

Give the Little Folks Hand Crochet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MAYBE you will and maybe you won't have time to crochet one or the other of the cunning garments here pictured before Christmas, but where there is a will to do and dare why not "get busy" and find a way? Really, can you think of anything to hang on the Christmas tree that will bring greater joy to the heart of a child than either of these cunning hand-crochet frocks or the gay coat with its jaunty matching beret?

Anyway what if you do not see your way clear to finish before the holidays, a gift as adorable as this will be hailed with delight any day on the calendar. Being done in sturdy mercerized crochet cotton, apparel like this is an all-year-round proposition so far as timely wearableness is concerned. Either little dress will be charming to wear to parties this winter, made in a dark or a pastel color, and being washable they will emerge from their tubing all ready to wear when spring and summer comes.

To "brighten the corner where you are" is no task for a little girl dressed for a party in the hand-crochet dress of bright yellow pearl cotton (centered in the group). The skirt is a series of crochet-lace ruffles done in shell mesh stitch, matching the round collar and slightly puff sleeves. Each ruffle, and about the neck and sleeves, is tipped with white. There is no wear-out to a dress of this mercerized cotton.

The simple little slip of a frock on the lovely child seated is easier to make and takes less time to complete than the one just described. Any little girl would be proud of this Sunday-go-to-meeting dress of mercerized crochet cotton. There will never be any trouble in persuading a young lady to hurry and get dressed if she can tumble into this pretty little frock. Make it in any color you choose, for mercerized crochet cotton comes in dozens and dozens of delectable tones and tints from dark to light.

Perhaps you think a gift of jacket-sweater with matching beret would be more apropos for the youngster you have in mind. The two-piece ensemble in the picture is easily made of knitting and crochet cotton. It is a question whether it is more effective in navy, brown or wine-red. The embroidery which adds so vastly to its attractiveness is done in a lazy-daisy stitch—the easiest, quickest decorative stitch known in needle artcraft. Don't forget the cluster of lazy-daisies which tops the crown of the beret.

There now! We have told you about crochet for little folks but have you seen the stunning triangle scarfs crocheted or knitted of mercerized cotton in the color you like best, which make such acceptable gifts for grown-ups? They are bordered on two sides with hand-tied fringe just as are the silk fabric or velvet ones which are making such a hit in neckwear displays this year.

BIAS-CUT CLOTHES POPULAR IN PARIS

There is much more give and take in our new clothes judging from the numbers of things brought out on the bias.

Sleeves are set into shoulders biasly, or very often sleeves and yoke, coming down in a design back and front, appear on short jackets as well as three-quarter and full-length coats, and on dresses themselves.

Another 1934 winter notion is the use of solid color in two and three-piece suits with the splash of color coming in a short scarf about one yard long and six to ten inches wide. This is knotted rather close at the throat and the ends are sometimes tucked in or else they are tucked through tabs that button or fasten on the back of the lapels of the jacket or coat.

Long Slender Tunics in Latest Afternoon Models

Elaborate afternoon models this season show long, slender tunics, almost following in style the three-quarter or seven-eighth coat. These tunics are always in contrasting material and tone. They are noted in faconne rayon crepe, lame and rayon, ottoman and faille, to accompany dull velvet costumes. Marcel Rochas shows elaborate tunics in lame, chenille material, tufted fabrics, quilted crepe and in beaded or spangled fabrics, to accompany his smart ensembles combining a mixture of wool and slit cellulose film.

Dresses, Tight to Knees, Now Develop Into Train

Lucien Lelong shows evening dresses extremely close-fitted in front and at back down to the knees, where, through a clever cut, it develops into a long graceful train. Molyneux obtains train effects by adding at the back of his evening dresses a sort of second hem, which is sewn under the edge of the long skirt and allowed to fall on the ground. Some of these trains in hem effect are entirely covered with plastic sequins, forming a contrasting appearance with the dull rayon satins or crepe of the dress.

