Overcoming Objections

Little Trudas, age five, is always glad to see her aunt come to spend the night, and thinks it quite a treat to get up and eat breakfast with her the following morning, which is always about four hours earlier than she is usually permitted to arise. At 8:30 p. m. the aunt was trying to explain that it made little girls cross to get up so early, so Trudas began to untie her shoe, and said, "I'll be going to bed right now, then."

IRATE FATHER HALTS ROMANCE OF GYPSIES

Chief Is Nabbed on Charge of Kidnaping.

Albany, N. Y.—A modern day gypsy trail, followed none the less skillfully or relentlessly because it led over paved roads through cities and towns instead of over woodland paths, ended near here in East Greenbush recently when John Demitro, gypsy chief, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Horton, charged with kidnaping thirteen-year-old Rose Thompson, vivacious dark-eyed daughter of Wanda Thompson, gypsy tribal leader of Bridgeport, Conn.

Demitro was arrested at his camp by four state troopers from G troop barracks in Troy and taken to the Rensselaer county jail while a hundred tribesmen, their eyes blazing with wrath, looked on, hesitating to make any openly hostile gesture toward the four troopers.

Rose, who was found in Demitro's roadside camp, was turned over to her father, who had been following the trail of Demitro's band ever since March 1 in the search for his daughter. He took her back with him to the house in which he is temporarily staying here and a few moments later two truckloads of gypsies from Demitro's camp disembarked menacingly in front of the house.

Detectives Avert Violence.

Before anything could happen, however, four Albany detectives appeared and ordered the Demitro faction to move on. Their order was reluctantly obeyed and the Thompson followers breathed an evident sigh of relief. Two private detectives guarded them the rest of the night.

The story of the events that preceded the arrest, being concerned entirely with gypsy jealousies and customs, is characteristically confused. From statements made here by Thompson and advices received from Bridgeport, however, it appears that Thompson is the leader of a gypsy band that was quartered in a house in South Main street in Bridgeport last winter while Demitro's band lived in a house on State street.

According to the story received from Bridgeport, Demitro's wife became ill in February and Thompson consented to let his daughter go to Demitro's house to nurse her. Thompson then went to New York to arrange for opening some concessions he owns in Starlight Amusement park, the Bronx. When he returned March 1 Demitro's band was gone and so was Rose. Thompson traced them to North Adams, Mass., over the Lebanon mountains into New York and finally came to Albany and enlisted the aid of Assistant District Attorney David A. Wanger.

Asserts He Bought Girl.

Demitro asserted here, however, that in accordance with gypsy custom he had paid Thompson $1,500 for Rose to make her the bride of his fourteen-year-old son, John, Jr., and it was noticed that as she left the Demitro camp Rose cast a lingering look back at a young boy who remained behind in the camp.

"What would you do?" Thompson exclaimed, when asked about the transaction. "I good American citizen. No want gypsy marriage for my girl. Want good American marriage. Take out third papers for citizen. I fight John Demitro but it was not because $1,500 was too little for my Rose. I want the Rose to have good American law marriage."

Demitro is held without bail pending extradition proceedings which are being started in Bridgeport.

Norway's Idle Ships May Get an Indemnity

Copenhagen.—One of the greatest problems in the Scandinavian countries is the ever increasing number of idle ships.

Admittedly, says the Scandinavian Shipping Gazette, is Norway worse off in this respect. Proportionately she has more ships laid up than any other nation in the world. Denmark and Sweden also are hard hit and every week brings sorry tidings of further laying up of tonnage.

The latest relief theory is an organized laying up scheme in connection with a mutual insurance system paying indemnity on a fixed scale to owners of idle ships. It is of Norwegian origin and has won recognition among Norwegian owners, but must have international co-operation. From a Scandinavian point of view all such theoretical projects, even if carried through, are mere makeshifts providing no sound basis for existence or growth of a national merchant marine.

Shipping men say world tonnage is much bigger than the demand, and that it is idle to dream of better conditions for a long time.

Phosphate Taken From Caves to Enrich Farms

Vienna.—Phosphate deposits in mountain caves, the product of long centuries of habitation by swallows, bats and other animals, have been opened to exploitation for use in Europe's grain fields. Three notable caves have lately been explored, according to Franz Kirnbauer, an engineer resident in Rumania. These are the Dragon's cave and the Czoklovina cave in Austria and Minerva cave in France.

The first two have already yielded 25,000 tons of phosphate earth. The latter, estimated to contain 120,000 tons, has not yet been exploited.

Electric Safeguard

A fuse is a device designed to safeguard a wiring system and the lamps and appliances attached to it against an excessive amount of current. Its essential feature is a link of metal which melts at a comparatively low degree of heat. When excessive current passes through a wire, it becomes hot. The fuse as well as the wire is a part of the circuit and carries the current. If more current than the circuit is designed to transmit attempts to pass the fuse, the metal link is heated and melts, thus breaking the circuit and stopping the flow of current.

Double Purpose

A tramp was at the door of a newly married couple.

