Toxoid Preparation Reaches Highly Developed Condition

Editor: The News: People in Carteret who have any idea of the way diphtheria and small-pox killed off youngsters when I was a lad appreciate the need of protecting children by immunization and vaccination.

"Immunization against diphtheria has in recent years received more attention from health workers than any other phase of preventive medicine," according to Dr. A. A. Walker in his article in the most recent issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Within the last year there has come into general use a new method which, because it has the great advantage of requiring only one injection, promises to displace all other methods."

Considerable interest lies in the way the newer method has developed. Raam noticed in 1925 that anything which slowed up the entrance of the toxoid into the system would allow for better results. In the effort to slow down the rate of absorption he conceived the idea of adding tapioca to the toxoid, whereupon he obtained improved effects.

Following this remarkable experiment, research workers used alum to precipitate the invisible particles that are responsible for immunization. These particles cling to the alum and fall down with the alum to the bottom of the container.

Besides the concentration of the very important tiny particles, more than half the nitrogen products were left behind. The latter can no longer cause the bad feeling that sometimes used to occur. When injected into guinea-pigs this agent was found to be from twenty to fifty times more effective than the formerly used toxoid, 5216.

Dr. Walker says "My Personal experience with the alum precipitated toxoid started in February, 1933, when my colleagues and I received a supply of this material from the Alabama State Board of Health. It was used by us in our private practice in the age group from six to eighteen months, which, as is well known, is the ideal age for the immunization and the age at which immunity response is the best."

There were 135 infants in this series who were treated with the alum precipitated toxoid. None of this group had a reaction other than a slight thickening of the skin, which later disappeared. All received the Schick test in from two to six months and all reacted negatively—that is, they had all been successfully protected against diphtheria.

The News has learned indirectly that a number of parents "do not believe in" immunization. Many regard it as a racket. The News states here—and emphatically—that if this health program were a racket it would be broken up in the very efficient style that many others have been broken in the past.

Parents who do not allow their children the benefits of advanced knowledge are positively not worthy of their parenthood. An occasional case of diphtheria has occurred here in recent years since immunization was started; but never has an immunized child been afflicted with diphtheria in our borough.

The parents who delay now to have his child taken to any immunizing station will most assuredly "kick himself around the block" when his baby catches the blight that leaves disaster in its wake.

DIPHTHERIA CAN BE PREVENTED—IT SHOULD BE PREVENTED.

The Board of Health and local doctors grant the protection FREE to those having the work done. Phone your doctor or Inspector Born of the Health Board and make arrangements now. Any child beyond six months of age should be safe-guarded. 3121.

CALL IT "ANOTHER DEMOCRATIC YEAR"

Charles Wagner, Campaign Manager for Governor A. Harry Moore announced this week that the chief executives of the twenty-one Standard Labor Railroad Organizations, acting through the Railway Labor Employees Association, have endorsed the candidacy of Governor Moore for the United States Senate.

The endorsement of Governor Moore included nineteen other endorsements of candidates for the United States Senate from various sections of the United States.

The rail labor chiefs who participated in this endorsement are members of the Standard Railroad Labor Organization, non-partisan league of the State of New Jersey, of which Frank A. Shepherd of Metuchen, N. J. is Secretary.

Judge William L. Dill, Democratic candidate for Governor, returned this week to his home in Paterson, after enjoying a fine rest in the Connecticut Hills. Judge Dill went to Connecticut with his family shortly after he finished his strenuous preliminary campaign of the various counties of the State on July 10th last. Aside from the usual outings picnics and other gatherings Judge Dill has no important speaking engagements pending prior to the state-wide Moore-Dill reception at the Little White House at Sea Girt or Saturday, August 25th, at which Judge Dill will be the guest of honor.

Dill expressed great satisfaction at the reaction to his early visits to the nineteen counties in his preliminary tour of the State. Later in the week he will confer with his campaign manager, Acting Mayor Arthur Potterton of Jersey City and members of the State Committee and formulate plans for an intensive campaign in the State after Labor Day. The matron and maid of honor also wore white and carried white roses. After the ceremony there was a reception in the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Zuccaro will live in Carteret. (5598).

COUNCIL DECIDES TO CLAMP DOWN ON LOCAL SALOONS

The Council decided Wednesday night to meet again at the call of the chair to draw up legislation to curb certain methods employed by local saloons to draw customers. The employment situation at the new WOR site, financial conditions concerning the board of education and relief activity for August, as well as the receipt of a letter from Rahway regarding the Lawrence street crossing on the super-highway were discussed.

Councilmen Greenwald, Yarcheski, Turk, Donahue and D'Zurilla were present. Mr. Ellis was absent, having recently lost his son, through death.

Things have been going wild in Carteret so far as liquor dealers are concerned, according to the Council. The feeling is that a strong ordinance is needed to keep them in check.

The Mayor stated that some of the saloons have pig roasts, special music and so on.

An adjourned meeting will be held in a few days to reconsider the question.

WOR Labor

Only one requirement is made of competent labor at the WOR construction, it was learned. Men seeking employment must belong to a union. The contractor has sent out an inquiry for union masons in Carteret, to hire them when the brick work starts. Mr. Edward Steiner stated that a man entitled to a union card may obtain one and pay for it in installments.

All fairness to Carteret labor is being practiced by the contractor at the new radio station, according to Mr. Steiner, who is working there. Of ten carpenters on the job, eight are local men, he said.

Liquor Transfer Carmin Zello applied for a transfer of his liquor license from Warren to Hudson street. The request was granted. Councilman Turk "passed" on the vote with the statement that there are too many liquor places on Hudson street now. There are said to be ten in two blocks.

Board of Education

Two resolutions regarding finance were adopted. One provides that $5000 be turned over to the Board of Education. The other requests $5000 from the state for relief in Carteret for the month of August, carrying a condition that the borough contribute another thousand.

Rahway Letter A letter was received from the City of Rahway saying some action to provide protection at the dangerous Lawrence street crossing at the superhighway will be taken at a meeting of the Rahway Council on August 8th. There was also a letter from the State Highway Department regarding this crossing.

Food Element of Relief Service Put on a Cash Basis

In order to make effective the policy of the State E. R. A. Administrative Council to provide the food element of the relief service on a cash rather than a food-order basis, State Headquarters of the Relief Administration has notified all County Relief Administrations are equipped and ready to handle effectively the administrative details, the food element of the relief service will be made available on a cash basis to all beneficiaries of relief. (5792).

In putting into actual operation the new State relief policy of providing food on a cash basis, it should be borne in mind that this policy is in no sense of the word a reemployment program, but purely a relief measure. The emergency Relief Statutes of the State of New Jersey charge the Relief Administration with the responsibility of providing the essential necessities of life, in an adequate degree, to those proven to be in need because of involuntary unemployment. This mission is definitely one of providing relief and not re-employment.

In making available the food element of relief on a cash basis, and in continuing the "Work for Relief" Program, the Administration continues its policy of affording to all able-bodied clients on relief an opportunity to receive help on a basis other than that of charity. (5858).

