

Jilted Girl Refuses to Wed Suitor, Jailed

Philadelphia.—Arrested on a warrant charging breach of promise, Bernard Laboube, a widower, thought a new proposal of marriage to Miss Antoinette Pimpinella, an orphan, would satisfy the girl. But it didn't. "I am willing to marry her," said Laboube when arraigned before Magistrate Frank J. Clark at Norristown. "I want to provide a home for her." Miss Pimpinella, a former telephone operator, testified Laboube cast her off after taking her to his home. "I won't marry him," she said. "He was ugly to me, and I'm afraid of him. After he forced me to leave his home I wouldn't trust him."

LETS ROPE MANGLE HAND TO SAVE MAN

Inexperienced Climber Proves Himself Hero.

Cape Town, South Africa.—Mountaineers here are lavish in their praise of "a magnificent act of courage" performed by an inexperienced climber, John Byng, while attempting to establish a new route up the face of Table Mountain, in company with Frank Cooke of Cape Town.

The two men were linked together by a rope. After they had ascended 1,000 feet Cooke, an experienced mountaineer, fell, but was saved from certain death by the bravery and resource of his companion, who had no previous experience in climbing.

Byng seized the rope by which he was linked to his friend and slipped it over a rock. He then placed his hand between the rope and the rock so that it should act as a buffer and prevent the rope from fraying and snapping.

His hand was crushed and cut, but hour after hour he braved the pain and kept the rope in position. Cooke, who was suspended over a gorge hundreds of feet deep, was helpless, as his thigh had been broken by striking the cliff face.

By waving his handkerchief Byng drew the attention of a party of mountaineers, who went to the rescue. Reaching Byng, who was on the point of collapse, they relieved him of the rope and set about the business of recovering Cooke.

Two rescuers descended to him with food and restoratives. They blindfolded him to save him the mental torture of being suspended in midair. Twenty-four hours later he was hauled, more dead than alive, to the cliff's summit.

Prefers Jail and Love to Freedom All Alone

Los Angeles, Calif.—A prison term rather than promise that she would cease associating with the man who is asserted to have contributed to her downfall was the decision of Miss Florence K. Patton, thirty-four years of age, until recently a trusted escrow clerk in a downtown bank and a worker in church circles.

Miss Patton had admitted two counts of an embezzlement charge involving $3,350. Her shortages at the bank are said to have covered a period of several months and she is asserted to have used the money and her influence to further the financial ends of her suitor.

But when she was asked if she would give her sweetheart up if she was granted her liberty, probation officers told Judge Elliot Craig, she refused to answer the question.

So Judge Craig sentenced her "for the period prescribed by law," or one to ten years on one of the embezzlement counts and put her on probation for seven years on the other count.

How Many Copies?

New York.—Anybody who wants to know all about "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom" must pay $20,000. It's a book by Col. Thomas Edward Lawrence, Englishman, "uncrowned king of Arabia." Ten copies were put on sale, but there were no buyers.

Silent Drill

Lawrence, Kan.—A National Guard troop of cavalry at Haskell Institute has a fifty ten-minute silent drill, going through 1,192 movements without command or signal. Members of 29 Indian tribes from 20 states are in the troop.

Girls Quit First

New York.—More girls than boys drop out of college, a survey at Columbia and Barnard shows. The principal reason for the difference is marriage, but more boys than girls quit because of inefficiency in studies.

Wreck Kills Nine

Calcutta, India.—Nine persons were killed and twenty injured when the Calcutta-Madras mail train collided with a freight train. The accident occurred at Bhadrak station, 180 miles from Calcutta.

Handle Much Coin

New York.—Exclusive of gold, 36 tons of metal money—about $1,000,000 worth—are handled daily at the federal bank, coming or going, under the watchful eyes of armed ex-marines. Quarters lead.

Unanimous Choice

The only President besides Washington to be elected without opposition was James Monroe, according to an answered question in Liberty.

Grand Council Session of Royal Arcanum Best Ever

Arcanians Plan Big Doings to Close 50th Jubilee Campaign. Spurred to Greater Activity by the Institution of the Many Councils of the Loyal Ladies.

EDWARD C. POTTER
Grand Regent of the State of New Jersey.

The forty-fifth annual session of the New Jersey Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum, held April 25-26 at Asbury Park, proved to be one of the most harmonious and interesting ever held by that organization. From both a numerical and fraternal standpoint the past year has been notably successful, the councils in the various communities having loyally responded to the appeals of their leaders for continued activity.

Edward C. Potter of Metuchen was unanimously elected Grand Regent to succeed Jacob Scriba of Newark, who has ably occupied that exalted position for the last two years. The new State executive, Mr. Potter, brings to the office a life-long fraternal instinct and a keen business acumen that should prove of incalculable benefit to the future progress of the Royal Arcanum in the State of New Jersey. Coupled with this is a State-wide popularity and the happy faculty of being able to express eloquently his practical ideas in such concrete form as to win the approval and merit the confidence of every member of the order with whom he has come in contact.

Under the leadership of such a sterling fraternalist, the Arcanians of New Jersey have already planned some big doings for the remainder of the fiftieth jubilee campaign, which will culminate with the fiftieth annual session of the Supreme Council, to be held at Seattle, Wash., beginning July 26. To further its activities the following sectional jubilee meetings have been arranged:

- May 9. At Metuchen; formal reception to the new Grand Regent.
- May 13. At Keyport.
- May 19. At Roselle.
- May 23. At Dover.
- May 24. At Princeton.
- May 26. At Bogota.
- June 10. At Jersey City.
- June 21. At East Orange.
- June 24. At Trenton.

On June 23 the Royal Arcanum will have reached the fiftieth year of its existence as a fraternal insurance organization. During those years it has always been at the forefront of every movement for the advancement and perpetuation of the fraternal cause, and at the present time it is excelled by no other society in its ideal type of family protection and the rock-ribbed reserves that it is carrying.

More than $19,000,000 has been invested in the highest type of securities, and this fund is being added to each year as a guarantee for the payment of every insurance obligation. Over $235,000,000 of death claims have been paid to beneficiaries since its coming into being, and as a result, thousands of widows and orphans have been kept from want. The Order has in operation six different types of legal reserve, American experience table certificates, that are unexcelled as to benefit for insurance. It is being managed in such a conservative manner as to merit the approval of the insurance commissioners in every State in which it operates.

With such a heritage and such a reputation for honest dealing does the Royal Arcanum approach its fiftieth anniversary, feeling confident that with a loyal membership, unexcelled as to personnel; with an economical administration of its affairs; with the formation of many councils of Loyal Ladies, an organization of the families of the Royal Arcanum members, with hospital associations to succor the ailing and employment bureaus to secure positions for our unemployed members; with the highest type of insurance certificates and the loftiest of fraternal motives, is there any reason to question the wisdom of its having come into being or for its continuing on to larger endeavors in the fraternal insurance field?

Sponge Has Many Lives

Sponges may be cut up and recut up and hedged out like potatoes. In deed, sponge farmers do exactly this. A piece of sponge may be minced, and the minced sponge forced through a fine strainer, but given appropriate conditions and this sponge mush will gather itself together and develop into a small sponge. The sponge is an animal, and it looks as if it must be so thinking.—Ohio State Journal.

Famous Causeway

The Giant's Causeway is a famous promontory of closely packed basaltic columns on the coast of Antrim, north Ireland, west of Bengore head, eight miles from Portrush. Its true origin was a great outpouring of basalt in the Tertiary period, but legend ascribed it to Finn McCool or Fingal, who built it as a bridge between Ireland and Scotland for the giants to cross from Antrim to Staffa.

The finger ring, says the Dearborn Independent, is believed to have been first used as a symbol of slavery, the master putting his ring on all his household, including his wives.

SPOT OF DISASTER TO ROMAN LEGIONS

Funeral Pyre on Scene of Arminius' Victory.

Nearly 2,000 years ago the Empire of Rome received a severe blow when the Roman general, Varus, was defeated by the German leader, Arminius, in the Teutoburger wald, a forest in the province of Hanover, and lost many thousands of men. Today there is not much left of this once primeval forest; but on a wooded height stands a monument to Arminius, whose decisive victory temporarily freed Germany from the Roman invaders.

It was long thought that the monument marked the actual site of the battle. But a German scholar, Professor Knoke, who held other views, has had the good fortune to discover the site of two of Varus' camps near Osnabruck, close to the little town of Iburg.

It was after this disaster that Varus, on his return to Rome, was met by the emperor with the bitter cry: "Varus, Varus, give me back my legions!" The defeated general committed suicide. Just as the exact site of the battlefield could not be determined, so the burial place of these thousands of Roman soldiers remained a mystery. Recently, however, a trench to carry a water main for the town of Iburg was being dug and the workmen turned up a Roman urn.

Professor Knoke was summoned from Osnabruck and began a systematic examination of the mound, which was one of many natural mounds and had therefore passed unobserved. The fact that the hillock is crowned by mighty trees prevented a thorough examination of the territory. Besides, a good deal of earth had been removed from the hillock at various times and a brook has washed away much of the elevation on one side.

The mound in its present state is about forty feet in diameter and ten feet high. The excavators discovered 130 burned fragments of burial urns and, on the other side of the hill, where the excavations could be carried out only in part, 15 smaller fragments were found.

In the interior of the hill, at a height of about five feet, remains of the funeral pyre were discovered. This was about thirty-five feet in extent. The bodies had evidently been laid upon a bed of stone, which had been quite disintegrated by the heat. All the pottery fragments show traces of having been formed on the potter's wheel, a contrivance unknown to the Germans in this part of Germany up to the times of Charles the Great.

Professor Knoke points out that since the Bronze age the Germans had not erected barrows to their dead. Instead they buried the urns with the ashes in flat graveyards. The Franks later occupied the same territory. They were acquainted with the potter's wheel; but they did not cremate their dead, so that the builders of the Iburg barrow, it is deduced, can only have been Romans, who combined the custom of cremation with the custom of raising tumuli to the dead.

This burial hill was probably erected by Germanicus six years after the battle, according to Knoke.

Any further doubt as to the identity of this tumulus should, it is argued, be set at rest by the discovery of a copper shirt of mail and other portions of Roman armor. These finds are believed to have great historical and scientific value.

Try Thrice

Even the man who thinks twice before he speaks is often sorry he said it.

"Fossil Fish Eggs"

Not long ago there was reported the fact that a town in Oklahoma was found to be built on a deposit of fossil fish eggs, which, through the processes of nature, had been converted into limestone.

As a matter of fact, many towns in that state, as well as in Missouri and Arkansas, stand upon deposits of the same kind, which are known to the geologist as "oolite," because the material is made up of small round white bodies resembling eggs. The notion that these bodies are actually accumulated roes of multitudes of bygone fishes has long been entertained by the unthinking. Science itself is puzzled to know the reason for this peculiar formation. One theory is that the limy material was precipitated from sea water in the shape described by the action of certain bacteria.

Designs for Currency

The designs of United States paper currency are made by the bureau of engraving and printing and are submitted for approval to the secretary of the treasury. If the design bears a portrait it must be a portrait of a deceased person.

Enraged Girl Beats
Father, Blind, Veteran

Philadelphia.—Climaxing a series of marital difficulties, Albert Bauer, who alleges his sight became affected after service overseas with the Twenty-second Infantry, was knocked down by his nineteen-year-old daughter, Anna.

Bauer, or Schmalzback, was recently discharged from Base Hospital No. 82, Washington. He was accosted by his daughter, who lives with her mother, as he came out of a cigar store accompanied by a woman.

He told police his family troubles were the result of bickering over his government pension. He declared that he developed spinal meningitis in France and when he came home blind, his wife would have nothing to do with him.

Dangerous Ocean Stretch

Cape Prince of Wales is a promontory on Bering sea and forms the most northwest point of North America. It terminates in a peaked mountain presenting a bold face to the sea and is dangerous on account of a shoal which stretches to the northeast.

New York Tel. Co. Gives Aid To Red Cross

H. L. Cummings, Manager of the New York Telephone Company's lunch rooms for telephone operators, has been loaned by the Telephone Company to the American Red Cross at the latter's request to aid in feeding refugees in the flood stricken Mississippi Valley.
 Mr. Cummings' work of a similar nature at the time of the Pickett Army Arsenal explosions last year led the American Red Cross to ask for his services in the present disaster.
 Mr. Cummings' offices are in Newark and he lives at Montclair. The request for his services was received at 2 o'clock Thursday and he was on his way that night. He reached Memphis, Tennessee, Saturday and was sent to Vicksburg, Mississippi. From there he was ordered to Delhi, Louisiana, to take charge of a newly organized concentration center.
 A last message from Mr. Cummings to officials of the Telephone Company in Newark received today said, "Vicksburg situation very bad. Rail communication across the river expected to fail shortly. Telephone service still O. K. Expect this will be my only communication with outside."
 The Delhi Concentration Camp is one of a number of new refugee centers now being established. This is the third time Mr. Cummings has been called on by the Red Cross for emergency service, handling ambulance work during the Morgan explosion and serving as stated at Pickett Army Arsenal.
 Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Grohman were Newark visitor on Thursday.

Ballooning Spiders
 Ballooning, says the Dearborn Independent, is the method of migration used by many species of spiders. Standing in an open space, with the body elevated, the spider projects from the spinnerets a line of silk which continues until the spider feels the pull of the wind. It releases its hold as it is borne away.

Cost of Curiosity
 A stranger in a western city owned an odd crank on the motor of the taxicab in which he was riding. Becoming curious he turned this crank a wee bit to see what would happen. The meter immediately added 10 cents to his fare, according to the Dearborn Independent.