SWISH OF TAFFETA By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Again the swish of taffeta resounds in fashion's realm. Especially during the romantic evening hours does the murmuring of its rustle make music in the air. What's more "they say" that taffeta will be a very important fabric both in winter resort and early spring modes. The dance frock pictured is of deep blue celanese taffeta. A huge bow of self-taffeta at the neck and a pronounced flare of fullness from the knee carry this lovely and youthful gown to a point of high distinction.

Snappy Buttons

This is a year of snappy buttons as seen in new collections. Some dress makers show no other fastening or but toning than large plastic clips.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY by Vance Wynn Public Ledger

The Gentleman From Paris

IT ALL came about from engaging a caretaker without looking into his antecedents.

Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Depinni—the last named being an Italian countess—had a winter home in Minneapolis.

They were in the habit of going south for winter, and left the Western home in charge of a venerable servant.

One year when they returned to Minneapolis they discovered that the servant had disappeared, and with him many of the precious possessions of the family.

These included a rare watch that had once been the property of Cardinal Richelieu, and a grape cluster design in pearls, diamonds and platinum, the work of the peerless artist, Benvenuto Cellini.

It was felt instinctively that the stolen goods had been taken to New York, so Doctor Depinni called upon George E. Dougherty, a clever detective of that city, who had made a reputation by solving more than one perplexing case.

His first inquiry concerned the venerable caretaker.

The victims were sure that he was all right; they feared, in fact, that he might have met with foul play.

As a proof of the man's good name, they exhibited a sheaf of letters of recommendation he had brought with him when he applied for the job. Dougherty investigated and found that all the letters had been forged.

This satisfied him that the man was a crook, and, from the character of the robbery, he was convinced that the caretaker worked with confederates.

His first move was to make a tour of the pawnshops of New York.

After that he visited many of the dealers in antiques.

On the second day of the search he was fortunate enough to come across the famous Richelieu watch in a shop on Sixth avenue.

The dealer pretended to be very much shocked when he was told that he had purchased stolen goods, and, in reparation, said he was willing to do all in his power to bring the thief to justice.

He stated that the man had told him his name was "Mr. Coates," and that he had picked up this antique and others in the Rue Madame, that street of famous antique shops in the French capital.

It had been "picked up" truly enough, but not in the manner nor in the place suggested by the clever crook.

The dealer was able to give a very good description of the man who had sold him the watch.

He said that he was of medium build, smooth shaven, of an olive complexion and with dark eyes.

The rogues' gallery was consulted and the detective found several men by the name of Coates, but none of them answered the description of the gentleman who seemed to be so familiar with the Rue Madame.

Dougherty now turned his attention to the second-hand stores, and, by great good luck, he located a dealer who had purchased the grape cluster design made by Benvenuto Cellini.

This man was able to give him a clue regarding the whereabouts of the elusive "Mr. Coates."

He said he had gone West, and thought he was living in Wisconsin.

It did not take Dougherty long to get to Milwaukee, and there, with the aid of the police, he located the man for whom he had been searching so long.

He was existing in a hall bedroom, and, having spent all of his money, was on the lookout for a fresh job.

The detective, in short, had struck him at the psychological moment.

Dougherty played his part cautiously. He might have arrested him on suspicion, but he did not propose to do anything like that.

What he wanted was real evidence. At their second meeting he began to talk about antiques and said that he had a customer who was anxious to get some rare Seventeenth century works of art, that he was willing to pay a big price for the right kind of articles.

The so-called "Mr. Coates" swallowed the bait line, hook and sinker and offered to take the detective to a place in New York where he could get the watch once owned by the great French cardinal.

The rest of it was detail. It was proved that the fellow was the confederate of the caretaker who had robbed the Western home of Doctor Depinni, and after the usual formalities, he was placed on trial and promptly convicted.

He was given a long sentence, during which it is to be presumed that he had ample opportunity for improving his knowledge of the French language and French antiques.

Magellan Straits

The Straits of Magellan are more than 300 miles long, measured by the ship channel, which must be followed. Penguins are seen in great numbers along the route; seals and whales are plentiful and the albatross is sometimes encountered. Mt. Sarmiento, 7,330 feet high, covered for 6,000 feet with snow and glaciers, is one of its greatest sights. The straits are at the tip of South America.