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my deepest gratitude to my relatives and friends, Father Mulligan, Chief Henry J. Harrington and the Ancient Order of Hibernians for their kindness shown to me in my recent bereavement, when I lost my wife, Catherine Mahoney. Signed, MICHAEL MAHONEY.

Mrs. Otto Elfert and son, Otto, Jr., spent a week at Oak Ridge.

and were held on bail to await the action of the grand jury later in the season.

In police court last night there was nothing of reading interest to subscribers of The News.

Attending to his duty of breaking up noisy groups in the streets at late hours, Patrolman Daniel Kasha met resistance and suffered injuries at the hands of four youthful residents Saturday night in front of the Seaside Hotel, near the Hill Railroad Station, on Roosevelt avenue.

The following were arrested: JOHN PATOCNIG, Shore Street; MICHAEL TEREBECKI, 309 Freshly avenue.

NICHOLAS TEREBECKI, 142 Longfellow street.

PETER PUHA, 15 Leick avenue.

Patrolman Kasha needed the attendance of a physician.

The trouble started at 10:20 when the four men were asked to move on and cease their objectionable language. A scuffle preceded between the policeman and one of the men. It is alleged the policeman was to arrest the man and was caught in a struggle.

Kasha avers that bystanders failed to heed his request that a call be sent to headquarters.

Finding it necessary to engage in a struggle with the group, Kasha could not pay any attention to Patocnig, whose hands were now cuffed.

After some one kicked Kasha in the groin, the four men escaped. Arrests were made later in the night. Patocnig still had on the cuffs, but the chain was cut. It is said he was in the act of washing his face in "one of the places" when he was detected.

Arouses Sentiment

Having observed the efforts of Patrolman Kasha, through the course of several months to scatter the elements of rowdiness, several spirited folks here have planned to show their appreciation of his work by breaking up gangs of hoodlums.

Many regard it a sorry state in which bystanders would not assist Kasha by sending in a call to headquarters, but favored the men who were later arrested.

A movement began on Sunday night to appeal to the mayor and the council to end rowdiness in the hill section. There is also talk of asking the council to set a definite time for closing saloons in that section. Some are alleged to remain open until three and four o'clock in the morning. (5365.)

The Carteret News

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY IN THE YEAR AT THE PLANT OF THE CARTERET NEWS AT 9 COOKE AVENUE, CARTERET, N. J. TELEPHONE, CARTERET 8-0300.

M. E. YORKE, Publisher

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1903, at the post office at Carteret, N. J., under act of March 3, 1879.

THE CARTERET NEWS was founded June 17, 1908 as THE ROOSEVELT NEWS; was published on Wednesdays until July 15, 1909; was then published on Thursdays until December 6, 1912, since which time it has been a Friday paper. The title of the paper became THE CARTERET NEWS on November 17, 1922, following the election of November 7, 1922, when the people of the Borough voted to change the name of the Borough from Roosevelt to Carteret, by a vote of 1652 to 203.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Borough Volunteer Fire Department is generally very much on the job. For the most part the services are volunteered. This, of course, is not true of the regular men stationed at the houses. There may be a few here and there who do not work as hard as others when the alarm summons them to a fire, but that is true of any organization.

On the whole they do a very good job. One of the companies in the next week is to give an affair asking for public participation.

It would appear wherever it is possible and convenient recognition should be shown in some such way of the efforts of the boys who respond to the fire alarms.

ELECTRIC RATE CASE

A likeable lawyer, who has not established himself as a utility rate authority, has been handling the case of municipalities seeking a general reduction of electric light rates. Not all municipalities joined the movement by any means. Attempt, of course, was made to line them all up.

It would appear the part of ordinary discretion to make some inquiry as to what has been done in the past in regard to rates and how such reductions as had occurred were brought about, before more of the taxpayers' money was authorized to be spent. It is understood such a move was not approved in this municipality.

It is not unlikely that the authorities here understood that the Public Service Corporation, through conference with the Public Utility and the Commission of the State, had worked out a voluntary reduction for the past several years without the expense and waste of time of a rate case.

It is understood in the present instance that preliminary conferences were held between the utility and the Utility Commission, looking towards a further reduction in rates when application was made in behalf of a number of municipalities to hold hearings with all its attendant expense and consumption of time. There was nothing the Utility Commission could do but receive the application. Under the circumstances there was nothing to do but apparently go through with the hearings and abandon the usual method of getting together, which has saved a substantial amount to the consumers over the past several years.

It is regrettable in a way that the method that has been in effect could not have been carried out, but it appears that would not satisfy those who must have the glory of the limelight. However, in the long run, it is likely that the actual reduction will be less than it otherwise would have been.

BUS ACCIDENT

The picnic which resulted in the death and injury of a number of people on a bus trip a short distance out of New York City was attributed by investigators to faulty mechanical equipment of the bus. It is understood the driver admitted this when on the trip, but decided to take a chance.

One of the causes of such accidents is that committees very often stop around to get the cheapest transportation and not the most reliable.

Buses that are sent out on such occasional trips very often are part of the equipment that has been laying idle for some time without constant examination.

Fortunately for the people of New Jersey, in the main, the biggest part of the motorized equipment is under the control of a responsible company, the Public Service Coordinated Transport Company, which is constantly checking one's equipment in daily use. A driver who advises he is having difficulty with a bus pulling into the terminal is generally met outside of Newark on the return trip by a relief bus. This simply is an instance of the kind of attention the buses are getting now that the transportation company has gone in on a large scale for bus transportation.

Another thing, a responsible company does not use the regular daily buses for special trips. It has buses especially fitted to take care of such occasions, the drivers are specially selected and equipment carefully examined.

This does not mean, however, that it would not pay to have a thorough examination of equipment in New Jersey as there are probably some who are on their own with a bus or two who are willing to take a chance with what appears to be an attractive days gain. The public should be protected.

Extra Taxes Equivalent to Cut in Electric Rates

IN his recent argument in the electric rate case before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, President Thomas N. McCarter of Public Service Electric and Gas Company showed that the company had made rate reductions eleven times between December, 1922, and January, 1933. As to the statement that no reductions had been made since the latter date, he said:

"This in one sense is true. In another sense it is far from true. All departments of Public Service have gone along one hundred per cent with the President in his Recovery Program. All are operating under the N.R.A.

"In the electric and gas departments a 6 day week of 2 hours has been reduced to a 5 day week of 8 hours, a decrease of from 48 hours per week to 40 hours per week without diminution of pay.

"The Federal Government has imposed upon all corporations substantial increases in taxation, and a special tax of 3 per cent upon the bills of the domestic and commercial customers of light and power companies.

"This item alone in the case of Public Service involves an annual cost of $1,250,000 and the combined increase in cost of these various items is well above $2,000,000.

"This has all been done without any increase in rate or revenue and is tantamount to the largest reduction that has been made in any one year in the period of years covered by the foregoing table." (The table referred to shows the reductions each year in the eleven year period—a total of more than $9,000,000).

At present rates the average householder in Public Service territory now pays for his electric service $2.80 a month—less than 10 cents a day!