Traitor Plays Little Part in World Today

One of the rather curious commentaries upon our modern civilization is the practical disappearance of traitors from our midst—at least, in the complete sense which the term once implied. Of course, men still betray causes and governments to which they have pledged allegiance, either for "thirty pieces of silver" or for some misguided alteration of their ideals, says a writer in the Independent (Boston). But still, where are the traitors of modern days who can take their places with those perfidious characters of history whose names have become almost synonymous with the word? Possibly, it all comes down to a matter of the complexity of modern civilization. In other times, when life and governments were of simple construction, betrayal of a leader often meant the collapse of a cause or of a nation. Now, it usually happens that so many contributing factors must be considered that betrayals are too difficult to be really successful.

As prototypes of various betrayers stand Judas Iscariot, the trusted disciple who betrayed his Master; Dethlaff, who gave Samson his first hair cut; Esau, who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage—these and other Biblical characters have afforded examples of faithlessness proverbial through the ages. From Rome, where tyrants executed as traitors the vassals whose presence they found inconvenient, come the story of Tarpela, the epic of Caesar's death, the melodramatic tales of Tarquin, themes in which literature has found its most poignant expressions. Legend has told of the glorious fate of Roland, the tragic death of Robin Hood; history has revealed in such names as Joan of Arc, Benedict Arnold and Oliver Cromwell. Already betrayers and betrayed both become enveloped in a delightful halo of antiquity, and as an antidote to the libel, murder, breach of contract and heart-balm litigations which fill our periodicals a few of the more immortal cases of betrayal are here recalled—Kansas City Times.

The Girl and the Wax

George W. Sweeney, the noted hotel man, said on disembarking from the Leviathan in New York: "The stories about anti-American feeling in France are untrue. A few French newspapers have attacked America, a few French rowdies have insulted Americans, but the bulk of France likes us and respects us more than ever."

"Anybody who says there is anti-American feeling over there is as ignorant as the girl in a stationer's."

"A girl went into a stationer's and said:

"Give me a pound of wax for waxing flowers, please."

"Oh," said the clerk, with a smile, "we are stationers, miss. The only wax we carry is sealing wax."

"Butter!" said the girl sharply. "That won't do at all. I want to wax the floor, not the ceiling. I'm going to give a party."

Reward of Gallantry

Secretary Walker of the transit commission said in a discussion of the street railway problem:

"And yet a too rigid enforcement of the rules against over-crowding might do more harm than good. I'll give you an example."

"An American sat in a London bus. In London, you know, anti-crowding rules are very rigidly enforced. Well, a lady got on while the conductor was up on the roof, and as there were no seats left, the American rose and gave his own seat to her. A few minutes later the conductor came down.

The conductor stopped the bus as soon as he saw the American standing and beckoned to him sternly.

"No standing in the bus, sir," he said, and the next moment the gallant American found himself pushed off into the street."

Very Curious

Everett Saunders Bailey, the noted psychoanalyst, said in a lecture in Des Moines:

"The drunkard who successfully takes the drink cure and then relapses offers us a curious study. Knowing the misery in store for him, he yet returns to his drink. That's curious and human. It's like my little boy.

"Jimmy," my wife said one day, "if you do that I'll spank you."

"My little son, Jimmy, burst into tears. He howled as if his heart would break. My wife took pity on him and said:

"But I won't spank you if you don't do it, Jimmy."

"Jimmy howled louder than ever. "I'm going to do it," he said."

Sounds That Are Inaudible

Instead of baying blasts from foghorns, sounds that no human ear can hear are being employed by a lighthouse at the port of Calais, France, to guide ships into the harbor in thick weather.

These inaudible sounds, says Popular Science Monthly, are like ordinary sounds except that they are so shrill they cannot be heard. They can be detected, however, by electrical instruments which make them visible. They travel long distances under water.

At Calais, the lighthouse on shore transmits inaudible sounds in a code of dots and dashes. The signals travel under water and are picked up by amplifying devices on ships nearing the harbor.

Corruption of French Word

The word "Mush!" used as a cry to dog teams is a corruption of the French word "marchons," the cry of the early French to their teams.

In the Rough

Most of us have given up hope of ever finding a diamond in the rough. Most of us would be content to find a rough and unmined golf ball there.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION'S NEW 1928 PROGRAM

To Ask for $30,000,000 Bond Issue at November Election; To Speed Construction

CHANGES OUTLINED HERE

New Road to Connect South Amboy and Matawan Through Cheesequake

Trenton, N. J.—To permit of the speedy construction of additional sections of the New State Highway System during the year 1928, if the voters approve of the $30,000,000 bond issue at the November election, the State Highway Commission at its meeting yesterday afternoon authorized the preparation of plans for work which will represent an expenditure in excess of $25,000,000. The proposed routes will not be taken over as part of the State system at this time and the definite action upon the improvements will be contingent upon the ratification of the bond issue by the electorate.

The projects for which the plans will be made ready for the proposed 1928 building will include the following:

On the new routes One and Three the Paterson Plank Road from Ruthersford, vicinity to Jersey City and Tonelle avenue in Jersey City, a distance of eight and four-tenths miles at an approximate cost of $3,500,000. On the new route Four the building of eight and one-half miles between South Amboy and Matawan through Cheesequake at an expenditure of $1,000,000. This alignment would relieve traffic on the present Route Four near Keyport and will shorten the distance through South Jersey points. On routes Five and Five-A from Little Ferry in Bergen County to the Hackensack Plank Road three and one-tenth miles will be built at a cost of $2,400,000. The Highway Commission, through Major W. G. Sloan, its Engineer, has had an intensive study made of the traffic problems in the different sections of the State and regards the projects proposed for its 1928 program as those of outstanding importance for completion of an early date. The Commission composed of General Hugh L. Scott, Chairman; Percy H. Stewart, Abraham Jelin, and Firman M. Reeves, toured the routes under consideration to observe the existing conditions.

The Commission awarded to Edward H. Ellis of Camden, the work of paving five miles of the Route 7 section from Adelphia in Monmouth County to Aldrich Road near Lake-wood, on his bid of $309,224. On the recommendation of the Engineer the Board voted to reject the bids received for the paving of Route 8 from Verona to the Passaic River Bridge at Singac. The Engineers declared that a re-examination showed that the condition of the paving on the thoroughfare would justify the State in continuing it in use for several years, the maintenance charges being much less than the carrying expenses for the new concreting.

Statement of Policy by Boy Scouts of America

On account of the various financial campaigns now going on at this time of the year and that in several cases representatives of the Boy Scouts of America have been asked for the services of Boy Scouts in the solicitation of funds, it is necessary to re-state the policy of the Boy Scouts of America in this matter.

Article 16, Section 2, Clause 2 of the National By-Laws: "Arrangements may be made by the ranking local authorities for scouts to cooperate with well established non-partisan and non-sectarian national movements for the relief of humanity, in undertakings which they may promote to raise money, by giving personal services, provided, however, that this shall not involve the use of the Boy Scouts as solicitors of money."

It is clear to be seen that the Boy Scouts of America stand ready to be of any service to any organization or society in any activity in connection with humanitarian work by acting as ushers, messengers, or in any way possible except that they may not sell tags or poppies or tickets or be involved in handling money under any condition. It is therefore requested by the Executive Board of the Raritan Council that the troops in this council comprising Perth Amboy, Woodbridge Township, Carteret, and South Amboy, not be requested to participate in the sale of tags or poppies in campaigns which may be put on at any time. This policy has been re-stated in all parts of the United States many times in the past seventeen years thus preventing the participation of Boy Scouts in several worth while activities, but individuals and organizations conducting the same have been quick to see the wisdom of such a policy and have been glad to co-operate in its carrying out.

Further information may be had through the Raritan Council, Boy Scouts of America, Room 323, Raritan Building, Perth Amboy.

To Insure Safer Condition and Convenience, Especially in Parking of Cars

TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED

Thirty Minute Parking in the Busy Sections of Town; Safety Areas Marked on Crosswalks

One of the most important enactments accomplished by the Borough Council took place at a special meeting Monday evening when the first and second reading of an ordinance regulating traffic and the parking of vehicles was considered and after the reading was passed for immediate enforcement.

The reading of the ordinance reveals that special "no parking" signs will have to be placed in front of any building where there has been application made and permission granted for space reservation. Signs will be supplied by the Borough at the cost of the applicant. Such signs will be of exact size and requirements as are specified by the Council. This will not affect vehicles loading or unloading freight or merchandise.

A thirty minute limitation of parking of any vehicle is provided in the ordinance on the following streets: Roosevelt avenue from a point 300 feet east of Edwin street to Hudson street; Roosevelt avenue from a point 200 feet east of Edwin street to Hudson street; Roosevelt avenue between Christopher and Lafayette street; Washington avenue between Cooke avenue and Pershing avenue.

The same section also provides that vehicles shall not be parked within a distance of 100 feet of the following street intersections: Salem street and Roosevelt avenue; Pershing avenue and Roosevelt avenue; Hudson street and Roosevelt avenue; Washington avenue and Roosevelt avenue; Cooke avenue and Washington avenue; Atlantic street and Washington avenue; Pershing and Washington avenue; Lefferts street and Roosevelt avenue; John street and Roosevelt avenue; Charles street and Roosevelt avenue; Christopher street and Roosevelt avenue.

It shall also be unlawful to leave parked any vehicle between sunset and sunrise for a period more than six hours and all vehicles must be parked where not prohibited, parallel and not more than six inches from the curb. Angle parking shall be permitted only at such places as are determined by the Police Department.

Vehicles shall not be permitted to stand parked in front of any theatre, church, office building, public dance hall, club, driveway, private or public building in which a large number of people are accustomed to gather, except for the purpose of stopping to take on or let off passengers or merchandise.

Section 15 of the ordinance provides that no persons shall coast with hand sleds, bobs, carts or other vehicles on wheels or runners on any public sidewalk or street except at such time and on such streets as may be designated by the Borough Council, also no person shall use the public streets or highways or sidewalks as a roller skating rink only on streets as provided by the Council.

It will be upto the discretion of the Council to set aside certain streets for the skating and sled riding or other sports and it shall be an unlawful act for owners or operators of vehicles to drive through the streets so restricted, except when having business on the street so set aside.

Jitney busses will stop on the near side of any street intersection when taking on or discharging passengers unless the Council sees fit to rule otherwise for the safety of traffic. It will be considered unlawful for busses to stop to take on passengers or discharge passengers between street intersections unless such a place has been designated as a stop by the Council.

Violators of any of the provisions, on conviction by any Police Magistrate or Recorder, shall pay a fine of Two dollars on the first offense, on second offense Ten dollars, and thereafter Twenty-five dollars for each conviction or suffer imprisonment in the county jail or both fine and imprisonment.

The final passage of the ordinance will be taken up Monday evening, May 16th at the regular meeting of the Borough Council.

Table Manners

Colonel Carroll, the queen of Rumania's official host, said at a dinner in Denver:

"Table manners should be simple. Nothing is so provincial and ridiculous as to adopt elaborate table manners—etiquette book table manners—for they are bound to be wrong."

"Etiquette book table manners! They always make me think of the young man who said:

"I'm sure proud to take Mamie out to eat. Her table manners are grand. Always holds her chop bone in her handkerchief so as not to graze her fingers."

Ex-Nurse Braves Jungle

Riches are promised as the reward for Mrs. Charles Booth, who braved the jungles of New Guinea alone. With her husband she joined the gold rush to Bulolo river, and he left her with carriers in the jungle while he pushed ahead. Her carriers deserted her and for three weeks she went on alone, then recruited new helpers, rejoined her husband and staked claims that now promise to give the two a fortune. She was a nurse in Queensland, Australia, when she married Booth, a wounded ex-soldier, and soon afterward went with him to New Guinea.

50 Paint experts showed us how varnish-stains differ

They all say mahogany on the can but Devoe says mahogany on the wood

WE NEVER realized the difference between varnish stains until we saw 50 paint experts test 8 different makes and pick Devoe Mirrolac as the varnish stain which reproduced most clearly their conception of the true hard wood tones. Use Mirrolac and be sure. It not only duplicates the desired hard wood tone, but at the same time adds a tough, beautiful coat of varnish.

Virginia Still Rich in Colonial Mansions

Old Virginia homesteads in which were born and reared the makers of Virginia and the United States stand today, mute evidences of the simplicity and genteel dignity which surrounded those men and women pioneers.

Just as the cradle of America has often been said to have been at Jamestown, so the oldest mansions in Virginia are to be found there. And extending slowly, as did these early settlers over Virginia and the rest of the country, these palatial homes dotted the state. Naturally, this expanding movement followed the rivers, and so most of Virginia's colonial residences are to be found close by the banks of the York, James, the Potomac and the Rappahannock rivers.

Included among the several hundred colonial residences are scores whose histories pre-date Revolutionary days. Many of them are national shrines.

Monticello, Arlington, Mt. Vernon, Kenmore—symbolic of Thomas Jefferson, the Custises and Lees, George Washington and the Lewises—all have become hallowed and have been dedicated to the nation. Four palaces representing as many distinct types of architectural beauty, these colonial mansions would be famous for their beauty alone.

Brandon, Westover, Berkeley, Shirley, garden spots along the James, once housed the Harrisons, Byrds and Carters, all prominent in the early life of Virginia and the United States. Around Williamsburg are the homes of President Tyler and many others who helped make history, while few sections of Virginia cannot claim one or more of these palatial residences of colonial times.

In this advanced civilization which crowds homes almost one upon another, these picturesque, spacious manors, free of gaudy ornaments and serene in their large settings, serve to recall the simple wholesome environment which made for the firm foundation of the United States.

Original "Omnibus"

Omnibus is properly a four-wheeled public conveyance, and was so-called because it was intended for all. Omnibus is one form of the Latin noun, omnis, and omnibus means for all. It is now commonly shortened to bus, the final syllable of omnibus.

Bandits Refuse to Take Uninsured Cash

Pampa, Texas.—J. M. Durfee, Pampa merchant, is searching the heavens for his lucky star. Entering the First National bank with a money sack containing $1,160 while it was being held up by five nattily attired youths, Durfee was ordered to toss the sack on the floor. "That money insured?" one of the bandits asked the astonished merchant. "No." "Take it back," the bandit replied. "I guess we got enough money here."

