

BLACK HILLS NO LONGER "BLACK"

Grim Visage, Which Suggested Name, Changed by Reforestation.

Rapid City, S. D.—No sinister meaning should be attached to the name of the hills of western South Dakota and eastern Wyoming which have recently come into unusual prominence as the setting of the summer residence of President Coolidge. True, the term "black" has been associated traditionally with danger or fearful power as is evidenced by the phrases Black Pirate, Black Death, Blackbeard and the Black Forest. But in the case of the Black Hills the word is used in a more physically descriptive sense referring especially to the pine forests which cover many of the slopes.

Centuries ago when the Indians inhabited the western plains and highlands unmolested, they observed that these hills appeared very dark in contrast with the surrounding plains. An Indian when riding across the vast, level lands would notice these hills far in the distance, not only dimly outlined, but dark like a cloud which might bring rain. As the Indian rode nearer, the mountains continued to have this gloom-like aspect because of the thick pine forests which girdled the slopes blackly. In accordance with their custom of naming places after their most concrete and striking characteristic, the Indians gave to these fir-blanketed mountains the designation which we still use today, indicative of their color.

French Added Their Opinion.

When the French penetrated the prairie valleys and began to occupy the western highlands they adopted the Indian name and spoke of the Cote Noire.

Today the deforestation from which no wooded area of our country has been free has altered the aspect of this region from that which it presented when covered with virgin forest. Yet today, as the tourist approaches this region, the mountains loom in the distance, and as the traveler drives higher and higher the forests and shadows give full justification to the centuries-old appellation.

An identical instance of a region being named with reference to the effect of the pine forests which cover its slopes is that of the Black Forest, or Schwarzwald, of Germany.

The average American citizen in parts of the United States other than the northwest is likely to have a rather hazy idea that there is an historical connection between the Black Hills and the Blackfoot Indians because of the likeness in name and because both have to do with the northwest. Although there are a few Blackfoot Indians living in the Dakotas today, as, for example, in the Cheyenne River reservation and the Standing Rock reservation, the majority of the remnants of this tribe live nearer the Rocky mountains and the Canadian border and have long been centered in that section.

Blackfoot Indians Not Involved.

The origin of the name Blackfeet is a story in itself and quite without reference to geographical location. It is said that when the white people first made the acquaintance of this tribe, the Indians came marching over the wide plain toward the pioneer encampment. Shortly before their coming a prairie fire had spread for several miles away from the white men's settlement. Because the Indians had marched over such an expanse of freshly burned prairie, the leggings which they wore had become blackened. The whites selected this surprising and memorable characteristic by which to indicate thereafter this particular tribe.

For self-preservation reasons, pioneers are necessarily observant of the natural peculiarities of their surroundings. Apparently the pioneers who settled the western part of the United States were also apt in referring to a place to use a concrete epithet descriptive of its peculiarity. Deadwood, a small commercial town northwest of Rapid City, is an illustration of this tendency. It is said to have received this name because of the chaos of fallen, dead timbers which once covered the site.

Rapid City itself is named from Rapid River, than which there could scarcely be a more picturesque and alluring name.

It is sometimes remarked that to look at a map and read the names of the places is to know the history of the country. Although this is scarcely true with regard to the Black Hills, it is true that to look at a map of this region and to read the names of the places is to know the physical characteristics and the charm of this portion of our country.

Use Pigeons to Carry Newspaper Dispatches

Paris—Several newspapers on the French Riviera are using carrier pigeons to cover important sporting events.

When the Tour de France—the bicycle race around France—came through the district reports of the race were brought in every 30 minutes by pigeons. It was estimated that the newspapers gained two hours over the usual wire service, since much of the course was through mountainous country where the telephone is unknown.

Mexican Smokes 100 Cigarettes Every Day

Kingston, N. C.—Thomas Alvarez, a Texan of Mexican parentage, smokes 100 cigarettes a day. His tobacco bill, since he has taken to smoking ready-made fags, runs from $1 to $1.50 a day. Now he will return to the makings and cut down the cost.

Alvarez, who came east on a vessel from Galveston, a short time ago, has been looking for a job in this section. He is thirty years old and has smoked since he was a small boy. The habit has not grown on him since he reached the age of twenty-one.

"I have always smoked my 100, more or less," he says. "I had no idea I was using so many until I quit the loose tobacco and rice papers for ready-mades. I buy eight to ten small packs a day now, twelve to the box."

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION GETS DATA ON HOME EQUIPMENT

Makes Exhaustive Survey of Nearly 8,000,000 Urban and 40,000 Farm Residences.

Washington.—A home-maker's manual to which the American housewife and her business partner, the American husband, can turn for unbiased information on the question of home equipment fundamentals and how to acquire them, is being prepared by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and will be ready for distribution in the early fall.

The survey of nearly 8,000,000 urban and 40,000 farm homes to ascertain accurate information on their equipment, which the General Federation recently completed, yielded the fact that two-thirds of the farm homes and 16 per cent of the urban homes of America are without even the sanitary essential of running water at the kitchen sink. Follow-up campaigns calculated to raise the standard of home equipment are being inaugurated in a dozen states. The handbook is a feature of this work.

The handbook in no sense replaces the commercial catalogue, as it furnishes only non-competitive information on technical, economic and planning problems relative to the acquisition of household essentials. The book begins with the simplest working units and leads up progressively and with a thought to avoiding uneconomic replacements until complete lighting, heating, cooking, sanitary and labor-saving plants have been discussed.

Public Service Electric and Gas Company

Dividend No. 13 on 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock
Dividend No. 11 on 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock

The Board of Directors of Public Service Electric and Gas Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend on the 7% and 6% Preferred Stock of that Company. Dividends are payable Sept. 30, 1927, to stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 2, 1927.
T. W. Van Middlesworth, Treasurer

In the matter of running water, the kitchen drain or sink is first discussed; then the water source, pump or well; next the windmill, motor or engine; the piping of the house and the running of water to the kitchen sink, and lastly in turn, the flush toilet, the bathtub, the wash bowl, the laundry tub and the water heater. In each step suggestions are made preparing for the next advance without replacement of original equipment. An idea of costs, high, low and average, is given on each necessary piece of equipment.

The heating problem is similarly treated. Dustless, odorless units that heat the whole house uniformly either from the basement or the main floor are encouraged on account of their sanitary advantages and their convenience.

One chapter is devoted to lighting and modern equipment. The tendency of the campaign is toward the use of gas or electricity from commercial plants and stations or from home units. The simplest working installations for home plants are described and the subject is developed up to and including the "tying-up" of the home with commercial service. The use of electric current for power-driven home labor-saving devices is discussed and demonstrated.

Earliest Form of Paper

Papyrus is a kind of rush reaching sometimes to a height of 10 feet, found in marshy districts of Abyssinia, Palestine, and Sicily. In Egypt, where it is now rare, it once supplied the paper used for papyrus writings. Up to the Tenth century Egypt was the main source of Europe's supply of paper.

Not only are the cat's whiskers famous, but the mouse's whisker adornment is having its distinction. Painters have found that in the application of majolica a very delicate brush is required, and that the best material is the whiskers of mice.

HERMAN BROS. CO. SUPPLY MASONRY

Mason Materials Necessary in Construction of New Ritz
Theatre Here.

In the course of construction of the new Ritz theatre a considerable supply of mason materials had to be used. Hermann Bros. Construction Company obtained the contract and fulfilled it in their usual efficient and speedy manner.

The Hermann Construction Company has come into public notice
many times within the last few years, especially as one of the contractors doing thorough work, such as pavement of streets and sidewalks.

The company agrees that no job is too large nor too small. Everything can be handled well. The fact is that a company which is capable of doing big work can better do small work than an ordinary company.

From time to time musical instru-

Sol Sokler, local musical dealer, will no doubt be consulted. At present the theatre has two pianos, best to be wanted, obtained from Mr. Sokler, whose store is at 54 Roosevelt avenue.

Mr. Sokler handles some of the best-made instruments on the market. A visit to his store would be a benefit to any prospective buyer of some kind of instrument. The pianos sold by Mr. Sokler have become recognized as leaders for tone and quality, and to go on telling of the other instruments that he has would merely be a repetition of what has already been said.

Detailed work, both within and out done in the lavatories come up to some of the best work Mr. Lefkowitz has done.

Mr. Lefkowitz has made a good

Woodwork Fine Art.

The new Ritz theatre is beautiful.
Expert decorating of the interior was hired, and Andrew Christensen, local carpenter, took care of putting in the woodwork.

The doors, window sashes, and general work throughout the structure, both hidden and within view, are all up to lofty standard.

Mr. Christensen has been a contractor in Carteret for a long time.
He has done considerable work on the town's best buildings. The product of expert workmanship noticed in the Ritz is but the result of long experience, which is a valuable asset to every contractor.

RITZ THEATRE HAS U. S. PIPE ORGAN

One of Best Instruments On the Market To-Day Will Create the Music.

A beautifully-tuned organ is a tremendous asset to an amusement palace of the kind of the new Ritz theatre. The proprietor, Mr. Spewak, realized this fact and procured the wares of the United States Pipe Organ Company of Crum Lynne, Pa.

It is estimated that the organ instruments in the Ritz are valued at $15,000. Such a large expense is necessary in view of the fact that patrons of the theatre will enjoy the pictures and rest of the program better than ever with one of the best made musical instruments on the market.

The United States Pipe Organ Company has sold many organs to new theatres, because its reputation as makers of very good instruments has become well known. Mr. Spewak made no mistake in contracting with this concern.

KAHN PUTS IN LEATHER SEATS

Seating Capacity of New Ritz Figured at 1,100—High Grade Cushions.

The seating capacity of the new Ritz theatre is figured at 1,100. The seats, most of which are leather-cushioned, and fitted for a good playhouse, were furnished by Bernard Kahn, whose furniture store is on the corner of Washington avenue and Atlantic street, opposite the theatre.

The seats come up to the best in the world's largest and highest reputed theatres. There are higher grades, but for economy and comfort those furnished by Mr. Kahn are not surpassed.

In the last few weeks, the store of Bernard Kahn has been renovated more modern. Patrons of the theatre across the street would be their advantage look into the beautiful show windows. Such would be an inducement to step within the store to view the high grade furniture carried there.

CAPITAL COMPANY HANDLES MACHINES

Furnishes Projecting Room of the New Ritz Theatre in Expert Fashion.

The projecting machines that will be used to throw the motion pictures on the screen at the new Ritz theatre were bought from the Capitol Theatre Equipment Co., located at 727 Seventh avenue, New York City.

When it comes to perfect working machinery, the projecting room of the Ritz is furnished as well as any in any theatre in the country. The Capitol Theatre Equipment Co. has sold many machines in its life of business. It has become so that theatre builders have no trouble in choosing a company to equip its projecting room.

COUNTY SEAT CO. PUTS IN HEATING

Burns, Lane and Richardson, New Brunswick Contractors Do Fine Work.

In cold weather, when patrons of the new Ritz theatre quiet themselves for an evening's entertainment, they will feel the comforts of a well-planned heating and ventilating system, established by Burns, Lane and Richardson, contractors, of New Brunswick.

There are five radiators along the sides of the theatre, and two near the entrances. They are installed into small cut-outs so as not to take up any unnecessary space. Their appearance is every way adds to the beauty of the playhouse.

As regards the ventilation, there is none better. Two large structures on the roof of the showhouse, electrically driven fans, draw off impure air and bring in the pure. One can notice inside the theatre on the ceiling above the orchestra pit and in the two corners near the entrances small square holes, through which the ventilators do their work.

Burns, Lane and Richardson are well known through their successful bidding for borough work.

BROUNET STUDIOS DECORATE THEATRE

New York Concern Displays Its Expert Workmanship With Some Plastic Art.

Present-day theatregoers are not content merely with lavish stage products, excellent acting and inspiring music. The surroundings must be appropriate, and here is where the art of the theatre decorator comes in. The illusion must be carried out as nearly as possible to the point of perfection, and efforts in this direction have come to be as important behind as before the footlights.

Mr. Spewak, proprietor of the new Ritz theatre, which was opened to the public last night, upon planning for the playhouse cast about for decorators of established repute and he naturally chose the Brounet Studios, Inc. located at 1133 Broadway, New York City.

Fame in no small measure has gone to the Brounet Studios during the many years this institution has been in existence. Some of the finest examples of the art of theatre decoration stand today to the credit of this organization. In the new Ritz Theatre it may truly be said that the Brounet Studios has done its best work.

LOCAL ARCHITECT PLANNED BUILDING

John Gliva Schemed the Layout of Ritz With Aid of Owner After Many Difficulties

Many of the beautiful effects accomplished in the construction of the Ritz Theatre were the ideas of Mr. John Gliva, a young man of the borough who is making rapid strides in his profession.

Not a few obstacles were encountered in the plans and specifications while in the making, but careful study and good judgment by the architect overcame them all.

Although, inexperienced in such large jobs as were necessary to plan the theatre building, Mr. Gliva showed remarkable courage to undertake the work and the marked success of the opening should encourage him to strive for even larger accomplishments.

PLASTIC ART ADDS WONDERFUL EFFECT

Essex Plain And Decorative Plaster Co. Enhances Beauty of Theatre to Great Extent

Almost all the patrons of the Ritz on the opening night, remarked about the beauty that was accomplished in the plaster work. The credit of this work is justly due to the Essex Plain and Decorative Plaster Co. of Belleville, N. J.

This concern one of the pioneers in their respective line of business have done work on many of the large buildings throughout the state. Many churches, homes, theatres and public buildings have been beautified with plastic art work by them.

ULMAN'S MODERN BAKERY NOW OPEN

Oldest-Established Bakery in Borough Renovates Store—Thoroughly Up-To-Date

The new store of D. Ulman & Sons, bakers at 55 Washington avenue, opposite the Ritz theatre, has been open a week. The management announces that many new customers have been won and all pleased.

A month ago the store was closed to be renovated, and reopened last Friday dressed modernly in every respect. A complete new line of display fixtures were installed, and the old-style show windows in front were made to give way to ne up-to-date ones.

D. Ulman & Sons are one of the oldest-established bakeries in these parts.

The management announces that it will carry a complete line of fresh cakes, pies, and pastry daily, hot rolls at two o'clock every day, and hot coffee cakes every Saturday. Both wholesale and retail business will be carried on.

A GREAT MONTH.

For three things are we grateful to the month of September. They are Fall, football and oysters. A more popular trio is difficult to imagine and as the good things in life usually come singly we are thrice thankful for the providence of September.

There is an axiom that oysters are in season in the eight months of the year having the letter "R" in their names. We are not informed whether there is an affinity between these months and oysters because of the letter "R" is also in the word oyster or it is just a coincidence. Neither do we know the discoverer of the circumstance and the author of the axiom. However, it is neither axiom nor secret that we are glad September has an "R" somewhere among her nine letters and we are not particular in what style the first oysters are served.

To September also are we indebted for fair autumn. Where the summer is hot and the winter cold there is no season quite so delightful as autumn. It is without the extremes of temperature, is comfortably warm at day and somniferously cool at night, is an aid to efficient work and an irresistible urge to recreation. In all it is a season in which to live to the utmost.

Thirdly, September hears the first thud of the pigskin and the first shrill blast of the referee's whistle. The nation in September turns its eyes away from vacations and baseball to feast them upon the gridiron. Recent development of football in the colleges, universities, public schools and athletic clubs has made it a national sport where once it was strictly a college game. When football season opens the whole nation is kin, class barriers erected by education are dropped and player and spectator play the game for all there is in it.

Every month of the year's twelve has something which makes life worth while but September seems most bountifully endowed with the "better attractions".

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

The Chicago professor who has gained a little brief notoriety by his declaration that 90 per cent of the women are homely, probably is one of those odious "efficiency experts". They reckon everything in percentages. Whatever he is, he is woefully off his base in making such an assertion.

Ninety per cent; indeed! Not even in Chicago, we venture to say, will so large a proportion of homely women be found. And in Carteret not 90 per cent, nor nine per cent—no, it cannot be conceded that even one per cent of our women are homely.

There are different standards of judging feminine pulchritude. Turks and Eskimos are said most to admire women who are, let us say, plump, well-rounded, moon-faced. Others prefer the svelty type. Ideas concerning beauty vary.

The Standard dictionary, defining "beautiful" says: "The definition of 'beauty', 'perfection of form', is a good key to the meaning of 'beautiful', if we understand 'form' in its widest sense." It is submitted that under the terms of this definition (if we understand "form" in its widest sense) all women are beautiful. The dictionary goes on to say, however, that "there must be harmony and unity, and in human beings spiritual loveliness, to constitute an object or a person really beautiful".

No attempt will be made to answer for the women of Chicago as to whether they possess the additional requirement of spiritual loveliness. But it can be said in behalf of the fair ones of Carteret, without fear of successful contradiction, that they have this, as well as unity and harmony.

SCHOOL DAYS.

School days, school days, saddest and gladdest of the year. Saddest for children who, with the first day of school, must bid farewell to the freedom of vacation days and gladdest to mothers who then begin their vacation.

It is hard for outdoor and play-loving boys to return to school, but after a day or two they find that school isn't a bad place to be after all. The three R's are not such a bitter pill when taken with liberal doses of sports, recess games and school-days' companionship. There have been two revolutionary developments in education-free schools and popular schools. One parents could not keep their children in school. Now they could not keep them out of school. The schools, not the children, deserve the credit.

Mother breathes a sigh of relief when school opens for then she can pack the little Indians off to school and enjoy a few hours of peace and quiet, but when the summer recess arrives she will welcome relief from those two "packings" a day. Teachers who have had practical experience in getting a child ready for school can appreciate what they ask when they urge their pupils to report each session with clean faces and hands, clean clothes, hair combed and teeth clean.

Soon the great trek back to the schoolroom will begin and the shouts and laughter will not be distinguished from those that accompanied the equally great exodus last spring.

Really, Criticism of the Pising Generation Is Not Waranted by Facts

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, Newspaper Publisher.

I am not one who finds anything to criticize in the rising generation. I think it is a wonderful generation, the most wonderful the world has ever seen; and this conclusion, when you think of it, is but natural and logical and unavoidable.

We know from researches in history and archeology that the human race has continually improved. And how has it improved? How could it have improved except by advancement and improvement of each succeeding generation over the generations which preceded?

The fact that these young people differ from their elders in some things is not necessarily an indication of error; it may be the exact measure of their superiority.

NEWARK THEATRES

Broad Street Theatre
Prior to its New York opening, Arthur Hopkins will present a new play, 'The House of Women', at the Broad Street Theatre, Newark, during the week beginning September 5.
Elsie Ferguson, famous stage and motion picture actress, who has been absent from the American stage for several seasons, and Nance O'Neil, recognized as one of the finest emotional actresses in America, will play the leading roles in the new play.
'The House of Women' is a dramatization of Louis Bromfield's novel, 'The Green Bay Tree'. It is the first play Mr. Bromfield has ever written. The author, who is only 28 years of age, and who has written three other novels in addition to 'The Green Bay Tree', is in this country at present for the premiere of his drama.
'The House of Women' is built around the lives of two dominating women, Mrs. Julia Shane, the role played by Nance O'Neil, and her daughter, Lily Shane, played by Elsie Ferguson. 'The Green Bay Tree', from which the play was dramatized, was Bromfield's first novel. A later novel, 'Early Autumn', was awarded the Pulitzer prize for 1916.
The settings for 'The House of Women' were designed by Robert Edmond Jones, famous scenic designer. 'The House of Women' will play Wednesday and Saturday matinee in Newark.
Miners Empire Theatre
Because of the host of friends he made during his several seasons as a featured comedian on the Columbia Wheel the appearance of Frank X. Silk as star of his new revue at Miners Empire theatre next week commencing Sunday matinee, September 4, is likely to create no small degree of interest. Silk was ever a popular hero of the battles for laughs in the field of frivolous entertainment; after a year in Keith-Albee vaudeville, and a thus enlarged popularity circle, he is likely to be still more greatly in demand as the star, sponsor and producer of his own offering of 'Nothing But Girls'.
Titles for farcical shows seldom mean a great deal, and in the case of 'Nothing But Girls' it is really no such thing. Girls there will be, in attractive plenty; girls who sing and dance and wear fine raiment and generally gladden the eye while the ear is tickled by the dulcet strains of their joyous songs. But there will be much besides girls and mere man will not be entirely cast out. There will be the Sterling Saxophone Four, talented musical specialist; Arthur Rogers, the deep voiced, full chested and rugged leading man; Emmet Baker, juvenile, and Frank X. Silk, the star, billed when he was on the Keith-Albee vaudeville trail as 'America's Foremost Tramp Comedian'.