No other item in the household budget offers so much for so little as electricity.

NEED OF CENSUS TO SHOW VITAL NATIONAL FACTS

A good deal of the governmental, business and social activities of any community depends upon accurate knowledge of the number of inhabitants which compose it.

Such vital information is seriously lacking these days. A leading life insurance company discusses the subject in a statistical bulletin under the heading, "How Many Are We?"

Meanwhile business men and governmental officials are clamoring to know the population facts about the various states and cities. It is information necessary for the apportionment of representatives, taxes, water supply, schools, roads, transportation, police services and for the conduct of industrial and commercial enterprise.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER SAVES A FRIEND

PETER RABBIT sat in a thicket of young trees on the edge of the Green Forest. So far as he knew he was all alone. It was very quiet there and it wasn't long before he was dozing.

It was Chewink, the Towhee, sometimes called the Ground Robin.

er edge of the thicket, he heard a great rustling of dry leaves. For just an instant Peter was startled, but only for an instant. His long ears told him at once that that noise was made by some one scratching among the leaves, and he knew that no one who did not wear feathers could scratch like that.

Peter kept perfectly still, for it was fun to watch some one who hadn't the least idea he was being watched. Chewink's feet were made for scratching and he certainly knew how to use them.

Do YOU Know—

That the month of May was named, some say, by Romulus in respect to the senators and nobles of his city who were called, "majores". Others claim it was named from Maia, the daughter of Atlas and the mother of Mercury.

dy was hoping to catch Chewink. Suddenly Peter thumped the ground with his feet. It was his danger signal which all his friends know. Then he turned and scampered, lipperty-lipperty-lip, to a bramble-tangle not far behind him.

QUESTION BOX By ED WYNN... The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a baker and keep a bakery shop. I notice I am losing a lot of money on the doughnuts I make to sell. I can't charge any more than I do now for them.

Answer—Make the holes in the doughnuts larger and you won't use as much dough.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a girl going to high school and I met a boy whom I like real well. He takes me home every day. He seems to be very nice, but his hands and neck always look unclean to me.

Answer—That is easily accounted for. He is two years older than you.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a boy sixteen years of age. One day last week I took a can of black paint and a brush and was painting the front door of our house, which was white, with the black paint.

Answer—You say you were painting a white door with black paint and your father caught you at it and disowned you. Very simple. He doesn't want you to darken his doors again.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am blind in one eye. I went to a theater where the price of admission was $4. I told the ticket seller that I should pay only $2 for a ticket, as I was blind in one eye, and therefore was only able to see half the show.

Answer: You were absolutely wrong. The price of the ticket was $4. You wanted to pay only $2 because you say you would have seen just half of the show, as you have but one eye.

Cost of Engraving Stamps The Post Office department says: The cost of engraving a new postage stamp is from $300 to $500, depending on the size of the stamp and the amount of detail work.

Citrus Cocktail. Put chopped ice in cocktail glasses, filling them one-third full. Add the following: One-fourth cupful each of lemon juice, orange juice, grapefruit juice, and sugar.

Iced Tea Cubes. Make tea by pouring four cupfuls of boiling water over four teaspoonfuls of tea. Steep for five minutes.

Golden Nectar. Strain three cupfuls of orange juice and one cupful of lemon juice, two and one-half cupfuls of pineapple juice.

IN MEMORY OF A BABY

By ANNE CAMPBELL

I DO not know why angel wings Should flutter near me in the night; Then swaying, as a starting swings, Desert me for eternal flight.

I do not know why baby hands Should cling one moment to my own, Then reach for the celestial lands, And leave me weeping all alone.

Perhaps by heaven's outer gate There is a tiny sentinel, Who waits, as I have learned to wait, To hear the tolling of a bell.

I longed to keep a little soul From this world's sadness undefiled, And weep that by the starry goal, Stainless, there waits a little child.

Practical and Smart

No single item in the young lady's summer wardrobe is more practical, comfortable and smart than a brief crocheted sweater, like the one here shown. If it is of mercerized crochet cotton in an openwork stitch it will be light and airy enough for the hottest day.

Drain one-half cupful of crushed pineapple, add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one cupful of orange juice, two cupfuls of boiling water and two tablespoonfuls of sugar.

Orangeade—Grape. Take two cupfuls of white grape juice, one cupful of orange juice, four teaspoonfuls of sugar, mix until sugar is dissolved.

Good Taste Today

BY EMILY POST Author of "ETIQUETTE," "THE BLUE BOOK OF SOCIAL USAGE," ETC.

IN THE DINING ROOM.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it important enough to matter in which direction the cutting edge of the dinner knife should be laid—toward the plate or away from it?

Answer: Toward it, because when picked up it comes more easily to hand. All details of table setting are important because lack of precision spoils the effect of perfection exactly as even a few errors mar the whole page of a letter.

My dear Mrs. Post: I had dinner the other night in the house of a hostess who placed napkins on the right side of the plate instead of on the left side. This is the first time I have encountered the reversed practice.

Answer: There is no rule as to whether the napkin is put left, right, or crossways above the plate. All these positions are permissible only in houses of limited service in which it is necessary that food be put at the places. In houses with plenty of servants, no food is put at the places before people are seated, and the napkin is put in its correct position on the service plate.

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend tells me that according to latest modern fashion your column was behind the times in saying that deputy hostesses serve the tea and chocolate at a formal tea introducing a debutante. I am told all serving is done by servants.

Answer: I have no idea whose column your friend is quoting, but it is not mine. Never in any times have deputy hostesses poured either at a formal tea or at a wedding collation. To quote my own book in the edition published in 1922: "At the most formal type of tea, the tea table is exactly like that at a wedding reception, in that it is a large table set as a buffet, and is always in charge of the caterer's men, or the hostess' own butler or waitress and assistants. It is never presided over by deputy hostesses."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to use individual butter knives when bread and butter plates are not used? Answer: Of course not. There would be nowhere to put them.

WE WOULD LIKE TO CELEBRATE

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have two sons coming home from abroad with their wives, whom I have never met. I would like to entertain rather informally when they are here so that many people will be able to meet them.

Answer: An afternoon tea is the simplest party to give and very suitable to such an occasion. Write across your visiting card:

To meet Mrs. John Jones and Mrs. Henry Jones Sat., Sept. 23, Tea at 5 o'clock.

On the day of the tea your daughters-in-law would receive with you. Have the table set in your dining room. Serve tea and either fruit punch or coffee or chocolate, as well as sandwiches and cake, but nothing else. Or, if you prefer an evening hour, then write on your double visiting card:

To meet Mr. and Mrs. John Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones Sat. Eve., Sept. 23, at 9 o'clock.

Serve sandwiches, salad, ice cream, cake, fruit punch and coffee. Otherwise, details the same as for a tea.

My dear Mrs. Post: Mother and father will have their silver wedding anniversary late this month. They are not planning to entertain, but I would like to have something for them, because I am very proud that at the end of twenty-five years together they are still ideally happy.