"DRESDEN PLATE" CROCHETED RUG

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

In Colonial days patchwork quilts and rag rugs were very popular. During the past 3 or 4 years patchwork quilts have been the leading item of interest for home art needleworkers. In 1933, when the crocheted rag rug in quilt design appeared, women all over the country took great interest in this new and beautiful way of making rag rugs. The old rugs were either round or oval, crocheted row after row until desired size was obtained. Changing of colors was the only variation. In quilt design rugs many beautiful combinations are possible and the work is really interesting.

Illustration above shows the "Dresden Plate" rug, named after the Dresden Plate or Friendship quilt, a pattern that every woman knows. This rug is another popular pattern, measures 34 inches and can be made from 40 oz. of Grandmother Clark's rag rug strips or 32 oz. of "Linkraft," the new woven material for rag rugs.

Send 15c to our Rug Department and get our book No. 24 showing 20 different crocheted rugs in quilt design in colors with illustrations.

Illicit Drug Profits

The most profitable business in the world today is the handling of illicit narcotics. The manufacturer of heroin, for instance, makes it for $25 a pound and sells it to his distributors for $1,225, which is a profit of 4,800 per cent. The distributors in turn sell it in small quantities to consumers at the rate of $125,000 a pound, which is a profit for them of more than 10,000 per cent. The cost to the user consequently is one-half million per cent of the manufacturer's cost price.—Collier's Weekly.

LIST OF HOAXES FILLS BIG BOOK

That old saw credited to Phineas T. Barnum, of circus fame, to the effect that "there's a sucker born every minute" is more or less upheld by a huge volume on "Hoaxes, Forgeries, Swindles, and Impositions" which now rests in the library of the University of Wisconsin.

Compiled and written by Curtis D. MacDougall as partial fulfillment of his work for the degree of doctor of philosophy from the university, the 596-page book lists and contains information on some 400 hoaxes, forgeries, and swindles which have been "piled" on the human race during the past 2,500 years.

Among the more modern hoaxes reviewed in the book is the Drake estate swindle. This swindle has been worked by many different individuals. In every case the victim is informed that he is the lawful heir to the ill-gained wealth of the notorious buccaner, Sir Francis Drake, of the Sixteenth century. The magnanimous exponent of the news, of course, has to be reimbursed for his legal activities, and the litigation which follows is likely to become as expensive as the purse of the victimized "heir" permits.

Besides the more modern swindles and hoaxes, the book also contains lists and descriptions of ancient forgeries and hoaxes, and religious and literary hoaxes and forgeries. It describes the make-believe impostors of the ages, historical fakes, political tricks, scientific hoaxes, art fakes, journalistic hoaxes, swindles, and various kinds of puffery.

In discussing the importance of hoaxes, MacDougall points out that his survey seemed to show that people feel it is not disagreeable to be fooled provided one does not discover what has happened.

"But once started, a hoax is difficult to stop," he explains, "Some intended to achieve only a temporary result cause furies of popular excitement far beyond the anticipations of the originators. Others, even though exposed, through ignorance or intention, continue to spread. When the truth finally becomes generally known, the 'damage' wrought by the falsity has become institutionalized and is impossible to change.

"Crowds have rioted and governments have been threatened and overthrown, both peacefully and by violence, international relations have been strained, and wars have been fought as the result of hoaxes," he continues, "Scholars have met in serious conclaves, or have traveled to all parts of the earth, navigators have sailed the seas, audiences have filled halls, the stock market has risen and fallen, newspaper offices have been raided and closed, court trials have dragged on for months, merely because some individual or individuals had to have his or their joke."

But the hoaxers themselves remain virtually unaffected, MacDougall points out. A few have gone to prison or in some other way have been made to regret their actions. The vast majority, however, never have been brought to trial, either because of indifference toward them or because of the absence of any legal means by which they could be indicted. Many have been honored and respected even after their actions have been exposed, while others enjoy posthumous reputations, he maintains.