"What do you want?" demanded the young husband. "Dinner or work?"

"Both, please, sir," replied the tramp.

The husband disappeared and presently returned with a plate of biscuits. "Eat those," he exclaimed savagely, "and you'll have both."—Successful Farming Magazine.

Out of Stock

The patient saleswoman brought out the seventeenth hat. The customer seemed impressed, but her dotting husband spoke up with decision.

"That hat does not become you, my angel."

The saleswoman produced another.

"And that certainly is not worthy of you, my angel."

"I fear we cannot suit your angel," said the saleswoman, finally. "We have nothing in the way of a halo."

Model Prisoner

A colored maid returned from an afternoon off with her broad face wreathed in smiles.

"Well, Mis' Cabtah," she announced, "Ah's married!"

"Congratulations, Mandy," said her mistress. "Did you get a good man?"

"Deed Ah did," was the proud reply. "Dat nigger was so good de warden ent fo' months o'n his time."

Withered

We can't understand why anybody should boast of a family tree that has quit blooming.—Toledo Blade.

Claim That Mosquito is Being Exterminated

Vacationists and sojourners of the seashore and mountain resorts will be glad to hear that the world-famous New Jersey mosquitoes are less numerous this year than ever before, due to the extermination work of the New Jersey Extermination Commission. State Entomologist Thomas J. Headless, New Brunswick, secretary of the commission, reports that in counties where systematic processes for mosquito extermination have been carried on for several years, the pests are less numerous this year.

"Yet we have many mosquitoes," said Mr. Headless. "In eleven counties, including the metropolitan and seashore section of the state, the work of staying out the insects has been carried on successfully. In other sections, for want of funds, little has been accomplished to exterminate the mosquitoes."

Black and White, Paris' Favorites

Suit Skirts Are Slashed Full Length at Center Front c: Side Front.

How far we have progressed along the road to real femininity, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, is strikingly evidenced in the collection of Lucien Lelong. One need only compare the tiered and flounced skirts of formal models with the simple, boyish evening gowns of a few seasons back to understand what a tremendous change has taken place in the temper of the mode. This change has passed its oral stage. It is now an actual established fact and no one can run counter to it and still be sartorially smart.

So far as color is concerned, Lelong is definitely committed to black and white. This preference is principally applicable to evening costumes, although it occasionally enters the daytime field. The tendency is particularly interesting in view of the exotic colors which Paris has been so partial to since the late openings. It is probably a result of more fanciful dress themes which always limit vivid colors.

Prominent among the effective themes of this Lelong collection are the draped fichu collar emphasized in the front of the frock; the handkerchief point yokes in skirts; the use of shirring not only to give fullness either to the front or the back of a frock but also to lend decorativeness to the otherwise unadorned frock; the reversed side of his full-length flowing jabot—that is, descending from the neckline in front down the length of the frock; hitherto it has been placed at the back in evening gowns. Overskirts are used beautifully with side dip flares in the underskirt at one side in front, the other in the back. There are many straight, fairly broad loose panels, some from the shoulders, others from the hips—sometimes squared at the ends, sometimes rounded.

Frocks Match Coats.

In daytime ensembles frocks frequently match the coats—in velvet surfaced fabrics with the frock in crepe-lla, for instance. Coats are almost all collared and cuffed in fur, with the latter made to extend almost to the elbow, or at least apparently to this depth. Crepe de chine, all-over lace, printed and plain velvets, printed chiffons, both soft and stiff satins and georgette crepe are used for afternoon models—in black, gray, midnight blue, nigger brown, maize and a very pink bois de rose tone. Morning glory blue, beige and pale green enter the sports mode and black comes into the tailored costumes. Suit skirts, by the way, are slashed full length at the center front or side front.

Black and white and pastel tints are used for evening, in georgette, tulle, solid beading, stiff satin for wraps, and satin and velvet for coats.

Right now principal anticipatory interest in Paris centers around the coat, which, incidentally, is autumn's leading item of dress. The new note in this field is the return of the flare, which had been quite positively banned for spring and summer. It is rather a modified species of flare, that these advanced models are affecting and its place may be in front, at the sides, or, on rarer occasions, in back. The appearance of slenderness, however, is still maintained, and it appears that the svelte line silhouette will always be the fetish of the fashionables. Velours, zibeline, English woolsens, suede materials and rough woolsens emphasizing small patterns are the outstanding fabrics. There is a well founded suspicion that the smart costumes of late summer and early autumn will, to a great extent, limit large garish prints and confine themselves to daintier effects.

In line with the flared type of coat is an advanced frock style which very pointedly emphasizes flounced treatments. There is a definite return to the hemline flare and there is a continuance of the uneven hemline which has been largely confined to robes du soir during the current season. Bows and scarfs serve the dual purpose of diversifying and feminizing the neckline, while velvet vies with satin as the principal dress fabric.

On one silhouette point in both afternoon coats and dresses there is general agreement—the conforming lipline still persists. This is unchanged from its midseason versions and can safely be counted upon as one of the assured advanced fashion themes.