CHINESE SUICIDE METHODS VARIED

Leads World in Ways of Taking Own Life.

Shanghai.—For variety of method in committing suicide China threatens to lead the world. Statistics compiled by the staff of a local hospital give interesting glimpses into what a Chinese will do when he has drunk the last bitter drops of despair. When a suitor has been rejected by his fiancée and the engagement broken, he thinks nothing of swallowing the engagement ring, just as the girl will not hesitate to gulp down a pair of gold earrings which her fiancé has given her, if she finds that he has proved untrue to her. It is not uncommon for a Chinaman to nibble a few match heads and then lay himself down to die; 135 women and 40 men met their deaths by this route in 1925, according to the hospital figures. This was a decrease over the previous year, but the figures balanced neatly through the fact that the earring and finger ring swallows gained in numbers. Ground glass, copper and mercury claimed 60 men and 52 women during the year, but by far the most approved style of committing suicide is by swallowing opium. Only ten died from throat-cutting or hanging, and only thirteen from deliberate drowning. In Shanghai, if not in the rest of China, it is a criminal offense to attempt to end one's life. The year 1925 showed 973 successful suicides in the Shanghai district, with the women outnumbering the men by almost three to one.

Finds Wife, Son After 13-Year World Search

Memphis, Tenn.—Thirteen years of searching the globe for his wife and baby left Scheftel Shmulevitch Khandros, a Memphis cobbler, resigned to a life of loneliness. But now he is a happy man, for a letter has come from his son. While in his home country 13 years ago, Khandros heard that money grew on trees in America. He left his wife and baby, Joseph, apparently safe in the home of his parents and came here. Then came the war and the Russian revolution. His father was the victim of a bullet. His mother died of starvation. Mrs. Khandros, with her child, fled to Poland. The cobbler lost contact with her and his search in many foreign lands was without results. One day in 1925 a letter came from his wife, but the shadow again descended when he was unable to find them following their deportation to Russia. Senators, congressmen and diplomats tried to help. Then the letter from Joseph came. The United States immigration service established a connection between the husband and his family. Money was dispatched to Russia and Khandros impatiently awaits the boat bringing his wife and fourteen-year-old son to this country.

Plans to Sail Around World in 22-Foot Boat

Fernandino, Fla.—Dimitrios Sigelakis, twenty-seven-year-old Greek, is attempting to circumnavigate the globe alone in a 22-foot sailboat. He is undaunted by his harrowing experiences in 1924, when in a similar effort, he was on the storm-tossed Atlantic for 18 days with only a glass of drinking water between him and death. For the last month, he has been preparing for a 4,901-mile jaunt from Miami to Gibraltar, which he estimates will take 100 to 150 days. He reached Fernandino from New York in 22 days.

Inequality in Strides. The reason lost persons always walk in a circle is because one takes unequal steps. One stride will be longer than the other, and will cause a person to walk in a circle unless he has landmarks to guide him.

On Being a Home-Town Booster

This paper believes in Carteret and Carteret's future. It believes that Carteret is destined to be a much greater place than it is today. It believes that the great majority of people living in Carteret have an abiding faith in the Borough's future and in the Carteret of today.

The Real Commencement

The seniors are graduating. From the elementary schools, from the high schools, from the colleges and universities they are being ushered forth to new fields of activity, new experiences, new problems.

Straw Hat Time

One may now inquire, without being premature, what kind of a straw hat his neighbor will wear this year. But the question will not provoke a discussion of the new spring styles in straws and their relative merits and popularity.

Safety at Railroad Crossings

A well known flour manufacturer says, "Eventually, Why Not Now?" We can use the same argument with safety on our highways. With the continuous increase of automobile traffic, with 22,046,957 automobiles registered in 1926 in the United States, one of the outstanding hazards to careless auto drivers are the grade crossings.

At Random

The school of experience has no class reunions. "The last shall be first" may apply to baseball at the end of the season. The only check an extravagant woman wants put on her activities is a bank check.

Chemicals May Alter Whole of the Present Scheme of Healing Science

By MAJOR L. L. SEAMAN, Army Surgeon.

WARS of the future may bring about the development of an entirely new medical science. The development of chemical warfare constitutes a new enemy for the medical world to tackle. Soldiers' wounds in future wars probably will be of a nature little known today.

OPINION

Fruits of Volsteadism. Is Praise Constructive Criticism. Her Playmates Are Gone. A Good Actor Is Successful.

IN THESE DAYS of Prohibition, one has to be on guard even against liquor-crazed policemen. It is not strange that one such victim of poison assaulted a former resident of Carteret the other night.

When the "stuff" will burn varnish off a table, why shouldn't it make a human being lose his mind?

The Bartenders Union had a dance in Brooklyn. The affair was not as lively as the last one that was held by the Union thirteen years ago—before Volstead's edict.

"They danced, but not as they once did. The party broke up early, too, contrary to the custom of bygone days. The beer-beer might have been responsible for this, or the members' age, or—"

MRS. E. H. BOYNTON, who spoke at the Woman's Club of Carteret, says, "there are two kinds of criticism, destructive and constructive. Be a miser with the destructive and a spendthrift with praise."

Is praise constructive criticism? Doesn't it have a tremendous tendency to make one slow down? With this result it ceases to be constructive. It tears down, instead of building up.

Praise is good—only when dealt out sparingly. When a friend tells us that we have not done our best, isn't it likely that we will work harder than ever to do our best? This kind of criticism is surely not praise, but it's constructive.

Genius does not show itself spontaneously, but rather after a horrible period of setback and hard work.

OUTSIDE POLICE searched Carteret for an alleged criminal; and they caught him, a negro who is wanted for murder in Philadelphia. The refugee fled to this place. Perhaps others told him that this is a "safety zone for criminals." He was working at Liebig's when found.

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN are given an opportunity by the American Legion to win the honor of being the most popular personage in the borough. But it is known with great assurance that a woman will gain the laurel wreath.

A woman's glory comes with popularity. A man's with gold. One reward is emotional, the other coldly, but shinningly, material. Perhaps this is the reason why the man rules the world.

A few women dicker into realms meant only for their brothers. The rest of the world becomes alarmed. "Goodness, are the women going to replace the men?" A few fish will always leave the school, but the bulk of them keep onward in the course mapped out for them by nature's laws.

DAHWAY is willing to come to our need. The city is satisfied to extend its water mains to the boundary of Carteret, so that people in East Rahway might not have to depend upon the Middlesex Water Company. The suggestion of such a praiseworthy bit of co-operation comes from Mayor Mulvihill, who has always worked hard to relieve the people from the clutches of unfair corporations such as the water company.

The way the State is neglecting to force the water company to come down to a sane level is deplorable. It is a shame that the people cannot depend upon their governors to help them.

MRS. JOSEPH YOUNG is the only living charter member of the Ladies' Mission Band of the First Presbyterian Church. Thirty years ago she helped to organize the society. Her former playmates are gone! She no longer has the opportunity to share the success of good work with those who helped her three decades ago. But Mrs. Young can enjoy the glory of watching the grand results that have obtained. She can feel content that other women are upholding the noble principles of the organization she helped to found.

THE MUSICAL COMEDY, "Always Hope," given by the seniors of the high school, was good because the students who took part showed that they knew something about acting. If they are able to act in the same cool manner when they get out into the world, success is their.

60. Q.—What is the salary of a United States marshal?

ANSWERS

51. A.—Usually it is caused by breathing through the mouth instead of the nose, which produces a rattling in the soft palate or glottis, sometimes approaching the vocal chords. It may be due to stoppage of the nasal passages.

52. A.—Lake Michigan is the largest lake lying wholly within the boundaries of the United States.

53. A.—Yes; Adrian IV (Nicholas Breakpear), Pope from 1154-1159, was the only English Pope.

54. A.—Antlers are bone, covered with a thin, highly vascular hairy skin during the period of growth. When they stop growing the blood supply is cut off, the skin, or velvet as it is called, dries up and peels off, leaving bare bone. Antlers are renewed annually, the fully formed pair arising at the same place. Antlers are usually shed soon after the close of the breeding season. An antler may be straight and unbranched, but usually there are branches called tines or snags. The number of these increase with age, and the finest antlers are on fully matured males.

55. A.—From New Brunswick to Virginia, in elevated parts of Alabama and Georgia, and westward to Minnesota and Texas.

56. A.—Both have twenty-four ribs.

57. A.—Not all dogs do. The only explanation that can be given is that howling is a manifestation of emotion stirred by certain chords or cacophonies striking the tympanum akin to equivalent sounds in nature, that arouse the herd or hunting instinct in dogs and are inheritances from their wild ancestors.

58. A.—The Andes in South America were termed by Humboldt the largest mountain chain of the globe. They extend about 4,500 miles. The Rocky Mountains are the longest range in the United States.

YOUTH THE PERIOD TO STOCK MEMORY

For Loneliness Incident to Old Age.

William Mathews, a popular essayist of a generation ago, whose books are filled with delightful quotations, found these illustrations of his subject, not by painful research, at the time of writing, but already in the stores that he had laid up in his mind through a long life of reading.

Nature had undoubtedly supplied him with a strong memory, but he had exercised it and cultivated it from boyhood, with the result that it grew stronger with use. This had a further result which involves a suggestion to young people, one that, if followed, they will find not only important at the time, but a source of great satisfaction when they grow old.

Memorizing is often a term of contempt, and justly so when it means the substitution of memory for understanding. It was one of the wise counsels of Professor Child of Harvard that students should leave the mere facts in the reference books where they belong and store their minds with the meat rather than the dry bones of knowledge. This advice is unquestionably sound, yet there is a field for memorizing.

Youth is the time for learning by heart. Mental impressions are readily made and, with an occasional freshening, become permanent, far more enduring, in fact, than the results of later study, even though gained with greater effort. The memorizing referred to is the memorizing of literature, poetry and essays, great passages from the historians and the novelists.

Such passages are sources not only of pleasure but of words, diction, style and sentiment. A mind so furnished never can be lonely, and this fact was beautifully illustrated in the experience of Professor Mathews himself.

When he was nearly ninety he suffered from a fall which made him bed-ridden for the rest of his life. But these years of helplessness were not passed in discomfort or repining. As he said to a younger friend, "I am happy in the company of the great minds of the world. When I was young, I committed to memory many pages of their writings. Now these come back to me at will, and they fill my hours of solitude with the richest satisfaction."

One may well hope not to end his days helpless in bed, but all who live to old age have their hours of solitude, and in all periods of life we are apt to be alone on walks or on journeys. On our walks, certainly, it is not feasible to read, but what a satisfaction it is to accompany our steps with the measure of great poetry or to give a noble landscape the setting of noble thoughts. Every year some new form of insurance is devised, but none has yet been put on the market to insure old age against unhappiness. Here is a form of insurance that, if not warranted to afford complete protection against the ills of advancing years, will certainly, if taken out early in life and its payments faithfully made, result in a large measure of comfort in old age. As with all insurance, youth is the best time to begin, but for this any time will do.—Providence Journal.

The Wicked Riviera.
Representative Sears of Florida said at a dinner in Kissimmee:
"Will Florida's tourist trade decline and the Riviera's mount this winter as a result of the terrible storm? I hope not. Florida, for one thing, is less wicked than the Riviera."
"Let me tell you a story. A sailor sat with his sweetheart in a movie theater. The lights went out, and the girl pressed her lips to the young man's and whispered:
"Jack, you're all in all to me, and I'm all in all to you, but will it be ever thus, darling, ever and forever thus?"

"It sure will," Jack answered promptly, "from now to January 3, and from April 17 on till death. Between them dates, sweetheart, the boss' yacht will be cruisin' on the Riviera."

Silk Culture a Failure

All the early attempts to establish silk culture in America were failures. The first trial was under Cortez, in Mexico, in 1522. James I. was no more successful than Cortez when he attempted in 1600 and 1622 to re-introduce the silk worm. Benjamin Franklin and others were engaged in re-establishing the industry at the time the Revolutionary war broke out. A speculative mania swept America in 1838, and as late as 1896 the state of California offered bounties to silk producers, but the last serious attempt at such production was in 1926. Reference has been made here, of course, only to "pure silk," and not to any of the artificial silk fabrics which flood the market in many variations.

Enlightenment

Gen. Peppino Garibaldi, about to sail for Europe, from New York, told a reporter a war story.
"Once," he said, "there was a war between Chili and Peru, and a correspondent said to a military attaché:
"Colonel, nobody wears uniforms in this war, and in consequence I can't tell one side from the other."
"Ha, can't you?" said the attaché.
"Well, my boy, it's quite simple. If you see an army running for Peru, it's Peruvian, and if you see one running towards Chili it's Chilean."

Passed Over Riches in Search for Gold

California and the Klondike are richest in gold rush lore, but northern Minnesota, too, has a place in the annals of man's search for the precious yellow metal. In 1865 more than 2,000 prospectors fought their way over snow-covered ground, through a country without a roadway, lashing their dog teams in a frantic race to stake claims and dig for gold, chasing a phantom that eluded them and ignoring in their frenzied search the precious ore that, in years to come, was to make the range the richest iron country in the world.

This gold rush to the Lake Vermillion district is the first of many romantic events in the story of man's attempt to wrest the district's treasures from the earth.

Long before, fur traders had brought stories to the little settlement of Duluth of the existence of valuable metals. But the Indians made no attempt at exploration, content with displaying to the traders and the missionaries samples of gold-threaded quartz. Hundreds of years before, according to legend, four Indians, sitting about a campfire on the shores of Lake Superior, heated stones only to have them melt into masses of copper. Excitant over their discovery, they were examining it, when a voice, apparently from the lake, thundered:
"I am the Father of the Waters. You are robbing me. Depart!"
The legend is that the four Indians were stricken with such fright that death came within a few hours.—Minneapolis Journal.