Putting It Neatly

When T. R. was President he had a habit, very annoying to some members of his cabinet, of suddenly phoning an invitation to breakfast. There were no gossipings or discussions of matters of state, the object apparently simply being to eat breakfast in the Presidential aura, and most officials seized every possible excuse to avoid them.

One morning the President called Elihu Root, who hemmed and hawed as he tried to think of a reasonable excuse.

"I understand you, Elihu," interrupted Mr. Roosevelt. "What you mean is that you'll come—if you have no subsequent engagement."

THREE CENTS

ARREST SUSPECT AS CLUE TO MURDER OF LOCAL NEGRO

Mrs. Anna May Pease, colored, was arrested in Egg Harbor early Tuesday as a suspect in the murder Friday night of Roosevelt Roberts, colored.

Roberts was found dead last Friday night in the home at 35 Mercer street, which he allegedly shared with the Pease woman. William Douglas, of 21 Warren street, who entered the Roberts home after a little girl who lived above the Roberts told him she had heard "moaning."

The dead man was sprawled on a bed as if he had backed into it in his death struggle. A deep throat wound near the jugular vein had caused death.

Douglas called the police and Coroner Edward A. Finn and Assistant County Prosecutor James S. Wight were called to investigate the crime. After an investigation by the officials, Coroner Finn removed the body to his Woodbridge morgue.

Apparently Roberts had been stabbed after a struggle. Several articles of furniture were overturned and he had several cuts.

Police Chief Henry J. Harrington, who left the borough at 3 A. M. Tuesday morning to make the capture, declared much of the evidence at hand implicated Mrs. Pease. He said she would be formally charged with murder and turned over to the county authorities.

Mrs. Pease wore a coat belonging to another negro when she left town. The coat was mysteriously returned to the owner two days after the murder, leading the police to believe the Pease woman was in hiding near Carteret.

"LOUDSPEAKER" WINS CRITICS' PRAISE

The Loudspeaker, issued quarterly at Carteret High School, made its appearance last week and took the school by storm. Over three hundred copies of the Thanksgiving issue were sold, and according to latest word, the demand is so great that more copies are being mimeographed.

An attractive cover design, drawn only as Michael Maskaly can draw, elaborates the first page of the issue. Maskaly's art work throughout the magazine rates it as one of the best ever published at the high school.

A series of articles on Thanksgiving in the various lands has been written by Esther Borreson, Anna Alec, Fun Yew and Stanislaus Radomski.

Also, Fin Yew has written an article concerning Chinese mathematics, which must be read to be appreciated.

Among the interesting features in the magazine is a column entitled "Snooping Around", written by "Pepper, the Observing Reporter." Quite a few of the pupils got their ears burned when they read this column. Also, the "Advice to the Lovelorn" column again makes its appearance, but in a bigger and better form.

Department pages, such as Spanish, French and German have been written up, as well as a most interesting sporting page. A picture of Coach McCarthy graces one side of the page, and a box containing the probable lineups of the Amboy-Carteret game fills the other. The ball games, in rotation, follow, and they, too, are written in a very interesting fashion.

This year, the Loudspeaker is competing in quite a few contests, and chances are that they will be successful in one or two. Last year, the Loudspeaker took second place for mimeographed school publications at the Columbia Scholastic Press Conference held in New York. The magazine took first place in the contest held by the A. R. Meeker Co., of Newark, N. J.

The staff of the magazine this year is headed by Clarence Schwartz, editor-in-chief. Twelve members comprise the literary staff, acting as associate editors. The business end of the magazine is capably handled by Marvin Greenwald and Margaret Krinzman. Advertising is in charge of Mary Evelyn Richey, Michael Maskaly is art editor, and the typists are Jean Walling, Agnes Medvetz, Anna O'Leary, Phyllis Fedko, Vincent Katha, Carol Marciniak, Stephen Tartakowsky, Thomas Brandon and Michael Palinkas.

An exclusive story printed in this issue of the Loudspeaker is written by Mackey Goodman, and tells of many interesting views and observations made by Joe Medwick, Carteret's representative in the big leagues.