Elaborate Fabrics for Evening.
For evening fashions the trend has never before been so clearly toward extremely rich and elaborate fabrics. Indeed, if anywhere in the mode there is a premise upon which to base predictions of a return to Victorianism in dress it is in the mode du soir. Not since the halcyon days of the fin de siècle have fabrics been more rich, and if the modern gowns lack something of the heavy swishing luxury which belonged to their predecessors they are making up for that deficiency in a diversity of themes which is really unparalleled in fashion's history. It has usually been the case in evening wraps that when rich fabrics were employed the trimmings were comparatively simple. The current trend, however, takes no notice of precedent—it combines the richest of velvets and metallic brocades with the most luxuriant trimmings, and caps the climax with perhaps the addition of silver or blue fox at the collar, occasionally both.

Fur and Skirts.
There are two fashion points which are being rather closely observed in smart circles just now. Many of the most effective coats have either partially or entirely disposed of fur trimming and there has been some wonderment as to whether pelts will again be conspicuous by their paucity next autumn. The second point concerns the much mooted question of skirt length. Shall skirts be shorter, longer or the same next autumn? Indications point definitely to a return of fur trimmings applied quite as lavishly as in the past. Silver and blue fox right now are the leading candidates among the furs. As to skirt length, Paris fashion prophets do not hesitate to predict a further lengthening of the hemline. There will be nothing epoch making about the added length, which will probably not be more than one inch, but its significance is that it proves conclusively that the tide has turned in the turbulent history of the ever shortening hemline.

One must, very subtly to be sure, affect the fall themes, which are still in the embryo. And to discover those modes one must look to Paris—not anywhere in Paris, but in those places where the next season's mode is being definitely tried out. Mannequins at Longchamp and Auteuil, vague fashionables at Deauville and St. Cloud—these are the first to test the public reactions to projected fashion motifs. And if you follow them closely you may attain some of that chic which otherwise would require the psychic talents of a clairvoyant.

Coral Is Imitated by Paris Exclusive Shops

Even coral is being imitated in Paris now, some of the latest ornaments shown at exclusive shops being woven or twisted chains of tiny imitation coral beads. The chains terminate in large knots of beads or a many forked branch of genuine coral.

Another recently introduced ornament is the choker collar of flattened beads separated by gold disks. These collars usually are in deep coral red or jade green.

The turtle has become a pet motif for costume jewelry and small art objects. Turtle belt buckles, hat pins and ash trays are shown in the luxury shops.

Polka-Dot Scarfs
As chic as they are new are scarfs that boast many polka-dots scattered across the surface. The borders are extremely wide and are in plain colors.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Dame Fashion took a great fancy the other day to the modern fish-globe. You know the most attractive things in the world are said to be "something to eat and something in motion." These new fish-globes are so flattened out that both their shape is artistic and there is a great deal of oxygen space for the fishes' benefit. Also the old fear of their being knocked over by a careless hand does not seem to exist so much, for they are placed in wrought iron standards, toned with gold and blue or green, and warranted to harmonize with the furnishings of any sun parlor. The golden fish themselves will be glad to furnish the "something in motion."

Then, of course, Dame Fashion had to look at some fish, and what a marvelous time she had! She was right among 400 or 500 of them, and learning something new every minute, though in years past she was a veteran gold-fish keeper. What amazed her most was to hear of the greatly increased demand for them in recent years; sometimes 150 or 200 going to new homes in one day from this rather small shop; many of these for fashionable outdoor pools and rock gardens.

But after Dame Fashion had looked at golden fish; large, small and medium, both of the common variety and of those with elaborately divided tails—like any good fashion person, she turned her attention to the trimmings. There was feathery green mossy stuff, there were round-bulbed water hyacinths that may bloom in royal purple, like King Solomon; the immense and grizzly tadpoles, meditating on soon becoming frogs; the snails, both brown and red, cheerfully turning themselves completely inside out so to be faithful garbage men, and last but by no means least, the geographical turtles.

Now these turtles are quite the aristocrats of the show. Their shell is in one of the season's most fashionable greens, combined with a sunny yellow, nearly a "honey beige." They are about as large as a silver dollar, and are more handsome than most of the costume brooches.

"But where does the geography come in, Dame Fashion?" Well, on their golden undershell each turtle has mysterious markings. No two are alike, and to the amateur in oriental written speech, they have every appearance of Chinese characters.

"Were these marks made in China?" You may declare they were, if you want to, when you have furnished your sun parlor with oriental draperies, wicker or fiber furniture, and plenty of lacquer articles in red and black, just to set off that little green geographical turtle, as he in turn keeps company with the golden Japanese fish, who will give the place just its last needed touch to express happiness.

Striped Crepe, Jersey For This Sports Costume

Striped crepe and Jersey are combined to make this intriguing sports costume worn recently by Marceline Day, "movie" actress, as the heroine of "Snapshots," her latest film. The striped material, blue on a white background, is used for the simple-plaited skirt and also for the diagonal inserts on the solid Jersey blouse. The popular neckerchief which so smartly adorns most of today's sports frock, is fashioned of the same material. A large hat of horsehair braik trimmed with blue satin ribbon and white striped pumps complete a charming summery costume.