Elsie Beaslee gains first prominence among the feminine host in her position as prima donna, ingenue and vocal specialist. Miss Beaslee will be recalled by followers of Columbia attractions because of her association with 'Chuckles' when Clark & McCullough were making their way to stardom. She will offer, in her specialty, a routine of songs especially written for her and which no one else may sing. Other ladies who will lead numbers and offer their own specialties are Dorothy Fuller and Adele Lewis, soubrette and ingenue, respectively.
Carlos and Fanchon, a man and woman who display some extraordinary examples of the art of terpsichore, will offer a specialty that will be an outstanding feature of the program. They are sensationalists in whirlwind gymnastics, Spanish movements and Argentine tangoisms and do a 'Apache' turn that carries a true reflex of the Parisian underworld. This team of dancers is another headliner brought from vaudeville into Columbia Wheel entertainments.
Mr. Silk is said to have equipped his new revue with lavish allotments of special scenery and elaborately beautiful costuming. The dance ensembles have been staged by Ray Midgely, and adept at devising odd and graceful manoeuvres in company formations, who has staged many New York Winter Garden numbers and ballets for the Shuberts. But in the final recapitulation it will be the presence of Frank X. Silk, with his 'tramp' drolleries and eccentric comedy, that will be most responsible for the passing of many pleasant moments under the spell of entertainment designed solely to challenge the reign of dull care. Week of September 11, 'Rain'.

TELEPHONE CO. GIVES MEMORANDUM BOOKS
The New York Telephone Company has just issued two attractive memorandum books, one for business subscribers and one for residence subscribers, for keeping records of telephone numbers in places not covered by the regular telephone directories furnished by the company. Local Commercial Manager D. H. Ford has arranged to send a notice of the issuance of these books to local telephone subscribers.
The booklets were prepared, according to Mr. Ford, to aid subscribers in getting the faster service on calls to other places that result from calling by number. By giving the number of the telephone in the distant place when starting the call, the subscriber makes it possible for the operator to complete the connection either on a station-to-station or a person-to-person call more quickly than is possible otherwise. Changed numbers are given to the calling subscribers by the operator when the connections are made, so that the little directories of out-of-town telephone numbers can be kept up to date.

RUTGERS PREPARED FOR BIG ENROLLMENT

With a freshman class in the men's colleges of approximately 450 already assured, Rutgers University expects the largest enrollment in its history when college opens on September 22. Luther H. Martin, registrar of the State University, announced today that more than 400 candidates for entrance have already been admitted, and that additional applications are being received every day.

It is also reported that the freshman class at the New Jersey College for Women will break all records and that the enrollment will be larger than ever before. It is expected that many of the high school girls of the State will take advantage of the recent action of the Rutgers trustees admitting women to the College of Agriculture.

The announcement of the registrar bears out the statement of the United States Bureau of Education, which, in a survey of the State University made public last month, predicted that the enrollment at Rutgers within the next ten years would be 6,000 resident students. The total enrollment at the university last year was more than 9,000, but this number included extension students and those in the summer session and the short courses in engineering and agriculture. Almost 2,000 resident students attended last year.

TIME, THE HEALER

Malesherbes, at the age of 72, left his safe retreat in Switzerland land to come to Paris and undertake the unpopular defense of Louis XVI.

Thus it has always been in the world's history. New generations grow up which have not inherited the quarrels of their forebears.

We find the same thing happening in the United States, where a great civil war ended only 60 years ago.

There are two kinds of men: Those who think the world is going to the dogs, and those who are too busy to worry.

PUNCTUALLY AT SCHOOL

School teachers would appreciate it if parents would take a firm stand at the beginning of this school year that their children must get to school on time.

It is a fine thing for a school when all pupils who are not kept at home by sickness or other adequate reason, can be in their regular seats at the moment of beginning.

It would seem as if a condition of frequent tardiness must affect the morale of a school unfavorably and perhaps lead the children to be slack in their lessons.

TWO SIDES

There are two sides to every question. This is just as true in advertising as in argument.

From the viewpoint of the advertiser in the newspaper, advertising is a means of increasing his volume of business.

The other side of the question is that of the public. To the public newspaper advertising means the bringing of the store show cases to the office and living room.

So although there are two sides to newspaper advertising, there is no disagreement between the two.

"MIDAS TOUCH" is an expression denoting a means by which things are turned to gold or money.

The saying had its origin from a Greek myth. King Midas in return for an act of kindness had been promised by the god Dionysus that whatever he might ask would be granted him.

His request was granted and accordingly everything he touched turned to gold, even to the food set before him.

GARAGE OPENING

After two years of garage experience in Carteret, the owners of Hertz Garage have been compelled to open larger quarters, at 195 Roosevelt avenue in the building formerly occupied by Mullan's Garage.

Hertz Garage has in its short time in business, built up a remarkable business and their present venture is only a beginning in their effort to give Carteret car owners everything in the line of merchandise and service that can be had in the large city garages and accessory stores.

WASTE

EMERSON wrote, "Economy is a sacrament when its aim is grand; when it is the prudence of simple tastes, when it is practiced for freedom, or love, or devotion. But parched corn eaten today, that I may have rouse fowl for my dinner on Sunday, is a business; but parched corn and a house with an apartment, that I may be serene and docile to what the mind shall speak, to be ready for the lowest mission of knowledge and good will, is fragility for gods and heroes."

The most serious problem of waste, however, is not found in the world of material values, but rather in the realm of personality. The most tragic thing is a wasted life.

The problem in the field of economics is not production but adequate distribution. The wasted power in the Niagara falls would run all the machinery of the country if it could be controlled and directed.

Mother's Cook Book

The surest road to health, say what we will, is never to suppose we shall be ill: Most of those ill are poor mortals who know from idle minds and dreaming fowls.

SOME CABBAGE WAYS

THE common vegetables which are always on the market are often underrated. Cabbage is such a wholesome vegetable that it should be served often.

Cabbage With Sausage.

Cook a head of cabbage whole with several pork sausages or with half a dozen frankfurts; arrange on a platter and garnish with the sausages. Season well with pepper, salt and a bit of onion while cooking. The liquor should be saved and used with the cabbage and chopped potatoes for another meal, as hash.

Lady Cabbage.

Stew tender, young cabbage and cook until done, seasoning with butter, cracker crumbs and enough milk to make a sauce. Serve hot.

Fried Cabbage.

Chop cold boiled cabbage and press out all the liquor. Season with melted butter, pepper, salt, and four tablespoonfuls of milk. Add two well-beaten eggs and cook in a hot frying pan, stirring often at first. Then let brown on the bottom and turn out on a hot platter. Garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs.

Hot Slaw.

Beat the yolks of two eggs with two tablespoonfuls of cold water, add a tablespoonful of butter, a little salt, and one-fourth cupful of vinegar. Cook the dressing over hot water until thick, then stir in finely shredded cabbage; heat until hot and serve hot.

Stuffed Cabbage.

Cut out the stalk end of the cabbage, leaving a good-sized cavity. Tie up the cabbage in a cheese cloth and cook it until tender in boiling salted water. Make a stuffing of seasoned crumbs and any chopped fowl or meat which is well seasoned. Fill the drained cabbage, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and cheese and bake in a quick oven until brown.

Cabbage With Cheese Sauce.

Prepare and cook the cabbage as above. Place on a hot chop plate and cut into pie-shaped pieces. Pour over a thick white sauce made by melting four tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and mixing well, then add a cupful and a half of good rich milk; season with salt and pepper and cook until smooth and thick, adding a half-cupful or more of chopped rich cheese to the sauce while cooking.

JORDAN NOMADS BAR PROGRESS

Land Where John the Baptist Preached Still Primitive.

Washington.—"All Christendom can visualize the location of the recent earthquake that shook Bethelium, Jerusalem and Jerico in Palestine, but Transjordan, across the Jordan river, is a new and less familiar Arab state," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Transjordan did not exist until the league of nations, about seven years ago, decided to establish a state east of the Jordan. A correspondent who visited the new state in 1923 described its creation as 'an act of the Versailles pastry-makers, who, like so many cooks, had some dough left over after the molds were filled, and this was one of the odd cookies.'"

Dull, Dreary Desert.
"Transjordan is a desert. Shaped like an ax head, with the blade pointing southward toward the Red sea, the state lies on the northern fringe of the Arabian desert and includes the eastern shores of the Dead sea. But much of the region, particularly that lying near the Jordan, is steppe land, supporting some flocks and occasional crops."

"Many of the half million inhabitants are nomads who wander about the area, pitching their tents where and as they please. This accounts for the slow development of the region. Even the ruler, his highness, the Emir Abdullah Ibn Hussein, is virtually a desert prince and nomad chieftain. Until recently he held his 'court,' not in a palatial palace, but in a group of tents."

"Amman, Transjordan's capital, is about a five-hour automobile ride across the hot and dusty plains of Jericho and through the sizzling valley of the Jordan river. Amman, under various names, has been the capital of this area for ages. It was called Rabbath Amman, chief city of the Ammonites, almost from the days of Lot, from whom the Ammonites are said to have sprung. In the Third century Ptolemy Philadelphus became the new lord and called the capital Philadelphia, the city of brotherly love."

Once Prosperous Center.
"No one visiting Transjordan today would suspect, at first glance, that this land was once the center of Greek and Roman prosperity. Greek culture flourished in the East after Alexander's eastern conquest and during the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus. When Ptolemy took the reins of government one of his first acts was to build a magnificent acropolis at Amman."

"The main street of Amman winds around a high hill upon which the Greek citadel once stood. Hard by are the ruins of a Roman theater and the broken stone benches of a Roman amphitheater which probably seated 7,000 spectators."

"Abdullah has cleared away the debris from the ruins. Now the columns and stones are frequently lined with the village loungers and beads of goats browse among the ancient foundations. Everywhere in Transjordan the mounted Arab is seen wearing his flowing native garb. His hat is perhaps the oldest form of headgear. It is a large square piece of cloth called the kaffiyeh. One who is familiar with the coil can tell readily from what region the wearer comes."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"APPLES OF SODOM"

WE ALL know of Sodom as one of the four cities of antiquity which, according to the Bible, were destroyed because of their wickedness. And the expression "Apples of Sodom" is familiar in writing and in rhetorical speech to signify something that is filled with disappointment and bitterness.

The reference is to the "Apple of Sodom" or "Dead Sea Apple" which, according to ancient writers, grew near the Dead sea and was described as beautiful to the eye, but when tasted, filling the mouth with ashes.

Antiquarians and students of ancient literature regarding "apple" as figurative and making an effort to track this to its source have offered the explanation that the "Apple of Sodom" was a glossy red gall growing on dwarf oaks, beautiful and rich in appearance, but filled with an intensely bitter substance.

This remarkable varnish stain excels in 3 ways...

Drop in and let us prove it to your satisfaction...

The Color Test: Fifty experts chose Mirocol as the line of colors that reproduced most closely their conception of the true hardwood tones.
The Application Test: Under an actual brush test you will find that Mirocol flows freely, and dries up as fast as brush marks.
The Durability Test: Apply varnish stain to a piece of wood. Bend it over a straight edge. Then straighten and examine it. An inefficient varnish stain will be cracked. The surface of Mirocol will remain as unbroken as this. This bending test proves the elasticity and durability of the product.

Do you wonder that we guarantee it to give satisfaction when applied according to directions.

"10 O'CLOCK LINE" FOUND IN INDIANA

Indians Insisted on Survey From Shadow of Sun.

Indianapolis.—When tourists roaming through southwestern Indiana see signs bearing the words, "Ten O'clock Line," it does not signify that the curfew zone of Toonerville has been pushed out into the countryside.

When pioneer surveyors staked out the territory acquired through the Harrison purchase, the Indians insisted that the boundary lines be placed by projecting the shadow of the sun and a staff at ten o'clock in the morning.

As a consequence of the aborigines' suspicion, the boundary of this colonial acquisition of what now is coal land and fertile river bottom cornfields came to be known as the "Ten O'clock Line."

Into the chronicles of contemporary events are crowded many picturesque occurrences and historical conclusions, such as are found in anonymous documents pertaining to early Hoosier surveys.

This reasoning was derived from knowledge of Tecumseh's methods with his Indian warriors. The chief insisted that land was held in common by all Indians and that no individual tribe nor small confederation had the power to cede tracts of any size to the colonists without the consent of neighboring tribes.

Acquisition of the Harrison purchase, 2,900,000 acres, obtained through a treaty reached at Fort Wayne, December 30, 1809, was the last straw to this sturdy defender of Indian rights.

Previous to his becoming an actor McLaglen led a career of soldiering and adventure which began with his enlistment in the Royal Life Guards at the age of fourteen.

After his defeat McLaglen again went into vaudeville, teaming up with a brother. Their bookings took them to Hawaii, Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, India and South Africa.

After his success in British studios Commodore Blackton again advised him, with the result that he came to America.

"What Price Glory" marks his arrival as a star. It is not only the most important role in his career so far, but is one for which he is particularly adapted because of his earlier life as a soldier of fortune and adventurer in far places.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORP. SHOWS HEALTHY GAIN

The Gas Department of Public Service Electric and Gas Company reports gas sales aggregating 5,771,407,567 cubic feet during the quarter ended June 30, 1927 against 5,654,180,715 cubic feet sold in the same period last year.

This talk will be followed by the showing of one reel of pictures showing the use of gas and electricity in the industries of the state.

HONESTY PAYS

Lyman W. Prose, ten-year-old son of a San Diego fireman, recently found a purse containing $10,000. Lyman had often heard the adage, 'Honesty is the best policy,' and decided to give it a trial, whereupon he bought a newspaper and perused the 'Lost and Found' advertisements and discovered that the purse belonged to a Tina Juana woman. The lad returned the purse with the money, and received a reward of $100.

Pretty Things that are Made at Home

HAVE you seen the new beach robes the girls are making? If you have you'll want to get out the work basket and get one together with all possible speed ere summer gives place to autumn's sway. They're just the simplest things to make you ever saw. Absolutely nothing but a big square of gingham in a novelty design of any color you please with a broad band of plain for the border. Some of the very elaborate ones are lined with thin silk, and some are fashioned of novelty check gingham with wash silk borders. You've no idea how pretty silk and gingham are together until you try them. One of the more exclusive designers recently showed one of these beach robes in orchid silk with a wide border of the wood violet and futuristic corner designs in three shades of violet silk. It was a most expensive affair. Yet it was nothing but a big square about sixty inches wide, to be draped about the figure like a shawl, or used as a beach blanket. The same effect could be achieved in gingham, or its character could be changed to a designed center and plain border, like that in the sketch, at very little expense.

And speaking of gingham, do you know what beautiful smocks you can make from the new novelty ginghams? These are not the old-fashioned staples in checks and stripes we are apt to think of in terms of kitchen aprons. They are as different as day is from night. The colors and designs are wonderfully worked out in amber, compose or contrast effect, frequently with superimposed threads that look like embroidery. The one in the sketch is fashioned from a new novelty stripe in amber effect in rose. This particular design also comes in powder blue, almond green and beige. Many tearooms are now uniforming their employees in gingham smocks on account of its crisp and colorful effect. Another fashionable necessary some of the more exclusive shops are showing, but which you can make for yourself at less than half the cost, is the Deauville scarf of organdie. Some of the prettiest ones are of white with a border of printed organdie in a small floral or polka dot design. One seen recently was of white and a border in red with a polka dot design. These are very effective on young girls, even more so than the silk scarf when worn with tub frocks, and much smarter.

U. S. EMBASSIES ARE KEPT BUSY

Cossipy Folks From Home and Cranks Take Up Lots of Time

London.—"I'm awfully sorry the ambassador is away." "I can't tell you how sorry I am that the embassy couldn't arrange an audience for you with the king."

"We are sorry, but the office of works will not permit you to climb the clock over the house of parliament."

These and fifty or more stock phrases are kept constantly on tap during the summer rush of the American tourist season in Europe, for during the rush season thousands of Americans crowd the American embassy here demanding everything from an immediate audience with King George or the prince of Wales to the securing of authority to climb the exterior of the clock tower of Westminster palace or Westminster abbey.

Practically everyone who visits Europe from the United States desires to visit one of the embassies or legations of his own country. To the American embassy in London, by virtue of its central position and rank in Europe, come most people. It has been estimated that telephone calls to the embassy here by people who have no actual business to transact, but "only want to hear an American voice again," average more than fifty a day—each taking a precious five or ten minutes' time of a busy secretary or embassy attaché.

Worries of U. S. Officials. If telephone callers were the least trouble, the life of an American embassy or legation abroad would be a continuous path of roses, but it is not, for the callers who present themselves with passports, letters from friendly congressmen, introductions from friends in the Department of State at Washington and a thousand others who feel that their "names must be well known over there," are the chief worries of the American government's foreign representatives.

Up to the Secretaries.

Those whose cards or credentials do not establish them as sufficiently prominent to warrant a session for even small-town talk with a busy ambassador are shunted off on some unsuspecting secretary or counsellor, whose duty it is to sit from one-half to three-quarters of an hour hearing how famous the visitor from home is, and all about the trip which has either already been taken around Europe or is to be taken.

In an anteroom of the American embassy here is a man who is far more busy than any diplomat in the embassy. His name is Thomas Smith, formerly the courier of the diplomatic pouch between Berlin and London before the United States entered the war. Having been under fire many times while going through the lines between the two great opposing capitals during the war, Smith has long since become accustomed to being under fire of cranks who write long letters to their home town congressmen or even to the State department protesting the "slights and discourteous treatment received at the American embassy in London."

Smith's Job Difficult. Smith's position is not an easy one, for upon his hands fall all of the visitors at the embassy. Some—a rare few—have legitimate business to transact; the others have a thousand petty wants and complaints which must be cared for by a small embassy staff. Each, however, must be properly cared for and sent away with the impression that he was the most important person who called that day.

The casual tourist who wishes merely to return home and tell the folks how he called upon the ambassador somewhere in Europe is not the only pest who takes the embassy attaches from work on long and tedious reports, for the crank, who enters the embassy with his hat pulled down over his eyes and a wise look on his face may take hours before he is gotten rid of.

This latter person usually demands to see the ambassador immediately on a "subject of great national importance." Frequently he confides to the doorman that he is "next to some important and astounding information." As is the case with all others he sees some secretary or attaché in the embassy. His tale is a long and tedious one. His story is usually so absurd that it is seldom investigated, while investigations of the informant have frequently shown him to be a maniac, and in a number of cases these persons have proven to be escaped convicts who have become demoralized with the constant fear of the police following them.

politician—the attorney general from Podunk, or the state legislator from some remote spot. Although his position may be small, or even laughable to a foreign dignitary, he inevitably wants to be presented at the palace or expects at least to lunch with the ambassador.