Answer: You might give a dinner and invite the few people they like best. Or, if you want to ask many people, you might have a tea for them, or an informal evening reception, which would be exactly the same excepting that you will have to have a little more to eat. You should ask people verbally and tell them it is to be a surprise party.

The Natchez Trace Back in pioneer days when the first boatmen made their way with their crude produce-laden craft down the Cumberland, the Tennessee, the Ohio and the Mississippi to New Orleans the Natchez Trace played a large part, says Literary Digest.

Storms Brought About by Conditions of Air

Some thunderstorms are hatched; others are calm brooded. Humidity of the air decreases during those of the second type, according to a recent study by Dr. W. J. Humphreys of the United States weather bureau.

Wind-hatched storms, also known as "cold front" and "squall line" thunderstorms, are caused by cooling from above, usually the result of the importation of cold air. Wind is necessary for the creation of such storms.

Calm-brooded, or heat, thunderstorms are caused by warming low from exposure to the sun. The storms grow from small to large as circular flows of warm air straighten from the earth's surface. These chimney-like storms arise only when there is no wind.

As the absolute humidity of the air on all sides of a heat thunderstorm is about the same, the evaporation of the falling rain increases the density of the atmospheric vapor, making the humidity greater than it was before the storm.

The distribution of the absolute humidity about the cold-front storm, however, is unequal. It is more greater in the warm air in front of the storm than it is in the cold air to the rear. The absolute humidity, therefore, decreases as the storm passes over.

Frozen Stare During a recent major operation in Northern hospital, Liverpool, England, a young doctor was given the duty of seeing whether the patient's eye contracted or dilated under the anesthetic. To the observer's horror it did neither, and the patient was hastily revived. It then was discovered that the eye was a glass one.

Florida Everglades, Set Aside as Park Area, Will Open Tropical Wonderland to Americans and Visitors From Other Countries.

Approval by congress of the vast Everglades area in Florida as a national park opened the way for development of an interestingly tropical project which will rank in size and significance along with the Yellowstone and Yosemite attractions.

Known by most persons only as the home of the Seminole Indians and as ideal territory for hunting and fishing, the Everglades park holds a strange lure for the adventurer and the student of nature, once they have forced their way into the pristine interior.

The park area is about twice the size of Rhode Island, embracing more than 2,000 square miles. It offers an incalculably valuable study of plant and animal life in a distinctly tropical environment. Only a few scientists and a sprinkling of the more venturesome hunters among Floridians fully realize the importance of what the Everglades offer.

It sounds like fairytale fiction to say that the Everglades contain orchids so large that they have to be carried by four men, but that is the report of a scientist, Dr. John K. Small, head curator of the New York Botanical garden, and other responsible persons who have made their way into this exotic jungle area. Doctor Small, whose interest in the Everglades began more than thirty years ago, found orchids there with stems 15 feet long, on which were growing as many as 1,000 flowers. More than 25 varieties of orchids grow there. Many carloads of them have been shipped to northern markets during the past few years. It is estimated that some of the plants are 500 years old.

A large part of this area consists of thousands of islands and lakes and winding waterways teeming with many kinds of fish. One enthusiastic explorer, impressed with the heavily carpeted lands, said 10,000 persons could march through there and leave no footprints.

Mangrove trees there, many of which reach a height of 100 feet, have a strange beauty. There is a forest of them which covers 100 square miles. Coconuts, of course, are plentiful, and it is an odd fact that oysters grow on trees in this area. The current in the rising and falling salt water streams flows in such a manner as to make it possible for oysters to attach themselves to the surface roots of the mangrove trees.

Besides mangroves, this little-explored expanse of forest and waterways includes maple, ash, sweet gum, oak, magnolia, pine, cypress, gumbolmo, mahogany, ligum vitae and other species of trees. These, together with the rubber trees and many kinds of strong trailing vines, form such a dense living barrier that many parts of the Everglades are almost impenetrable.

Thousands of huge sea turtles, weighing from 100 to 300 pounds, come ashore at night to lay their eggs in the sands and leave them there to hatch. Natives have made extensive commercial use of both the turtles and the eggs, for one turtle lays from 150 to 200 eggs. The turtles are caught as they move between the water and their nests. Hunters hide until a turtle is several feet away from the water, then they rush up, flop her over on her back and leave her paddling the air until daylight, when they return and take their prey to market.

Perhaps the most impressive feature of this project, so far as the student of bird life is concerned, is the mysteriously beautiful flight of thousands of birds to and from their feeding grounds and roosting places. When they spread their wings and sail between the sun and a spectator, they offer a fascinating spectacle. They become a veritable cloud concealing the sun, their graceful bodies sailing in regimented rhythm and their wings reflecting a delicate pink.

Among the birds to be seen there are egrets, herons, cranes, ibis, flamingoes and spoonbills. Animals such as bear, deer, fox, wildcats, panthers, raccoons and opossums are there in large numbers, as are alligators, snakes and mosquitoes.

Florida's legislature has already made available 325,000 acres for the park, and the Royal Palm State park has been offered by the Florida Federation of Women's clubs. Donation of additional lands has been assured. Visitors will be able to travel by road for many miles, but they probably will find the travel much more interesting when done in small boats. This will give many indigent Seminole a permanent means of livelihood, for they are the only persons sufficiently familiar with the territory to serve as guides.

Instead of encroaching upon the last retreat of Indians who have, many claim, been imposed upon and exploited, the Everglades park project will serve as protection for them in several ways, according to plans being worked out by the bureau of Indian affairs.—New York Times.

Fly in Clenched Hand Guarantee of Honesty

On the way from Vienna to Budapest, let's stop at the Hungarian provincial town of Győr, for a taste of gypsy entertainment. A good Hungarian gypsy orchestra can, and does, turn the thoughts of the coldest of ladies towards romance better than any amount of champagne could do.

The cover charge evil has not penetrated this far inland, and we are treated to the spectacle of one of the gypsies going from customer to customer for tips after every third dance, holding what seems to be a collection plate in one hand, and with the other tightly clenched. Of this phenomenon, investigation proved more fruitful. The explanation of the one clenched hand is quite simple. It is a guarantee of honesty. It contains a live fly which the collector must bring back alive to his fellow musicians, to show that his hand has not accidentally abstracted a handful of coins from the collection plate for his own pocket, while he was in a far corner of the cafe.

The collector might, of course, catch him a new fly after a lapse from grace, and I suggested that the flies be branded. This novel idea was given due consideration by the orchestra, but then rejected, on the grounds that any motion so conspicuous as catching a new fly could not be concealed from the watchful eyes of the hardly-to-be-called-trusting colleagues.—Charles Layton in Esquire.

Clem's Quibs of Sport

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—This city, situated on the east bank of the Hudson, some eighty miles from New York, is one in which sportsmen, truly come up to the full meaning of the word.

Needless to say, baseball creates a sizeable amount of interest. But hunting, fishing and golfing also capture the interest of the fans. A twilight baseball league, similar to the one Carteret has had in the past, is in full swing.

The traditional Poughkeepsie regatta, bringing together the finest in college crews, is run here in the spring. The regatta is a great asset to Poughkeepsie business as well as prestige.