On Rearing Children from CRIB TO COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of "CHILDREN, The Magazine for PARENTS"

Punishment should have a clearly understood relation to the offense.

Many children, as well as grown-ups, eat with their eyes. There are many parents who do not admit this and feel that the pleasurable and psychological aspects of food should not be encouraged with children. (The corner candy store knows this and profits by it.)

No one, not even a child, enjoys eating a luncheon just because he should eat it. A thrill which comes from the anticipation of something palatable is a great appetizer.

In the Michigan state primary schools the care of babies is being taught by the use of dolls which the children learn to bathe, to dress in the most comfortable clothes, and to lay in beds of their own making. By teaching girls to help with younger children in the home and thus bring to their parents the latest and best methods in child care, the state department of health believes it can decrease infant mortality and raise Michigan's health standards.

Before punishing a child for disobedience, it is necessary, but always easy, to judge the degree of the disobedience according to what the child himself intended, rather than by the amount of damage caused by his disobedience. Suppose a child has been told not to touch the dishes on the table. He disobeys and breaks a dish. The chances are that his punishment will be far heavier if the broken dish is an expensive one, than if it is a cheap one. Yet the child's fault was the same, whatever the value of the piece destroyed by his disobedience. In other words, before a parent allows himself to indulge in punishment, it is highly essential that he free himself from the emotion aroused by the loss or injury that he has suffered. Such freedom from personal bias and personal emotion is difficult to accomplish. If it is beyond the parent's power of attainment, then he should be wary of inflicting punishment.

A cardinal rule of water safety is: "Never go swimming alone." Many private camps and all Girl and Boy Scout camps use the "water buddy system," under which each boy or girl is given a swimming partner, or buddy.

It is not sufficient to teach restraint in the use of money; such lessons alone would tend to develop a generation of misers. The possession of money entails real responsibility. Children must learn that money represents effort, strength and a portion of the life of the person who has earned it. They need also to realize that it should provide not only for personal and family necessities, but for the needs of others, and for civic development. (© by Children, the Magazine for Parents.)

Modernistic Art Used in Dresses

Geometric Designs Combine Shades in Most Interesting Manner.

The trend toward modernistic art in household furnishings and decorations is having its following in the dress mode.

From Paris, where all things new hail from, the couturiers are meeting the demand for modernistic expression with some really charming creations in different types of dresses.

In some cases the outline is geometric and deep points and angles are seen. A deep V neck in which the

Simple Dancing Frock of Pale Blue Souffle

This dainty and simple dancing frock of pale blue souffle will appeal to all young women. The skirt is trimmed by an insert of cream-colored lace edged with blue grosgrain ribbon.

Corsets for Traveling Are Easily Laundered

Some of the new corsets are especially useful for traveling because they are so easily laundered. One garment for evening wear is made with a silk girdle and lace top.

For the large figure there are new corsets with front clasps and front lacings about an inch to one side of the clasp.

Brassieres and bandeaux are now to be found in many styles and materials and made to suit the requirements of evening clothes, sports costumes and daytime apparel.

Under sheer frocks for either afternoon or evening the new lace brassieres are very desirable, for they fit snugly, avoiding the trouble that ordinarily arises when separate pieces of lace are worn.

For wear about the country club with the semisports type of dress there are new open-mesh silk stockings in pale shades.

New Heels in Hosiery Incline Toward Skyline

New heels in hosiery are more and more inclined toward the skyline effect. This ever-flattering and slenderized pointed heel is being almost universally adopted.

The most common use for velvet is in coats, made on straight lines, with or without a collar of fur. Some longer length straight jackets are also shown.

The same dressmaker shows several dresses in which printed velvet is used in the manner of flowered chiffon for full skirts of more or less draped line.

Lightweight velvet is used at many places for dresses which are cut in tiers or bias ruffles.

Transparent Velvets on Fall and Winter Card

During the approaching fall and winter seasons, preparations for which are now being made, velvets are to take a step forward.

Again transparent velvets touch the high note. Surface printing in pastel colors, portraying flowers, is one example of the designs.

Gold in pin stripes and in bayadere formations are presented and are often seen in connection with black, since the black and gold combination has an appeal in luxurious fabrics.

Field flowers in outline only, scarcely noticeable, are shown in black on colored grounds, unobtrusively dark, and stems with leaves in outline only again show the scope of designs manufactured for luxurious costumes for rich women.

Pin-head checks in retiring colors are expected to gain in popularity.

Belts Important Item in This Season's Dress

Belts are an important item in this season's dress. They are made of suede, lacquered leather, reptile skin, metal, ribbon and dress goods.

Much Like Sheep

Caterpillars which come from the south of France and are known as "pine processionary" caterpillars have the curious habit of following one another blindly.

THE tall, blonde beauty of Greta Nissen has found a harmonious foil in the tall, dark attractiveness of Charles Farrell in the William Fox picture "Fazil," showing twice daily at the Gaity Theatre.