Therefore for the next few weeks of the Holidays they have increased their offerings to one-hundred dollars for the next Wednesday draw. And after that the Boosters will be governed by the reception tendered this departure and greatly increased list of possible prize winners. The amount of awards will in no way be decreased. The first prize remains at twenty-five dollars and the second ten dollars and so on. More people will win, there will be more money for the shoppers of Carteret in the Booster "Barrel O' Money", and then, this all will come at a time when an additional dollar or two, no doubt, comes in very handy. It is going to be worth your while to do your holiday shopping early. And it certainly will be to your best interests to do your Christmas shopping in Carteret. What with all the holiday specials and numerous other holiday features the merchants are preparing as a special treat; there still remains the Booster drawing which for this holiday season has been increased to one hundred dollars.

The list of awards is as follows: 1st, $25.00; 2nd, $10.00; 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th, $5.00. 8th to 17th, (10 awards) $2.00; 17th to 37th (20 awards) $1.00.

One hundred dollars in all for the holiday season. The first prize still twenty-five dollars, the second ten, then five awards of five dollars each. The next a group of ten two dollar awards, which makes twenty dollars. And finally twenty one dollar prizes which will finish out the grand holiday Booster drawing of $100.00.

Lieut. E. J. Walsh in Post Hospital

Lieut. E. J. Walsh, U. S. A., on duty with the civilian conservation corps is a patient at the Post Hospital, Governor's Island, N. Y., with an infected left hand.

The origin of the infection remained somewhat of a mystery until last Sunday when the New York American published a full page article in the magazine section and outlined the symptoms resulting from the bite of the deadly "Black Widow" a poisonous spider. The article states that the bite of this spider is more deadly than the rattle snake and Lt. Walsh is fortunate in that it did not prove fatal. He is slowly recovering.

WIELGOLINSKI IS PICKED AS BEST CENTER IN N. J.

By CLARENCE M. SCHWARTZ

Two Carteret High football players, Stan Kosel and "Jackie" Wielgolinski, earned places for themselves on the All-State teams which were picked by the Newark Star Eagle's scholastic football experts this week.

Wielgolinski's fine work during the season in the center of the Carteret line earned him a place on the All State High and Prep team. It is the first time in four years that a Carteret player ever made the first team. Kosel merited a halfback post on the second team, as did Johnny Reinert of Perth Amboy who was the only other county player accorded the honor.

Although the team is not official the real thing will be found to be very much the same when it makes its appearance sometime next week. Practically every gifted player in the State was rated. Carteret High made a splendid record, having three of her players merit recognition.

The All-State Prep and High School team lined up with Sheridan St. Marys and Zisko, East Side ends; Churinkas, Pennington, and Kochal, Bloomfield, tackles; Benyon Pennington; Monica, St. Benedicts, guards; Wielgolinski, Carteret H. S. center; Fritts, Montclair, quarterback; Healy, St. Benedicts and Opatyke, Phillipsburg, halfbacks, and Laux, Collingswood, fullback.

Surely the cream of schoolboy football players is contained in that list, although there are those, including the writer, who would have Stan Kosel at fullback in place of Laux.

Al Such, Carteret guard, rated first on the All Group 2 team, as did Kosel and Wielgolinski.

Wes Spewak, who captained the Carteret High 1933 eleven, and who is now playing end at Hun School, made the All Group 4 Prep team, as did Shinn, also of Hun School.

MOTERING PUBLIC FACING "CRISIS"

"Unless that element in motoring responsible for the fearful toll of highway deaths and injuries is brought under control, the entire motoring public will face drastic restrictions of the liberties and privileges now enjoyed."

That warning is sounded by the Keystone Automobile Club of New Jersey, in a statement deploring the upward trend of automobile fatalities, marked, in many instances, by the reckless, careless, heedless, irresponsible minority.

"The irresponsible, careless and reckless motorist must be brought to realization that when the State permits him to drive a motor car it is conferring a privilege. Too many motorists seem to assume that operation is a right. Revocation of the operating privilege should follow its abuse."

The Carteret News has always carried more Carteret advertising than any other newspaper.