Boxing also takes a prominent part in the local sporting calendar. Such well known pug as Enzo Fiermonte, Kid Chocolate, Bat Battalino and others have used this city as a battling ground at one time or another.

Of the pug fights mentioned, Enzo Fiermonte, the handsome young Italian, stands out, not for his boxing ability, but for his matrimonial conflicts. However, as the writer does not consider the latter as a topic for this piece, he wishes to inform you that Fiermonte fought his first professional bout in the Woodcliffe Arena here.

Of the local pug in action at the present time, a youngster fighting under the name of Bat Levinsky is seen as a possible contender in the heavyweight class. Levinsky weighs in at 175, and to date has appeared in forty-five bouts. Not all the bouts have been professional shows.

So, we can see that Poughkeepsie is pretty spott-minded. Even sparring in the moonlight rates among the topnotch pastimes; lest you forget Vassar College is situated only a few blocks from here.

ROVERS WIN FIRST ROUND-ROBIN TILT

Table showing Senior Round-Robin standings with columns for W, L, and Pct. Rovers are listed with 1 win, 0 losses, and a 1.000 percentage.

A large crowd saw the Rovers take over the Clovers in the first tilt of a round-robin series for the light senior baseball championship of Carteret at the high school field, Wednesday evening, 8 to 5. The Aces will play the Clovers next Wednesday night.

The teams will play each other twice before the series is over. The winners will receive a cup donated by J. W. Mitchell.

Fighting hard to take the victory the Clovers scored a run and had two men on the sacks in the ninth inning with one out. Kosel struck out Masloch, who batted for Wadlak and forced Kohn to pop to first baseman Comba.

Of the eight runs scored by the Rovers, only three were earned. Terebecki outpitched Kosel, but his support was meagre.

In his report to the Board of Health last night, Frank Born, inspector, said, "No doubt the members are aware of the epidemic (of dysentery) in Jersey City for the past several weeks. One hundred and forty cases are in the hospital, with six fatal cases. It is well for the members (of the board of health) to assist in protecting food from flies, dust and other contamination in stores and otherwise. BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

CHEWINK IS GRATEFUL
FROM his perch in the top of a lit- tle tree in a thicket on the edge of the Green Forest, Chewink the Towhee watched Reddy Fox out of sight, then called softly: "To-whoee! To-whoee! Chewink! Chewink! All is safe now Peter Rabbit. Come out and talk with me and let me tell you how grateful I am to you for saving my life."

Chewink the Towhee Watched Reddy Fox Out of Sight.

Chewink flew down to the ground and Peter Rabbit crept out of the bramble-tangle where he had been hiding. "It wasn't anything," declared Peter. "I saw Reddy and I knew you didn't, so of course I gave the alarm. You would have done the same thing for me. Do you know, Chewink, I've wondered a great deal about you."

MOTHER PLAYS BRIDGE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

SHE would be a better player if she could just leave behind all the dear domestic problems that perplex her loving mind. If she could forget the children and the naughty things they did— But that's just what she remembers! She forgets the no-trump bid!

If she didn't have her mind on Mrs. Johnson's lovely gown; If she wouldn't bother listing all the things she'll buy in town, She would be a better player! Now she's making up her face, And she's sort of absent-minded As she trumps her partner's ace!

She would be a better player! She describes each dress that's worn! The refreshments? She could make 'em. And her husband laughs in scorn, Though there's humor in his laughter As he hears his bonny lass. When he bids "Two hearts!" say: "Partner! You'll excuse me! . . . I'll just pass!"

If she'd concentrate five minutes, What a player she would be, But she must describe her diet, And the show she went to see. She would be a better player, Dad opines (and he is human!) If she'd keep her mind on contract And forget she is a woman! (Copyright)—WNU Service.

The Hunch

By PHYLLIS M. GALLAGHER

FOR three hours now Marjorie's roadster had been parked around the corner from Engine House No. 20, not close enough to see the men in the shadows of the ponderous engines but close enough to hear the bell announcing fires.

Donald had said: "Listen, honey! I've been looking for a job ever since I graduated two years ago. Who knows when this depression is going to end? I'm fed up with being the laughing son of rich parents. This is a job; I'm going to take it; be proud of it!"

"But Don! Father offered . . .!" His sensitive, stubborn mouth had hardened. He wouldn't, he had informed her, spend his life relying on her father, pretending that his position as law clerk paid the freight. "Donald! Must we wait forever?" Tears had sprung to her eyes. They had waited so long, already.

"Marjorie, your father patronizes me!" Don had once said. It wasn't true! Her father, sizing him up, had seemed cold and impenetrable behind the set lines of his face. But he wanted Don in his office because he believed in his ability.

Suddenly the hush of the lethargic day was broken by a clamor of bells. The long red engines swinging from No. 20 into the boulevard, sirens clearing their path, were not difficult to follow. When they turned into Lafayette square, Marjorie observed a group of people at the curb waving frantically. From their excited gesticulations, she surmised that the alarm was in the very heart of the city's largest public park.

Donald, his expression studiously indifferent, for he had seen Marjorie slide from her roadster, was hauling the massive hose from the engine, several blue-coated firemen helping. The crowd was thickening, squinting their eyes against the sun, inquiring: "Where's the fire? A false alarm?"

Marjorie dug her hands deep in the pockets of her tweed sweater coat as Donald's glance swept over her ignoring. But his face, deepening to the crimson paint-job of the engines snorting at the curb, betrayed him. She knew that he was suffering beneath her tongue-in-the-cheek attitude. For, indeed, that was how she felt. She was waiting for Don to do his stuff, as he had phrased it, to perform some of the feats that had inspired him, the night before, to say: "Why, Marjorie! Firemen are heroes, actually!"

She had bristled with anger under 'his smug content. "Don! I'm not belittling the fire department! I am criticizing you! You're taking that job from some man who really needs it!"

"Who needs a job worse than I?" "But you have a chance in dad's office, to follow your own profession. You'd be hot if a fireman took a law partnership you wanted!"

Donald was threading the hose through the thick shrubbery of the park now, other firemen following close behind. When they reached the scene of the trouble, they all stood back, startled, months ago. A crowd had gathered around a man who was obviously too terrorized to scream, his eyes dilated above a luxuriously bearded face, his hands clutching wildly at the air. "A lunatic!" some one screamed.

Then a youth rushed to Donald and began excitedly. "That guy was asleep on the bench, mister, 'n' a swarm of bees got in his beard! Give him the works!"

With that the crowd fell back and Donald, manning the hose, aimed at the victim. But Donald wasn't a fireman, really, and the powerful stream of water sent the man sprawling into a blossoming bed of tulips. Donald, excited, accidentally increased the flow and the hose, like an alive reptile, writhed out of his hands. The crowd scrambled futilely for safety behind trees, water streaming after them, soaking them to their skins; and Marjorie, taking a horrified step to Donald's assistance, was drenched with the rest.

CONVENTION PRESCRIBES

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it proper to give a pharmacist the title of "doctor" or not? I am about to have wedding announcements engraved and am wavering between "Mister" and "Doctor" because I don't know.