"Fazil" is one of several Fox Film successes now showing. It opened June 14 and has been playing to gaining business.

It is the story of a French girl in love with an Arabian Prince. The production is beautiful and the scenes of Venice, Paris and the East are extremely picturesque.

Nissen is not particularly the type known as "French," but neither is Farrell a counterpart of an "Arabian," but despite moments of artificiality the tragedy is engrossing.

There is some Movietone matter assembled under the direction of Robert Roxy, and as usual it is original and highly interesting.

Pink Is Among Midsummer Colors That Are Liked

For a midsummer color pink is always pleasing and, as always, is employed by several of the designers. Philippe et Gaston use it in a sweater blouse of angora, a material so very soft and woolly that it is called "rabbit's wool."

Fashion Suggestions of Interest to All Women

Topcoats effect novelty by innumerable different and snappy yokes. A black velvet coat has a drop-shoulder yoke that meets the body and sleeves in deep points, corded for emphasis.

Perhaps you are wondering whether those slim bands worn to protect more valuable rings are still in favor. They are. Worn singly or in pairs, the a very feminine guard rings are in keeping with the mode for brilliance.

Collarless dresses are worn with coats ornamented with collars of the most complicated design—the collars, square collars, and collars that button under the chin.

Huge "Highland" handkerchiefs, made of crepe de chine and georgette, with wide stripes of satin crossing them in plaidlike fashion, and large enough to go round the neck have made their appearance.

"By their baggage you shall know them" is a modern version of an ancient aphorism. And it is very true, especially when traveling abroad. There the obsequious hotel flunkies solve the social station of a person by the type of luggage carried.

There are a number of white plaited skirts, worn with simple white blouses and bright colored leather short coats, cut on the reefer design. A white coat in a woven material resembling the markings on alligator skins, has collar and cuffs of small steel beads sewn on dark blue.

Business women must brave all sorts of weather, and yet they do not want to carry along those heavy rain coats of yesterday. A new rain coat is offered today, of sheer and transparent crepe de chine, rubberized, of course. It may be folded into very small space.

Gowns of dyed lace are proclaimed particularly fashionable for afternoon and evening use. Shrimp, red, pink, green, lavender and violet, together with beige and black are among the shades displayed.

Jeweled Combs and Pins Decorate Milady's Hair

The noticeable reaction in favor of the old-fashioned forms of hair dressing is giving the manufacturing jewelers a chance to break new ground in the matter of jeweled hairpins. While the shingle is likely to die hard, certainly it cannot go right out of fashion at once; the change over gives the industry two strings to its bow.

It has taken advantage of the demand for jeweled shingle outfits and hair dressing novelties such as combination brushes, mirrors and shingle combs. Now it is starting on a new lease of life with extremely decorative hairpins. Jewels and stones are interspersed on these new pins.

The turquoise is finding special favor as a decorative medium for the new hairpin. This bejeweled adjunct to the coiffure may well influence the speedier return to long hair, since few women can resist the temptation to display attractive color harmonies in their "crowning glory," as was instanced with the introduction of the jeweled shingle comb or slide.

The sundial, as a means of telling time, was first used by the Chaldeans.

IDA, ONLY 107, HAS 125 OFFERS OF MARRIAGE

Proposal Record Added to Longevity Distinction.

New York.—To the distinction of longevity, Mrs. Ida Goldberg, who, at one hundred seven is the oldest inmate of the United Home for Aged Hebrews, New Rochelle, has added a marriage proposal record younger beauties may well envy.

Many From Philly. This wish was conveyed through the country by publication in scores of newspapers. Approximately half of the resulting proposals have come from gentlemen residing in Philadelphia, which is probably a coincidence.

Unfortunately, no one has come forward whom Mrs. Goldberg is willing to accept. Her suitors failed to notice that she spoke specifically of a "suitable" young man.

"My ideal man," she explained, "must be a millionaire and should be about forty-five years old. Anyone younger than that is not likely to have a great deal of wisdom."

Mrs. Goldberg has been unable to walk since she fractured a hip, several years ago. Following are extracts from some of the letters she has received:

1. A Philadelphia schoolboy, sixteen years old.—In writing this letter, my hand is guided by Cupid. My heart is beating an everlasting love for your companionship.

2. Canton, Ohio, twenty-one years old.—I am married to a young girl who said she was going to shoot me. If you could make some arrangements to go to Nevada with me for three months, I could get a divorce there.

3. Philadelphia, aged fifty-five.—Addresses her as, "My dear sweetheart," and writes, "My dear little girl, won't you consider my hand and make me your loyal and true mate?"

4. Philadelphia, thirty-two years old, breaks the ice by starting, "Dear Ida," and continues, "I have been thinking of marriage, and I think you would be a wonderful wife for me. I have a fair job as truck driver and can give you a good home."