Historical Inaccuracies

There are mistakes in the pictures that have been painted to depict Washington making his famous crossing of the Delaware river just before his victory at the battle of Trenton. Writing in an article in Liberty, Hugh Fullerton says, "Artists who have painted the scene made two blunders: The flag they painted is not at all like the flag borne by the Americans. The boats shown even a greater error. Those actually used were specially constructed rafts for the cannon and horses; but the painters drew ordinary rowboats. The boats were of a unique type known as Durham boats. They were one boats built to haul ore down the river. These boats were shaped like broad canoes and were more than 40 feet long, painted black, and ideal for hauling troops and supplies over the river."

Coffins Used to Get Aliens Across Border

Hamilton, Ont.—Coffins have been used to smuggle aliens into the United States, according to testimony given here in the case of Louis Michiniewick, convicted on a smuggling charge and sentenced to a six-months' term in prison. The coffins were provided with air vents for living occupants and were delivered to an American border city within a short time after being placed on board a train here.

Police said that 46 foreigners paid Michiniewick various sums to land them in the United States by the coffin route or various other smuggling schemes at which he was an adept.

HUNGER FORCES YOUTH TO STEAL

Orphan Goes Hungry Three Months After Leaving Home.

New York.—Tiring of taking orders from his many guardians and seeking work to become independent rather than attend school and become President of the United States, as he was assured he could be, Eugene Gargullo, fifteen years old, roamed the streets of New York city three months without a penny and only an occasional bite to eat. Then his hunger forced him to steal. He was captured by police.

Eight years ago Eugene's parents died. The boy grieved and rebelled when an uncle, Ciro Gargullo, was appointed guardian. He was put under the care of other guardians from time to time, his disgust growing with each one.

Finally his older brother took Eugene into his family. There Eugene's grandmother told him she would prepare him for the Presidency if he would go to school. But Eugene wanted to work—attending school for years being too slow a process for him. He ran away from his brother's home.

Too proud to beg, the boy almost starved for three months until his morale gave way before hunger and he broke into a lunch wagon. A policeman caught him devouring a sandwich. Between bites he confessed.

"I didn't want money," he explained. "I didn't aim to steal anything but food. Gee, I was hungry—hadn't eaten for I don't know how long. Been out of work a long time and almost starved. I lived with my brother, but, honest, he's not to blame for me being so bad. It's my own fault. I hated to take orders from anybody but my parents. I just wanted to work and be independent."
Eugene is now in the hands of the Children's society of Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Father" Auguste Gulliot lived in the village seventy-eight years, until he was beaten to death by those who feared him.

The villagers held that animals shunned Gulliot, that a baby who touched him had convulsions and that a curse was upon him. They called him the "thrower of spells."

Last fall, as he passed through a field, Angele, an eighteen-year-old shepherdess, was convinced that the calves and lambs were terrified, so she set upon him with her staff.

Her brothers came to her aid and they left the old man senseless upon the field. Next morning a crowd, no longer fearful of him, beat him as he lay on the ground.

He was taken to a hospital three days later, and three months afterward died of his injuries. The village is rid of its "sorcerer," but the villagers apparently have no consciousness of guilt.

Sisters, With $15,000, Dead of Alcoholism

New York.—Two middle-aged sisters moved five years ago into a $15-a-month furnished room. They went out little. Hardly anybody but the landlady, who collected the rent, ever saw them.

They were found dead from acute alcoholism, apparently in simultaneous stupor. And one of the women had $15,000 in savings accounts in four local banks. Both had insured their lives in favor of the other. Nobody knows if they have relatives living.

The sisters were Mary Gillen, described by papers found in the room by police, as a "faithful and honest servant," and Mrs. Bessie Ury, described in her insurance policy as a widow. Discovery of their bodies followed vain efforts by the landlady, Mrs. Wilhelmina Guth, to collect this month's rent.

BAND CONCERT IN WOODBRIDGE THIS SUNDAY

Woodbridge Estates to be Sold at Low Figure; Handsome Prizes
to be Awarded Free

The first band concert of the season in this section will take place Sunday in Woodbridge Estates, a tract of 38 acres on Amboy avenue and Green street, Woodbridge. This announcement was made yesterday by Mr. S. R. Kelsey, president of Woodbridge Estates, Inc., which will sell 400 lots for home building on that site.

Popular and semi-classical selections will be played from one o'clock until five in the afternoon. A radio set will also be given away on the property May 29th. The set will go free of charge to the holder of the lucky coupon. These coupons are being given out at the property.

Woodbridge Estates is one of the few remaining restricted residential sections in the suburbs of Perth Amboy. It is ideally suited to the family of moderate means because there is every kind of transportation available, buses, trains and trolleys.

As a community, it offers churches of every denomination, schools, within a few blocks, a fine shopping center within a few minutes from the property, and a delightful suburban atmosphere. According to Mr. Kelsey, lots will sell at the opening at $195 up. They are 25 by 100 and all buildings will have a 20 foot setback from the curbing.

"We are sparing no effort to make Woodbridge Estates one of the most attractive home sites in New Jersey," said Mr. Kelsey yesterday. "When I purchased this property two years ago I had in mind a community which would be practically suited to the family of moderate means. There is no reason why this type of citizen should be neglected for after all it is these fine families that have made our country the great success it is today."

"Every man wants to own his own home, but everyone cannot pay the prices which are being asked in most sections. I was particularly lucky to assemble Woodbridge Estates when prices were considerably lower than they are now and I am satisfied to take a small profit in order to carry out my ideas."

N. J. State Hospital To Use Gas Exclusively

Modern gas-fired cooking appliances are to replace coal-fired appliances in the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton. Gas-fired equipment and extensive piping work will be installed in the hospital buildings and in the homes of employes on the grounds at a cost of about $21,000.

Cooking is done at the hospital for about 3,000 persons. About 1,800 loaves of bread and a considerable amount of cake and pastry is made at each baking. Upwards of 700 pounds of coffee are roasted each week. Heretofore, all this was done with coal-fired ovens but gas will do the work as soon as the installation of the new equipment is completed.

It is estimated that the gas consumption of this installation will be about 750,000 cubic feet a month.

Ritz Theatre District Has Business Boom

Installation of a delicatessen department by J. Weiss, at Washington and Pershing avenues. Salads, cold cuts and tabled delicacies have been included with the vegetable, fruit and grocery line. Gobel's ready-to-serve meats are featured as well as fresh rolls and crullers for the Sunday delicatessen trade. Hot corned beef and home baked beans are offered as extra Sunday specials at 5 o'clock.

Another inviting place is Al's Barber Shop and Beauty Parlor at 78 Washington avenue, corner of Emerson street, in the towering new building at this corner. This shop is completely fitted out for beauty culture service. Miss C. Scally, formerly of Elizabeth, has supervision of the beauty work, every phase of which is given, with the one exception of permanent waves. In the barber shop, Al Uliano, one of the best known barbers in Carteret, holds forth. Sanitary shaving cups, towels, etc., are included in the improvements together with the mechanical devices so necessary in up-to-date establishments of this kind.

Briefly, the Washington avenue business men are putting a "kick" in the opportunity brought about by the erection of the new amusement temple in this section of Carteret.

Annual Convention of Electric Light Ass'n

Percy S. Young, vice president in charge of finance, Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, will present his report as treasurer of the National Electric Light Association at the annual convention of the association in Atlantic City June 6-10.

It is expected about 10,000 people will attend the convention sessions, including upwards of 200 Public Service men, thirty or more of whom are members of various standing committees which will submit reports.

Thomas Sproule, general superintendent of electric distribution, Public Service Electric and Gas Company, is chairman of the entertainment committee. Other Public Service men on the committee are: William B. Hartshorn, assistant to the president, Thomas N. McCarter, Jr., executive assistant and Watson F. Tait, engineer.

The work of the entertainment committee includes a wide variety of duties, ranging from engaging an orchestra to planning many features for the women who will attend the convention. "Seaview Day," to be held June 8, will feature the entertainment program when outdoor recreation will be provided for all the women who care to take part. The program for that day will include an eighteen hole golf tournament, obstacle golf contest, golf putting match, croquet, dart throwing and bridge.

The committee has engaged George Olsen's orchestra of thirty-five pieces for the four days of the convention.

Girl Wins Honor

A girl of sixteen has accomplished the daring feat of crossing the most tempestuous part of the Black sea in a rowboat. Tamara Schumarino started alone in a small rowboat down the Danube river. After many thrilling experiences she ultimately reached Sebastopol, having covered a distance of approximately 1,000 miles, and being the first woman to have shot the Danube rapids. In recognition of her bold venture, Tamara Schumarino was made an honorary member of the Red fleet, in which she is the first woman to be enlisted.

Efficiency

Eight-year old Margaret, who dislikes dish-washing and bed-making, has given much anxious thought to the problems of domestic life. A caller asked her what she meant to do when she grew up. "Oh, get married!" she answered.

"But suppose nobody asks you?" "Then I shall ask somebody," she replied, decidedly. "My mind is made up. I shall be married and have six children, four white ones, and two black ones to do the work."

WATER SOFTENER PLANT INSTALLED BY LAUNDRY FIRM

Roosevelt Laundry Installs Equipment to Obtain Own Supply of Well Water

Operating its own water well and water softener, The Roosevelt Laundry Service Company, Inc., of Carteret, is adding to the efficiency in production.

The well, which was dug in the rear of the plant and which reaches a depth of 65 feet, is operating electrically and water is constantly pumped into a huge pressure tank, from which it is piped to the water softener, where the water is prepared for the laundry work.

It has been found that white laundry requires softened water for rinsing, and now plenty of this water is available at any time to make the process of double rinsing an easier task than a single operation.

The Roosevelt Laundry Service Company now operates eight trucks and employs 18 people, who live in Carteret. The new improvement was installed at an expense close to $5,000 and no matter what happens to the local water supply, the company will always have for use the product of the running well. Many other improvements are contemplated at this enterprising plant during the next few months.

Blackfish No Longer Welcome on Cape Cod

Blackfish sometimes came too close to the beaches of Cape Cod and Nantucket. Then shore whalers put off in boats and made a little honest money trying out the oil for watch oil makers. Anywhere along the cape or the shores of Nantucket sound the cry might go up that a blackfish, or a school of them, had got into shoal water and were stranded by the receding tide. Then all hands available pelted down shore with knives, spades, buckets and axes. Men put up brick try works and built fires. Blubber was boiled into oil, and folks who shared in the profits thought the reef was lovely.

But blackfish, like whales, gradually gained emancipation from the condition of prey. Substitutes for their oil were found. No more did the cry, "Blackfish down shore!" bring a whole populace running to the slaughter.

Then, like a magic journey back into the past, in August, 1923, once more that shout rang along the beaches from Provincetown to Truro. The beach at Truro was afoam with 60 huge, fat, glossy blackfish, all frantic, panicky, surprised by a receding tide in the sandy shallows, unable to turn toward the sea, each fighting madly to get farther up the entangling sandy slope.

But surely that cry would bring no response, for the business was dead and everyone knew it. But what was this? A dozen men hurrying shoreward with oars? Some women, children, boats flocking in, rushing in. But never a spade, never a knife, harpoon or ax. The air rang with the spanking of oars and paddles upon fat, glossy, round sides. Cries and more spanking. Everybody trying frantically to urge the galled fish to turn around and escape to deep water!

Humanitarian? Hardly. There is a law on the cape which forces a property owner to bury or otherwise dispose of all fish stranded on his land. And 60 blackfish take some burying!—Captain Dingle in Adventure Magazine.

Daniel Boone Fought in Army of Braddock

Daniel Boone was one of the bravest of those early settlers of the British colonies in America who penetrated vast wildernesses, fought with hostile Indians, and faced death daily. He was brought up amid the hardships of the frontier, when boys had to show a man's courage and do a man's work.

The new country at this time was full of trouble. There was bitter hostility between the English and French, the French being helped by the Indians. Braddock was making his campaign against the French, and the war seemed in the air everywhere.

Daniel Boone was a sturdy boy, strong for his age, and fond of adventure. He saw an opportunity to satisfy this desire by joining the army of Braddock, and he accordingly offered his services. These were accepted and he was made chief wagoner and blacksmith.

Braddock later was ambushed by hostile French and Indians, and in the general rout which followed a large number of British soldiers were killed. Many of the drivers who were trapped were slain. Daniel finally managed to cut the traces of his team, and escaped down a ravine followed by a hail of shot and arrows.

When he was thirty-four, Boone, with five companions, set out on the exploration trip to Kentucky. Boone was taken prisoner by the savages and they liked him so well that they wouldn't let him go, but finally he got away. If he had been unable to escape at the time Braddock's army was attacked, he, of course, never would have made the trip to Kentucky, and the development of the rich and productive lands which he opened up would have been delayed several years and the march of civilization hindered.

Verdun Today

Eleven years ago began the first phase of the greatest and bloodiest battle of world history—the titanic struggle for the possession of Verdun, key to the conquest of France. Armies of millions crashed together in that Armageddon and France reeled under the impact of the terrific blows of Ludenworf. Little is left today of that holocaust. We stood on Dead Man's hill the other day and around could be seen a most rustic and peaceful landscape. An early spring sun, mellow and beneficent, was turning the fields into a deeper hue of green, pensants were busy here and there, little children played games on the

Teeth That Don't Bite

You have read, probably, that the organized clubs of women throughout the state are trying to improve the human race. A noble pursuit indeed!

They recently drew up a program for improvement that will require the attention of extraordinary vigor.

During the coming year the women will urge:

Legislation regulating the motion picture industry, immoral books and salacious plays, as well as laws for the sterilization of the criminal insane and mental defectives, prohibiting night work for women, and requiring compulsory automobile liability insurance.

In regard to motion pictures and plays, they assert that we need laws "with teeth in them." The self-same agitation has existed on Broadway for years. Police were given teeth to attach to their laws; still the theatre-goer has no trouble to find "salaciousness" on the stage.

The president of Columbia says:

"Two so-called offensive plays have been closed and some of the persons responsible jailed. But if you have any idea the theatre has been cleansed you should go to almost any revue and observe the skits now running. If Mae West (actress in "Sex") deserved to be put in the workhouse for ten days the authors and producers of eight out of ten of these sketches should get life."