Answer: This is really a question of personal opinion, but best taste usually confines such use of the title Dr. to a D. D. or an M. D. or a D. D. S.

My dear Mrs. Post: The depression has not sufficiently lifted from our family and I must have a small house wedding because of the expenses. Please tell me how to plan an informal marriage service and still not have things any old way?

Answer: You can't have an informal marriage service, because it is a church ceremony. The words ceremonial and formal mean the same thing. You can of course have a simple wedding. Arrange a background of flowers or tree branches, or still more simply, stand in front of drawn curtains. The service is of course the same for every marriage: the clergyman enters first, the groom and best man follow him, your maid of honor then enters alone, and you with your father follow her. After the ceremony you and your husband turn and face the guests who one by one offer you their good wishes. Serve wedding cake and a fruit punch. If this seems to you not enough, add sandwiches and either tea or coffee or bouillon. This is really plenty.

Dear Mrs. Post: Very often I have a family in to dinner, of which one member is left-handed. My husband suggested that next time they are expected I set one place at table with the knives and spoons on the left side of the plate and the forks on the right. Is this ever done? Answer: Not that I know of. Left-handed people must naturally accustom themselves to conventional table setting. So much so that it is questionable whether upsetting the regularity of your table would even add to the comfort of those who in picking up implements have become accustomed to cross their hands over their plates.

MISCELLANEOUS

DEAR Mrs. Post: I like tinted nail polish and my husband doesn't. He argues that such polish is decidedly opposed to good taste. We have gradually gotten into an argument about this, which is becoming irritating out of all proportion to its trifling subject, and we have now decided to ask you to decide whether tinted nails are anything for a husband to grow rabid about?

Answer: Since the supposition of a husband's growing rabid over nail polish is not quite believable, I'm not quite sure whether this letter is intended to be answered seriously or to be taken as a jest. However, supposing the question to be genuine, I would say that nails carefully manicured and slightly tinted are certainly in good taste. But gilded or silvered or deeply colored ones are something else again. In fact, those deepest red ones, which look as though the nail had been torn off and the finger ends left bleeding, are revolting to all except the few who have become inured to the shock of them. As a matter of fact, I doubt very much if a man can be found who does not hate them.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening my employer invited me to go home to supper with him and his family, so that afterwards we could finish some work. His wife and young daughter were extremely pleasant and hospitable, but never asked me to remove my hat. I went to the table with it on and worked for several hours after the meal in the same discomfort. Is it necessary to wait until the hostess says something?

Answer: Your employer's wife might perhaps have asked you if you would like to take off your hat. But I imagine that she thought you preferred to keep it on, since you did not take it off, before going into the dining room. Whenever you go to anyone's house for an evening meal and are wearing a day dress and hat, you take off the hat only if you want to. Asking anyone to take off hat or gloves is rarely if ever heard in the present day. A hostess sometimes says to a friend who continues to sit in a heavy coat, "Don't you want to take your coat off?" This is not a phrase of hospitality so much as an exclamation made because she feels that her guest is absent-mindedly unaware of her own discomfort.

Ancient Secret Revealed

Why Christian Serbs in the Petch district of Yugoslavia have for centuries placed lighted candles in the cemetery of an old Moslem mosque, known as St. George's columns, has been revealed by excavations. Those who followed the custom did not know why it was done, and had never heard a satisfactory explanation from their ancestors. The excavations show that the mosque was built by victorious Turks on the site of an ancient Christian monastery dedicated to St. George. It is evident that even after their monastery had been removed the defeated Serbs continued to place the lighted candles.

M. E. YORKE, Publisher

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1908, at the post office at Carteret, N. J., under act of March 3, 1879.

THE CARTERET NEWS was founded June 17, 1908 as THE ROOSEVELT NEWS; was published on Wednesdays until July 15, 1909; was then published on Thursdays until December 6, 1912, since which time it has been a Friday paper. The title of the paper became THE CARTERET NEWS on November 17, 1922, following the election of November 7, 1922, when the people of the Borough voted to change the name of the Borough from Roosevelt to Carteret by a vote of 1652 to 203.

ACCIDENTS

The New York Police have just completed a study of traffic accidents.

This study revealed that 91 people are killed yearly at crossings who go against the lights; 2400 are injured in attempting to cross against the lights.

Eighty-six are killed in attempting to cross in the middle of the block and 3,000 are injured for the same reason.

These are rather significant figures. It clearly indicates that the pedestrians are careless. It ought to sober us all up. We need to keep our eyes open when 91 people are killed and 2,400 are injured crossing against lights. The figures on those who attempt to cross in the middle of the block, also, are enlightening.

It is evident enough that if we value our lives we had better plan to cross with the lights at the regular crossings. Traffic conditions today with their regulations places a responsibility upon the pedestrian if he is interested in being safe and sound. It places no less responsibility upon the automobilist. The automobilist will have to watch out more carefully for those who are careless or otherwise neglectful. Occasionally you find someone who is just too smart trying to cross in the middle of the block in the thick of traffic or against the lights. They are inviting injury and death. However, if you are driving an automobile it does not lessen your responsibility that they may be neglectful and careless. No one should want to maim or kill anyone. These figures should also sober up the automobilist and make him more careful. Traffic conditions of ten years ago are by no means the conditions of today.

So much for the figures for New York City where plenty of people from Carteret drive occasionally or walk, but what about the figures for instance in the State of New Jersey. In our State 1,185 persons were killed and 28,158 injured in 1933. Approximately 9,000 accidents were due to collisions with pedestrians; 22,000 were due to collisions with other vehicles; approximately 1,900 were accounted for by encounters with trees, poles, etc. The accidents on State highways were 7,100 resulting in 402 deaths.

That we all need to be very much more careful is revealed by the State study of accidents. There is no time when it is safe to drive like the wind.

Strange as it may seem, 83% of the accidents have occurred on clear days. Again, the State of New Jersey finds what New York City finds, that 47% of the accidents occur at intersections. Dry pavements are responsible for 77% of the accidents. Here is a strange thing, that 44% of the accidents occur at night, when traffic equals only 20% of the 24 hour total. This is probably due to thoughtless people driving on State highways as fast as they can without any idea that they may meet anyone at the crossroads or that they might be blinded by a light coming around a curve which is not in sight as they step on it. This 44% is real indictment of those who fail to control their cars. In those cases they are evidently driving too fast or carelessly so they are unable to check themselves at crossings or unable to slow down when a blinding light comes around a curve, resulting in a crash either into another car or off the road.

The foregoing are actual figures collected in the City of New York and the State of New Jersey.

Incidentally, New Jersey is far from a poor State. The 1930 census showed we had slightly over four million people. The motor vehicle registrations in 1933 were approximately 846,000, or close to one motor vehicle for every 4.7 persons.

HOUSING ACT

The National Housing Act intended to speed up repairs and give more work to painters, carpenters and odd-job men, as well as furnish a demand for materials of one kind or another, has not really begun to function.

Up to the present they have been working on the details. It is claimed that soon now the machinery will be set up so that loans may be made to all those who heretofore have felt that repairs were needed but that they were not in a position to either spend or borrow the money.