5. St. Louis, Mo.—I am an elevator man; that is, I am an elevator starter. I have initiative and ambition.

6. New York city, forty-six, signs himself: "With the highest respect, my dear Madame Ida Goldberg, I remain your obedient, loving bridegroom." He inclosed in his letter a dried four-leaf clover.

7. Philadelphia ("seventeen and one-half years of age").—Saw your picture in the paper and thought you would make a suitable wife and companion. I would like to marry an old lady because she has more sense than these flappers.

8. Atlantic City, thirty.—A woman of your type is what I am looking for. These young girls of today lack modesty. I want one who will have sensible ideas.

9. Philadelphia, twenty-one, signs himself "Your Wonderful Admirer, Don Juan," and recommends himself as follows: "I am a young man and would make a model husband for you. I can do the charleston and black bottom."

10. Washington, D. C., "almost twenty," describes himself as follows.—I am not so ugly. I can sing and dance a little and have a wonderful personality.

11. Nineteen, who resides at a Y. M. C. A. in Baltimore, warns her: "If you want me for a hubby, do not hold this letter in suspense like a flapper, because I am a Charles street cowboy and I mean what I speak."

12. Brooklyn, thirty-six, describes himself as strong and healthy, a professional dancer, and ends up by asking for an immediate loan, as he is broke.

13. Chicago, forty-five, sends his proposal with the following explanation.—I have an idea you would make me a good wife and mother, for you have been through the mill.

Weak-Minded Children Aided by School Sports Stockholm.—Training mentally deficient children in sports and athletics tends to brighten their minds and give them a more wholesome and normal outlook on life. It has been announced at the Institution for weak-minded boys at Sahohed, Sweden.

By encouraging the boys to play football and to compete in running and jumping, the head instructor said he found a practical and efficient remedy. Whereas the boys had been clumsy, slow and careless in the beginning, they gradually became alert, nimble-footed and appreciably keener.

Two Reasons Weehawken, N. J.—A case against Babe Ruth for speeding has been quashed. Chief Doland explains why: "Babe Ruth is the greatest baseball player in the world, and he's a friend of mine."

Hemlock's Other Name The ground hemlock is also known as the "American Yew."

Many Kinds of Beetles About 20,000 kinds of beetles are found in North America.

Jesse James Indicted! Pittsburgh.—Jesse James indicted! Yes, sir, a fellow by that name is accused of larceny. According to police records, he has no home.

WYOMING WILL HONOR MEMORY OF BRIDGER

Fort Named for Frontiersman to Be Shrine.

Vernal, Utah.—One more of the old frontier posts of the American West is to be preserved as a shrine to keep alive the memory of the man who founded it and whose name is written in the annals of the West as one of its true trail blazers—James Bridger, the first white man to gaze on the waters of Great Salt Lake, in northern Utah.

Fort Bridger, in Uinta county, Wyoming, 115 miles northeast of Salt Lake City, Utah, is to be preserved for the people of Wyoming as a shrine through the efforts of residents of Uinta, Lincoln and Sweetwater counties in the southwestern part of the state. It is planned to obtain funds by popular subscription to defray the cost of purchasing the site and the few structures remaining on it, then to present the property to the state of Wyoming for maintenance as the Fort Bridger Historical park. A museum for the preservation of historical relics of southwestern Wyoming and data pertaining to its annals is to be erected and the state is to appoint and maintain a custodian.

Established as Trading Post. Fort Bridger was established as a trading post by James Bridger, who in the winter of 1824-'25 discovered Great Salt Lake as the outcome of a wager concerning the course of the Bear river.

The ghosts of the old trading post, if such there are, could tell of the traders of more than a century ago; of Indians and trappers; of pony express riders, and of Ben Holliday's stage drivers; of Brigham Young and his party of Mormons in 1847; of gold seekers hastening to California discoveries in 1849; of the coming of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston's army in the winter of 1857-'58, en route to Salt Lake City; of the troops stationed at the old fort in later years, and they could tell of the neglect of the old fort since the days when the government abandoned it as a military post.

The trading post was the home for many years of hunters and trappers, their sole refuge in a desolate region. Until Utah was ceded to the United States after the war with Mexico, Fort Bridger was in Mexican territory. Until the present borders of Utah were established in 1861 Fort Bridger was in the territory of Utah. Many vicissitudes were the lot of the inhabitants of the trading post; hot summers and severely cold winters beset them, and at times, starvation threatened when deep snows and severe temperatures in the winter months prevented journeys to replenish the larder. Bancroft's history of Utah records that the winter of 1848-'49 was one of the coldest ever experienced in that region and that the supply of corn was so low that the following order was issued: "That no corn shall be made into whisky and that if any man is caught preparing to distill corn into whisky or alcohol the corn shall be taken and given to the poor."

In 1853 Fort Bridger, together with its Mexican grant of thirty square miles, was purchased by the Mormons for $5,000, and in the following year an equal sum was expended for improvements.

Destroyed by Young. In the late autumn of 1857 Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston and his army en route to Utah to what is sometimes referred to as the "Utah war," arrived at Fort Bridger, or, rather, what was left of it. Brigham Young had threatened to destroy the place if General Johnston persisted in marching on it—and the threat was carried out. The grain and other stores were either carried off or destroyed and of the buildings only two enclosures walled in by cobble rocks, remained. In late years other structures were erected.