English Lobsters Come in Many Gaudy Colors

London.—A fastidiousness in fashion is not confined to human beings. Even fish, it would seem, endeavor to do their bit in brightening things up generally.

The lobsters, in particular, seem to have been impressed by the bright-colored frocks which make their appearance on the sea fronts whenever the sun condescends to shine for a few minutes.

During the past few days lobster pots at Brighton, popular British south coast resort, have yielded a remarkable collection of lobsters, which have abandoned the conventional dress of their tribe—a dull slaty black. Their taste for brighter garb has certainly saved their lives, and they are now living in attractive glass tanks at the aquarium instead of providing one of the necessary ingredients for a nightmare-producing supper.

There is a record of the local lobster's thirst for color as revealed by the lobster pots:

Three blue lobsters; one sky blue lobster; one deep cobalt lobster, and one orange red lobster.

It is hardly necessary to add that all these lobsters are "ladies." The mere "men" who have been caught have been found to be carrying on with the time-honored dull slaty black. They have been eaten.

Pledges on Decrease in Madrid Pawnshop

Madrid, Spain.—Pledges in the Madrid pawnshop, which is run as a city monopoly, showed a decrease of 54-255 items during the last fiscal year, but the municipality managed to earn 612,767 pesetas on the business. Jewelry formed the larger part of the pledges and clothing was second.

The ancient and the most modern are shown in close proximity by a photograph of an American motorbus in front of the ruins of Queen Zenobia's temple at Palmyra, Syria. A similar contrast is presented by a picture of an American motorbus being inspected by Bedouin camel police. The automobile is now a familiar sight in the Orient, with bus lines from Damascus to Bagdad and to Jerusalem and with a highway open from Dan to Beersheba.

According to a bill being broadcast to various state legislatures by the officials of the American Medical association to regulate the manufacture, distribution and commercial use of cosmetics it may soon be necessary for the women to run to a doctor every time they wish to buy a stick of rouge or a can of face cream. But really she should not be compelled to face this worry to worry her face.

The Japanese beetle is the latest threat to vegetables. It is ruthless and voracious. It has not been heard of as being hopelessly destructive in Japan and should be controlled as well in this country as it has been in what is represented as the land of its birth.

Golf, tennis, baseball, pugilism and the other forms of sport hold their own in public interest in spite of the airplane heroes. Yet the aviator must stand first as an exponent of skill or courage, inasmuch as he puts life and death into the hazard.

Pretty Indian Girls in Pacific Northwest

Portland, Ore.—The fair Minnehaha of Longfellow's poetical Indian romance were alive today she would have many rivals for the love of the brave Hiawatha.

The Pacific Northwest has a number of these Indian maids. Among them is Princess Christina Sherwood of Wenatchee, a full-blood Nez-Perce-Spokane Indian girl. Pretty Silver Star of Pendleton, of the Umatilla tribe, is another. She was elected princess of Chief Peo post, the only all-Indian post of the American Legion.

A third is "Little Fawn," a princess of the Klamath tribe, who lives in Humboldt county, California.

Of "Part and Present"

I hope it will be a rather joyful kind of book. It goes rather in a lily strain about the present condition of men in general, and the strange pass they are making; and I calculate it may awaken here and there a simulating blockhead to rub his eyes and ponder what he is about in God's creation—a thing highly desirable at present—Caryle, in a letter to his mother.

Rainbow's End

Way back in the nineties the farmer folk who drove into town to see the circus parade used to wish they could ride behind something that didn't kick up its heels at the sight of elephants and lions. And now that they've got their wish and ride behind an engine that wouldn't know an elephant from a field mouse, to and behold! the circus parades are being abolished.—Toronto Star.

NEWARK THEATRES

Shubert's Theatre
George White will present Ed Wynn in the elaborate musical comedy "Manhattan Mary" for a limited engagement at the Shubert Theatre beginning September 19th. George White, who is known for his famous "Scandals," has concocted a musical comedy consisting of twenty-four scenes and innumerable catchy melodies composed by the Messrs. De Sylva, Brown, and Henderson, composers of such hits as "Black Bottom," "Lucky Day," "Birth of the Blues," and "It All Depends on You." The book of the show was written by Messrs. De Sylva, Brown, Henderson, William K. Wells, and George White. Ed Wynn, known from coast to coast as "The Perfect Fool," is the popular star of this stupendous production. Mr. Wynn is supported by an all star cast that includes:—
Lou Holtz, that funny comedian of "Sole O Mio" fame.
Harland Dixon, who can out-hoof any dancer of the stage today. He, who scored a tremendous hit in both "Kid Boots" and "Oh Kay".
Opa Munson, that lovely little lady who played the leads in such musical comedies as "No No Nanette," "Tip Toe," and "Twinkle Twinkle".
Paul Frawley, the golden voiced singer of love songs who performed opposite Marilyn Miller in "Sally" and "Sunny".
The Williams Sisters, who have created a new type of syncopation.
George White himself, the youngest successful producer in America, who created theatrical history by re-creating the cast of "Manhattan Mary". He will dance and play a part in the show.

These stars are supported by 100 beautiful girls, the renowned George White Ballet, Dorothy Walters, the highest priced mother actress in the show business who played the mother role in "Irene" for eighty-five weeks, Paul Stanton, who performed seven years in "Lightnin'", Flo Brooks, who made such a hit assisting E. Harry Richmond and Buster West in last year's "Scandals", Mae Clarke, The Embassy Boys, Eva Lynn, dainty toe dancer, Francetta Molloy, Victor Munro, Marcella Rousseau, Susan Fleming, Adele Smith and Vada Alexander.

"Mc" and "Mac"
"Mac" in family names literally means "son" or "son of." Such names are of Scotch, Irish or other Gaelic origin. The "Mac" is frequently abbreviated to "Mc" or merely "M." There is no sure rule by which one can tell whether a name beginning with "Mac" or "Mc" is Scotch or Irish. Generally speaking, however, "Mac" is more common in Scotch names and "Mc" in Irish names.

Lifting by Vacuum
The magnetic crane lifts heavy metal weights by magnetism of an electric current passing through a suitably shaped plate, but this scheme applies only to certain metals so that slings must be employed in handling other material and much time and labor consumed in preparing the articles for the lifting operation. A system of vacuum cups is now employed for this purpose and the efficiency is remarkable.

TREE PLANTING MAKING STRIDES

Forty-Two States Now Have Organizations for the Work of Forestry.

Washington.—Marked advance in forestry legislation was made during 1927, says the Forestry Legislative Survey published to mark the close of the legislative year by the American Tree association.
The legislative year was made notable because of the passage of legislation in Delaware, Florida and South Carolina took their places with forestry minded states. There are now 42 states that provide some forestry organization. Utah, Wyoming, Arkansas and Nevada have not provided for any organization, and the state forests of Arizona and New Mexico are cared for by a joint agreement with the U. S. forest service. Forestry legislation was passed for the first time in Nevada and Utah, but no organization was provided.

The survey, which is being sent to editors and foresters by Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association, shows the present area of state forests to be 6,838,000 acres and that 73,000,000 trees were planted during the year.
Pennsylvania Leads in Planting.
States that kept the lead in tree planting were Pennsylvania with 27,916,029; New York with 22,000,000 and Michigan with 10,000,000. The state appropriation by Pennsylvania was $1,208,485.

"The Mississippi river flood has directed the attention of the nation as nothing else could to the need of providing forests at the headquarters of the Mississippi and its tributaries," says Mr. Pack, in announcing the publication of the survey. "This phase of flood prevention, while it will not stop floods, will aid in preventing them and is the only one I know of that will pay dividends in future years. We must put idle land to work growing trees."
"It is obvious the American public is becoming forest minded. People are not only interested but active in seeing that our trees, both in the forests, in our parks and on our highways, are given more care, attention and protection."

Advance in Reforestation.
"Reforestation has made a notable advance during the year. The development of state nurseries and the distribution of tree seedlings or transplants, as in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, Indiana and New Jersey, have resulted in many trees being planted.
"Probably five times as many trees were planted in the various states in 1927 as were put on ten years ago. This, in itself, is a real accomplishment."
"The Clark-McNary act has stimulated state forestry activities, especially in fire protection and tree planting in many states. There is no question but that this law has greatly encouraged the formulation of forest policies and activities in many of the states which heretofore have been regarded as being somewhat inactive in this direction."

The survey reviews by states the legislative activity and among other things gives the name of the forester and his headquarters and the amount of money expended under the Clark-McNary act.

Among the Burmese an idea exists that people born on the same day of the week should not marry, or misfortune will be their lot. Fight For Control of Schools Again Opened

Resolution Is Passed By Council To Have County Clerk Place Referendum On Ballot--Opposition Vote By Democrats

The fight to gain control of the School Board has again been renewed by the adoption of a resolution, introduced by Councilman Walter Vonah, at the meeting of the Council Monday evening. The trend of the resolution is to authorize Borough Clerk H. V. Platt to request the County Clerk to have placed on the official ballots a referendum question for the adoption of Article 6 of the laws of 1923.

The adoption of the section of the law will give Mayor Mulvihill the power to appoint the school board instead of their election by the voters. This same matter has been brought up in the Senate and the assembly during the session of 1926-27 and was defeated in the lower house after passing in the senate. Should the adoption be sanctioned by the voters the school election in 1928 will be done away with.

Councilman Samuel B. Brown, Edward J. Coughlin and William Dzurilla voted against the adoption of the resolution while Frank Andres, Hercules Ellis and Walter Vonah voted for its adoption, the tie was broken and the resolution adopted by the vote of Mayor Mulvihill.

Another fight was opened when Nathaniel A. Jacoby, appearing for Mr. Joseph Levi petitioner for sidewalks on Roosevelt avenue, from McKinley avenue to the southerly line of the Borough, asking that the borough take up the matter from a public necessity viewpoint. Mr. Jacoby stressed the dire need of sidewalks at this point, reciting instances where women were compelled to use the road to walk on after rain storms and narrowly escaped injury by passing automobiles.

This matter was originally brought up several months ago, when Mr. Levi petitioned for the walks, an ordinance was passed on first and second reading at that time but a storm of protests were raised by property owners who would be effected by the improvement, they constituting a majority of property frontage, the ordinance according to law was automatically null and could not be taken up unless the council deemed the improvement a public necessity.

On the motion of Councilman Vonah the petitioner was requested to file another petition and action deferred till next meeting.

A requisition was received from the Board of Education asking that $45,000 be turned over to the Board for current expenses of the schools. Councilman Ellis stated that he had seen an account, in one of the local papers, of a statement made at the last meeting of the Board of Education that, notes were drawn on the Carteret Trust Company, when there was sufficient balance to cover the item for which the note was drawn. Mr. Ellis stated that he made an investigation of the collectors accounts and found that this was not true.

Mayor Mulvihill said the thing was ridiculous and at no time was the borough in better financial condition.

Reporting for the street and road committee, Councilman Andres said that at last the drainage problems of Passaic street have been solved and the people living there are satisfied with the result. Andres protested that the condition of Lincoln avenue and Gantz avenue is exceptionally bad because traffic from Rahway avenue has been diverted over the streets mentioned while the highway is being paved. He thought the county should make repairs. The mayor said that the responsibility is up to the contractor who is paving Rahway avenue.

Bids for the East Rahway sewer project bond issue were to have been opened last night but all bids were rejected and the council will re-advertise again because it was discovered that an error had been made in the first advertising in that "The Bond Buyer" was omitted from the list. Under the new arrangement the bids will be received October 17.

Recorder Jacoby submitted reports of Police Court cases for July and August, showing a total of $650 in fines collected in that period. There were also numerous cases where jail sentences were imposed.

A large number of residents and property owners in Pershing avenue from Cooke avenue to Roosevelt avenue in the Carteret section, petitioned that 400 candle power arc lamps be substituted for the present small bulbs. The petitioners set forth that the portion of Pershing avenue mentioned is as distasteful a business street and as compactly built up as any other business section in the borough. The petition was referred to the light committee, the chairman of which, (Continued on page 3)

Mrs. Konkas was a native of Hungary and came to America 25 years ago making her home in Carteret, she was a member of St. George Society and St. Elizabeth's Church. She is survived by one son, Stephen, and a daughter, Mrs. Rose Flys.

The funeral will take place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from her late home. Services will be held at St. Elizabeth's Church. A requiem high mass will be said, interment will be made in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Daylight Saving Time Over

Turn back your clocks and watches Saturday night before going to bed. On Sunday morning at 2 o'clock we go back officially to eastern standard time after a summer of conserved daylight.

Not many years ago the coming of fall and winter was ushered in on the 22nd of September, but since the coming of daylight saving time the fall season is conceded to start the last Sunday in September.

E. RAHWAY SCHOOL COST VERY SMALL

According to Figures and Method of Payment, Assessment Is Less Than 1/2 Cent

Many of the taxpayers of the Borough have expressed their approval of a school building in East Rahway, which the voters will be called to vote upon Thursday, but their fear of a marked increase in taxes are their only objection.

Just what the increase in assessment will be is very easily figured, based on the approximate valuation that is assessed in the borough ($13,000,000). The investment of $50,000 for the school payable by a bond issue having a maturity series of, say, $2,000 each year, add $2,500 for interest which makes a total of $4,500 a year, this cost as compared with our valuation of $1,000,000 makes an added assessment of .00035 against each dollar of assessed in the borough.

To be more explicit, for every $1,000 of assessment, the cost of the school will add approximately $35 (thirty five cents) in assessment. This amount will each year be less because the interest becomes smaller as the principal is reduced.

East Rahway with a school building will have all the necessary improvements to add considerable valuation to the borough. More people will build in that neighborhood, which means more business to Carteret merchants and better prosperity for the borough in general.

RECORDER FINES POKER PLAYERS

Six Men Taken in Raid On Game in Hudson Street Boarding House. Other Cases Up

The result of a raid on a Spanish boarding house located at 9 Hudson street netted the police six poker players, who were arraigned in the Police Court before Recorder Nathaniel A. Jacoby Tuesday evening.

Each was fined $25 and two were given additional sentences of ten days in jail each. The latter are Robert DeJohn and John Mara, of 80 Union street. They were given the jail sentences for contempt of court. The other men fined were: Frank Nalle, Joseph Flucisco, S. Jansenc and Robert Sagana.

John Fonseca, the proprietor of the boarding house on that floor of the building, failed to appear, and his bail of $25 was forfeited, but a warrant for his arrest was issued when it was learned that the time of the raid he denounced the laws and institutions of the United States as being "no good". He is believed to be one of the many Latins in Carteret who are without passports.

Mrs. A. Martha Yapsinska, of Mercer street, a prominent leader in Polish circles, was in court as complainant against John Gall, a bartender in a Pershing avenue saloon, and a constable. Mrs. Yapsinska conducts a saloon in Mercer street and alleged that Gall came to her saloon and made trouble. Gall was dismissed.

Mrs. Yapsinska was ordered to keep silence in the court when she began to talk loudly. She refused to keep quiet and was fined $25 or ten days in jail. She answered back to that and the fine was raised to $50. She answered back again and the series kept up by jumps of $25 until her fine was $150 or 150 days in jail. After the court session the woman became more docile and her sentences were remitted.

Two Emerson street women who had been in a quarrel over their children and who appeared against each other as complainants, made so much noise in the court room that they were temporarily removed and locked up in the special cell for women prisoners. The idea of being locked up in the same cell, appealed to the sense of humor of both and when they were released they were laughing and dropped the charges against each other.

FIND BOY'S BODY ADrift IN SOUND

Carteret Youth Lost Life in Fleeting From Mother. Body in Water Since Friday

The body of Michael Solki, 6 years old, son of Mrs. Rabi Solki, widow, of 80 John street, was found last night about 6 o'clock Monday night in Staten Island Sound, near the I. T. William Lumber plant. The body was taken to Lyman's morgue.

The child was drowned Thursday afternoon about 200 feet from the Warner Chemical plant, when he went in beyond his depth. He had been forbidden to go swimming and boys told his mother that when he saw her approaching he went into deeper water. The current caught him and whirled him away. He floated for some distance and was thrown a rope by a barge captain, but, probably because he was unconscious, made no attempt to get it. Searchers were looking for the body ever since.

In the excitement of finding the body, the name of its finder was not ascertained.

DILL ENDORSES CLUB

Commissioner W. C. Wilson, president of the Raritan Automobile Club reports the endorsement of the Club and its principal aim and purpose that of conserving human life through the organized resistance of the membership to the reckless and irresponsible driver, by William L. Dill, Commissioner of the Department of Motor Vehicles of the State of New Jersey.

Commissioner Wilson, having very definite ideas as to the wide scope and the possibilities of an exceptionally valuable civic service through the club activities has been planning co-operation with the Motor Vehicle Department. His letter from Commissioner Dill reads as follows: Hon. W. C. Wilson, President, Raritan Automobile Club, 291 High Street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

My Dear Commissioner Wilson: "The Motor Vehicle Department of New Jersey gladly welcomes the co-operation of the Raritan Automobile Club.

"The Motor Vehicle Act was conceived solely for the purpose of conserving human life and protecting the interests of the highway users, generally, throughout the State.

"It is a very wholesome sign of the times when motorists affiliate with an organization such as the American Automobile Association, doing so with the purpose of assisting the law enforcing agencies in every way possible, to remove from the highways of our State, those repugnant drivers who make human life a pawn for their folly.

"There is much good work that can be accomplished on the roads of Middlesex County and we will appreciate profoundly any service that can be rendered to this Department by the co-operation of your organization.

"Let me wish for you and your associates every success. I have confidence that the personnel of your office is such as to guarantee the sincerity of purpose of your membership."

Yours very truly, (Signed) William L. Dill

BEN-HUR TO BE SHOWN HERE SOON

Ritz Theatre Secures Production At a Great Cost. Many Others Will Follow

"Ben-Hur", a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production made in Italy and in California, by special arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, Charles B. Dillingham and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., will have its premiere here at the Ritz Theatre next Monday, September 26, for a run of four days. The picture was directed by Fred Niblo, and the history of its three years in work is a real-life odyssey of enterprise and adventuring, culminating with the completion of the Antioch circus and race course and the filming of the great chariot race twist Messala and Ben-Hur.

General Lew Wallace wrote "Ben-Hur" half a century ago (1878-80), and its success as a novel was followed in 1889 by its dramatization. The stage spectacle held the boards for twenty-two seasons, in which it became the most widely known stage offering in America. In picturizing the work Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has enjoyed the immense advantage for the movies of a story laid in outdoor scenes and characterized by the splendor and pomp of Graeco-Roman milieus in the time of Christ. Among the greater scenes on which the Newer Art has lavished its resources are those of the Wise Men and the Star of Bethlehem, Jerusalem under Roman occupation, the sea battle with Greeks and Romans, the life in Antioch and the chariot race, the hero's assembling of his Galilean legions, the finding of his mother and sister in the Vale of Hinnom, and the miraculous healing wrought by the Divine power. These scenes are knit together by a story of love and revenge, to which the romance of Ben-Hur and Esther, the intrigues of Messala and the wives of Itra, lead expressing interest. Ramon Navarro (in the title part), Betty Bronson, Francis K. Bushman, May McAvoy, Claire McDowell, Kathleen Key, Carmel Myers, Nigel de Bruiler, Mitchell Lewis, Frank Currier, are some of the principal players.

Siberian Court Ends

Novosibirsk, Siberia.—A lawsuit which has lasted more than 200 years was recently ended by a decision of the supreme land commission.

The litigants were two Siberian villages, Pushzarevo and Gorbunovka, near Tomsk. The suit arose over land which both villages claimed. The affair is of historical interest, since all documents and records have remained intact.

The Soviets have now declared the disputed land belongs to Gorbunovka. Catherine's order and other documents, among them the original agreement signed between the villagers and the Tartar authorities of Siberia, are said to be kept by Greclanin in an iron chest which also serves as his bed.