The National Housing Act is an attempt to make credit easy specifically for such repairs.

The understanding is that the National Housing Administration will not itself lend money but it will insure the loans of financial agencies in the different communities. The Government insurance under the act is limited to 20% of the loans made by any such agency.

Owners who have secured reliable estimates for specific repair or alterations will in all probability make application to a lending institution for a loan when the matter is worked out.

Those who are confused as to what course to follow will be referred to a local committee, which is to be set up in every community in the country.

Where the owners contemplate extensive repairs or remodeling on a large scale it will probably be necessary for them to have an architect so that plans will be in such shape as to make proper estimates as to cost.

Savings banks and building and loan associations restricted in the type of credit they can extend, probably will add to their present mortgages.

THE NEWS TEN YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

ISSUE OF AUGUST 8, 1924

Complaint was made at the Council meeting that the gas pressure was too low and something should be done about it.

Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill appointed Robert R. Brown, justice of peace, to act as recorder of the local police court during the absence of T. L. Slugg, who is on a vacation.

August Lauter, Walter Colquhoun and Robert Lane made a tour to California. Mr. Lauter has returned and says, "There is no place like home." Colquhoun and Lane remained in the Sunnisk State for a while longer.

Tomorrow afternoon the corner-stone for the new borough hall will be set in place. (7848).

Funeral services were held for William A. Schorer, of Maurer, formerly of Carteret, Sunday. He was instantly killed in Newark, Friday, when a steel plate blew from an air-pressure tank and decapitated him. He was twenty-eight.

Herman Yanke, of Lafayette street succumbed to typhoid fever last night at thirty-eight.

On either next Tuesday or Wednesday, Louis Kanucy will cover the first long lap in his coast-to-coast bicycle ride when he arrives at Seattle, Wash. One experience on the way was his falling off a cliff 15 feet high during a terrific sand storm.

Pitching for the Carteret Juniors, Fred Lauter just missed a shutout over the Misdom All Stars, giving only two hits. The score was 6-1. In the Juniors lineup were: Cromwell, ss. Ed Helly, 3b; Joe Sexton, cf; Emil Helly, lf; Balerich, 2b; Yorke, 1b; Herman, rf; Bill Lynch, 2b; Harrigan, catcher; and Fred Lauter, pitcher. Notice that Gerry Harrigan, who later became a famous pitcher, did the catching in this one.

Les Olbricht is improving from an infection of his jaw and neck. He is about town again recuperating.

Household Electric Service

On a "5 and 10" Basis

"FRED, I've just read a Public Service ad in the paper which says we pay only $2.80 a month for our electricity."

"I read that ad, too, Mary," replied her husband, "and it didn't say we paid $2.80 but that the average monthly bill of domestic consumers was $2.80. That's different."

Fred's reply to his wife was correct. The average monthly bill paid by approximately 700,000 domestic customers is $2.80—LESS THAN TEN CENTS A DAY.

If $2.80 is the average bill, it naturally follows that many bills are less than $2.80 and others are more than $2.80.

As an illustration, one out of four, or 175,000 domestic consumers, paid in 1933 not more than $1.50 per month for their electricity. THIS IS ONLY FIVE CENTS A DAY.

One out of three, or 233,000 domestic consumers, paid not more than $1.80 per month for their electricity, or SIX CENTS A DAY.

Those who paid more than $2.80 per month enjoyed the use of more labor-saving appliances which in many instances take the place of servants.

Electricity is the best and cheapest servant that any household can have.

No other item in the household budget offers so much for so little as electricity

LIBRARY CHAT

By WILLIAM HARRINGTON
Carteret Public Library

The library has acquired two new books this week, and by a strange coincidence they are diametrically opposed in their expression of our existing world. (7822).

Ernst Henri's "HITLER OVER EUROPE" is one of the most terrifying and blood-curdling documents the reader is likely to encounter for a long time. It is a charting in blood and iron of the direction of a world movement of incalculable significance. While Walter Lippmann in "THE METHOD OF FREEDOM" believes that freedom is finding a new incarnation in a new body of principles.

Mr. Lippmann feels the changes taking place in the English speaking countries, yet he does not attempt to examine in detail the measures taken in these countries during the last ten years, although he states clearly and forcibly the general principles in which this new freedom is found and by means of which, as he sees it, "a nation possessing a highly developed economy and habituated to freedom can make freedom secure amidst the disorders of the modern world." (7795).

Rush on Tarzan Books

There has been a grand rush on the four TARZAN books that were recently purchased at the library. Nor are the readers of these stories of the King of the Jungle, confined to adolescents.

Gift by Mrs. W. Nash

We wish to acknowledge a gift from Mrs. William Nash of a block of juvenile books. The library greatly welcomes gifts of books, and is deeply grateful to any such donor.

Pimples on Face Never Could Shave

Healed by Cuticura

"Three years ago my face and arms broke out with a skin eruption that was followed by large, red pimples. They festered and went all over my face and arms. They itched and burned and I could never shave. I lost much rest at night with them.

"Nothing I tried helped very much. Then I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased them. I used about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment and now I feel like a new man. I am completely healed." (Signed) Harry R. The Carteret News

M. E. YORKE, Publisher

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1908, at the post office at Carteret, N. J., under act of March 3, 1879.

THE CARTERET NEWS was founded June 17, 1908 as THE ROOSEVELT NEWS; was published on Wednesdays until July 15, 1909; was then published on Thursdays until December 6, 1912, since which time it has been a Friday paper. The title of the paper became THE CARTERET NEWS on November 17, 1922, following the election of November 7, 1922, when the people of the Borough voted to change the name of the Borough from Roosevelt to Carteret by a vote of 1652 to 203.

NOT YET

Ever since the event of the New Deal there has been talk of making business "better" by putting up prices.

The theorists tell us that if prices are higher more can be employed, etc.

However, they neglected to figure out who would buy at higher prices.

In a number of businesses they put up prices under the N. R. A., but soon had to lower them since they found the "buying" just dried up.

More recently the automobile industry had to lower its prices after just increasing the price.

The increased price killed the sales with the result cars piled up on their hands and they decided to cut again.

Increasing prices had the opposite effect to what the theorists expected.

What it did was to kill sales, reduce employment at automobile factories, steel mills and elsewhere.

If automobile manufacturers can not sell they cannot employ labor and they cannot buy steel and other products which means the steel mills and others dependent on automobile manufacturers' orders have to reduce forces.

There is no short cut to getting back to more normal conditions. It has been and will be a slow process.

Merely saying "Well, when we had boom times, we had higher prices, let us put up prices and we will have boom times again", will not do.

If it was as easy as all that, we would have cured the depression long ago by merely putting prices skyhigh.

Prices depend upon the demand and purchasing power of those who are in the market to buy and upon very little else.

The fellow, who has a little store and is unable to sell his goods, knows full well he has to adjust his prices to his customers' ability and desire to buy if he wants to get cash.

Incidentally, the steel districts and some others are again down appreciably.