While still in Utah Fort Bridger at one time rose to the distinction of being designated seat of Green River county's government. During the occupancy of Fort Bridger by cavalry of the regular army it was the headquarters of the military forces of the government for southwestern Wyoming, northeastern Utah and northwestern Colorado.

Fort Bridger will now be saved from completely losing its identity as one of the historic spots of the West. There is no doubt that the state of Wyoming will maintain it as a state park and that the museum in time will become the mecca for scientists engaged in research of historical data of the region.

New Color Card Guide Board, as Name Indicates

One of the cornerstones of fashions for next season has been laid. The standard color card is a guide board.

"The card contains 192 colors, a most comprehensive collection of staple colors," said Mrs. Margaret Rorke, managing director of the association.

"Now that color is taking so important a place in our house decoration (table linen, towels, sheets, pillows, rugs, glassware and china, even ice boxes and pans are being produced in vivid colors).

"The colors are grouped in distinct color families, all of which are arranged in harmonious relationship.

Sleeves Go to Extremes

Sleeves sometimes go to extremes to prove their smartness. There are many interesting phases of new sleeves and diverse ways in which fullness is handled.

Coat sleeves, wide at the elbow, taper toward the wrist. This of beige kasha has bands of tucked self material.

Fur-trimmed cuffs such as tiers of short-haired furs and the bracelet cuff of fluffy fur are very much in vogue.

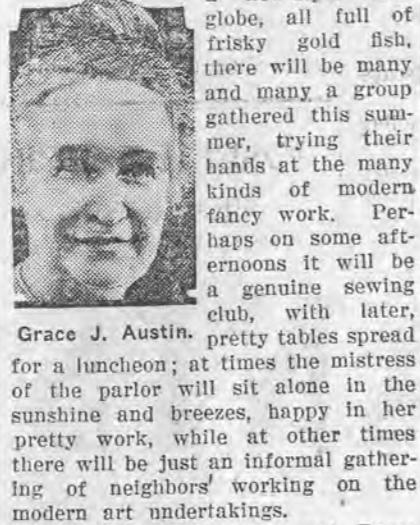

Dress sleeves are not forgotten in the movement toward greater elaboration. On sheer chiffon and lace afternoon frocks, sleeves, tight fitted to just above the elbow, join a long full ruffle or founce sometimes circular and often gathered.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Out in that pretty sunparlor where Dame Fashion has enjoyed imagining a new-style fish-globe, all full of frisky gold fish, there will be many and many a group gathered this summer, trying their hands at the many kinds of modern fancy work.

The thing that impressed Dame Fashion the very most, when she began to study on what are the genuinely up-to-date kinds of fancy-work, was the fact that many of these women will be creating genuine heirlooms, suited to be handed on to grandchildren.

Dame Fashion watched the ease with which a hooked rug may be made with one of the new style hooks, and the grace and beauty of a fair lady sitting before her rug frame.

Others of the pretty ladies are doing the easy Belgian or German needlepoint that results in beautiful tapestry effects for chair, stool or piano bench upholstery.

Perhaps some afternoon this imaginary sunparlor, at the "sign of the gold-fish," will be the scene of a bridal shower. Then the slower embroiderer may make for the lucky bride a set of tea-towels, all gay with outlined cups and plates and graceful glasses.

Dresses May Flare; Must Be Short and Pronounced

Dresses this summer and probably next autumn may flare. The question is not "and how?" but "where?"

The answer is that the flare must be short but pronounced. There must be snugness, preserved about the hips and there must be a fitted, or semi-fitted waistline but below the hips the flares, founces, ruffles and tiers may spread as they will.

The report of Dr. Miles Smith of the committee on revision of the Bible, the King James' version, says: "Every particular man of each company to take the same chapter or chapters, and, having translated or amended them severally by himself, where he thinketh good, all to meet together, confer what they have done, and agree for their part what shall stand.

Majority of Mankind Too Easily Excited

There are clubs and societies for every conceivable purpose under the sun, yet one of the most obvious needs of Americans today is left entirely uncovered. What we need is a don't-get-excited club whose object shall be to keep people from coming to the boiling point when it isn't necessary.

The trouble with most of us is, we get too excited over little things and not excited enough over the big ones. Agitation, loss of temper and surrender of self-command over the trivial annoyances of life are a sheer waste of time and energy.

If a don't-get-excited club could be so organized as to conserve all the human voltage that now goes to waste through needless excitement it would mean that mankind had reached the suburbs of a new era.—Harry Daniel in Thrift Magazine.

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day.

Sparrow Pest

English sparrows have been found in the State of California since 1871. They were brought to this country from England about 1850.

HAVING missed the play, "The Great Necker," while it played this town, we managed to catch up with it in Atlantic City last week.

The thought of any play except one of this kind is not very exciting in this heat, but regardless of weather conditions every one had a good time, including the players.