Dignity Not Accorded
Its Meed of Respect

When the Romans wanted to accomplish a man they spoke of his dignity. At one and the same time they implied worth, value, excellence. The esteem in which dignity was held passed from the Romans to the barbarians who conquered them and so through the ages. There are living today persons who can recall a time when dignity was still included among the higher virtues.

Of late something has happened to dignity. It has come under suspicion as being a cloak for rascality on the one hand and stupidity on the other, a writer in the Baltimore Sun asserts. It is regarded not as inherent in a man's nature, but as something assumed. Hence an affectation. The contempt in which it is commonly held is evidenced by the application of the slang expression "stuffed shirt" to almost any man who endeavors to maintain an air of dignity.

No doubt dignity, as commonly practiced, deserves much of its condemnation. An instance is recalled some fifteen years ago when a certain man was proposed for senator on the mere ground that he looked like a senator. Almost anyone with a frock coat and a loud voice could in those days utter an hour of platitudes and get the credit for wisdom. To heckle him was to offend against his dignity.

Now we have gone to the other extreme. Not only do persons without dignity guard against assuming it but those in whom dignity is inherent make every effort to conceal the fact. They have themselves photographed in unconventional poses, they make a desperate effort, and usually an unsuccessful one, to be the life of the party. Their idea is to impress the public as being what Will Rogers terms "a regular guy."

For the man who has a natural dignity to pretend that he hasn't is as much of an affectation as for the man without natural dignity to pretend that he has.

The "regular guy" has his place. So has the man of dignity. When each attempts to assume the clothes of the other it is time for the public to turn thumbs down on both.

Interconnection of Electric Lines

Announcement was made here today of the signing of a contract by Thomas N. McCarter, president, for Public Service Electric and Gas Company, Walter H. Johnson, president, for Philadelphia Electric Company and Sidney Z. Mitchell, chairman of the board, for Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, which provides for the interconnection of the electric system of the three companies, which when completed will pool the output of generation stations having a combined capacity of more than 2,250,000 kilowatts. The pool will be one of the largest if not the largest in the world.

An 82-mile transmission line will be constructed from Siegfried, Pa., eight miles north of Allentown to a switching station to be constructed at Roseland near Newark where it will connect with lines from Kearny and other stations of Public Service; a 49-mile line will be constructed from Siegfried to a switching station where it will meet lines from Conowingo and other Philadelphia Electric stations. The Roseland and Philadelphia stations will be connected by a 77-mile line, the whole forming a "ring" into which will feed all of the generation stations of the three companies.

The work of constructing the transmission lines and switching stations will, it is expected, be completed in 1930 and will cost in the neighborhood of $26,000,000.

The principal advantage which the interconnection of the systems of the Public Service, Philadelphia and Pennsylvania companies is expected to achieve is improvement in service, especially as to dependability, and in addition there will be benefits arising from diversity of load, the possibility of staggering construction programs, and ability to concentrate production in the most efficient generation plants irrespective of ownership.

The peak of the load carried by the Pennsylvania company which serves the coal mining and cement making district of Pennsylvania comes in October and at 10 o'clock A. M. The maximum load on the Philadelphia company and of Public Service comes in December and at 5 P. M. It is expected that after the interconnection is established Public Service and Philadelphia Electric will be supplying Pennsylvania Power and Light in October of each year with such capacity as its peak load requires, while in December the excess capacity will flow to Public Service and Philadelphia Electric.

The present capacity of the stations of Philadelphia Electric Company is 570,000 kw. The opening of the Conowingo hydro electric station in June 1928 will increase this by 250,000 kw. The present capacity of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company stations is 292,000 kw. exclusive of the capacity of interconnected stations of other companies, and the present capacity of Public Service is 575,000 kw. It is expected that the capacity of Conowingo will provide the requirements of the three companies until the Pennsylvania company constructs a new station somewhere in the mining regions and that this station will meet the combined needs until Public Service builds a new plant. Without interconnection all three companies would have to make large investment in plants much before that date than will now be necessary.

The transmission lines of the new interconnection will each have a capacity of 250,000 kilowatts. Eighty-foot steel towers spaced about 1,000 feet apart will carry a single circuit of three conductors of approximately an inch in diameter.

The Roseland switching station to be built by Public Service will occupy a plot of about forty acres and will cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. Construction work will begin sometime this Fall.

The three companies involved in the new pool are among the largest in the United States. Philadelphia Electric Company serves the city of Philadelphia and much of its outlying territory; Pennsylvania Power and Light Company serves a large area in Eastern Pennsylvania, including the cities of Allentown, Bethlehem, Hazleton and Sunbury, and Public Service Electric and Gas Company a section of New Jersey stretching from the Hudson to the Delaware, including Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Trenton, Camden and some 200 other municipalities.

Andres, yes; Brown, no; Coughlin, no; D'Zurilla, no; Ellis, yes; Vonnah, yes; mayor, yes.

The rules were then suspended to take up the reading of bill of Herman Horn. Same was read and ordered paid all voting yea on roll call.

Attorney Jacoby was then heard speaking of the need of sidewalks on Roosevelt avenue from the Economy Garage to Edwin street ordinance on which previously brought up had not been passed, stating the dangerous conditions to pedestrians and claiming that same was a public necessity, saying that at least sidewalks should be laid on the East side of this thoroughfare, and asking that the Borough take it up as a public necessity.

The Mayor then asked the opinion of the Council separately: Andres stated same should be laid on both sides of the avenue. Ellis thought sidewalks should be laid as the condition was dangerous without same. Brown thought a new petition should be put in. Coughlin thought the same as Brown, yet he said it was a public necessity. D'Zurilla said it was a public necessity. Vonnah said that we should procure the signers on the East side of the avenue. Mr. Levy was then asked to have a petition in at the next meeting, October 3, 1927. Motion by Vonnah and Andres that meeting be presented at the next meeting was carried, all voting yea on roll call.

The Mayor then asked if there was anyone present who had anything to say. Mr. Thomas Desimone of Harris street complained of vicious dogs on that street, asking that something be done in this matter. J. H. Nevill spoke on the same subject, verifying Mr. Desimone's statement. This was referred to the Chairman of the Police Committee to have the Police look this up.

Motion to adjourn was carried.

BOY USES TEETH TO SAVE FRIEND

Pulls Tree Branch From Impaired Pal's Neck.

San Francisco.—One University of California student saved the life of another following an unusual accident by pulling part of a sharp branch from his companion's neck by the use of a strong set of teeth.

Those concerned are Paul Phelan and Kenneth Reynolds, both of whom live in Alameda, and attend the same classes at the university infirmary. They started on a hunting trip in the mountains near Napa. Phelan fell over a steep bank and into the branches of a manzanita tree.

A fragment of one of the branches pierced Phelan's neck and broke off. His classmate succeeded in extricating him and placing him on the ground, where he lay gasping in a semiconscious condition. Trying unsuccessfully to pull out the branch fragment, Reynolds finally grasped the end with his teeth and withdrew the piece of wood.

Following this, Phelan was in danger of bleeding to death. But his companion tore up part of his shirt and bandaged the wound. Then, carrying the injured youth, Reynolds started with him for Napa. It required two hours to walk there.

After receiving first-aid treatment in Napa, Phelan was taken to the university infirmary and given further attention. His classmate's efforts saved his life, officials there said.

Two Teachers Fined for Whipping Schoolgirl

Detroit, Mich.—"The age of barbarism has passed," Samuel L. Vreeland, justice of the peace, said in passing sentence on Mrs. Mary Griffiths and Paul H. Coover, teachers in the Maple Grove school, after finding them guilty of assault and battery in whipping Irene Begeman, a ten-year-old pupil.

Coover was told to pay a $50 fine or serve 30 days in the Detroit house of correction. Mrs. Griffiths was given the alternative of a $10 fine and costs or a ten-day term. The costs in each case amounted to $3.50.

Irene testified that Mrs. Griffiths instructed her to remain after the class was dismissed for the day, but that she went home. She was timorous about returning and got her mother to accompany her. Her mother, she explained, informed the teacher she wanted Irene to return home early, but had forgotten to give her a note.

"Mrs. Griffiths talked real nice to mamma, but later she took me in the cloakroom and gave me a licking with a paddle," Irene testified. "I went to my seat and cried. Then teacher took me back to the cloakroom and gave me another licking with a rubber hose—worse than the first."

"I started for home, but Mr. Coover brought me back to school. He said the licking Mrs. Griffiths gave me wasn't enough and hit me about 24 times with a rubber hose."

Drug Addict Must Go to Church to Stay Free

New York.—Federal Judge Winslow looked meditatively at the youthful prisoner before him. He was John Spinello, eighteen years old, and had pleaded guilty to possessing heroin.

"I will sentence you to six months in the penitentiary," said the judge, "but I will suspend sentence on one condition," Judge Winslow added.

"You must attend church at least once a week during the period of suspension."

"I shall ask your reverend to keep me posted about your attendance. Your fate is in your own hands. If you fall once you go to jail for six months."

"I do not want anyone to think," said Judge Winslow afterward, "that I consider going to church a punishment in any way. I just wanted the boy to be under good influence during the period of his suspension."

Girl Playfully Points Gun; Slays Her Mother

Kenosha, Wis.—Edna Wade, seven-year old, is under the care of a physician in her home here, prostrated with grief over having accidentally shot and killed her mother when she playfully pointed a revolver at her and pulled the trigger. She did not know it was loaded, she said.

The tragedy occurred while Mrs. Wade was preparing a party in observance of her forty-fourth birthday anniversary. The girl's father had just purchased the revolver and loaded it for the first time. No official investigation will be held because of the girl's condition, according to coroner Joseph Friend. He gave "accidental death" as the cause.

The Reclaimed Outcast

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

EVEN as a small child Polly showed marked propensities in the matter of reclaiming things. From flowers to animals and on to humans her quaint disposition led her into many trials.

Feeble, struggling plants in the garden Polly nurtured and loved and brought to glorious flowering; hungry, ear-chewed and lanky cats always found tender care and sometimes blossomed forth as silky and purring pets; a strange, ill-clad and wistful child would invariably be the one selected by Polly as her best chum—and so on until she began her weeding career among various grown-up human beings.

"Why is it that Polly always has some poor benighted soul dangling about?" questioned her brother. "I hope her charitable reform work won't lead her into some mess—she might even present us with a broken-down, half-starved poet as a member of the family."

"She's certainly the Aunt!"

"Won't take the slightest interest in any well set-up member of society? Did you ever see such a collection of derelicts as she can find? I wonder she hasn't brought us in an abandoned baby!"

These were other expressions regarding Polly's propensities.

Then—there was Billy Norwood—a perfect specimen of a man. The kind of man that every mother dreams of as a befitting mate for a treasured daughter. But—Polly wouldn't even look at him. There was nothing about him to attract her mothering instincts and without that there was simply no lure at all.

And Billy felt that life without Polly was just not life at all.

"It's no use," said Polly's brother. "You'll have to become a down-and-outer, gambler or some ghastly piece of wreckage if you want to marry Polly and I don't mind telling you right here and now, Old Ben, that there's no one I'd rather welcome into the family."

"Dick," said Norwood, "if you can sort of drop the merry word about—I'll be the most dissipated, broken-wretch that ever won a woman's heart. You'll have to help—just cast the word casually about that I've take the downward grade—I'll do the rest, and if it doesn't take Polly and all her salvage corps to reclaim me then—"

"Put it there, Old Top!" laughed Dick.

It was no time at all until rumors of wild orgies were whispered about as having taken place in the Norwood flat. Vivid etchings of convivial parties well embellished with details of the host's sudden plunge into the mire of dissipation.

Polly began to prick up her ears. Dick very thoughtfully tried to hush up the matter but the questioning in Polly's limpid eyes was so insistent that he was forced to give her some of the gruesome story of Norwood's downfall. And he watched his sister's face interest rising and her reclaiming instincts flowing out already to the errant Norwood.

One evening he reported at the flat and the two men shook hands.

"I feel that I can almost safely be putting in an order to my tailor," said Dick. "She's all aglow with desire to save you. But don't let down too quickly, old man, or the game will be lost and, for the love of Pete, don't ever let Polly know we've swindled her."

"I love her too much for that, Dicky," said Norwood seriously. "I don't mind saying, however, that I'll welcome the day when I can wear pressed clothes and clean linen. You know I throw my suit on the floor at night and leave it there until I don it in the morning. This filthy cork I rub about my eyes—"But," he added, "I've been wondering whether, when Polly and I are married, we shall have to have a broken-down house, scrawny kiddies and starved animals and derelict friends in order to keep the home fires aglow."

"No—I fancy this will cure her," laughed Dick.

"Cure her! Great Scott! I hope not. It's the most adorable trait any woman ever had." And Norwood's whimsical smile played about his mouth.

That evening when Dick returned home he hinted darkly that he began to think a woman was at the bottom of poor old Norwood's downfall.

"That's always the way with the finest chaps that were ever born. When they go to pieces they go hard. Darn these women," he added forcefully and left Polly to think it out. He had, however, seen the flush on Polly's fair cheeks and the tears that hung on her heavy lashes. "Done!" he told himself as he threw off his coat and prepared for bed.

Next morning, when all self-respecting business men were hard at their tasks, Billy Norwood was seen loafing about the streets and his manner suggested a night of carousing. He had flung himself upon a park bench when she approached him and sat down beside him.

Norwood assumed a vapid expression as he turned toward her, but his heart gave a great thump of triumph.

"Billy dear," she suggested softly and tucked her hand well into the curve of his arm, "don't you think a drive up Riverside would do you good? I want to tell you something—something awfully nice."

METAL EMBROIDERY GLEAMS ON AUTUMN'S SATIN FROCKS

NOT in fashion's realm will "silver and gold have I none" be voiced, for early arriving autumn frocks gleam with touches of not only gold and silver, but of copper, steel, brass and, yes, tin if you please. It is a fact, some genius has devised an extremely novel trimming which accomplishes a handsome effect by riveting bits of tin over multi-colored strands of silk.

Autumn's style horoscope is proclaiming the metalogue in no uncertain terms. Imagine such a frock as this, and it is, to say the least, "perfectly stunning"—black satin one-piece model studded all over with steel nailheads which are riveted into the very fabric. At the proper waistline a belt is simulated by working in gold metal nailheads, in solid form. The effect is thrilling, and presents a season of fascinating revelations in the way of metallic embellishment.

The picture shows the enthralling effect of metal embroidery on black satin. Seems as if black crepe satin frocks are crowding the style stage in numbers greater than ever. A surprising quota gleam with unique and exceedingly handsome touches of metal, after the manner of this illustration.

Dressy afternoon ensembles of black velvet are also written in the book of fashion—and their appearance will not be deferred until late fall, for nowadays velvet is so sheer and supple it lays claim to being an all-year-round fabric. Owing to its suppleness velvet is indulging in any amount of shirring. Often the skirt fullness is accomplished in this way. In harmony with the trend toward metal decoration, the blouse, preferably of white or flesh georgette, is embroidered in gold and silver paillettes.

There is also a discreet use of metal on many a simple cloth frock, such as a few nailheads on cuffs and collar or an outlining of metal clasps on hem edges.

These fellowships were established to help graduate students of proved ability to complete their training in specialized lines of medical research from funds provided by joint contributions from the general education board and the Rockefeller foundation. Seventy fellows have already completed their training and most of them have gone to academic positions, where they are engaged in medical research and teaching.

Thoroughbred Horses

The bureau of animal industry says that as far back as it knows there are no race-track regulations requiring that only thoroughbreds enter a race. However, a horse that is not a thoroughbred, unless he is exceptional, would stand little chance against a horse who has been bred from racing ancestors. Thoroughbred horses in this country are registered solely on the thoroughbredness of their ancestors. Registration in a thoroughbred society necessitates that both the sire and the dam be registered or eligible for registration in the society, which means that their sire and dam were registered.

APPLES

Of the fruits that delight the eye and please the palate, none is more deserving of praise than the apple.

Whichever way you eat an apple, whether you pare and halve it with a knife, or following the homespun fashion, eat it out of hand, skins and all, it is good.

The apple days are here. Fill up the bin. The long evenings have come. Keep the home fires burning in the open fireplaces, and likewise a plate or basket of red apples on the table in the living room.

"THANK YOU".

Two little words that make the world run more smoothly, that ease the hard places of life and absorb many of its shocks, are "Thank You"

They are the sign of a gracious spirit. They bespeak a generous attitude that would not withhold praise from those that deserve it—a commodity with which too many of us are stingy.

The majority of us take too much for granted. In a land of plenty and among a people of infinite resources, we expect much and accept everything as a matter of course.

Yet one's best friend likes to hear an appreciative word. While a compliment derived by an outsider and extended frankly and generously will often convert an enemy into an ally.

Appreciation, like charity, begins at home and among those nearest and dearest. The prince of good fellows is a failure and a hypocrite unless he takes his reputation home with him at night and accents it with smiles and pleasant words at the breakfast table in the morning.

These two little words, "Thank You", makes the world run more smoothly. Learn to speak them. No praise is ever wholly undeserved. Encouraging words are as great a miracle worker as this old world knows.

RENDEZVOUS.

The home has ceased to be a mere port of last resort and becomes a cherished rendezvous. And the radio is responsible. If one may eat dinner at home and at the same time hear the melodious strains of a symphony orchestra, if one may roll up the parlor rug and dance to the jazz janglings of a metropolitan dance orchestra, if one may sit in smoking jacket and slippers and not miss the evening church service, there is no place like home.

The home is indebted to those new gold-dust twins, Neutrodyne and Heterodyne, for bringing back the wandering flock. The player-piano, the phonograph, the library, the open door all tried their skill at vamping with little success. Where they failed the radio succeeded. It isn't guaranteed against fading but the wireless wave is overworking the hall hat rack.

When McCormack and Borl sang for the radio, theatrical producers predicted the early decline of drama. The radio is in competition with late evening movies. As long as the radio programs offer talent of a high order the radio-owning public will stay home to hear and go out only to see.

Church's Methods of "Conversion", in Great Need of Revision

By REV. ALFRED NEWBERRY, Chicago Minister.

The "hot house" method of converting the Twentieth-century man to Christianity is a failure; the church needs a new vocabulary, and a new approach. The old-fashioned idea of "winning souls" no longer fits in the religious approach to the average man.

A new religion technique should meet these points. Do not seek to convince beyond the limits of personal experience of the man you talk to; seek for a willingness to see the reasonableness rather than the finality of your point of view; do not try to hot-house an individual into belief by an argument or a dilemma. Seek rather to make him acquainted with a life of worship which will gradually demonstrate its indispensability.

Congested Highways

A pressing American problem is the congested highway, says the Outlook. With one automobile to every five in our population, if all our cars were in line they would form a procession approximately 50,000 miles long, which, allowing for scant head-room, would reach twice around the world! Automobiles choke the streets of cities and popular routes from city to country.

When Daniel Webster was a boy in the district school he was not noted for tidiness. Finally the teacher in despair told him that if he appeared again with such dirty hands she would thrash him. He did appear, in the same condition, writes Gamaliel Bradford in Harper's Magazine. "Daniel," she said, "hold out your hand." Daniel spat on his palm, rubbed it on the seat of his trousers and held it out. The teacher surveyed it in disgust. "Daniel," she said, "if you can find me an other hand in this school that is dirtier than that I will let you off." Daniel promptly held out the other hand, and she had to keep her word. This was Daniel Webster in school and in the Supreme court and the senate of the United States. He always produced the other hand when it was needed and won his case.