Carteret industries are pegging along and by shifting and turning are trying not to slip back as have the steel and other centers.

They will have all they can do here to keep what business is in Carteret from being shifted to other company plants which are idle and begging for the work that is at Carteret.

We trust what work there is stays here. More than 1,500 local residents have been put to work here in the last year due to the plants' managements fine efforts and co-operation.

NOT ALONE

The slowing up of the steel and automobile industries has been noticeable due in part to their size and the fact that many have their eyes on steel as a business barometer. The automobile industry, too, in a measure is something of a business barometer, but in a little different way.

When steel is on anything like a 90% production basis, it means the railroads are buying heavily, that the construction industries are ordering and the automobile factories are requiring what the steel mills make.

If the railroads, the construction industry and the automobile factories are consistently ordering steel then the country as a whole is busy.

Steel in 1933 was down to about 20% of capacity. It climbed up to around fifty per cent and is now down back to 25%. Despite all the government programs to-date, the demand for steel for construction has been very, very light. The figures for steel operation nothing else.

The employment figures for July in New York State, the largest industrial State in the Union, shows a noticeable net decline.

So the steel industry is not alone in slowing down. Just as when the steel industries go up general business follows, so, too, when the steel industries steadily drop, business generally slumps off. That is what happened uniformly in New York State and the Country generally.

What is to be hoped for is that when a gain is made the country can hold the advance made and gradually improve its position. So far we have not been able to do this. What has happened in the steel industries and as shown by New York's figures for all States, shows that we are unable to hold our ground.

The fellow in the shop working on a job knows he is busy but does not realize the company has few orders ahead and may have to close.

In this respect, too, business is following steel, realizing if it is to continue at all it must further reduce its outgo. So with business anything but steady, those attempting to still hold on to them and get enough orders to retain their factory, sales and office forces, have plenty to worry about that the fellow on the job never suspects. Yet work and jobs can only come from more orders to turn out goods. Few stop to think that jobs do not come out of the thin air and that when someone is inclined to purchase goods, all factories compete to get the job of making those goods. The factories that consistently get orders have jobs working on those orders. However, no factory to-day generally speaking, is sure of keeping going at the present rate because there are not enough orders in sight to make that possible. What has happened in the great steel centers applies generally. Factories only can keep going if they have orders ahead to turn out goods. Hot air makes no orders and provides no jobs and the Winter will soon be here.

Of Every Electric Dollar 16 Cents Go for Taxes!

TAXES figure more directly and to a much larger extent in the rates charged for electric service than most persons realize. This applies to the household customer as well as the power user.

As stated before in this series of advertisements, the average monthly bill paid by nearly 700,000 domestic customers of this company is $2.80—i.e., less than 10 cents a day.

But this doesn't mean that all of the $2.80 remains with the company which supplies the service.

As a matter of fact 16 cents out of every dollar—or 45 cents out of every $2.80—collected by the Electric Department goes back to the public in the form of taxes.

Again, one out of every four, or about 175,000 domestic customers of the company paid in 1933 not more than an average of $1.50 per month for their electricity. This represented an average cost of only 5 cents a day and 16 cents out of every dollar—or 24 cents out of every $1.50—collected from this large group of customers was returned to the public in the form of taxes.

It costs money to run the various forms of government and taxes are necessarily imposed for such purposes. It so happens, though, that in New Jersey electric companies are taxed at higher rates than elsewhere and these higher taxes are reflected in rates charged.

As above stated, 16 cents out of every dollar collected by the Electric Department goes for taxes.

LIBRARY CHAT
By WILLIAM HARRINGTON
Carteret Public Library

If we were to follow our natural impulse, this is one time we would issue engraved invitations to every citizen of the borough of Carteret to visit the Free Public Library. That is exactly the way we are feeling about all those improvements we have been promising you.

In the past week the library has taken on a very grand new air—the new addition is completed and furnished—the entire library, in fact, has been completely rearranged and the improvement, we are confident will please you.

Therefore, lacking the engraved invitations, we are using our "Library Chat" column as a medium through which we sincerely urge you to visit your library and let us show you, personally, just what has been done and will be done in the future.

Make it a point this next week to visit the library. See the new children's department under the guidance of a personal librarian.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME—
by Walter B. Pitkin

The author of "Life Begins at Forty", Walter B. Pitkin, gives in this, his latest book, a message of stunning significance to young America. "Chance of a Lifetime" is considered by authorities to be Mr. Pitkin's most important volume. In this book he presents specific lines of action which young people must adopt at once—or remain "on the outside" for several years to come.

One of the most original and important phases of the long-term program in Mr. Pitkin's book, is his proposal that large, well-organized colonies of the younger generation band together to take over communities and by sheer organized numbers dominate local politics.

Readers of "Life Begins at Forty" and Mr. Pitkin's daily radio public will find him "up to par" in "The Chance of a Lifetime."

The library is very grateful to Mrs. Mary Armour for a donation of a large number of assorted books which are a valuable asset.

REAL COMFORT IN COAT DRESS

PATTERN 1810

Since it is perfectly obvious from the sketch how smart this house frock is, we are going to begin by calling your attention to how nice it is to slip into a coat dress the first thing in the morning or when one comes in from outdoors and wishes to get into "working clothes" as quickly as possible. One throws it around her—ties the sash—and that is that, so far as putting it on is concerned. But the enjoying of it has just begun. It is such a satisfaction to know that one is looking pretty and well dressed as one goes about doing this little thing and that—everything seems easier!

Pattern 1810 is available in sizes: 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 takes 4 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

UNSEEN SPIRIT

"Didn't you put up the money for that big musical show?"
"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Sax.
"But your name isn't mentioned on the program."
"Of course not. I'm the ghost underwriter."

A man sent a couple of empty gasoline cans, with a sarcastic note, to a firm of motor manufacturers.
"Make me one of your famous cars with these," said the note.
Next day the car was delivered. An accompanying note said: "What shall we do with the second tin?"

Awful Prospect

Mabel (studying geography)—Oh, nurse, I'm so glad Mummy's only got us three children.
Nurse—Why, dear?
Mabel—Because it says that every fourth child born into the world is Chinese.

To Soften Butter

You will find it much easier to make sandwiches if you soften the butter before spreading it on the bread. Here is the easiest way to soften it: Place the butter in a small dish. Pour a few drops of hot water on the butter. Work it in until the butter is soft enough to spread easily.

In Just One Minute

What happens in a minute? Have you ever given it a thought? The human heart beats approximately 72 times a minute, 90 babies come into the world every minute, 76 people die every minute. Each minute one person is injured in a street or road accident in the British Isles.

In the civilized world 20 couples marry, and one couple is divorced every minute. Education costs the country $65 per minute.

The damage done by the destruction of rats costs $50 every minute. Despite this, if all the rats in the country were to file past a given spot at the rate of seven per minute, all would not have passed in a year.

Recently an airplane flew from Paris to West Africa at the rate of two and a quarter miles a minute.

One of Britain's coal ports alone loads no fewer than 17 tons of coal every minute to be shipped to all parts of the world.—London Tit-Bits.