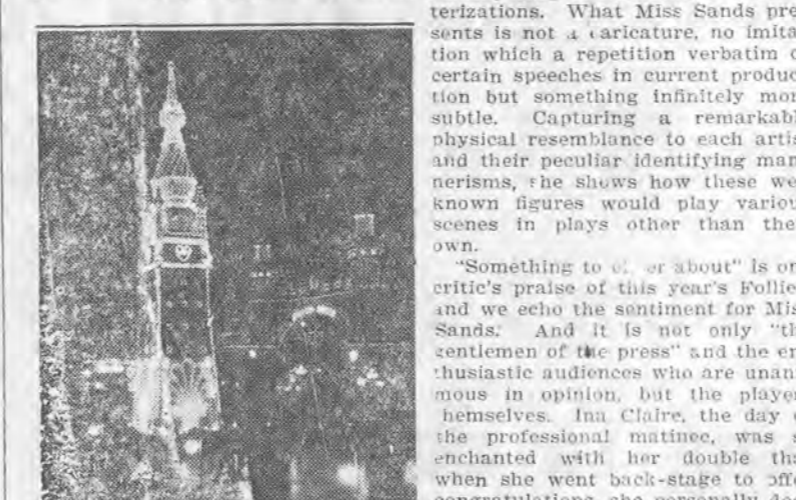

The program bills Taylor Holmes as the star, but there were others. Not Carr as the Jewish comedian was a sure hot weather hit.

The play was one of those things which have so recently replaced the old bedroom farce. And the hit of the evening is after the show, when the audience tumbles out onto the boardwalk and scrambles into chairs to be wheeled back to their respective hotels by pushers who never seem to charge what the rates specify at the chair barns, and they never charge less.

The play centers around Taylor Holmes as one of those international livers, who finally meets his match in a sweet young thing of 16 who is able to tell him many bedtime tales. After various amusing events he is finally persuaded of the folly of his impending marriage and proposes to Marjorie Gateson who had always loved him, affairs end.

The riders start at the bottom and shoot to the top in breath-taking speed and make all the audience draw back in fear that they will shoot over their very heads.

The Great pyramid of Egypt is said to have been built by Cheops more than 50,000 years ago. It measures at the base 755 feet on each of the four sides. It is 451 feet high and covers 12 1/2 acres of land.

The Yahoos are fictitious characters in Swift's "Gulliver's Travels." They are slaves of the Houghnhms, or horsefolk, and possess the form of both man and horse. They are a satire on the human race.

When Pain Comes Two hours after eating. What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Baseball Picked as Most Popular Sport

They recently took a vote at Princeton to decide the most popular sport at this season of the year and baseball came first. Baseball was picked over golf and track athletics, polo, tennis and rowing.

On top of that, baseball is the leading intramural sport at Harvard. It is one of the few things on which Princeton and Harvard agree as far as sport is concerned.

The photograph shows George Manfredi, star southpaw of the New York University nine, who is credited with six of the eight victories gained by the team. Manfredi is the only major college pitcher to achieve a no-hit, no-run game this season and has already caught the eye of several big league teams.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Roland Douthit, brother of Taylor Douthit, has joined the St. Louis Cards. He is a third baseman.

Pitcher Frank Bennett, late of the Boston Red Sox, is now receiving his mail in care of the Pittsfield club.

S. F. Hampton of St. Louis was named alternate junior manager of baseball for 1929 at Washington and Lee university.

Babe Ruth says the umpires are fair, square and 99 per cent right. The Bam is conservative, of course, as he may have to growl at a decision some day himself.

Although the general impression prevails that Tom Zachary, Washington hurler, is one of the oldest men in the big leagues, the record book shows he was born on March 7, 1897.

Dick Wade, a member of the Nashville Vols in the Southern league, established what is believed to be a world's record at Nashville when he hit four consecutive home runs.

Babe Ruth is believed to have the heaviest bat made. While the average bat used by other players is from 28 ounces to 40 ounces, the great home-run slugger uses one weighing 52 ounces.

Great things are predicted of Lefty Wellman, pitcher the White Sox bought from Moline. Wellman attracted the scouts when he fanned 39 in three straight games. He reports this fall.

Berg Makes Good

Moe Berg, playing his first season as a catcher, not only is doing a good job behind the bat for the White Sox, but he's also hitting harder than ever before. His present average is a cool .358, which tops the Sox club. Moe's blows, in addition to being frequent, usually come in timely spots.

Although John L. Sullivan never lectured on Shakespeare, he always brought home the bacon.

Explaining Whirlwind

The weather bureau says that the atmospheric pressure in a whirlwind is less than in the still air outside. There is thus a resistant force, directed toward the center of the whirl, acting on the air within the whirl. The tendency to fly off at a tangent is overcome by this inwardly directed force, and as a result the air moves circularly around the axis.

True zeal is not any one single affection of the soul, but a strong mixture of many holy affections, filling the heart with all pious intentions; all, not only counterfeit, but most fervent.—Sprat