Does Health Mean Anything?

"Are athletics on an equal plane with education as regards the high school student?" a reader of this column would like to know. He asks the question merely to indicate that he does not think they are on a level.

But, from a standpoint of health, athletics are more important to the individual than acquiring an education. This is obviously reasonable. Many a college professor, steeped in the profundity of higher learning, would gladly exchange his polished possession for a bit of rugged health.

Who does not prefer health to any kind of possession?—disregarding purity of soul, of course.

It is just as necessary for the boy and girl of high school age to enjoy the pleasures of athletics as it is for them to keep their young heads buried in books. Life to them should not be as serious as it is to their elders.

Besides, games help to build up a spirit in the school that makes it a pleasure to attend school—not a drudge.

Love—Not Flowers

A writer has said, "Mother's Day is firmly established. It will never die as long as there is a florist or candymaker living."

It is a good thing that mothers see a SOMETHING behind the gift—that mysterious something that is at the heart of all things—LOVE.

Florists and candymen cannot create THAT something. Their product is merely a conveyance for it.

The Close of School

When you were a school-boy, or school-girl, a red letter day of the year was when school was dismissed for the summer vacation. It mattered not if you were one of the ones who like to go to school. There are such girls and an occasional boy of the same kind. The attitude of the pupils at the closing of the school year will not be misunderstood by those who have not forgotten their own feelings under similar circumstances. There is eagerness to lay aside books and pencils and rest from the routine which has been the order for ten months.

The suggestion which is sometimes made that the school year should be continuous and that the summer vacation, if granted at all, should be short, gets mighty little endorsement from those whom it would affect chiefly. Even the teachers we imagine would not wish to surrender the weeks of relaxation though it might mean a little more pay.

The average boy in the grades regards school as a species of punishment inflicted on him because he cannot help himself. It is the exception for the boy to hold it needful to do more than will "get him by." This may not be the ideal boy, but it is somewhere near the description of the normal boy. When the boy lands in the high school, ambition may burgeon, but the small boy who is too studious is likely to be regarded as catering to the prize of being the teacher's pet and that in the average estimate is nothing but a disgrace.

It is well that parents and school authorities have views somewhat at variance with the pupils, else school rooms would not be filled to the extent they are. Were it not so there would be longer vacations and shorter school terms. It happens that so long as children are in the grades, the parents know what is best for them. When the children get into college the situation may be reversed and the children know what is best for parents. At least there is some practice on that theory.

Memorial Day Memories

Memorial Day! And oh! the flood of memories.

Memories of the early observances, when the boys who had saved the Union swept in long processions to the cities of the dead, to pay honors to the comrades who had gone on before.

Memories of the parades of bygone years—the ever shortening lines of archers, the ever lengthening lines of mounds marking the resting places of those who had entered upon the last bivouacs.

Memories of the Spanish war—of the Maine, of Dewey at Manila, of the rush to battle in Cuba and in the far-away Philippines. And later, the homecoming of the dead to sleep beside or near the heroes of the earlier conflict.

Memories of the World War—of the boys who went cheering and singing through the streets on their way to the training camps, keeping step to the heart-quickening "Over There."

Memories of the long, heart-racking suspense and the fears after the boys had disembarked in France, and had gone forward to the battle line.

Memories of the thrills that swept over the land as the cables and wires spread the news of the glorious deeds of our boys on the crimsoned battlefields.

Memories of the heartbreaks as the fateful telegrams brought tidings of the death of the neighbor's boy—or of the boy who was nearer and dearer.

Thus it is that as the heroes of the old wars pass away the heroes of the new battles fill the vacant places, and pay homage to the glorious dead who had served their country in its times of peril. And even when lasting peace comes to the world there will be men, and women, and children in every community, large and small, to perpetuate observance of Memorial Day in paying tribute to the nation's dead.

NO PERSONAL FEAR IN MANGIN'S NATURE

French General Ready to Accept Any Risk.

With a view to raising the army morale the late Gen. Charles Mangin was constantly pushing his headquarters forward on a line with the divisional commands. The Germans had hardly left Soissons before he moved to a chateau in the suburbs within range of the enemy's guns. They could have blown the place to pieces in 20 minutes.

The chief of staff and the heads of the bureaus protested that it was no place for clerks and typists, much less officers at desks. But they wasted their breath. Mangin said that it was best to be there and that nothing unpleasant would happen. One morning a nine-inch shell dropped near the gate, but no one was hurt.

Again as the Germans left Laon he moved into a house at the foot of the hill under the town. The countryside was planted with mines whose fuses were arranged for delayed explosion. For nearly two weeks these blew up at odd times under cross roads and in buildings.

Mangin installed himself without waiting for engineers to examine the premises, and again the staff was in a state of mind. The first evening during dinner a mine went off close by, rocked the house, and sprayed the room with broken window glass. Mangin was talking at the time. He paused, motioned to Baba, his tall Senegalese orderly, to sweep up the pieces, and went on.

Afterward Rochbuet, his aide, said laughingly: "If it had been us instead of the windows it would have been just the same. He would have had Baba sweep us into his pail."

All this was a standard of military conduct. Brutality, however, was foreign to his nature. His treatment of prisoners was invariably humane and considerate. He shrank from ordering punishments and executions.

In the autumn an escaping prisoner was caught in the front lines in a French uniform. The lieutenant who caught him sent him back to army headquarters. Mangin sent for the lieutenant.

"Why didn't you shoot him when you caught him?" he demanded. "I don't want him." He told the story at dinner and added hopefully: "And now what am I going to do with him? Of course I ought to shoot him, but the poor devil had no intention of being a spy. He only wanted to escape." As a matter of fact he did not shoot him but sent him to the rear, and I suspect the man went back to Germany.—David Gray in Century Magazine.

Writers Helped Each Other

Thomas Carlyle and Ralph Waldo Emerson each was aware of the genius in the other but they had difficulties in getting the public to accept their works. They helped each other, however, Emerson bringing about the early publications of Carlyle's essays in this country, and Carlyle arranging for the first edition of Emerson's that was published in England. After trying for years to find a publisher for "The French Revolution," Carlyle wrote to Emerson:

"I have given up the notion of hawk-ing my little manuscript book any further; for a long time it has lain quiet in its drawer, waiting for a better day. Sad fate! to serve the devil and get no wages even from him."—Mentor Magazine.

ARMY TWINS ARE ALIKE IN BOTH RANK AND SERVICE

Two Sets of Lieutenants Are Serving in the Field and Coast Artillery.

Washington.—The army has two sets of twins who have twin service records, all first lieutenants. They are Herbert E. and Herschel D. Baker of the field artillery and Claude T. and Clem O. Gunn of the coast artillery.

Similarity in their service records is more pronounced in the case of the Baker brothers than of the Gunn brothers, although the latter seldom have been far apart in any important point. Lieut. Herbert E. Baker is now with the Fourteenth field artillery at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and his brother with the Second field artillery at Fort Bragg, N. C., while the Gunn brothers are at Manila, Clem with the fifty-ninth coast artillery and Claude with the Sixtieth.

Born at Wattonville, Ill., November 21, 1890, the sons of Col. David Baker of the medical corps, the Baker brothers attended the Marist college, Atlanta, Ga., from January, 1909, until November, 1913.

They enlisted in the regular army February 3, 1917, and were assigned as privates to troop C, Second cavalry, afterward rising to the grade of privates. First class in that troop and subsequently serving in headquarters troop, Fourth division, and the One Hundred Forty-seventh field artillery until they entered the third officers' training school at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., January 5, 1918.

They were commissioned second lieutenants with emergency rating and served in the American expeditionary forces together from April, 1918, until August, 1919, being wounded on the same day, October 26, 1918, in the Meuse-Argonne engagement. Permanent rating as second lieutenants was given them a year later, and promotion followed in July, 1921. Both took the basic course in the field artillery school, 1921-1922, but after that parted company to take separate assignments.

Each is married and has one child. Herschel D. has the army serial number 0-11391, while Herbert E. has 0-11392, and their promotion numbers are 7144 and 7145 respectively.

Camp McCoy to Be Leader for Artillery

Camp McCoy, Wis.—This military reservation, extending over 1,400 acres of Monroe county, is destined within the next three years to be the greatest artillery training camp in the United States. Thousands of regular army organized reserve and National Guard artillery troops from nine states will be gathered here each year for intensive training.

This was learned definitely when some of the details of a three-year improvement plan, already under way, were explained.

Such progress has already been made that, beginning in June, the regular and National Guard artillery from Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska will do their training here. Later, Michigan artillery, which will this year train at Camp Grayling, Mich., will be added to the list. In no other part of the United States will so large an aggregation of artillery be gathered together.

Camp McCoy, named in honor of the late Maj. Gen. Robert B. McCoy of Sparta, commander of the Thirty-second division during the World war, is little known to the average person of the service.

It has been used for a government firing range for 15 years and army officials have long been aware of its advantages as a large camp site.

Indiana's Governor Walks 42 Blocks a Day

Indianapolis.—Winter and summer, Gov. Ed Jackson walks to work—42 blocks from the governor's mansion to the capitol.

Neighbors learned long since that it's useless to offer him a lift in their cars. Some of them have taken to joining him. Many a morning finds members of his official family, legislators or political leaders trying to keep pace with him as they walk downtown, discussing out administrative problems or adjusting party difficulties.

Jackson has a dual fondness for pedestrianism—he likes it and it keeps him fit. He has been walking since he trudged from his Howard county farm home to country school as a lad. Despite his fifty-two years he never feels fatigue from his daily six-mile hike.

Royal Chef Prefers Job in American Kitchen

Eureka Springs, Ark.—A chef who served his apprenticeship in the kitchen of the Russian royal palace and prepared food for the tables of three czars finds Americans much easier to please.

After catering to the appetites of monarchs, W. C. Thompson, an Establian by birth, now is a chef in a resort hotel here. It is no trouble at all, he says, to cook for American millionaires.

Thompson's first experience as a cook for royalty was under Alexander II and then Alexander III and Nicholas II.

Stimulated by Fright to Oratorical Triumph

There is hardly any public speaker of great celebrity who will not confess that he feels more or less tremor when he rises to speak on a great occasion, though it be for the hundredth time. It is well known that Erskine, the great forensic advocate, was at first painfully unready of speech. So embarrassed was he in one of his maiden efforts that he would have abandoned the attempt to harangue juries, had he not felt, as he tells us, "the children tugging at his gown and urging him on." Sheridan and Disraeli, as all the world knows, hung fire in their first speeches and Curran was almost knocked down by the sound of his own voice when he first addressed his "gentlemen" in a little room of a tavern. The first speech of Cobden, who became one of the most powerful champions of the Anti-Corn Law league, was a humiliating failure.

It is said that Canning was sure of speaking his best if he rose in a great fright. To feel his heart beating rapidly, to wish the floor would open up and swallow him, were signs of an oratorical triumph. At a mayor's dinner in Liverpool he was so nervous before he was called on to speak that he twice left the room to collect his thoughts. Doctor Storrs of New York, one of the most accomplished preachers in America, states that when he delivered his first sermon after his installation in Brooklyn, he made almost a dead failure. He staggered and fumbled for 20 minutes and then came to a dead stop. "I sank back on the chair, almost wishing that I had been with Pharaoh and his hosts when the Red sea went over them."

"My lords," said the earl of Rochester on a certain occasion, "I—I—I—rise this time—my lords, I—I—I—divide my discourse into four branches." Here he came to a halt, and then added: "My lords, if ever I rise again in this house, I give you leave to cut me off, root and branch, forever." When Tristram Burgess of Rhode Island was making a speech in congress once, he directed his eagle eye and pointed his forefinger toward his opponent on the floor and, in this threatening attitude made a long and dramatic pause. "That pause was terrible," said a member to Burgess after the debate had closed, complimenting him on its dramatic effect. "To no one so terrible as to me," said Burgess, "for I couldn't think of anything to say."—From Orators and Oratory, by William Matthews.

Obtain Pure Rhenium
Rhenium, the chemical element whose discovery was recently announced in Germany by Doctors Walter and Ida Noddacks, has now been obtained in pure form. The first discovery was based on the finding of the characteristic lines in the X-ray spectrum as detected by photographic plates, but now the Noddacks have succeeded in obtaining, after long and difficult refining processes, a small quantity of the substance itself. They describe it as a black powder of high melting point, that unites readily with a number of other elements. In an atmosphere of pure oxygen it燃ites.

forming a white oxide. The quantity so far obtained is very minute, only two milligrams, or 7-100,000 of an ounce, and the experimenters are now at work to elaborate more of it, which will permit of exact quantitative chemical examination.

Old Tombs Uncovered
A large number of primitive tombs, believed to date back to the time of the Trojan wars, have been discovered near Porto Ferrajo on the island of Elba. They are extremely rudimentary, several skeletons having been found in each tomb, which is composed merely of roughly hewn slabs of slate.

Nearby are the ruins of the very ancient city of Alzich, which, as Virgil recalls in "Aeneid," furnished 300 warriors against the Greeks during the Trojan war. In the same neighborhood the remains of an ancient oven used for smelting iron has been found. The excavations are being continued.

Parrot Summoned Help
When passing through a stretch of timber near St. Joseph, Ark., John McElroy was startled by cries of "Help! Murder!" coming from the thicket just off the road. He rushed in and discovered a parrot struggling to escape the clutches of a chicken hawk. The hawk flew away at the arrival of McElroy, who picked up the wounded parrot and took the bird home with him. It was so badly injured that it died within a few hours, but while it was alive it shook its head continually and muttered, "Bad, bad."

"Dead Man" Wandering
A living "dead man" is wandering somewhere about the streets of San Francisco despite the well-meant efforts of Coroner Leland to get him into the morgue. Doctor Leland found a man lying on the sidewalk. He made a superficial examination and pronounced him dead. He then called the coroner's wagon and police detectives. When he returned from the telephone the "dead man" had walked away, leaving Doctor Leland to explain as best he could to the investigating detectives.