It cannot be too much emphasized that the radio is the one method offered by science for the quick and sure navigation of aircraft, even through fog, and that this method has offered us what can be described only as two lamentable failures. It is unnecessary to try to fix blame for this since the New York Herald-Tribune Perhaps the radio engineers are at fault in giving too little attention to problems of aircraft. Possibly the aviators have accepted too little aid from their electrical brethren. It does not matter. What does matter is that something be done now.

BOY KING'S PALACE IN LOVELY RESORT

Rumania Gives Castle Pelesh to Little Michael.

Washington.—Sinaia, whose historic Castle Pelesh has been recently set aside by the Rumanian government as a country residence for the boy king, Michael, is a beautiful resort in the pine-clad Carpathian mountains and favorite summer gathering place of Balkan aristocracy, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

This delightful valley in the Carpathians became popular less than 60 years ago, when it was chosen as a refuge from the torrid summers of Bucharest by young Prince Charles of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, newly chosen king of Rumania, and his wife, Elizabeth of Neuwied, known to the literary world by her pen name of Carmen Sylva.

When the royal couple first visited this mountain fastness there was no summer palace built, and they stopped for weeks at a time at the Orthodox Greek monastery near Sinaia built by Prince Michael Cantacuzene in the fifteenth century. The walls of the monastery apartment set aside for royal use are said to be still covered with caricature sketches of well-known court ladies, drawn by the queen.

King Charles Built the Castle. So charmed were the new monarchs with the invigorating air and wild scenery of Sinaia that they set about the creation there of a summer court. King Charles supervised the erection of Castle Pelesh, the royal residence, on whose building, landscaping and furnishing he lavished millions. Pelesh is in the white stone and plaster, half-timbered, many-gabled German style, looking more like a resort hotel in the Bavarian Alps than a castle in the English sense of the word. It is perhaps more adequately described by the French term, chateau.

The building, however, is in harmony with its background of evergreens and mountain peaks, and stands in a wooded park of great beauty. Its many rooms contain priceless art treasures from Europe and the Orient collected by King Charles throughout a long lifetime and added to by his successors Ferdinand and Marie. The throne room and reception halls are of Aladdinlike splendor.

In spite of this gorgeous background, court life has always been less formal at Sinaia than in Bucharest. It has been the custom of both Carmen Sylva and Queen Marie to wear native peasant costume while in residence.

It was at Sinaia that the royal family first heard the booming of the guns on the Hungarian frontier after Rumania's entry into the World War. The Transylvania frontier is a few miles away through the Carpathian passes.

Modern Summer Capital. Since the war Sinaia has become more popular than ever, not only among the native aristocracy but with visitors from all eastern Europe. Rumania combines strains of Latin gaiety and gypsy romance which seem to meet in Sinaia. Rich owners of landed estates have been hard hit by agrarian reforms, but many seem still able to maintain magnificent villas at the summer capital, and their number is constantly being added to by those newly enriched by post-war developments.

On Sinaia's tree-shaded promenade are seen costumes fresh from the Rue de la Paix. Gay youths in flannels play tennis with girls in embroidered blouses, their hair held in place by colorful gypsy scarfs. Inviting paths lead through the forest to mountain retreats of solemn grandeur. At the casino the wheel of fortune spins and each evening in the adjoining ballroom, music plays far into the night.

This remote Carpathian valley, in the shadow of the old Cantacuzene monastery, has seen during the last half century the surprising growth of one of Europe's gayest summer capitals. High upon the hillside above, embowered in gardens, lies the royal residence of Pelesh, built by the German monarch of a Latin country and redolent with the memory of an English queen. Now its gorgeousness is the property of a boy of five.

CHINAMAN'S BRIDE CAN'T COME HOME

Dilemma of American Girl in the Orient.

New York.—The wedding ring which sealed the elopement of a beautiful Brooklyn girl, a Columbia graduate, with a native-born Chinese has become the bar which will forever prevent her return to her native land.

The information came from China, where Mrs. Pao is literally marooned and her Chinese husband, formerly president of the National university in Peking, a prisoner in the hands of the Nationalist troops.

"You will have to get a divorce before you get an American passport," Mrs. Pao was told by American consular officers in China, according to the information sent here.

"If you get a Chinese passport you can go to America for only six months and cannot remain permanently. As there is no Chinese quota, you cannot return as an immigrant," the officials further advised her.

Mrs. Pao has protested to her American relatives that she is deeply in love with the Chinese husband whom she met when both were students in Columbia, five years ago.

"I have no intention of divorcing him. I love him, but I want to return to America, and they say I can't without a divorce," the American wife of the Chinese professor insisted. "I have never regretted our marriage."

Since Professor Pao was captured by the Nationalist forces five months ago, his wife seldom has been permitted to communicate with him and has never seen him.

Carried Half Mile in New York Sewer

New York.—Swept more than half a mile by the swirling underground waters of New York's sewers and finally washed into the East river, seven-year-old Anthony Agostino was little the worse for his experience.

The boy fell into a sewer manhole while playing with several companions in a subway excavation at Third avenue and Fifty-third street. Cries of his companions attracted watchmen, who notified the police and fire departments.

Manhole covers along Fifty-third street and Second avenue were opened and firemen lowered with ropes and flashlights. But each time the rescuers were too late—Tony had already shot by.

Firemen, police and members of the United States volunteer life-saving corps gathered about the sewer outlet on East river to await the arrival of the boy.

Minutes passed. Tony had been in the sewer waters 20 minutes and hope of his rescue alive began to ebb. Suddenly from the outlet from which three to four feet of water rushed came a mud-covered body, which began to kick and squirm as it struck the river. Several firemen jumped into the water and hauled the boy into a boat.

"It was terrible cold in there," remarked Tony as he was rushed to Bellevue hospital. There it was found he was suffering slightly from submersion and several bruises.

Church Parade in London Comes Back

London.—The Sunday church parade has come back to Hyde park. For a time it appeared that the important event of olden days, which tourists included in their itinerary along with the Tower of London and Westminster abbey, had become an obsolete function. But the show has returned in all its old-time glory and current styles in feminine dress have made it more colorful than at any other period.

Fifteen or twenty years ago nearly every one who wanted to be somebody took a place in the park on Sunday morning, immediately after church services, sharing in the procession of life and fashion. But during the war the big parade fell off tremendously, and it never became its real old self until this summer.

Time has changed the customs. The best-dressed people do less promenading than formerly, and are content to occupy a back seat or a bench under a tree, watching the other half of the world go by for an hour or so.

Manikins wearing all the latest Paris fashions have added zest to the parade, as have girls with Edwardian frocks. Some are trailed by dogs selected to match their costumes to the dot.

FIELD ILLUMINATED BY AIRPLANE'S HUM

Ingenious Electric Device That Aids Night Flying

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A formidable enemy of night flying—the unilluminated landing field—was conquered automatically by the modern wizardry of electricity at Bettis field, McKeesport, the other night. At a public demonstration there the hum of a plane, one thousand feet in the air, closed a switch on the landing field. A bank of airport floodlights was turned on, and an instant later the pilot was gliding safely along a path of illumination that was called into being by the voice of his own plane. Thousands witnessed the successful exhibition of the sound-sensitive automatic lighting agency developed by T. Spooner, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Merle Motrup, chief of the air mail pilots at Bettis field, made the landing which opens a new volume in the annals of aviation.

Essentially the function of the device is to use the drone of an airplane to control electrical energy. At first this controlled energy is a tiny weakling, but it is nursed along by a corps of amplifiers, and finally emerges as a husky child capable of closing a good-sized lighting switch. This switch locks automatically and the lights remain on until turned off by the field attendant.

Loud Speaker Reversed. A loud speaker constitutes the "ear" of the mechanism. It works in reverse order, inhaling rather than exhaling sound. The loud speaker laid on its back gives the apparatus a directive effect with reference to noises from above. A microphone completes the auditory section. After passing through the initial amplifier the impulse is received by a resonant circuit set, tuned to the dominant frequency of the airplane drone. Here a second amplifier does its work and then the thread is picked up by a device which has an amplifying power of 100,000,000.

The electrical impulse, which a split second before was awakened by the hum of the plane, is now ready for the time-limit relay—the last step

THE CLOSE KNITTED CARDIGAN IS A LEADING SWEATER STYLE

SWEATER smartness is interpreted through simplicity. The close-knit cardigan leads for the school-girl, or for the debutante. On golf links, tennis courts, on avenue or boulevard, the cardigan proclaims its popularity.

The cardigan model in the picture is typical of the mode. The original for this illustration is in the new and favored pea-green tone and its accompanying skirt is also in shades of green.

Now that these tailored looking sweaters and plaited skirts have become as much a favorite for street as for sports wear, many are choosing them in such shades as parchment, beige, sand and kindred tones. For golf and tennis and general country club wear; the soft pastel shades are best liked.

For the late summer wear a keen wholehearted endorsement is being given to pink for sweater costumes. The sweaters are extremely lightweight and in most instances a cardigan is worn over a round-necked slip-on which matches it. All white is a close competitor to pink. Skirts are either of pink flannel with sweater accompanying or of white plaited crepe de china.

The new fall models emphasize lovely heather mixtures. They also introduce a considerable use of angora. The very latest is for a jumper close knitted, with matching cardigan styled of fine angora jersey.

Among the interesting styles, which claim early attention for autumn is the four-piece tweed-and-knitted costume. Its practicality is at once apparent, provided as it is with a slip-over sweater, a cardigan and a matching short knitted scarf, the skirt of tweed and plaited.

A novelty included in fall showings is a sweater with stitch and coloring to resemble reptile skin.

Sure to attract the interest of the college girl is the sweater which has tiny candy stripes in two tones.

in the process before the long arm of electricity reaches out to close the power switch.

The time-limit relay is a vital unit in the Spooner sound-selective switch. Without this feature the automatic lighting mechanism might be operated by sporadic transient noises. With the time-limit feature nothing less than the continuous hum, characteristic of the moving plane, will operate the apparatus and light the field. Lacking this unit the apparatus would be like a nerve frazzled watchman, who, startled by the slightest disturbance, jumps to the lighting switch, not knowing whether the noise he heard came from the air or the earth. The time-limit agency gives the Spooner device the advantage of the self-possessed watchman who knows what he is about to do before he acts.

New Type of Projector. The lights that went into action automatically came from a new type of airport projector developed by the Westinghouse company.

The new unit is designed to furnish sufficient illumination over an uneven field, at the same time keeping the source of light low and eliminating objectionable glare in the eyes of the aviator. It consists essentially of a steel drum 25 inches in diameter and 19 inches deep, mounted on a 2 1/2 inch pipe standard. Mounted within the drum are a lamp socket with vertical, lateral and in-and-out focusing adjustments, a 23-inch parabolic metal reflector of such focal length that all reflected rays come approximately within a 3 degree divergence, and a system of louvers to absorb all those rays of direct light the upward tilt of which exceeds 1 1/2 degrees. A spread lens mounted in front of the shell gives a horizontal spread of 45 degrees to the beam.

The unit is so mounted on the pipe standard that it may be rotated horizontally, or tilted vertically two degrees above and six degrees below the horizontal. It is dust and rain proof. When equipped with a 1,500-watt projection lamp and spread lens, the unit gives a maximum intensity of 250,000 C. P., with an estimated intensity with plain lens of 3,000,000 C. P. The projector may be accurately focused by the use of a daylight lamp-setter developed for the purpose.

SEES SOUND SENT OVER RAYS OF INVISIBLE LIGHT

Dr. Donald C. Stockbarger, Noted Scientist, Tells of Wonderful Era of the Ultra-Violet Ray.

Cambridge, Mass.—An era of the ultra-violet ray, when sound will be transmitted over beams of invisible light and a multiplicity of scientific marvels hardly yet envisioned will be commonplace, is predicted by scientists.

Here are a few of the things foreseen by Dr. Donald C. Stockbarger, the results of whose investigations were demonstrated at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology:

Motion pictures transmitted on invisible ultra-violet rays.

Automobile headlights that will flood highways with invisible light but will themselves be dark.

Roads, fences and sign posts that will be coated with a fluorescent substance which will glow when beams of light strike them.

War-time messages which may be sent without fear of interception because the light rays may be focused on a given point.

Other uses for the violet ray are expected when a glass is perfected which will allow the rays to pass through and work their curative values on sufferers from many ailments, and their action in chemistry is thoroughly understood.

Doctor Stockbarger gave a graphic demonstration of the magic ray and its properties.

Motion pictures projected from an ordinary machine with a filter in the rear of the lens to permit only ultra-violet rays to pass through were shot on invisible beams to a fluorescent screen where they appeared with a ghostly, greenish, blue glow.

The human voice coming through the ether as a part of a radio broadcast was sent over a ray of the light, but when a person's hand, or any other object, was thrust in the way, the sound ceased.

An automobile on a miniature road with scenery and bridges and fences illustrated how the danger of glare from headlights at night might be eliminated and the lights themselves darkened, giving off the ultra-violet rays alone.

Beams from such headlights will shine brilliantly when they fall upon roads and guide posts coated with fluorescent substances but will be invisible to other motorists.

The results that the demonstration foreshadowed may come into practical realization by 2000 A. D., Doctor Stockbarger believes.

GIRL BABIES NOT WANTED IN AFRICA

Joy in Moslem Household Is Reserved for Boys.

When a son is born to a North African Moslem, joy reigns. Every one says to the father: "God has increased thy good." If it is a daughter, the father cries: "A misfortune is born to me." But, in spite of that, the birth is celebrated on the seventh day in the presence of Gadi, the parents and their friends, and the boy is named Zohra, the flower; Saadya, the happy; Zina, the beautiful, or Aziza, the beloved.

Yet over it all hangs the prophet's dictum: "Men are superior to women," and it is this phrase that stops all civilization and checks all progress. While his daughter is a child her father troubles himself not a whit about her, and she is lucky if her mother, his instrument for pleasure and for work, finds any time to watch over her.

As the girl grows up she is trained, taught silence, discretion—and coquetry. Poetic phrases about beauty are sung to her. Later on, in spite of the Koran, which describes tattooing as "the devil's writing," she is tattooed. When the girl is of marriageable age she is also ready for her prison. Her father begins to think about the dot—which he will get back—and the gift he will receive from the husband, which practically amounts to a price for selling his daughter. At ten or twelve, then, the girl is handed over to her husband, whether she likes it or not. For a father can impose marriage on an unmarried girl. It is what is called the right of Djibr, which is recognized by law and custom.

The father may consult his daughter, but she must not reply except by a smile or by tears. If she smiles it is because she is glad to be married; if she weeps it simply means that she agrees to the marriage, though regretting to leave her father's house—a convenient bit of duplicity. If she should categorically refuse the man who bought her, the father would apply the law of Djibr by blows of the matrique, or Arab club.

The consent of a widow or a divorced woman is necessary, though that does not prevent her being sold by her father or her brothers, or even by her children; for in all these relations of her civil life she is represented by a proxy or oaul, who is practically her master.

The same law also permits polygamy, which is often necessary, especially among the poor; though they usually have only two wives, who are used for all kinds of work, relieving one another, since one wife would hardly be enough for the day's tasks.

Meanwhile the husband does his bit by putting on a more or less torn burnoose and going—very much like an ancient Roman senator—to drink his kaou at the Moorish cafe or to discourse at the Djemma or else to look for news in the market. It is not unusual to see old men of sixty marrying girls of twelve.—Colonel Godchot in La Revue Mondiale.

EXPLOSION OF SUN SEEN AS POSSIBLE

Many Other Big Stars Have Blown Up.

Chicago.—Should the sun explode, which astronomers say may not happen in a million years, or might happen tomorrow, inhabitants of the earth would know of it in eight minutes and would have but 138 hours to live before they were destroyed by poison gases. Astronomers at Yerkes observatory admit such an explosion is possible any minute, basing their assertion on the fact that every star has gone, or will go through the explosive stage. In the Spiral Andromeda alone more than forty stars have exploded in the last twenty-five years. The last great star to explode was Nova Pictoris, which expanded many thousand diameters in 1925. Prof. C. T. Elvey of Northwestern university is preparing a thesis on this subject. He says: "It is quite true that stars do explode and there is no reason why the sun should be an exception. As yet we do not know exactly what the cause of this phenomenon can be, but the generally accepted theory is that the explosions are caused by internal eruptions, caused by the liberation of atomic energy. "The liberated energy travels from the center of the star at explosive speed. When it finally reaches the outside the star is many times its original size and its intensity increases many times. "Nova Pictoris, the last big star to explode, has increased in intensity more than 40,000 times. "Should this happen to the sun, and it is entirely possible, we would know of the explosion in eight minutes and we would have an outside limit of 138 hours to live. At that time the burning gases would reach the earth and we would be annihilated."

Gen. Percy May End the Row in Albania

Scutari, Albania.—The "Albanian question" is now largely in the hands of Gen. Sir Jocelyn Percy, a veteran of the South African war, of several Indian expeditions and of the great war.

Gen. Percy came here to reorganize the gendarmerie and was appointed by Ahmed Bey Zogu to command the military and civil administrations of all Albania north of the Matir river. He expects to pacify the turbulent region of the Mallisore tribes and thus put a stop to the continual agitation along the frontier between Albania and Jugo-Slavia.

Gen. Percy's policy is that of the "square deal." The tribesmen of the region under my command," he says, "can come to me and pour out their grievances with confidence that they will be heard and dealt with fairly."

Outlaw Fishermen Surrender to Law

St. Paul.—Outlaw fishermen of the wild north shore of Lake Superior, who have plied their trade since the region was captured from the Indians a century ago, have surrendered. Hereafter they will fish as the law dictates.

The poachers once believed that Lake Superior contained an inexhaustible supply of fish. But the hauls have been lean in late years and finally the fishers have determined to join the state in seeking to preserve that which has been their livelihood for years. Now they themselves are warring on illicit fishermen. State officials were quick to accept the co-operation, for enforcement of laws against poaching always had been difficult in the wild country. Until recently the fishers laid their nets during the spawning season, ignoring game laws, and used smaller mesh nets than the law allowed. Operating over a 200-mile stretch of isolated territory, they easily eluded the small staff of wardens and for years did a lucrative business, supplying catches of choice whitefish, trout and herring to the itinerant schooners that shipped their cargoes to eastern markets.

REFUSING TO VOTE, WOMEN QUOTE BIBLE

They Nearly Stump Judge, but Are Fined.

Brussels.—From the little town of Zeist in Holland, not far from Doorn, comes a story of forty women who would not vote. Not only did they neglect to vote, but they refused to do so on conscientious grounds, and the courtroom scene which followed taxed the Scriptural knowledge of the judge. All forty were summoned to appear before the local magistrate of Zeist to explain their delinquency. But thirty-eight of these wise women decided not to lower their dignity, so they sent a man delegate to present a written pleading to the effect that their consciences would not permit them to go to the polls.

Excuse Astonishes Judge. "True Puritan women cannot do unwomanly things just because the pope and the Socialist leaders would be pleased at this," wrote the nonvoting thirty-eight. That in itself sufficiently astonished the good judge. Then, on behalf of the women the delegate quoted a verse from Proverbs: "Her husband is known in the gates, when he sitteth among the elders of the land." The women added that nothing was said in the Bible about a woman sitting in place for her and she has nothing to debate with the elders of the land. The judge was searching his memory for a suitable quotation from the Scriptures which would show why women should sit with the elders when a woman appeared before the bench carrying a huge family Bible.

"This man has been pleading on behalf of thirty-eight of us," she declared to the judge. "I will plead myself for the two remaining women who didn't vote."

She opened her Bible and began to quote, first one verse from one book, then another from a different book. The judge tried to intervene, but the woman who would not vote had no trouble at all with her speaking faculties. She repeatedly silenced the judge and proceeded with the next quotation. Unquestionably she had her case well prepared.

"Let your women keep silence before the community," she read from Paul's first letter to the Corinthians. "For it is not permitted unto them to speak . . . and if they will learn anything let them ask their husbands at home, for it is a shame for women to speak before the community."

