman or delegation pays a tribute to his nation or himself, the French President counters with that phrase. Sometimes he declares himself "indefinitely touched" by the compliment, sometimes only "very," and again "profoundly" when the occasion warrants it. But always there is that word "touched"—"tou-ou-che," as M. Doumergue pronounces it with his inimitable lingering, caressing Southern accent.

The Kickers Organize

A self-styled Society of Kickers has instituted itself in Paris, its object being that members shall grow and kick when prices appear to be too high for their tastes or pocketbooks. This will not bring the high cost of living down. There is only one thing that will do that is for purchasers to abstain from buying anything but necessities. A Paris shopkeeper specialist has evidently anticipated this as he is advertising "necessity luxuries." What are they? Well, for the French they are bathtubs and first class seats in express trains as all who ever tried to ride third class in France will know.

Black Flowers Unknown

There are no black flowers, but the ones nearest to black are very dark tulips which are called black. There are very dark panicles also that seem almost black.

Got Idea From Bat

The ordinary folding fan was invented in Japan in the Seventh century by a native artist, who derived the idea from the way in which a bat closes its wings.