Papers Delayed
The railway line was flooded after heavy rainstorms, and the traveler was obliged to break his journey at a village. He made his way in the pouring rain to a restaurant and said to the waiter there: "It is like the Deluge!"
"The what?"
"The Deluge. Haven't you read about the Deluge—Noah and the ark?"
"No, sir; you see, because of the flood we haven't had any newspapers in three days."

Roots of Evil
The love of money is said to be the root of all evil, and the lack of it is sometimes not otherwise.

Mean Old Things
Whenever you try to talk about your interesting operation somebody insists on talking about his own trifling experience.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

MERCHANTS URGE ADDED SHOPPING IN CARTERET

Make Plea for Greater Community Co-operation on the Part of Residents Here

BELIEVE PUBLIC WILL HELP
Carteret Will Benefit Through United Support on Part of All Residents

"Boost for Carteret!" This is the slogan which should be heard throughout the community in support of the movement being fostered by the local business men for greater consideration when it comes to spending the family dollar.

The people of Carteret are asked to look over stocks in local stores before sending the dollar away. There are many things that cannot be purchased here, but the essentials that are on sale here are worthy to find a resting place in the shopping basket on the back and in the home.

When united help is given to the tradesmen here, the entire community benefits and they in turn build up Carteret and make possible increased home comforts and valuations, creating better opportunities here for grown-ups and children.

Carteret is your community. No one else will boost it for you. Only the people living here can avail themselves of this community spirit. By boosting your merchants and community, you create a prosperous condition.

Remember, your neighbor will take better care of you than the big city stranger. It is his interest to do so. His future depends on winning and holding your confidence and friendship—and he's right here to make good any mistakes.

Behind this movement is the idea to acquaint the people in this section with the buying possibilities at home. This holds true in not only buying from the stores, but supporting other lines of trade, such as the garage man, plumber, contractor, painter, coal dealer and the many other establishments that are dependent on home support in order to prosper.

Every dollar spent in this territory adds to the wealth of the community. If this purchasing power goes away the community suffers the loss, because the dollar spent away never comes back.

Home trading not only makes the community prosper and reacts for increased home valuations, but it gives the business men a chance to increase their stocks and make possible greater progress in building up complete home trade service.

Fortunes will be spent during the next few months. Why not help your own business institutions grow so that all will share in greater community good will in Carteret?

On an inside page of this newspaper there are appearing the names of your "partners" who are speaking to you in a series of articles which we will publish from issue to issue. They are the business men of Carteret who have the confidence they must have, or they would not back their faith in this place with the investments that they have made and pay heavy taxes on these investments besides spending large sums every year to maintain the establishments that stand before you and everybody else, here and beyond our limits, as monuments to their implicit confidence that our community can and will make good.

If you have come from an out-of-town shopping trip recently, price the things you bought at your neighborhood stores and strike a balance on the profits and losses of the trip. That will convince you beyond argument as to why you should buy of the home merchant.

If you have just received a bill of goods from a mail order store, subject it to the same acid test. Figure your money order fees, your postage, your freight and express charges, insurance and the time you wasted. Then take into account breakage, shortage and reorder. But, most important of all, the illustration and description in the catalogue, except in the case of a few staple and standard articles, led you to expect better goods, and you are disappointed. You keep them under protest, or you exchange them and incur further expense.

Refer to the advertisements in this week's issue of this paper. There you'll find merchants, many just "round the corner from you, who have just the things you want—at attractively low prices. Local merchants advertising in this issue will make great efforts to have what you want at prices you're willing to pay.

Carteret Junior Red Cross Activities

The Junior Red Cross of the Carteret Public Schools continued its work of service last week when a drive for the relief of the Mississippi River flood sufferers was made. That the pupils sympathize with these unfortunate people in their time of distress was shown by the large amount of money collected. The creditable sum of $201.70 was realized.

The Lions Club of Carteret contributed $30 to the fund. This evidence of interest and co-operation was a great encouragement to the Junior Red Cross members, and was very much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones of Cooke avenue, are spending the week-end in Philadelphia with friends and relatives.

PROGRAM

The Memorial Day Parade will form at Brady's Field and will start over the line of march at Nine A. M. Sharp.

The route will be much the same as in the past.

The Program at the Borough Hall after the parade will be as follows:

- Invocation—Rev. Mitchell.
- Roll Call.
- Salute to Dead.
- Address—Mayor T. J. Mulvihill.
- Address—Edwin W. Casey.
- Raising Flag from half-mast—Spanish-American War Veterans.

At two-thirty on Brady's Field there will be some athletic events by the children of the public schools. Every one should turn out and display a little interest in this work.

And don't forget the Block dance on Roosevelt avenue in the evening.

All Ex-service men are urged to march with the Legion. It is not necessary to be a member or wear a uniform. Fall in Everybody.

CO-OPERATION

Co-operation means mutual help. It always results in benefit. It constitutes a power for good. It means profit and accomplishment. The welfare and growth of Carteret depends upon co-operation.

The merchants of Carteret have established themselves and invested their money here and constitute a powerful factor for the growth and betterment of the community.

But they need your co-operation, expressed in patronage.

When you send or spend your money outside of Carteret it cannot be spent by the merchants to help build the community.

When You Spend Your Money Here, You Co-operate---We All Benefit

Program Is Arranged By Carteret Women

Directors of the Carteret Woman's Club held an interesting meeting at the home of its president, Mrs. Emil Stremlau on Atlantic street, Tuesday afternoon. Plans for an extensive educational, literary and social program for next year were drafted and Mrs. Russel Miles was named chairman of the program committee for the year of 1928. Mrs. Miles proposes to have the program include a wide scope of work as successfully worked out in other federated clubs of the state. Present plans are tentative as far as the season of 1928 are concerned.

Although organized a short time ago, the club proposes to sponsor a Junior woman's club and a meeting for that purpose has been called for the evening of June 3, to be held at the home of Mrs. Stremlau. Mrs. Myron Robinson, one of the leading forces of the state federated clubs, will be the speaker on this occasion.

Plans were advanced for the luncheon to be held June 4 at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at the Legion rooms in the Memorial municipal building for which reservations must be made at once.

The club will hold its regular meeting at the Legion rooms on Friday of this week at 2:30 p. m.

Fire Destroys Two Hundred Chickens

Firemen were called to the East Rahway section last Saturday night in answer to an alarm to the fire at William Reynolds, where a building housing chickens was in flames. Two hundred chickens perished and William Reynolds, a son, received painful burns about the arms and face, when an oil stove which he was carrying from the building, exploded. He was attended by Dr. Wantoch.

Both fire companies answered the alarm, saving the nearby buildings.

Mr. Reynolds had just a few days previous purchased most of the flock of chickens.

E. RAHWAY SEWER SYSTEM ORD. IS ADOPTED AS READ

Final Passage of Ordinance Takes Place at Council Meeting; Plans to be Completed Soon

CONTRACTS ARE AWARDED
United Construction & Supply Co. Are Given Contracts for Sidewalk and Curb Jobs

The final reading and adoption of an ordinance providing for the construction of a sanitary sewer system in East Rahway, took place at the meeting of the Borough Council in a special session Monday evening.

Mayor Mulvihill said that although the plans would not be completed for several weeks, detail work such as the ordinance could be taken care of now, and have everything in readiness to start work as soon as the plans have had the approval of the State Board of Health.

Three Resolutions were presented by Councilman Andres, to award the contracts, for the construction of sidewalks and curbs on Emerson street between Washington avenue and Noe's Creek; Locust street, between Pershing avenue and Irving street; south side of Harris street, between Pershing avenue and Leick avenue, to the United Construction and Supply Company, the lowest bidders for the work.

The application of Hertz's Garage, for a permit to erect gas tanks on Roosevelt avenue, between Leick avenue and Wheeler avenue, was not granted, after the reading of a remonstrance against this, signed by property owners living in that section. Councilman Andres moved that an ordinance be drawn up to govern and control the construction of all gas tanks to be erected in the future. Many of the tanks are now located in parts of the town where traffic is heavy and the stopping of cars for gas congests the traffic and endangers the lives of citizens. Councilman Vonah seconded the motion and the attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance.

The Borough Clerk was instructed to notify the M. A. Hermann Construction Company to proceed with the work of laying the sidewalks on Washington avenue. A resolution was adopted authorizing the Collector to advertise certain parcels of property and lots, for sale, for the non-payment of taxes incurred prior to 1925.

BISHOP WALSH TO ATTEND LAYING OF CORNERSTONE

Event Will Take Place on Monday Afternoon Before a Distinguished Gathering

The Catholic Hungarians of Carteret are looking forward to a joyful, notable event: the solemn cornerstone laying of their beautiful new, gray-brick church, the St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic church, rapidly nearing completion, will take place Monday, Decoration day, at 3.30 p. m. and will be in charge of the Bishop of the Diocese of Trenton, the Right Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, D. D., himself, assisted by numerous Monsignors and Priests, including the pastors of all the local Catholic parishes. The pastor, Father Joseph N. Szabo is busy delivering and sending out invitations to many notables, to all the officials of the Borough of Carteret, those of Woodbridge, to the managers of local manufacturing plants and the professional and business people of the community.

All the societies of the parish, the Hungarian societies of Woodbridge, the various societies of St. Joseph's church, Holy Family, Sacred Heart are expected to turn out in full, and will march in a parade to meet the Bishop coming from Perth Amboy. Bishop Walsh will address the gathering from a platform in front of the new church on which the notables and guests will take their places, while the Hungarian sermon will be delivered by the Rev. John Szabo, the founder and first pastor of the parish now located at Trenton, N. J. The impressive services will be concluded in the temporary church building with solemn benediction.

In the evening at 7 p. m. a banquet will be held in the gymnasium of Carteret High School to which all the aforementioned guests including Senator Morgan were invited and are confidently expected to attend. Interesting speeches will be delivered and the tasteful supper, prepared by expert Hungarian cooks, will be spiced with delightful instrumental and vocal selections by some of the talented guests.

The St. Elizabeth's parish with its pastor respectfully and earnestly requests the attendance, both at the cornerstone laying ceremonies and the banquet of its Benefactors and Friends and indeed will be grateful for their sympathy and whatever aid they render in the building of the new church, that will be a credit to Carteret and a potent factor in the moral and spiritual welfare of the Catholic Hungarians.

E. RAHWAY SCHOOL PLANS
Mr. F. F. Simons, Local Architect, Commissioned to Prepare Plans and Estimates for School

After considerable discussion by the Commissioners of the Board of Education at their regular meeting Tuesday evening, it was decided to place before the voters of Carteret at a special election the question whether the Board shall purchase land and have constructed a school in the East Rahway section of the Borough. This decision was reached after Commissioners were heard on plans to purchase the site now and leave only the question of the school to the voters, this plan being rejected.

A parcel of 15 lots was offered to the Board as a site for the school for $2,500, this matter could not be decided till the question is voted on by the public.

Plans had previously been made by George W. Brooks, architect of Perth Amboy, for the Franklin school, and were submitted to the Board to be used for a four room building in the proposed school. Mr. George A. Dalrymple did not feel that the work should go to an out-of-town man and suggested that a local architect be given some consideration in the matter. President Heil asked for the opinion of the board and all supported the suggestion of Mr. Dalrymple. The chairman of the committee was instructed to have Mr. F. F. Simons submit an estimate in the cost of the work.

Plans and specifications for the new heating and ventilating system for Columbus School were presented by Engineer Simons and were approved by the Board and the advertising of bids for the contract will be placed as soon as the plans have the approval of the State Board.

Some time ago a fence of some sort on the south side of the High School was advocated by the Board, and in answer to an inquiry, a representative of the Atlas Fence Company demonstrated the construction of a wire fence which could be had in a 6 or 7 foot height with a barbed wire top. Mr. Coughlin suggested that the Board consider the length of the proposed fence to take in the three side of the property and enclose the athletic field also. This matter was laid over till the next meeting on the advice of Mr. Heil, to give the Committee an opportunity to prepare some concrete plan on which the Board could act.

And increase of $100 was granted the teachers upon the recommendation of Mr. W. Coughlin, Chairman of the Teachers' Committee. Other proposals by Mr. Coughlin were, the recommendation of Miss Ethel Kellar as principal of Washington School with an increase in salary to $2,350.

All principals will be relieved from teaching duties beginning with the new school term, the commissioners decided in accordance with the recommendation of the teachers' committee.

Mrs. Isabel Levin was appointed to care for age and schooling certificates during the summer months. Miss Genevieve Kramer was appointed in the music department to succeed Miss Mary E. Sepple, who sent

BURIED ALIVE IN OLD WELL, MAN IS SAVED BY FRIENDS

Farmer Tells of Experiences in Dungeon 70 Feet Under the Ground.

Fugay Springs, N. C.—Recovering from shock and bruises covering his body from head to foot, Jess Ashworth, twenty-two-year-old farmer, of this place is telling his friends how it feels to be entombed for 13 hours in a 70-foot well while rescuers dig frantically through tons of rock and mud. Ashworth was lowered into the old well by workmen with a pulley outfit. He intended to make repairs. When he was almost at the bottom part of the wellside above him caved in. The stones and mud formed a roof over his head, cutting off sunlight and air. Rescued by "Miracle."

"It must have been a miracle, the way I was rescued," Ashworth says. "There was plenty of room under the roof formed by the stones, but falling debris and lack of air caused me to suffer. I breathed deep for air—deeper and deeper—but the air all day and night got thinner and thinner. "Then I felt awfully much alone. I thought how deep down I was. I thought of unpleasant things, but back in my mind was the thought that I had friends working above. I kept calling for help, but my voice grew weaker and weaker.

Breath Burns Like Fire. "Then it seemed as if the rocks were burning me up. It was so close in that black dungeon that my very breath seemed to be like fire."