Court Quotes Bible. But the judge had now recovered to parry quotation for quotation. "You have quoted Proverbs 31:23," he stated with dignity. "Will you allow me to quote Proverbs 31:26?" The Dutch woman was still in the middle of Corinthians and tried hurriedly to get relocated. But the judge had already started. "She openeth her mouth with wisdom," he read solemnly, "and her tongue is the law of kindness."

Quite uninfluenced by the judge's come-back, the defendant picked a verbal missile from Genesis. "And thy desire shall be to thy husband and he shall rule over thee," she declared emphatically, only to follow that up with half a dozen quotations so rapidly that the judge found it impossible to speak a word. But courts have ways of their own. Seeing he couldn't hope to outquote his antagonist, especially since she betrayed no great aptitude for standing by her plea that women should keep silence before the community, the judge finally found an opportunity to announce he would deliver his verdict by writing.

Blackbirds Enrage New York Village

Olean, N. Y.—Four and plenty blackbirds are making a most unpalatable dish for the villagers of Gowanda. No one can sleep since thousands of the birds descended on the hamlet in northwestern Cattaraugus county. And now their chattering is being punctuated by the firing of shotgun shells, especially devised to make the most noise possible. The exasperated villagers appealed to the local officials who in turn appealed to the bureau of biological survey in Washington. The prescription it furnished was to this effect: Take shotguns, load with shells making loud reports, and open fire when the birds first appear in the evening. They are then most easily frightened. Repeat dose every night until the birds move on.

Killed Wrong Woman

Tokyo.—Intending to kill his wife a 60-year-old resident of Otomachi, a village near Tokyo, sharpened up his knife and waited at his gateway for the woman to return home. A neighbor's wife, who happened to drop in, got the knife instead. The would-be wife slayer explained to the police that he had simply made a mistake, taking the other woman for his wife, but, according to the vernacular press, "the police deemed this excuse insufficient" and put the man under arrest.

BRITISH WARSHIPS PUZZLE THE EXPERT

No Protective Armor Seen; Guns Concentrated.

Washington.—Possessing as they do many characteristics not found in any other capital ships afloat, the new British dreadnaughts Nelson and Rodney are being studied by naval constructors in an effort to determine what effect they should have upon the designs of the replacement battleships to be built under the terms of the Washington naval treaty, beginning in 1931. These vessels embody the lessons the British learned from the naval conflicts in the World war, and naturally their plans are carefully guarded by the British admiralty. However, it is known that in many respects their design is a distinct departure from the dreadnaughts which preceded them.

One of the most noticeable changes, and one puzzling naval officers most, is the absence of any signs of protective armor on the hull. These officers have about reached the conclusion that the main hull of the ship is inside the shell plating, and that attached to it is the heavy armor these ships carry.

Protection Against Torpedoes.

This conclusion is predicated upon the known theory of British naval constructors that a torpedo should not first strike the major hull of the ship. It was because of this that the British adopted the blister as a protection to the main hull in its older craft. Torpedo protection for American battleships is furnished in a series of hulls within hulls with short spaced bulkheads to enable the ship to keep afloat.

The belief that the armor on the Nelson and Rodney is placed on an inner hull is further strengthened by the appearance of a series of plates placed along the hulls of the ships near the water line. Those studying the vessels conclude that these plates cover holes in the outer hull and are merely bolted on, with the idea that if a torpedo found its mark the destructive gases from the explosion would force off the plates, and thus find their escape before seriously damaging the inner hull.

Another decided change of design in the British ships is that of placing all of the big guns forward instead of distributing them forward and aft, as heretofore. By thus concentrating the main magazines in a single section of the ship greater armor protection can be given them. This is an important matter, as a single shell finding the magazine room would destroy the craft.

All of the big guns—nine 16-inch rifles—have full range on either broadside, but only six can be trained dead ahead, as those in the third turret are below the superimposed middle turret. Of course there can be no big gun fire astern.

Elevation of 6-Inch Guns.

Still another departure from the conventional design is the placing of all of the secondary-defense rifles—6-inch guns—near the stern and the mounting of them in turrets which enable them to attain an elevation of 70 degrees, with a consequently increased range.

There are three of these turrets on each side of the ship and each mounts two 6-inch rifles. This gives a fire of six guns on either broadside, with an astern fire of four on each side, as the middle turret is raised above the other two.

In these ships the British have abolished the forward mast, with the bridge in front, and have replaced it with a castelle-like structure within which are the several navigating bridges and on top of which is placed the fire control station.

This arrangement adds to the extremely odd-looking appearance of the Nelson and Rodney. Astern is the usual tripod mast with a single bulgy squat smoke funnel between the mast and the huge castle, which is located aft of amidships.

Since the Nelson and Rodney have a speed of twenty-three knots, greater than that of other dreadnaughts, other nations in their replacement program undoubtedly will design craft of as great a speed.

The British ships also are longer than any other battleships, measuring 735 feet, which is more than 100 feet longer than any American battleship.

BUILD CATHEDRAL BY NEW METHODS

Cutting Stone for Great Structure in Washington.

Washington.—Modern machinery is proving a valuable aid to the ancient art of the mason in the construction of the national cathedral on Mount St. Albans here. The Protestant Episcopal Cathedral foundation expects the building will be completed within the next five years. It will be a massive Gothic structure comparable to the finest of the cathedrals of Europe. Generations of artisans toiled on such edifices in the Middle ages, but this one is being manufactured speedily.

In a stone cutting plant purposely established at Bethesda, Md., 45 tons of stone are produced daily from large blocks of Indiana limestone. The stone is cut, planed and shaped at the plant, then transported to the cathedral site, where master masons fit them together like pieces in a gigantic jig-saw puzzle. The stones for Solomon's temple likewise were prepared for the masons away from the temple site. But Solomon's wisdom did not furnish the machinery and mass production methods which are expediting the work on Mount St. Albans. The 100 men employed in the Bethesda plant cut more stone every three weeks than the same number of skilled men could cut by hand in a year. The work of the master masons, however, is much at it was in Solomon's time. Four drafting and five mechanical operations are required for the production of each stone. After the architect determines the specific shape and dimensions it is given a number. A full-size drawing is prepared by the architects and a zinc pattern for each stone made at the cutting plant. A gang saw which cuts by exerting pressure on particles of crushed steel.

AUTUMN'S FASHION PROGRAM PRONOUNCES SWAGGER FUR MODES

AS TO daring originality, modern peltry is establishing a record. No one, after surveying advance autumn styles, can ever rightfully accuse the furrier as lacking in imagination. Catskin transformed into coats of compelling beauty, lambskin shaved until it is as supple as velvet, zebra stripes and leopard spots conjured into artful design. Insets of contrasting furs, pelts dyed with baffling camouflage, thus does a master cunningly manipulate fashionable furs. As an example of true artistry in peltry there's this remarkable coat which pretty Barbara Kent of film fame is wearing in the accompanying picture. Tan pony with red leather trimmings, could a handsomer combination be devised? Well, no newspaper portrait can do this coat justice, its coloring is too vibrant to be told in printer's ink. This is only one of countless just such swagger effects as the autumn modes are introducing. A startling effect is achieved in a white caracul spotted with great dabs of black. This same is collared and cuffed with showy white fox. With white kid footwear, white felt hat, and a white leather gardenia cuddled in the fur, the ensemble spells enchantment. Then there are the new fanciful two-toned effects. Tan caracul made up with godels of a darker shade, is highlighted in the new fashions. Beige flat furs with black caracul will be outstanding this fall. When the football season starts in it will be worth the price of admission, just to get a close-up view of the ravishing coats which will grace the scene. East Rahway School Is Rejected At Election

Voters Again Turn Down Proposition By a Two To One Vote—Total of 546 Ballots Cast

The proposition of a school for East Rahway in the near future has faded with the defeating of that project by the voters of the Borough at a special election, held in the High School yesterday.

The special election was called for the voters approval of four resolutions, relating to the purchase of a site and erection of a school in East Rahway and the means of raising the necessary moneys.

Plans for the proposed school were prepared by F. F. Simons according to the wishes of members of the board and the people of East Rahway. The modification of the plans and the authorization of a second election came about on the petition of East Rahway citizens.

After the rejection of the first proposition much criticism, that the school was too costly, was heard, and the members of the Board felt that the reduction of $30,000 in the cost would appeal to the voters.

Mr. L. Schwartz, member of the Board bitterly opposed the school proposition since it was first brought up and argued against it in the Board rooms and on the street.

The four resolutions embodied in the ballot were voted as follows: The purchase of a site of sixteen lots in the tract of the Carteret Heights Realty Company, for the sum of $2,500, was turned down by a vote of 296 no; and 133, yes.

The second on the ballot was: Should the Board of Education cause to be constructed a school in East Rahway, for a sum not to exceed $50,000. This was defeated by a still larger majority, 128 votes were cast against it and 301 for it.

The other two resolutions, one for the issuance of bonds to cover the cost of the site and building of the school were voted down by a vote of 299 to 129. The question as to the maturity of the bonds received 123 votes in favor and 278 votes against the plan proposed on the ballot.

According to a statement issued by one of the leaders of the East Rahway section, the people are disappointed on the outcome of the election, but not discouraged. They feel that they are entitled to a school and they mean to keep fighting for a school until they get it.

FORMER RESIDENT PLAYS PART OF HERO IN CHASE

Thomas F. Noel, No. 2 Oldtown road, in the ancient role of the fu-Schultz, 542 North Centre street, Baltimore, Md., formerly of this Boro, a machine shop employee of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, as the hero gave the late afternoon shoppers on Baltimore and Liberty streets a thrill when they staged a brief but stirring police drama while scores looked on.

Sprinting down Liberty street with City Police Officer William J. Cubbage in hot pursuit, Noel attempted to cross Baltimore street when, attracted by the shouts of Cubbage to "Stop that man", Schultz harkened back to his football days and brought the speeding fugitive to the pavement in front of the Second National Bank with a flying tackle that shook the sidewalk as the bystanders cheered.

Noel had just had a hearing before Judge Oliver H. Bruce in police court in the City Hall on a disorderly conduct charge and sentenced to twenty days in jail in default of a twenty-dollar alternate fine. Officer Cubbage was escorting him to the city jail and since Noel had seemed docile enough, had spared him the indignity of handcuffs. Though he promised to come along quietly, Noel had other plans.

Crossing the City Hall Plaza, Noel suddenly wrenched free of Cubbage's grasp and made his dash for liberty. Cubbage started in pursuit, but Noel had timed his break well and was fast.

After Schultz had turned Noel back over to Cubbage, he was taken back to the station house where not content with previous indiscretions, his actions landed him back in Police Court again, where he was held in $500 bond on a charge of destruction of city property.

The action was brought on a note which Schweitzer gave to Shuttello and endorsed by Gural, a local butcher. Mr. Eugene M. Clark was a witness in the case and testified as to the signature and protest of the note.

Harold G. Hoffman Endorses Raritan Automobile Club

Hon. Harold G. Hoffman, who represents the 3rd District of New Jersey in the United States congress, the youngest congressman ever elected from the Garden state, and the youngest save one in the present House of Representatives at Washington, is an ardent advocate of the Raritan Automobile Club in which body he is actively interested as a vice president.

Mr. Hoffman reminds us that "Summer's passing by no means should be allowed to lull the motorist into the belief that the touring season has passed. If the return of the busy period has brought an end to all prospects for the long motor trip, it has not diminished the opportunity for many short healthful, zestful journeys". He points out that Fall touring, in its way, is just as delightful as the Summer variety.

"The passing of Summer usually mean the return of the professional and business man, the skilled and unskilled worker to the grind of office or shop" the Congressman goes on to say. "The tendency is to throw oneself into the old routine with an intensity that soon means a mental or physical exhaustion that will be relieved by utilizing one's spare time in the delights of motor travel.

"These trips, of course, will not be so long as those of the Summer. They may be more varied, however, and will offer sufficient change of scene to enable one to go back to work afterward in an entirely new and bettered frame of mind.

"Fall weather is cool and crisp and in many ways is superior to that of Summer for touring. There is a zest about gliding through the country that always is more rich in coloring during the Autumn than at any other season of the year. "The Raritan Automobile Club, and others of the 930 that are affiliated with the A. A. A. expects to serve hundreds of thousands of motorists who want maps and other touring information, for both long and short Autumn trips.

"The season has so many delights that no one with a motor car well can afford to miss. The pleasure of touring is at all times so enhanced by membership in the Club that no car owner can longer afford to withhold his application.

PROMINENT MAN HELD ON CHARGE

Soren Koed is Arrested Here on Charges of Atrocious Assault. Under Bail

A warrant, for the arrest of Soren Koed, retired building contractor and bank director, of Emerson street, charged with atrocious assault and battery was issued by Justice of the Peace, Charles W. Sedam, of New Brunswick. Charges were preferred by Charles Ohlott, of 591 Roosevelt avenue.

The warrant was turned over to the local police authorities and served on Koed yesterday. A bond of $2,000 was furnished.

According to the complaint of Mr. Ohlott, Koed attacked him while in the office of the First National Bank on the afternoon of September 21, without warning or any chance to protect himself. It is alleged that an emblem ring worn by Koed caused a deep cut under the right eye of Ohlott.

The matter was brought up in the local police court several days ago, but at that time the charges were dropped by Ohlott. The case will be brought up more than likely before the grand jury.

JUNIOR HADASSAH MEET PLAN FANCY DRESS BALL

The opening meeting for the ensuing year of the local chapter of Junior Hadassah was held last Thursday evening in the Carteret Synagogue with Miss Rose Glass presiding.

This organization meets twice monthly and its aim is to raise money for the support of the educational institutions in Palestine which accommodates girls and boys, many of whom are orphans. It also provides a cultural program for its members so as to give them a real understanding of Jewish history and literature. A social hour always follows the meetings.

Plans were made to hold a fancy dress dance, Sunday evening, October 30. Invitations will be out shortly. Miss Sadie Ulman was named chairman of the affair. Subcommittees were appointed as follows: Refreshments, Lillian Brown; decorations, Diana Abrams; entertainment, Martha Rosenblum; music and invitations, Mildred Brown.

$10,000 Machine Installed

Fully installed and ready for operation a huge mangle or ironing machine will increase the output of the Roosevelt Laundry and add a service to the housewives of Carteret relieving them of practically all washing and ironing.

This is just another step in the advance toward a greater success of the firm of Fisher & Brown, who started with a capital investment of about $500 and today, after five years' boast of a staff of workers of thirty people.

The new department that will open this week will employ an additional staff of about 10 girls. Driers have also been installed and all flat ironing can now be done on the premises.

CARD PARTY

A card party will be held at Fire House No. 1 on Wednesday evening, October 5th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Democratic Organization. Mrs. J. Ruckreigle heads the committee to arrange the affair. Refreshments will be served.

A large gathering is looked forward to as the social functions run by the organization are always a popular event.

LEGIONAIRES RETURN

Members of Roosevelt Post No. 263 of the American Legion, who visited the international convention in Paris, France, for the past three weeks are on the high seas returning home.

Announcement of Showing of "The Big Parade" Excites Much Interest

"The Big Parade", which has been rightly called the biggest picture in screen history, has been eagerly awaited in this city. King Vidor's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Laurence Stallings' story, is coming to the Ritz theatre next Monday, October 3rd, for a run of four days.

Briefly the story of "The Big Parade" centers in Jim Apperson, a typical fun-loving American and much like every other rich man's son. In the spring of 1917, fired by a new patriotism he enlists and departs for service in France. The succeeding scenes show Jim and his two buddies; Bull, a former Bowery bartender, and Slim, an ex-riveter, and their life in the doughboys' billets in rural France. Mr. Stallings is said to have created a trio as original as Kipling's "Soldiers There."

And then Jim meets Melisande—as played by Rene Adoree—and forgets about his American sweetheart. This little French girl in her womanly sabots and milkmaid garb is a figure of high romance. Some of the most touching scenes ever filmed are those of the lovemaking of Jim and Melisande. Then comes the advance to the front and the lovers are separated. Vital moments of drama are shown in the advance through the forest, the attack on the French village, the trenches, shell-holes, machine gun nests, the wounding of Jim and the final fight for his two pals. Then home again and the reconstruction period when the two lovers are reunited. Realism dominates every scene. Supporting John Gilbert are such sterling players as Renee Adoree, Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Hobart Bosworth, Claire Adams, Claire McDowell, Rosita Marstini and Robert Ober.

VICTIMS REPORT HOLD-UP CASES

Two Cases Reported to the Local Police Authorities During Past Week—Loot Small

Abe Cuzker, of 116 Emerson street, reported to the police Saturday night that while storing his car in a garage on Blanchard street after the close of business, he was accosted by two men and robbed of $39.

The garage is only a stone's throw from police headquarters, but a search of the vicinity failed to disclose any trace of suspicious persons. The police later, however, made an arrest in connection with the hold-up but are continuing an investigation with the hope of rounding up all of the guilty persons.

A young man was arrested after his companion had left town, but no information could be obtained from the lad to confirm the suspicions of the police.

Cuzker is a manager in an A. and P. store in this borough and had closed his store Saturday evening and was placing his car in the garage about 11:30 o'clock. He was confronted by the two hold-up men who wore handkerchiefs on their faces to hide their identity and one of them had his coat turned inside out.

Michael Horwath, of 47 John street, reported to the police early Sunday morning that while he was walking in East Rahway with a friend about 12:30 o'clock on his way to the Perth Amboy Hospital to see his wife, two men stopped and offered them a ride to Perth Amboy for $1 each. The two got in the car and were taken out to Blair road. Horwath said the two men stopped the machine and robbed him of $11. He said he jumped out of the car and did not know what happened to his friend.

He ran back towards Carteret, but apparently lost himself in the thick woods and it was 2 o'clock in the morning when he walked into police headquarters and told his story. He was crying and sobbed out the details of the hold-up to the police, who at first were inclined to disbelieve Horwath, because of his condition. They are investigating. Horwath could not tell the name of his companion.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Enot spent Wednesday evening and witnessed a theatre performance.

Mr. S. Edmonds and family together with a party of friends visited the Trenton State Fair.

Dr. M. Goodman spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Newark visiting his parents.

EAST RAHWAY ROAD NEAR COMPLETION

Only 1/8th Mile Left to Complete Stretch. Will Be Opened to Traffic in Two Weeks

Motorists will be pleased to hear that the stretch of road under construction in East Rahway is rapidly nearing completion. The road has been completely closed to traffic for the past two weeks and the detour around the borough by way of Blair is not in any too good a condition, many motorists preferring to get to Elizabeth and Rahway by way of Woodbridge.

It is estimated that the final work on the road will be done tomorrow and it will be another ten days or two weeks before the road will be opened to traffic.

The new road extends from Brady's corner to the Central R. R. tracks in East Rahway, the balance of the new road contracted for will extend to a point about where Lyseks' garage is located. But according to reports this piece from the tracks to Lyseks will not be started until the sewer is laid.

CORPORATION FILE PAPERS IN COUNTY SEAT

Papers have been filed in the office of the County Clerk at New Brunswick, N. J. and with the Secretary of State in Trenton incorporating the United States Bankers Securities Corporation.

The incorporators consist of men of Carteret, namely Thomas D. Cheret, William J. Lawlor, Samuel Schwartz, Maxwell Sosin and Herman Sloan of Ford, N. J. The location of the principal office in this state is at 72 Roosevelt avenue, Carteret.

The object as set forth in the certificate of incorporation are for the purpose of buying, dealing and selling in bank stocks, bonds, mortgages and other securities of a public or private nature and to negotiate loans and acquire investments.

The capital stock consists of five thousand (5000) shares of no par value and the incorporators have each taken five hundred shares apiece. The charter also states that the existence shall be perpetual.

It has been rumored that men of wealth are behind this new company and that the firm will buy and sell mostly shares of banks and insurance companies.

Although many inquiries were made concerning stock in the new company neither of the incorporators would give out any details.

New Public Service Plant

Arrangements have just been completed whereby Public Service Electric and Gas Company will obtain an additional 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day from a plant to be erected near New Brunswick which will produce gas by an entirely new type of apparatus using the low temperature carbonization principle.

The plant which will be built by the International Combustion Engineering Corporation in Raritan Township two miles east of Highland Park, will be the first of its kind in this country and the second in the world. The only other similar plant in operation is at Easton, Germany.

Public Service will take the entire gas output of the plant and will build its own pumping station and a storage holder with a capacity of 500,000 cubic feet. In addition to the gas, which is a by-product, the plant will produce coal tar and crude motor spirits, as well as other by-products for commercial use.

In the new application of the low temperature carbonization process, coal is treated in revolving steel drums, one fitted into the other. They are externally heated with a maximum temperature of 1100 degrees Fahrenheit, whereas the temperature necessary in the coal gas plants is 2800 degrees.

Public Service now produces gas from twelve plants with an average output of 80,000,000 cubic feet a day and a maximum capacity of 110,000,000 cubic feet.

93 EMERSON STREET

Harold Mauter, twenty-three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Mauter, of 42 Fitch street, this place, died at the Somerset Hospital in Somerville at 7:10 o'clock this morning from injuries received early Monday when his car turned over, after having been struck by a car driven by Walter Dougherty, of 40 Hawthorne street, Newark, at North Branch, near Somerville.

The state police say that Mauter was alone in the car at the time of the accident. Dougherty in pulling out from behind the bus crashed head-on into Mauter's machine. The terrific impact caused the Mauter car to turn over twice, pinning him under the vehicle. Mauter died ten minutes after being brought to the hospital.

An investigation into the tragedy was made at once by the state police at Somerville. Dougherty was questioned and released under bond on a technical charge of manslaughter. Dougherty struck the car of Mauter when he pulled out from behind a bus.

Police at first encountered difficulty in determining who the victim was. The drivers' license carried by the dead man was made out to Harold. Several letters addressed to Max L. Mauter were found at the scene of the crash caused indecision as to the identification.

At the time of the unfortunate accident, Mauter was returning to Trenton, where he was employed as an engineer, after a visit here with his parents. He was a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Funeral services were held late Monday. The body was brought from Somerville by Joseph Polkowitz, undertaker of Perth Amboy, and within a few hours arrangements for the funeral were completed.

Interment took place in the Hebrew Fraternity cemetery, where Masonic services were conducted, the deceased being a member of that lodge.

Mauter is survived by a father and mother, one brother and two sisters.

Doctor Dresses Own Injuries, Saves Baby

New York.—Diphtheria of the larynx threatened to choke the life out of June, the baby daughter of Policeman Hugo G. Geisels, Miplexwood, N. J.

An immediate operation, known as "intubation" was all that could save her; Dr. D. J. Foin, ten miles away, started to Jane's bedside in an ambulance, with Miss Marion Ratzel, a nurse, and Gustave Schmidt, driver. Another vehicle cut across Schmidt's course. The ambulance swerved and crashed into a steel trolley pole, a complete wreck. Its occupants were severely cut and battered.

The young physician, nevertheless, applied emergency dressing to his companions' injuries and his own, then commanded an automobile, which rushed him and the nurse to the Geisels home. He and Doctor Demarest successfully operated on the baby.

Must Support Your Poor Relatives, Says Judge

Chicago.—If there is a child, an aged person or a cripple in your family, you may find yourself compelled by law to support him.

That was announced by County Judge Edmund K. Jarocki, before whom all cases of indigent persons are brought for commitment to charitable institutions.

And the order in which relatives are liable for the support of poor relatives is:

First, the father must support a child. If he is unable, then the grandfather; third, the mother, and then the grandmother.

In the case of aged or infirm men or women, their children, if they have any, must pay for their keep. If not, a brother must foot the bills, and, if they are without brothers, their sisters are responsible, providing they are unmarried. If they are married and have no separate property, then—and only then—are the coffers of Cook county open to them for food and shelter.

"Hereafter when a person applies to this court for charity we shall call every relative he has to determine whether they can take care of him," Judge Jarocki said.

And in accordance with his new regulation he ordered a grandfather and a brother to support two persons applying for charity.

TO CONNECT U. S. AND MEXICO BY TELEPHONE

It is announced by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation that telephone communication between the United States and several of the principal cities of Mexico will be opened Friday morning, September 30th, at eight o'clock.

This new service will bring Mexico's capital city, her principal seaport, Tampico, and the capitals of some of her richest and most progressive states within the range of American telephone communication.

The Bell system has made arrangements to connect at Laredo, Texas, with the newly-completed lines of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation.

From Nuevo Laredo, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, the long distance line runs through some arid regions and through mountainous mining districts, ranches, and farming country, southward to Mexico City and Puebla.

The Mexican long distance lines have practically all been built within the last year or two and are of thoroughly modern construction.

The Bell System already connects with the telephone systems of Canada, Cuba and (by radio telephone) Great Britain.

The rate of Mexico City from some of the larger municipalities in northern New Jersey is as follows: Newark—$13.40. Paterson—$13.50. Jersey City—$13.55. Elizabeth—$13.40. Plainfield—$13.40.

Announcement of the election of C. F. Brisbin of Philadelphia as Vice President in charge of Public Relations and Personnel of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company was made Thursday following a meeting of the company's Board of Directors.

Mr. Brisbin has had many years of experience in the telephone business and is widely known both in and out of telephone circles, particularly in southern New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

COLORFUL VELVET CHAPEAUX EXPRESS MIDSEASON CHIC

VELVET is apparently going to have a marked influence on the new season's millinery. Even now women of smart fashion are choosing cunning velvet models for midseason wear.

At last, judging from the "advance guard" of millinery for fall, we are going to have some hats that are really different, so that when we go strolling down the street we are not going to have the feeling that every other hat we come face to face with is first cousin to the one we have on.

Interesting variety is achieved in a number of different ways. Just take a look at the upper left hat which comes from the studios of the famous French creator, Madame Agnes. She deftly takes two strips of harmonizing velvet in the colors of wild rose and siltine, cuts them with large saw-tooth edges which just match when sewn together; and then shirrs these joinings so that when pressed down they give the exact effect of crushed roses.

Warning

Never be an unexpected guest to be taken home to dinner by the husband if you can help it. Every wife likes at least an hour's warning.

Then the hat in the center introduces a new idea which comes from the clever fingers of Ellaine. This is of "buccaneer" red velvet which is very finely stitched in unique diamond and diagonal patterns.

In the hat at the upper right Ellaine gives us a sample of entirely different type of stitching and shirring in a hat which is more formal and made of silk velvet in the color called "Mother Goose." The unique shirring effect is carried on to the crown tip; and as this hat is worn well down on the neck and tipped back, it gives a very interesting effect.

Madame Georgette gives a touch of something different again in the hat at the lower left, which is along cloche lines of black velvet with an applique design of white appearing all over it and worked under the softly folded portions.

At the lower right Germaine-Page introduces a decorative note on a cloche of navy-blue velvet with a celture of camellias of glacier-blue velvet which are held down flat with a tiny nose-veil of double coarse mesh.

TREASURE IS FOUND BY INDIAN'S DREAM

Ancient Pagan Temple in Mexican Wilds Revealed.

Mexico City.—A dream-guided search for treasure by the descendants of an ancient chieftain who fought against Cortez has ended most amazingly in the discovery of one of the most splendid temples yet known of the pagan gods of pre-Hispanic Mexico, dedicated to Camaxtli, the chief god of the Tlaxcala nation before the conquest.

Dr. Eduardo Noguera, inspector of the department of archeology of the ministry of education, investigated the discovery at Tizatlan for the Mexican government and conducted systematic excavations there. He states that the Indians of the town claim that one of their number, Panfilo Sanchez, is a descendant of Xicotencatl, former lord of Tizatlan and one of the rulers of the Tlaxcala nation and a bitter adversary of Cortez.

Other Indians, believing in the vision, went with Panfilo to the designated spot to dig. They came upon prehistoric ruins and in their thirst for treasure cleared away a large amount of earth in two weeks. Walls of a temple and beautiful polychrome frescoes appeared, and the fame of the discovery spread throughout the state of Tlaxcala and into Mexico City.

The temple remains are on the crest of a hill overlooking the Indian village of Tizatlan and are under the ruins of an old Christian church believed to have been built by Cortez after the destruction of the heathen temple more than 400 years ago.

The ruins belong to the Aztec culture. Dr. Reygadas Vertiz, director of the ministry of education, says that the find is one of the most important of recent times because the building contains polychrome fresco paintings considered to be real codices, or historical records in symbolic picture form. The picture writings may form an important link in piecing together the story of Mexico before the discovery of America.

True codices are found on very few Aztec ruins, Doctor Reygadas says. Most of the codices now in existence are on maguey paper, made from the fiber of a common Mexican plant, and are in European museums. Even of these but few are left, because the conquerors and the missionaries who followed them destroyed all the temples, idols and written records of the native races in their zeal to convert them to Christianity.

MUSEUMS.

Colored Symbols Unearthed. A floor about eighteen feet wide and thirty-seven feet long has now been excavated, and the rectangular space was found to be perfectly oriented with the cardinal points. On this space stand two raised stone platforms, both beautifully ornamented with brilliantly colored symbols.

On the short vertical ends of the platforms are canals that divide the walls into two equal parts. Because of the constant repetition of the death sign and the water sign, which in this case could also be interpreted as the blood sign, it is believed that these slabs were sacrificial altars and that the canals served to lead away the blood. The most beautiful figure on the frescoes is that of the god Camaxtli, and for that reason it is believed that the temple was built in his honor.

Petting Place Was Poison Ivy Garden

St. Paul, Minn.—This is the sorrowful tale that is whispered wherever summer session students gather on the Minnesota university campus.

Two romantic young things, the boy about twenty and the girl not more than eighteen, came down from the northern part of Minnesota where vines are vines and not poison ivy.

Before the advent of the decorative spotlights there had been plenty of places for a little quiet necking. But all that was changed.

Then one morning he got a bright idea. Every day going to his classes he passed a perfectly luscious looking garden. Cool and green, all vines and ferns, it was inclosed by a high pleket fence. Of course, it had a warning sign on the gate, but then he neither read nor believed in signs.

That very night he mysteriously conducted the girl to the garden. She was charmed with the spot. She told him that she would never forget the night and the garden and, of course, him. And she never will. The following morning both their faces were broken out with a rash that closely resembled that produced by poison ivy. The garden was filled with poisonous plants for the use of the medical students in their research work.

Gambler's Card 6,000 Years Old Is Found

London.—Scraped of the mud of many centuries, a tablet dug up at Ur of the Chaldees reveals a gambler's score card at least 6,000 years old. The tablet with other trophies taken from Ur, 140 miles southeast of Babylon, the birthplace in Mesopotamia of Abraham, is now on exhibit at the British museum where it was brought by C. Leonard Woolley, head of the expedition.

Recognized gamblers of about 4,000 B. C. were honored by a notice on their tombstones immortalizing their achievements. Tablets have been discovered which were used as card tables, and also a number of playing cards. Card sharks trying now to reconstruct the game as it was played by the ancients have concluded that some of the plays approximated the "red and black" of the modern roulette table.

Alternate and interfitting triangles were used for the "chances," the colors to be backed being mother of pearl and pure red made from a paste.

SECRET OF POPULARITY.

Many folks, particularly young people of reserved natures, worry because they are not "popular". They envy folks who always have admirers and friends. Many people of superior intellect look down on popularity. They feel it shows a too easy-going nature. They hold that if a person is to live sincerely and do his duty, he must often antagonize others, and make himself exceedingly unpopular.

Popularity comes in different ways. In the old days of free liquor a lot of people acquired popularity by the freedom with which they "set 'em up". This was the basis on which many politicians got their start. They were always ready to line up their friends in front of the brass rail and have several rounds "on me". Many people win popularity by free spending, by living extravagantly and scattering cash in all directions.

On the other hand many people acquire popularity by devoting themselves to some public cause. College boys who carry on student activities, usually acquire popularity. They are entitled to it because they have to devote much time to maintaining the reputation of their institution.

Similarly in community life. Many people acquire popularity just by giving a great deal of effort to public activities, often more than superior persons who criticize them are willing to devote to such causes. Many people acquire popularity by the friendly interest they show everybody, by a winsome smile and cordial manner.

People who live self-absorbed lives are not popular and do not deserve to be. Any person can acquire a certain measure of popularity by manifesting interest and doing helpful things for others and performing service for the community.

WHAT IS YOUR POSITION?

You are a booster or a knocker, there is no middle ground; to which class do you belong?

The man who does the most good for his home city is not always the man who receives the most credit. There are plenty of true boosters who not only do not allow the opportunity to pass to say a good word or do some act for the betterment of his home, but create opportunities to do so. He is the citizen of whom every one is proud, with like individuals the situation is created whereby it is possible that some other good citizen who has done so much work will come along and reap the benefit of the work of the others. The real honest to goodness booster is not jealous when the other is given credit, he gets his reward in the consciousness of having benefited the city.

Because one does not knock his home town, does nothing as a matter of fact one way or the other, will not relieve him of the charge of a knocker. Not to take an affirmative position in matters of interest to the city, and there are always matters of interest, places one on the negative side. There is absolutely no way in which to remain neutral, for if that position is attempted, there will necessarily be many who will construe it as being opposed to any proposition, and with the construction goes the influence.

Be a real booster and let your position be so certain that those who run may read.

A JUDICIAL WEAKNESS.

One of the most glaring weaknesses of the American civil court system is the ease with which persons of ulterior, often criminal, motives can institute suits for damages on any and no grounds. Persons in public life, or whose livelihood depends upon public esteem, are times without number blackmailed by the unscrupulous. If they refuse to "come across" they are sued and allegations are made that, however groundless they later turn out to be, lowers public respect for them.

Once in a while, of course, suits for personal or other damages are well-founded but to each case of this kind that comes to trial, courts and juries waste endless days struggling with cases that have no basis in anything except avariciousness. It is a regrettable condition, but one for which no remedy has ever been advanced.

Citizen Conferences Will Bring International Amity and Understanding

By DR. HARRY A. GARFIELD, Institute of Politics.

International amity and understanding depend on an enlightened citizenry rather than a revised government.

Why not stop tinkering with the machinery of government, when, by the simple device of citizen conferences we may accomplish all that is really desirable?

Conference, the educational method, is the most potent method the citizen can employ, because it dispels ignorance and drives out fear.

Six such conferences now exist in America to consider world problems and conditions. They are the Institute of Pacific Relations; the Institute of Politics in Chicago; a study of international politics at the University of California; a similar study at the University of Georgia, and a study of economic and social problems at the University of Virginia.

Each seeks to understand aims or ambitions, the needs and desires of peoples of different nations.

VIOLET RAYS GOOD FOR SICK MONKEYS

Valuable Zoo Animals Are Restored to Health.

New York.—How ultraviolet radiation, used on sick humans, saved the lives of five valuable and desperately ill animals in the New York zoological park is told by Dr. Charles V. Noback of the department of comparative medicine.

His furry patients consisted of a red howling monkey, a grivet monkey and three lemurs, which are small animals belonging to the same order as monkeys but lower in the evolutionary scale.

They are all expensive animals and their threatened death from "cage paralysis," which is a disease very similar to rickets in human beings, was regarded by the zoo authorities as a genuine calamity. When they had reached a state in which they refused all food and could hardly move, Doctor Noback was called in.

The helplessness of the animals at the outset simplified the treatment. Doctor Noback simply placed his quartz-tube mercury vapor lamp behind their bowed and immobile backs and turned on the current, without needing to tie or constrain them in any way.

The treatment was kept up for a month in the case of the red howling monkey, and from three to four weeks with the others. In all cases the stiffness and decrepitude that mark the disease in its extreme stages soon disappeared, the eyes became bright again, the hair glossy and the patients displayed a manifest renewal of their interest in food.

Doctor Noback notes that the doses of the rays to which he subjected the hair-covered skins of his animals were much more intense than those intended for the bare skin of a human being. For this reason he had to be careful about hairless and nonpigmented areas, such as the region around the eyes, to avoid producing severe sunburn.

Sweets Growing More Popular in America

Washington.—Fathers and mothers seem to be getting more indulgent in the United States, or else the fathers and mothers themselves are consuming more candy, chewing gum and ice cream, because the production of these three children's favorites is setting new altitude records nearly every year. The Commerce department's census of manufactures discloses tremendous increases which small boys will find hard to believe. Comparing 1914 figures with those for 1925, the following was set forth:

The nation now produces $47,838,000 worth of chewing gum, compared with the pre-war figure of $17,000,000, and the product still sells for a nickel a package.

The ice cream bill is $288,175,086 a year, compared with $55,953,133 in 1914.

Candy costs $370,081,411, compared with $183,685,523 in 1914.

This present bill of $700,000,000 or more—about $85 annually per small boy—if small boys got all of it—doesn't represent all the money spent by dad and sister's shelf, either, for these figures are wholesale prices.

Retail prices will boost these three industries into the $1,000,000,000-a-year figure, experts believe.

The increases are variously attributed to prohibition, advertising, increasing export trade, and the attempt of the factories to catch up with the appetites of small boys and high school girls.

Better Than Chimes

Seattle, Wash.—An offer to buy chimes for a large church being finished here was turned down by its pastor, who replied that bells are out of date. A well-planned newspaper advertisement announcing the Sunday features, he contends, will draw more folks to church than noisy chimes and at the same time not disturb those who habitually sleep late on the Sabbath.

Why the Big Stamps Are Not Very Popular

New York.—Refusal of the public to expend the energy and time needed to moisten and affix a large stamp is given by post-office officials as one reason for the falling off in the demand for the new 2-cent stamps celebrating the surrender of General Burgoyne.

Sales of the Burgoyne stamp, together with a stamp commemorating the battle of Bellington, have fallen off since they first went before the public on August 5. The Bellington stamp is of ordinary size, while the Burgoyne stamp is oblong, the shape of the special delivery stamp. The drop in demand for the Burgoyne issue has been more marked than that for the Bellington.

"Professional and amateur collectors and dealers bought both in large quantities in the first week," said Edward P. Russell, cashier of the post office. "Then the demand fell off. Business houses do not like to buy large stamps because of the extra work involved in stamping letters."

"BLOOD MONEY" SHOWING AT HUDSON THEATRE

"Blood Money" the mystery melodrama which is now in its third month at the Hudson Theatre, New York, presents an exciting train of incidents which quite live up to the implications of its fascinating criminal title. The money in question is a nice cool hundred thousand in clean, crisp yellowbacks, reposing in a strong brown envelope, in the desk where Senator Bolton was sitting when he died.

Based on a story by H. H. Van Loan, "Blood Money" has been skillfully written for stage purposes by George Middleton the distinguished dramatist. To further the realism Mrs. Henry B. Harris has given the play handsome substantial settings, and cast it with actors of such excellence as to increase the guess-work which is the life of every successful mystery melodrama.

As a mystery play with new angles to be secret must be respected, but to suggest the type of drama, it is proper to state, that after the Senator's death his older son James decides to drop out of sight, and his secretary Julia Jones receives a confusing visit from a mysterious couple with glib tongues and many lies. They are after the money, but the secretary is a shrewd girl and the matching of wits begins. In fact the realism of the entire play is so intense, and the story so absorbing, that one leaves the theatre with the exhaustion of having been through some really vital moments, with the satisfaction of seeing just deserts properly allotted to everyone.