Ashworth was trapped in the well at 11 o'clock in the morning. All day rescue workers hauled rocks and dirt from the well. Many believed the man had been killed. They could hear no sound from him. Efforts were continued, however, and about midnight the man's voice was heard.

"Help me, I'm burning up," it cried feebly. A hose was forced through the rock crevices and air pumped into the trap with an old blacksmith's bellows. With the workers digging on and on and with 500 men standing by ready to take their turns at the shovel or windlass, Ashworth's head finally appeared. In an hour his body was freed. Doctors summoned to the home from miles around gave first aid.

Enoch Arden Fraud Quashed by Judge

New York.—Supreme Court Justice Cropsey in Brooklyn set aside an Enoch Arden decree granted three years ago to Albert Boesch, Jr., a metallurgist, against his former wife, Mrs. Mathilda Boesch, formerly a singer with the St. Louis Municipal Opera company.

"You have perpetrated a fraud on the court, and I would like to send you to jail," Judge Cropsey said to Boesch. The couple were married in 1913 and separated in November, 1914. In applying for his decree Boesch said he had heard nothing from his wife since 1915.

Mrs. Boesch said that during part of the time when her husband swore he could not find her she was living in Jersey City with their daughter, Beatrice, to whom her husband occasionally sent post cards and presents. Boesch remarried three years ago. His first wife has a separation action pending against him on the grounds of abandonment and cruelty. He set up his Enoch Arden decree as a bar to her suit. With this out of the way she is now free to press her case.

Worldwide Search for Modern Venus On Sydney, N. S. W.

Sydney, N. S. W.—A world-wide search for the modern Venus has been started by Prof. H. G. Chapman of Sydney university. He has set out to record the measurements of 20,000 Australian women, between the ages of nineteen and thirty-three. More than 6,000 have been measured, showing an average waist measurement of 27 inches. Appeals have been sent to scientists and artists in other countries to collect similar data. The findings are to be compared in order to learn what nation produces the best proportioned women, as well as the effect of modern dress on physique.

Fortune in Gold Found by Poor Family in Japan

Tokyo.—The Ishii family of Tokiwamachi had been having a hard time. Work had been scarce, sickness had piled up doctors' bills, and it was only through digging up old family relics and heirlooms from the family storehouse and selling these to the second-hand dealers that the daily rice could be secured. Some days ago, in turning over the accumulated rubbish of generations in order to find something more that might be salable, the wife of the house discovered a number of little bars of some very heavy substance. She was quite pleased, because if these bars turned out to be of lead they would find a ready sale.

She lugged one into the house and started to scratch the grime from it. It was yellow gold. Before she had finished feverishly scratching all through the storehouse she had found 350,000 yen worth of gold bar, a family treasure long lost and forgotten.

The news stirred the neighborhood, and the village priest came to give the "storehouse the benefit of his search. He dug out what was thought to be an old copper kettle that turned out to be of gold, and a still further going-over brought to light golden utensils of a value of 100,000 yen.

Old "Country Doctor" Wins National Honors

New York.—An aged country doctor, whose work as a physician to "both body and soul" carried him from the obscurity of a Maine village to fame in the field of neurology, is to be honored by the New York members of the medical profession. He is Dr. John Gorge Gehring of Bethel, Maine, formerly a successful Cleveland surgeon. Doctor Gehring, seventy years old, is now retired.

The board of trustees of the Neurological Institute of the medical center here has voted to dedicate a complete ward floor in the new building of the Institute in honor of Doctor Gehring. It was announced here.

Doctor Gehring's suggestion and auto-suggestion methods are credited with restoring to health eminent professional and business men who had suffered from nervous exhaustion.

World Owes Them a Debt

The system of trained nursing which now prevails through America, Great Britain and in many other lands originated in the Deaconesses' Institute founded by Pastor Fliedner and his wife at Kaiserswerth, a little village on the Rhine, in 1836.

Divorce in Birdland

A blow has been struck at the belief that birds choose their mates for life and are free from the evils of divorce by a ten-years' study of bird habits.

The birds that were observed were household wrens, which usually raise two broods of young birds each year. Instead of the bird family persisting from year to year, or even through a single season, the parent birds were found to change mates between the two broods of one year.

The mating lasts only during the time the young birds are helpless. After that each parent feels quite free to make whatever new arrangement may seem desirable.

Europe—Where Is She?

Captain Charles Lindbergh, a daring young air pilot, flew from New York to Paris last week. He is the first man to accomplish the feat. America once more shows the way to the rest of the globe in opening up new fields of endeavor.

Strange as it may seem, Europe is sky-high ahead of the United States in airplane development. Arthur Brisbane, world's highest paid editorial writer, is worried. But now he can quiet his nerves that an American was the first to conquer the Atlantic by plane. And he hopped it ALONE.

To cross the big waters in an airship under the best weather conditions and with perfect emergencies in case of accident would be a tremendously nerve-wracking expedition. But Lindbergh went in a plane that was not even adapted to landing on water. He had a little rubber life boat along; yet engine trouble or a forced drop would without doubt have been disastrous.

Lindbergh is one of whom Americans should be well proud.

Why West Carteret?

Home-loving men desire to have East Rahway changed to West Carteret. Their reasons are convincing.

One objection to the present name is that people desiring to come to the borough by train do not know, sometimes, that East Rahway is a part of Carteret.

But why make the new name WEST Carteret? It would be better to make it CARTERET. And, as regards the railroad station in East Rahway, the name Carteret would be just the thing.

The common tendency among towns is to attribute suburbs to themselves. Still this borough, scarcely a mile square, is not large enough to take more than a single name.

Do what is possible; yet the name East Rahway will remain as firmly as Chrome and the Boulevard.

Newspaper readers now receive their favorite journals through a new delivery concern. Two brothers, Robert and Harry Chodash, recently bought out the local News Delivery Company. They will do their best to give excellent service.

Those who wish THE CARTERET NEWS regularly and promptly could best notify the Chodash brothers. It is an excellent way to have your paper on time.

Merck Consolidates

Merck & Co., of Rahway, which was robbed of a large quantity of chemicals almost a year ago, has been merged with a Philadelphia concern into a $9,000,000 consolidation.

The Merck Co. dates from the seventeenth century, while the Philadelphia firm was founded in 1818. A new company, Merck & Co., Inc., will be organized to take over the business of the two existing concerns.

Possibility that the present Rahway plant will be abandoned is involved in the merger.

The merger is a result of the day's business activity. It seems that a small organization manufacturing a product of nationwide demand cannot exist alone. Sooner or later it combines with another firm, which fact brings greater wealth and better possibilities for trade.

Such a way of combination, too, is a pet method of squeezing out rivals.

Life For Forgery

For forging a check in New York a man was sentenced to life in prison. He was a fourth offender, and the judge told him that the court had no alternative under the Baumes laws.

The same judge also said that the working of the Baumes laws was having a salutary effect on criminals.

In 1915 the man who was sentenced was convicted of burglary at Poughkeepsie and sent to the Elmira Reformatory. He went to Sing Sing for assault in 1917, and again for three and a half years for burglary in 1919.

The Baumes laws are justified in putting such a character away. The example to other crooks is good too.

Testimony for Volstead

It is to be hoped that a typewritten copy of all the testimony in the Snyder-Gray case, particularly the story told by the two defendants, will be handsomely printed and forwarded to Mr. Wayne B. Wheeler, foremost proclaimer of the sweet and wholesome effect of prohibition on the home life of the republic.

The testimony proves many things, not the least of which is that liquor is getting worse and worse and the possession of it so easy that it is no longer even considered a good trick.

Road To Rahway

The method of handling the excavation and the laying of the gas mains on the road through East Rahway has shown no consideration for the citizens and taxpayers of Carteret who of necessity must use this road. Long stretches of the road have been torn up at one time with the consequent blocking of large portions of the road. In handling the fill from the excavation, the contractor might have shown some consideration for those who are forced to use the highway. It is reported that the contractor is connected with the water company. If that be true the lack of consideration of the public can be easily accounted for. However, it is time someone in Carteret took a hand.

The Borough paid in 1926 $102,812.44 to the County of Middlesex. This year it will pay $112,677.20. In the two years the total payment runs not so far from a quarter of a million dollars.

There seems to be some bickering about the kind of road that is to be laid. However, in view of the tremendous taxes paid to the county, for which Carteret apparently gets nothing, it certainly would seem that the citizens of this community are entitled to expect a first-class job. Not only ought there be proper drainage but there ought to be a proper foundation and a proper top. Any other course is a waste of the public's money. Any road is better off with drainage. However, the most durable road will not only have drainage but an honest-to-Goodness foundation as well as a serviceable top service. Surely the people of Carteret are entitled to the best.

First the people have to put up with the wretched condition of the road prior to the mess made by the gas company contractor. The road now is practically impassable. It is to be hoped that the Board of Freeholders will build nothing else but an honest-to-Goodness road and that their plans will follow the gas company's work up promptly.

In the continued delay in this so-called improvement no consideration has been shown for the citizens and taxpayers or the town of Carteret generally. It is time some consideration was shown.

Put Your Screens Up Early

Let our reminder to mothers be among the first in the universal campaign against the fly. Every year we have the warnings of our Boards of Health, local and state—and other health agencies but how frequently these come in the beginning of the summer months after the fly had two to four months to propagate his countless millions of progeny for the current year. The regular time to utter the warning for every one to commence action is just before the fly awakens from his winter larval state and has had a chance to get in really good work in rearing his yearly family of pestilential bearing nuisances. Be ready with all means for his destruction at his first appearance—fly papers, solutions, traps, local preventive measures. The first, and each succeeding, should be killed and his feeding grounds disinfected or screened before his appearance—not afterwards. The fly never wats. We must not, or cannot, or we suffer the consequences as victims of all the furies which the filthy pest carries to us and plagues us.

IN MEMORIAM

1776-1861 1898-1917

No greater tribute can the human race bestow upon mankind than to keep sacred the memory of those that have gone before.

And when we as Americans look back upon the untold sacrifices of our heroic dead, and the unwritten deeds of those that are still carrying on it makes us thank God that we are Americans.

May 30th, 1927, gives us another opportunity of paying tribute to the men that have really made and kept this great republic "America."

And let us rejoice in the knowledge that the efforts of the Grand Army, and Spanish War Veterans were not in vain.

Let us fearlessly, proudly and fervently display our affection and appreciation to those Loyal Sons who sleep in Flanders Fields, those men who said "They Shall Not Pass!"

May God bless the Gold Star Mother's to whom this day particularly brings memories and opens up the wounds afresh for those that sacrificed their all, that we might go on enjoying Liberty, Equality and Justice.

Let us again pay Tribute and Honor to those gallant sons of the greatest of all Republics and to the greatest Flag that ever floated in the breeze.

Old Glory

And it spoke with a shake of the voice and it said,

By the driven snow-white and the living blood-red, Of my bars and their heaven of stars overhead

By the symbol conjoined of the all, skyward cast

As I float from the steeple or flap at the mast

Or droop o'er the sod where the long grasses nod,

My name is as old as the glory of God

—So I came by the name of Old Glory.

Her End

Count von Hoogstraeten, who recently took out his first papers toward naturalization, said to a New York reporter the other day:

"I am not the mercenary wretch that some people pretend. Why, some people pretend," he went on, with a grim smile, "that I'm as mercenary as the girl in the roadhouse story."

"A very nice old gentleman proposed to a girl in a roadhouse. She was beautiful—one of those nude dancers, in fact—and the old gentleman took her hand in his and proposed eloquently. Then he wound up: "I am not young, but a man, darling, is only as old as he feels."

"She laughed and patted his withered cheek caressingly."

"Oh, I ain't worrin' about that end of it, grandpa," she said. "What I want to know is, are you as rich as you look?"

Future Executives

Although the "white-collar" job has been the target of much criticism and satire lately, it is from the ranks of the "white-collar" workers that most of the executives in the business world are drawn, according to Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, in an article in Liberty.

"It is a mistake," Mr. Sloan says, "for the man who hopes to reach an executive job in the factory to start at a machine or workbench. The young man who leaves school when he reaches the eighth grade would better start as a shop workman. He may hope to rise to a foreman's job. But the future executive would better start as a shop clerk in a small plant, keep his eyes open, and study."

Five Eclipses This Year

Two eclipses of the moon and three of the sun, as well as the return of several periodic comets, are among the astronomical events slated for 1927, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Of the eclipses, only one will attract much attention. It occurs on June 29 and will be visible in England early in the morning, the first eclipse seen there for two centuries. June 15, an eclipse of the moon will be witnessed throughout the United States at 3:13 a. m., eastern standard time; the moon will be completely hidden by a shadow of the earth. The other eclipse of the moon takes place in December but will not be visible in the United States.

Regular Meeting of Foresters Held Tuesday

A spirited meeting of the local Foresters took place on Tuesday night, mostly because of the fine reports from the delegates and their success in Grand Court representation. The delegates made their reports and they were greatly praised for their efforts and enviable success.

Chief Ranger Robinson urged all Foresters to assemble at Brady's Field on Decoration Day morning to take part in the Legion parade. The Court will be headed with their banners and officers.

The Home Committee met after the regular meeting, they now having a charter as the Foresters' Club of Carteret.

Plans for a big celebration at the June Quarterly meeting are under way in honoring the new Grand Officers.

Note Reading Contest in Carteret Schools

An interesting feature of the work in the Music Department during the past week was a note reading contest which extended throughout the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Preliminary contests were held in each room for the purpose of selecting the three best pupils from each class. This provided a total of fifty-four pupils for the final contest. The pupils showed marked ability. The prize was given to the room from which the winning pupils came. It was won by Marie Proskura of Miss Adams' eighth grade in the High School Building. There were three other pupils who did remarkably well: Wm. Gross, seventh grade in Washington School, George Armour and Anna Daniels, sixth grade in Columbus School.

The judges of the contest were: Miss Gordon, Columbus School, Miss Keller, Washington School, Miss Simon, High School Building.