The carefully selected cast is headed by Phyllis Povah who is splendid as the secretary. Never has there been finer legitimate acting in melodrama. And ably matching her work, John Marston as the Senator's son gives a performance unmatched for manliness and sincerity. Beatrice Nichols and Malcolm Duncan play the blackmailers unflinchingly, while Harold de Becker added another of his fine oriental portraits as an indifferent cabin boy. Reginald Barlow made the Captain of the yacht a distinct individual and John Seymour played his emotional scene with intensity and directness. Completing the fine cast Kate McComb, Robert Brister and Charles E. Bird gave convincing performances. Altogether "Blood Money" is the best melodrama of the new season and sets a standard of intelligent interest and excitement which is indeed hard to surpass.

Flying Kitten Has Its Own Parachute

Pittsburgh.—Birdie, the flying kitten mascot of Kenneth Curley Lovejoy, air mail pilot, never goes up for a flight without her own little parachute.

Birdie is a general favorite with all the flyers at Bettis field, Pittsburgh's airport. Lovejoy explained that he selected her as a mascot because she had a jet black nose, "and you know that's sure good luck."

The kitten seemed to enjoy her first flight so, Lovejoy decided to take her along regularly. The code of the air, however, calls for all occupants of a ship to have parachutes, and when it's impossible for all to have the safety devices, then no one on the plane wears one.

Lovejoy had his regular parachute, so he decided that Birdie must have one, and he manufactured a small-sized parachute for the kitten. She is taken with the pilot on virtually all of his air voyages, whether with mail or passengers, and on each trip she wears her emergency landing gear strapped to her back.

"We haven't had to jump yet," and the airman, "but when we do, we are going to be all set, and Birdie is going down with me."

There is no difference in principle between Hertzian rays and gamma rays of radium. Hertzian waves are usually polarized and, of course, have a very much greater wave length—furthermore, they arise from mass movements of electricity, while gamma rays arise from vibrations of single electrons.

NEWARK THEATRES

Miner's Empire Theatre.

Born in a dressing room in the old Grand Opera House in Louisville, Billy Gilbert feels that the stage is his natural heritage. His father and mother were both grand opera singers and practically reared Billy behind the footlights. At Miner's Empire Theatre where Gilbert is starring next week commencing Sunday matinee, October 2, in "High Hat Revue" he admitted that like many others he has not always followed the profession to which he was born. "When I was a youngster," said Gilbert, "I took more interest in boxing than I did in acting and made up my mind, early in my stage career, to become a professional fighter. In my ramblings I reached San Francisco and there took up in earnest the business of boxing. 'Fighting Bill' was my ring moniker and my career was diversified. Finally the call of the stage came and I've worked harder to become a successful actor than I ever worked to realize my youthful ambition to become a world's champ."

Week Sunday October 9, "Darktown Scandals."

Broad Street Theatre

Coming to The Broad Street Theatre for the week of October third is "The Silver Cord", a Theatre Guild success, which ran all last season in New York, and called forth the general plaudits of critics and public alike. It's author, Sidney Howard, had the honor of two hits the same season with "The Silver Cord" and "McCobb's Daughter", and is also known for having won the Pulitzer Prize in 1925 with "They Knew What They Wanted".

Laura Hope Crews, whose interpretation of Mrs. Phelps, the leading role of the play, was considered one of the outstanding characterizations of the year, will again head the cast, which will be directed, as originally, by John Cromwell who also presents the piece.

This is one of the few American plays in which The Theatre Guild has been interested, and, as Alexander Woodcott observed in THE WORLD, "Mr. Howard is The Guild's ringing answer to the restive charge that it is not interested in the American playwright. And Burns Mantle declared in THE NEWS—"Hereafter, I'm thinking, when folks talk of the really fine things The Theatre Guild has done, Sidney Howard's "The Silver Cord" will be one of the first of the plays to be mentioned."

The story in brief concerns a mother's unutterably selfish love for her two sons. She resents any intrusion by other women into the hearts of her two big boys, who as she constantly puts it, will ever remain as her babies. So much does she attempt to completely capture her boys' hearts that she finally breaks off an engagement between the younger son and the girl he loves. The older boy, for awhile, weakens and almost leaves his wife, but he is man enough to do the right thing.

Mr. Howard is not too involved in his theme to have his little joke as he goes along and not too rational to eschew melodrama.

"It is the best work of a dramatist who uses his brain muscles in the theatre," said John Anderson in The Post. And Frank Vreeland in The Telegram speaks of it as "a trumpet call to the American family."

Shubert's Theatre

Beginning Monday evening, October 3rd for a one week's engagement the Messrs. Shubert will present the new 1927 Spectacle "Artists and Models", at the Shubert theatre, prior to its New York Winter Garden opening.

An extraordinary all star cast has been engaged to present this new 1927 Series which includes Florence Moore, Jack Pearl, Jack Osterman, Dorothy McNulty, Nitzia Vernille, Jack Squires, Harry O'Neal, Jan Oyra, Catherine Gallimore, Wilfred Seagram, William Davis, Manila Powers, Max Stamm, Nayan Pearce, Frankie Morris, Walter Johnson Veronica, Margie Evans, Gladys Wheaton, Chauncey Parsons, Moon Carroll, Lucille Arnold, Marietta O'Brien Sue Baxter, Charles Colles, Ben Dova, Sylvia Carol and 100 famous models. Harry Akst and Maurice Rubens have written the music for the new revue, and Benny Davis and H. Keirn Brennan, the lyrics. Charles Judels staged the dialogue, Ralph Reader, the dances; ensembles of ballets by Jan Oyra, and the costumes by the Mode Costume Co. The are direction is by Watson Barratt, well known scenic artist.

The new "Artists and Models" is hailed as the most colorful, the most sensational, the most melodious and the most mirthful of the many musical production which have appeared under the Shubert banner in recent years.

Mosque Theatre

The first opportunity to view "Ben-Hur", the magnificent classic of Lew Wallace, comes Saturday, October 1, when the noted motion picture production opens for a week's engagement at the beautiful Mosque Theatre, Newark. "The Show Place of New Jersey". This famous $4,000,000 photoplay, pictured in arrangement with Al Erlinger, C. B. Dillingham and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., is shown in Newark for the first time at popular prices. It was shown there at advance admissions. The Mosque is devoted to seven day showings including Sunday performances.

The novel "Ben-Hur" is sub-titled, "Tale of the Christ". It was the world's most popular book; the stage spectacle toured America for twenty-two years. Now, in the greater art of the motion picture, are offered the famous Sea Fight and Chariot Race as thrilling out-of-doors events; the lovely romance of Judah, Prince of Hur, and Esther, and replicas of Old World masterpieces, often in color. We see the beautiful Procession of Palms; da Vinci's "The Last Supper", a marvelous color replica; "The Pool of Siloam", and the Vale of Hinnom, the Via Dolorosa, the miracle of Christ's healing the mob and Pontius Pilate; the terrific cataclysm of Nature that toppled towers and palaces at the death of the Savior. The final scene with Roman soldiers casting lots for the garments and the women kneeling at the foot of the Crosses is said to be the most reverent and beautiful ever staged.

"Ben-Hur" is presented with a magnificent cast that includes such stars of the picture firmament as Ramon Navarro, Betty Bronson, May McAvoy, Francis X. Bushman, Carmel Myers and 150,000 others in support. Navarro's performance as Ben-Hur is a surprisingly vigorous and dramatic portrayal, even to his most ardent admirers. Bushman is an excellent Messala, and May McAvoy as Esther is wholly delightful. Of equal excellence is the entire cast.

INHERITS MILLIONS, STAYS A HOME BODY

Wealth Doesn't Alter Life of Ina McEachran.

Detroit, Mich.—In the midst of the old-fashioned "back yard" behind the big, gray frame house at 1908 Ferdinand avenue is a cherry tree. The cherries were hanging thick among its leaves, red and sweet, but just a little overripe, their skins just a wee bit lined, cherries that some one should have picked some time before.

You see, millions of dollars have come tumbling down into that old-fashioned garden, into the lap of Ina Cecil McEachran, niece of Arthur T. Walker. No more incongruous figure to handle millions than the twenty-six-year-old heiress can well be imagined. As the only child of her mother, Mrs. Susan McEachran, she falls heir to a sixth of the thirty to fifty million dollar estate left by the late secretary to Edward F. Seales.

"Isn't Bad Looking." For nearly ten years the McEachran family lived in the house on Ferdinand. They were and are "quiet" people. Ina was a home body. She seldom went anywhere except to church, to the little neighborhood motion-picture house, and for rides in the little, inexpensive car that was the pride of father and daughter.

There were no beans, no dances; Ina does not approve of dancing very much. "She isn't bad looking."

So the neighbors describe the heiress. At times she wears glasses. She is plump and does not move too briskly. Every evening has found her at home alone. She never made friends with the neighbors. In fact, as a result of a fence dispute between the mother and one set of neighbors there existed the "we do not speak" situation.

Same Old Routine. There was a brother, but he died a couple of years ago after a long illness. Ina was his nurse for much of that period. For a period she was employed in the offices of the Michigan Central railway.

The family came to Detroit from Jackson. The father, R. B. McEachran, is an employee of the D. U. R. and is as quiet in his habits as the girl. And now into their placid existence comes tumbling the millions, the magic wand to materialize yachts and palaces.

But life hasn't changed a bit as yet. Ina, the heiress, wound the clock, pulled down the shades, swept the floor and prepared the dinner as usual. In the morning she got up, cooked a breakfast and drove her little old car

TASTE TEST BEST ICE CREAM GUIDE

Tongue Precise Instrument in Gauging Quality.

Washington.—The human tongue is a better scientific instrument than it is usually credited with being, at least so far as the great American dish, ice cream, is concerned. Recent experiments made by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate a rather close correspondence between the "taste test" of a large number of persons and the more precise determinations of quality made by instrumental means.

The first test involved three ice creams of varying butterfat content. These, containing 18, 15 and 12 per cent, were fed to fifty dairy purchasers for a period of ten days. In each instance freezing and hardening conditions were alike, the consumer choosing his choice at will. The result was that 82 per cent of the samplers favored the ice cream of 18 per cent butterfat content.

The second test proposed to show whether or not sugar strongly affects the palatability of ice cream. An experiment was made with mixes containing 18, 16 and 13 per cent of cane sugar. About 90 per cent of the consumers preferred the 16 per cent composition.

The third experiment tested the effect of nonfat milk solids on the palatability of ice cream. For a period of six weeks three mixes of 12, 9 and 6 per cent nonfat milk solids were sold. More than 80 per cent of the 1,185 sales showed a preference for a 9 per cent nonfat milk solid rather than the commercial ice cream with but 6 per cent.

A debated point among ice cream magazzes concerns the popularity of ice cream containing gelatin. For years it was used as a stabilizer, that is, to prevent the ready formation of ice crystals. Nowadays, however, refrigeration eliminates that possibility, so many manufacturers do without gelatin altogether.

Yet some persons prefer the smooth taste gelatin gives to ice cream. Indeed, experiment 4 showed that some 63 per cent of 394 purchasers preferred ice cream with 1 per cent gelatin. Twenty-three per cent wanted ice cream entirely without it and the others insisted on a content of 0.5 per cent.

England Has Biggest Flying Boat in World

Hull, England.—England's newest military airplane is a veritable battleship of the air.

It is the largest flying ship in the world, one of the wings alone being almost large enough to provide a landing place for a light airplane. The hull is of duralumin and stainless steel.

Christened the Iris II, the huge flying boat takes off from the water at a speed of 50 knots. In its hull are ample quarters and sleeping accommodations for a crew of five. Bunks can be folded up when not in use. The radio operator's room is a separate noise-proof compartment.

The dreadnought of the skies is equipped with large fresh-water storage tanks and carries an electrical cooking apparatus. It can remain in the air 14 hours and can cruise in the air or remain at her moorings nine months out of the year.

German, Jailed, Says He Was French Spy

Detroit.—A tale of a native-born German, that he served as a French spy during the World war, was before authorities here, with the arrest of Carl H. Eifles, confessed impersonator of a Seattle (Wash.) physician, and his arraignment on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

Eifles, who is said to have performed 30 major operations here, was held in the county jail in default of $2,000 bond after pleading guilty. Arrested under the name of Dr. Ernest Flehms, graduate of a German university, Eifles confessed that he came to Detroit and assumed the name after leaving North Dakota, where he practiced in towns under the names of Dr. Maximilian N. Schmeller, Dr. V. D. Whepon, Dr. William Sauer, Dr. John L. Refferty, Dr. S. Terstel and Dr. Rudolph Young.

Eifles, who claims he was graduated from a Berlin medical school, told James A. Chenot, chief assistant prosecuting attorney, that at the outbreak of the World war he offered his services to the French secret service, since he was not in sympathy with the German military system. During the conflict, he added, he spent some time behind the German lines, serving as an agitator, and on one occasion caused a near mutiny in two regiments by his propaganda.

Thinking it must be a matter of life and death, Captain Summers ran the Baltic several miles out of its course and dove to off the lights.

A bucket was let down over the side and while the 24,000-ton vessel wallowed in the swell and 558 passengers leaned over the rail the lights were kept on and the lightship keeper came alongside and solemnly dropped his letter into the gull.

"Much obliged," his thanks floated up to the towering decks through megaphoned hands. "It's my monthly report to the lighthouse service and it's due in two days. I wouldn't like to be late."

The letter was mailed two minutes after the Baltic docked.

TOLD ON PALS, NOW HAS ANOTHER NAME

Denver "Squealer" Said to Have Staged Comeback.

Denver, Colo.—Five years have brought a new grip on life to George L. (Len) Reamey, former confidence man, who turned state's evidence and enabled the state to send twenty of his associates to the Canyon City penitentiary.

After giving his testimony, Reamey was spirited out of Denver by Andy Koehn, investigator, and Deputy Sheriff "Doc" Dawson. He was branded the "Squealer" by his former associates and their friends, who swore vengeance.

He joined his wife, who was waiting for him 1,000 miles away, and the pair took up their life anew in a small town far from Denver. Reamey changed his name, altered his appearance, and his life generally.

Today he is the owner of a small but flourishing hotel business, a leading member of a luncheon club, a Sunday school teacher and one of the town's leading citizens.

"Len Reamey has staged one of the greatest comebacks ever seen in the underworld," Roy O. Sampson, detective, says. Sampson has kept in touch with Reamey ever since he left Denver. He refuses to disclose the name of the town in which Reamey and his wife are living for fear that some members of the gang sentenced as a result of Reamey's testimony might wreak vengeance on him as was threatened five years ago.

"If I should divulge where Reamey is living I would in that breath most likely utter his death sentence," he said. "The feeling still runs high against him among the 'con' men. All the men he helped send to the Canyon City penitentiary are out now with the exception of those who died there. Many would travel to hell and back to put a bullet through Reamey."

When Reamey sought defense money from the leaders of the confidence gang he was refused aid, Sampson says. Then Reamey's wife was offered immunity for him if he would turn state's evidence. She persuaded him to do so.

Irish Would Keep the Ogham Stones

Valentia, Irish Free State.—Kerry men are up in arms because the most ancient of their monuments, the Ogham Stones, are being removed one by one to British museums. They likewise protest because the few remaining historic stones are being used in Ireland as gate posts and hearth stones.

Ogham was a manner of writing on stone and wood used by the ancient Irish. It is somewhat like some of the modern shorthand characters, consisting of straight or slanting lines to represent the consonants, and short straight lines to represent the vowels. One hundred and fifty kinds of Ogham writing have been used.

The Ogham stones are usually tombstones giving the name of the chieftain or clergyman buried beneath. Because of frequent clan conflicts the names of clans often are defaced. Some Ogham stones are not inscribed, and were merely landmarks to show the boundaries of clan lands, or to record battles, such as the Gates of Glory Pillars, near Ventry.

Training a King

Sinla, Rumania.—Michael, the boy king of Rumania, is to be reared like any ordinary American boy. A threat by his mother of "a good smack" failed to make him desist from pulling his dog's tail, but an added threat of being sent to bed without supper worked.

Versatile Apple Tree

Glen Cove, N. Y.—An apple tree here, subject of many grafting operations, is bearing 25 varieties of apples, according to James Holloway, in whose orchard it stands.

First Sun Dial

The Chaldeans are believed to have been the first people to use the sun dial as a means of telling time.

Good Idea

Army and navy men should be retired earlier, while they have the vigor to enjoy cosing the service in print.

Jamestown Settlement

Beginning of the first English settlement in America was at Jamestown on May 13, 1607. Capt. John Smith was the leader and his colony numbered 105 persons, all men. Only 20 were mechanics or agriculturists.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pete Fowler, Atlanta club pitcher, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs.

Babe Ruth is singing a song that was popular several months ago. It is "Don't Bring Lou-lou."

Sale of John Mihlas, leading pitcher of the Seattle baseball club, to the Pittsburgh Pirates is announced.

At last the perfect name for a rookie. The Giants have come up with a young fellow named Bond.

Carl Mays, Cincinnati pitcher, is one of the best hitting twirlers in the game. He has a near 400 average.

And there's Tony Lazzeri, who, like his famous fellow countryman, Mussolini, knows the value of printers' ink.

Paul D. Dale of Brlercrest, Canada, pitcher on the Iowa State college baseball team, has been elected captain of the 1928 baseball team.

"Whitey" Witt, one-time major league star, has been sold by Kansas City of the American association to Reading of the International league.

Douglas Baird, third baseman of the Birmingham Barons of the Southern association, has been traded for Bob Washburn, Little Rock second baseman.

J. Vincent Jamison, Jr., president of the Blue Ridge league, has notified his umpires that games must be speeded up and any delay by players or managers reported to him.

Pat McNulty, former Cleveland outfielder and Ohio State university star, who was purchased by the New York Yankees, was released to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league.

Silver Flint was a famous catcher in his day. With the Chicago and Indianapolis clubs from 1877 until 1888, he caught 833 games without using a mask, mitt or protector.

Louis Alfred Leggett, twenty-one-year-old catcher of the Greenville Sally league club, was sold to the Chicago Cubs by the Atlanta Southern league team, which owned him.

Groh is on his way to his thirty-seventh birthday, which doesn't speak very well for the present crop of third sackers. Apparently the Braves intend to make "Doc" Farrell the regular shortstopper.

The Washingtons have made another effort to strengthen their pitching staff by recalling Dick Coffman, twenty-year-old rookie right-hander from the Jersey City team of the International league.

Fortunately for McGraw, he has a fat bank roll in the Polo grounds. Jimmy O'Connell cost $75,000, Jack Bentley $65,000, Wayland Dean $50,000 and Tyson $40,000. These four busts cost Charles Strohman $290,000.

Halts Liner at Sea to Mail His Report

New York.—The skipper of the Nantucket shoals lightship believes in being punctual, even if he has to commandeer a 700-foot ocean liner to help him out.

When the White Star liner Baltic arrived the other day, Capt. F. F. Summers told of receiving a wireless message while at sea from the lighthouse keeper asking him to stop by for an important letter.

Thinking it must be a matter of life and death, Captain Summers ran the Baltic several miles out of its course and dove to off the lights.

A bucket was let down over the side and while the 24,000-ton vessel wallowed in the swell and 558 passengers leaned over the rail the lights were kept on and the lightship keeper came alongside and solemnly dropped his letter into the gull.

"Much obliged," his thanks floated up to the towering decks through megaphoned hands. "It's my monthly report to the lighthouse service and it's due in two days. I wouldn't like to be late."

The letter was mailed two minutes after the Baltic docked.

Middle-Age Superstition

During the Middle Ages it was believed by scientists that beasts were made by looking at a certain star in the east on the twenty-first day of the March moon.