N. Y. Tel. Co. Moves Into Own Building

D. H. Ford, local Commercial Manager of the New York Telephone Company, announced today that the Company's Perth Amboy business office was moved on May 23 from 194 Fayette street, to the Company's new three-story building at 183-187 Jefferson street.

The office will be located on the first floor of the new building and will be approximately 40 feet wide by 40 feet deep. Ample space has been provided for the accommodation of the public.

All business transactions of the Telephone Company, such as negotiations for new service, removals, additional equipment, payment of bills, etc., will be conducted at the new address.

The extensive use of the telephone in Perth Amboy today brings to mind its interesting history and the early struggle for recognition in this city.

The first telephones were introduced in Perth Amboy in 1890, fourteen years after the first complete sentence was spoken over wires. In that year a switchboard was installed in the prescription department of Thomas E. Foster's drug store, at the corner of Smith and High streets. The original board had a capacity for serving 25 lines. Mr. Foster was the first operator, and there were 18 subscribers.

It is very interesting to note that several of the original subscribers' telephone numbers have been retained and are still in use today. Among those who realized the advantages of this quicker and more convenient method of communication were: A. J. Rossi, Perth Amboy 1; Patrick White & Sons, No. 8; the Atlantic Terra Cotta Company, No. 18, and Schantz & Eckert, No. 38. The installation of a telephone in those days was an event of public interest.

In 1894 the switchboard was moved to 290 High street, and in the summer of 1897 the need for still larger quarters was met by removal to 55 Smith street. During the seven years from the time the first switchboard was installed, the number of subscribers increased from 18 to 107.

The growth during these early years was slow. By 1900 there were only 258 telephones in use, but five years later the number had jumped to 800. In 1908, the old quarters proving inadequate, the central office was moved to 186 Smith street, where it has been located ever since. It was in this same year that the first business office of the company in Perth Amboy was opened at 104 Fayette street.

As the community grew the demand for telephone service gradually increased until in 1910 there were 1340 subscribers. This number almost doubled in the next five years and by 1920 totaled more than 3700. At the end of last month the company's records showed approximately 8740 telephones in operation, an increase of about 136 per cent in the past seven years.

The Perth Amboy business office handled the business transactions not only for subscribers in Perth Amboy, but also for those in South Amboy, Woodbridge and Carteret.

How Would You Like to Have a Little Pyrometer in Your Home This Summer?

SOME day this summer when it gets hot, if it ever does, you may examine your thermometer in home or office and find it registers ninety degrees or thereabouts. That will be bad enough, but supposing you had a piece of mechanism called a pyrometer stuck up in some corner of the room and it told you the temperature was about 1400 degrees?

MR. CATO NINETAILS TALKS ABOUT TACT

And Incidentally an Event of Golden Youth.

"It is all very tactful, of course, to know what to say or do, and be able to say or to do it," said Mr. Cato Ninetails; "but it seems to me that much more is accomplished in the way of keeping the peace by knowing what not to say or to do and being able not to say or to do it—and that is no easy task. Yielding to the temptation to say what seems to be effective has caused a good deal of hard feeling, not a few fist fights and some wars."

"Some people get so much satisfaction from exercising their critical and controversial abilities that they seem to be willing to cause any amount of unpleasantness for the privilege and even prefer a reputation for smartness to a reputation for courtesy. On the other hand, there are the blunders, who mean better than they say, and suffer from their gaucheries more than the victims of them. They, of course, are never so offensive as the people who are intentionally rude, though they are sometimes quite as entertaining to disinterested auditors."

His Wife as Monitor

Often the judgments of the bureau of industrial relations are laid deep in human nature. A New York manufacturer advertised in the newspapers for young women of a particular type. Girls who took employment in his factory complained of his attentions to them, but none was willing to appear publicly to prosecute him. The authority of the state was invoked, with the result that the manufacturer promised no longer to advertise for employees of any special style or complexion. But the further compromise arranged by the state is described in the Industrial Bulletin in these words:

"It was agreed that the manufacturer's wife remain in the place of business so that no further trouble of this kind should occur."

Most husbands will agree that the arbitration was well salted.—New York Sun.

that the temperature is just right to gain the best results. The successful operation of a water gas making machine, especially in regard to the treatment of the oil used is dependent on the maintenance of proper temperatures throughout the apparatus, and this is where the pyrometer comes in. It is used to record continuously the temperatures so that the operator of the machine will have before him at all times a record of the temperature.

Three signal lights are used. A white light indicates that the proper heat is being maintained, a red light that the temperature is too high and a blue light that it is too low.

Pyrometers have been installed on the water gas machines at the Harrison Works and in other gas manufacturing plants of Public Service Electric and Gas Company. The electric pyrometer really measures a very small electric current. When two wires of dissimilar metals are twisted together and subjected to heat, a small electric current is generated. This current is led by wires to an electric indicating instrument and causes the pointer to move over a graduated scale which is marked off in degrees of temperature. The twisted wires form what is called a thermo couple and are placed in the water gas machine at the point where it is desired to measure the degree of heat maintained. The wires, in a tube, are inserted in the super-heater, the part of the gas making apparatus that must be maintained at proper temperature.

FOR CAVALRY SERVICE, SLIM BELIEVED IN FASHION, AND FOLLOWED IT TO THE LIMB.

Thus it was that he appeared in a pair of trousers that were apparently skin tight. "Slim," I said, the first time I saw him in them, "you look like a pair of calipers." The comparison was not original with me or, indeed of recent origin, and I had no idea that he was so sensitive, but well, the spectators said that it was quite entertaining before they got us apart.

"We made it up afterward, and have been good friends ever since. The other day I saw him at the barber shop. 'Well,' he said, with a rather reminiscent air, 'your nose never grew quite straight again, did it?' 'No,' I agreed, touched, myself, somewhat with the charm of reminiscence; 'and I see that you are still wearing two of your incisors on a bridge.' 'Ah,' he exclaimed, heartily, 'those were the golden days!'"—Indianapolis News.

3 Are Stricken With Rare "Malta" Fever

Los Angeles, Calif.—With three cases of Malta fever, described by authorities as one of the rarest diseases known to this country, reported in or near Los Angeles, county, health authorities under County Health Officer Pomeroy, together with state health officials, opened an extensive investigation into the situation.

Of the three cases already reported, two are in local hospitals under observation and treatment while the third is a patient in the Long Beach hospital, according to Doctor Pomeroy.

The disease, which is believed to have originated on the Island of Malta, is so rare that thorough study and investigation is imperative, he declared, as in the three cases reported, the patients became infected from milk.

Wife Wanted Mink Coat; He Grew One to Order

Hilbert, Wis.—Mrs. Peter Fleming wanted a mink coat. She told her husband so. He was $450 in debt, but he went to Milwaukee to look at mink coats. He found that the cheapest was $1,850. In Chicago he found $2,220 was needed.

It made him angry. His wife insisted on a mink coat. He borrowed $50 and bought a pair of minks. Fleming now has the largest mink farm in Wisconsin, and believes he has the largest in the United States. His wife has a mink coat. He owns the farm and the buildings, clear of all incumbrances, has $5,000 in the bank and many thousand dollars' worth of the fur-bearing animals.

Hottentots Think U. S. Scientists Magicians

Washington.—The American astronomers perched high on Mount Brukkaros in southwest Africa making solar radiation observations for the Smithsonian Institution, can "make rain" in the opinion of the Hottentot tribesmen of the region.

When no rain fell while the Hottentots waited confidently for the Americans to use their power, the Africans were afraid they had angered the Americans, and one of them ascribed to the astronomers the power of "closing the skies."

Marshal Foch Receives Salary of $10 Per Day

Paris.—A marshal of France, the highest military honor and command—that given Foch, Joffre and four others—gets a salary of 90,000 francs a year, or $10 a day, under the new scale.

Officers grade down from this pay to that of a second lieutenant, who draws $32 a month during the early part of his career.

There are small allowances, but so small that an officer must have some independent fortune or be so poor as to risk having to make humiliating economies.

BURIED 24 ALIVE; STOPS RELIGIOUS RITE REPETITION

Member of Fanatic Russian Sect Helps Soviet Census Takers With Devotees.

Chebishtan, Russia.—A religious fanatic who buried twenty-four people alive at their own request when Czar Nicholas II conducted the last national census in 1887 worked energetically with the soviet authorities in the census just completed to prevent a repetition of his horrible act of forty years ago.

The fanatic was one of a religious colony located here, called the Starobrinde. There were twenty-five members of the sect when the czar's census takers came. The Starobrinde, in a panic, thought the officials were the heralds of the anti-Christ and elected to die rather than submit to the census. According to their wild creed, they chose to be buried alive. But they found that they could not bury themselves.

Buries 24 Alive. They drew lots to determine which of them should bury the rest and himself remain alive to risk the anti-Christ danger. The choice fell on a young man with a wife and two children. In spite of his protests, the others assured him that he would win such heavenly favor by saving his co-religionists that he himself would be saved, though still alive.

Chanting weird songs, intoning prayers and carrying lighted candles, the twenty-four fanatics descended into a cellar where the protesting twenty-five built a solid wall around them, cemented it and heaped it with earth.

Built a Solid Wall Around Them. The sound of their singing continued to the vault for some time, while the sole remaining fanatic listened and prayed. In the tomb were his own wife and two children. News of the horror spread and the man who had buried the others was arrested and sentenced to spend his life in the Greek Orthodox monastery.

at Suzdal. The sect, however, was revived and the soviet officials recalled him from the monastic exile to help prevent a repetition of the incident when the census takers came last month. In this he was successful and the devotees submitted to the census readily.

Boy Just Grins as He Faces More Operations

Kansas City, Mo.—The outlook of more operations, more days in a hospital and more suffering, through which Norman Standefer, thirteen years old, must pass before he will be able to go to college, does not break the intrepid spirit of the boy, who now lies at Bethany hospital with a tube in his brain.

Physicians declare that before he can be pronounced cured an operation must be performed, taking a part of a rib from his body and grafting it in the hole in his skull. Several other operations may be necessary to remove a growth on his brain that developed from the injury received March 23, 1926, when he was struck by a ten-pound shot.

Asked if he feared more operations, Norman grinned again. "Say, I ain't afraid. When they come in here to dress my wound the nurses try to keep me from looking at it in the mirror of the dresser. But I look anyhow and it does not scare me a bit. If you come around here about noon tomorrow—no, day after tomorrow, you can see for yourself. They will dress the wound then."

Freight Train Runs Into Truck Load of Dynamite

Tokyo.—A freight train running near Fukoka recently smashed into a truck trying to beat the train at a crossing, the truck being loaded with twenty cases of dynamite. The explosion threw the locomotive and thirteen cars from the track, scattered bits of the truck driver and his assistant over the landscape, seriously wounded the engine driver and his assistant and broke all the glass in twenty nearby houses.

Magazine for Blind

As a result of special presses and other apparatus developed by a blind man, persons who suffer a similar affliction are able to enjoy a monthly magazine. Its first appearance was so successful that it has now been increased to 60 pages and has national circulation, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. For the first time in their lives many blind subscribers have been able to read advertisements and other matter common to the usual publication. Heretofore most of their reading matter has been limited to books, and in some localities few of these have been obtainable. The magazine is printed in raised characters.

"Dodging" Raindrops

The old joke about dodging the raindrops had some foundation, after all. If you go fast enough you can dodge 'em, say aviators of the United States army air corps at McCook field, Dayton, Ohio. A pilot riding in the open cockpit of a plane through a heavy rainstorm will not get wet, the fliers say. But he does not slide between the drops. The speed of the plane produces such a rush of wind about the ship that the rain is carried backward instead of falling upon it.

STRONG CITIES OF PHILISTIA NO MORE

Reduced by Time to Squalid Villages.

How keenly in our childhood we hated the Philistines! With the eager partisanship of youth we sided with Samuel, Saul and David against these murderous foes and sympathized with the doughty Hebrews in their fight against Philistia as we did with the Swiss under William Tell against the Hapsburgs or with the Scots under Wallace against King Edward I. As a matter of fact the Philistines were a great people, probably the last inheritors of the Minoan civilization of Crete, and some scholars even believe that to them we owe the origin of our alphabet, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick writes, in the Ladies' Home Journal.

So powerful were they, so impressive in their influence, that theirs is the name we call the country by, for Palestine is the Greek for Philistia. They swept down on the coasts of Egypt, a part of that vast migration of peoples which brought the Dorians to Greece and the Hebrews to Palestine and made the few centuries after 1400 B. C. so restless and significant.

We went down to the coastal plain of a purpose to see what is left of the Philistines. Five strong cities once were theirs. Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath and Ekron. Gaza, near the seacoast, still is there, one of the largest towns in Palestine, where 15 wells of water make a livable spot in the bar-ren suburb. A cemetery with 3,000 British graves bears witness to its importance in the World war. Across the centuries its history runs clear, for it lies on the inevitable route of all invaders. From Napoleon Bonaparte, who captured it in 1799, to the Philistines who had seized it some 3,000 years before, it has been one of the most fought for cities in the world.

But there is nothing left to make one think of the Philistines. One can only recall the mingled folklore and history of that ancient time. Here was the scene of Samson's exploit when he carried off the city gates and of his final tragedy when he pulled down Dagon's temple on the worshippers. Here the Philistines lived on after the Hebrews had driven them from the ridge, guilty of an extensive and cruel slave trade for which Amos cursed the city. Here as late as the Seventh century B. C. the Philistines still persisted and Zephaniah the prophet was foretelling woes for them.

Ashdod also exists. As everywhere on this coastal plain, highroad of numberless invasions as it has been, one hears at Ashdod the echo of endless wars. The longest siege recorded in history occurred here when, according to Herodotus, Psammethichus besieged the city for 29 years. Here, too, memories of New Testament days come in, for Ashdod in the Greek language was Azotus, and Phillip the evangelist preached here. As for the Philistines, however, they are gone and all the memorials of them perished utterly. Only a picturesque village of mud brick houses, with 5,000 people in it, marks the ancient site.