GRAND JURY ASKS REORGANIZATION OF NEW BRUNSWICK

The Grand Jury of Middlesex County handed down a presentment during the week calling for the reorganization of the City of New Brunswick's affairs.

It charged that: (1) Public funds had been wasted. (2) The laws of the State violated. (3) Negligence and inefficiency and worse.

(4) Money paid out without showing what it was for. (5) No central control of funds. (6) Bills paid that were exhibitant.

(7) Juggling of accounts.

This presentment regretted that time in most cases had worked to the advantage of those responsible and that the evidence was not specific enough to send those believed responsible to jail where they belong.

This presentment followed a finding of a Supreme Court investigation.

Carteret could stand a little investigation of its permit boys with the idea of making a few examples. It is not too late to clean up.

High School Students Elect G. O. Officers

The General Organization election, held in the Carteret High School recently, brought to a close one of the most spirited campaigns in the history of the school.

The students assembled in the auditorium to hear the speakers of the campaign managers. The candidates had been nominated by a committee composed of class officers, General Organization officers of last year, home room chairmen and faculty advisors. However, any student who wished had the privilege of voting for his personal choice instead of one of the nominees.

The candidates for the senior office of president and their managers were: Thomas Brandon, Thomas Thorn; Geza Demeter, Robert Ward; Jary Evelyn Richey, Vincent Katha; Clarence Schwartz, Joseph Kubicka.

For the junior office of vice-president, John Dixon, Chester Wielgolinski; John Essig, John Lapczensky; Margaret Sidon, Anna H.Ja; George Sloan, Blanche Beznar.

For the Sophomore office of treasurer, Esther Borreson, Anna Alec; Mackey Goodman, Maude Richey; Sophie Mynio, Milton Rabinowitz; Dorothy Katha, William Walsh.

For the freshman office of secretary, Marguerite Lyman, Edith Day; Claire Muller, Margaret Hegedus; Julia Bunnick, Rose Prywata; Henry Schroeder, Gabriel Baksa.

These sixteen representative students were seated in a semi-circle on the stage of the auditorium. Their managers being seated behind them. Miss Violet Chelus acted as chairman and introduced the campaign managers in turn extolling the virtues and qualifications of his candidate presented him to the audience.

After the speeches had been made and the applause had died away, the students returned to home rooms to vote. Paul Koepfler and Violet Chelus collected and counted the ballots.

The final tally showed that Thomas Brandon had been chosen president; John Dixon, vice-president; Mackey Goodman, treasurer and Claire Muller, secretary.

The new officers assumed their duties Monday when classes were resumed after the Thanksgiving holiday.

High School Holds Class Elections

A recent check-up of the activities of the members of the Class of 1934 showed that eleven boys and twelve girls are attending college, four girls are attending normal school, four girls are attending training schools for nurses, two boys are attending preparatory schools, one is in the navy, five girls are attending business school.

Twenty-five boys are employed and thirteen girls.

Out of a class of forty-six boys and fifty-nine girls, thirty-nine boys and forty girls are either continuing their education or are employed. If any others enroll in higher institutions or take positions, it would be well for them to give that information.

John Dixon, Dec. 8—John Sidon of Carteret, has been elected to membership in the Rutgers University chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, to the High School office.

Bedtime Story for Children

PETER GOSSIPS WITH HONKER

PETER RABBIT could hardly wait for the coming of the Black Shadows, and just as soon as they had crept out over the Green Meadows he started for the Big River. He knew just where to go. He knew that Honker and his friends would remain out in the middle of the Big River until the Black Shadows had made it quite safe for them to swim in. He reached the bank of the Big River just as sweet Mistress Moon

"Hello, Peter," said he. "It is good to have an old friend greet me."

was beginning to throw her silvery light over the Great World. At this point there was a sandy bar in the Big River and right where this sandy bar started out from the bank, Peter squatted.

It seemed to him that he had sat there half the night, but really it was only a short time, before he heard a low signal out in the Black Shadows which covered the middle of the Big River. It was the voice of Honker. Then Peter saw little silvery lines moving on the water, and presently a dozen great shapes appeared in the moonlight. Slowly they drew near, Honker in the lead. They were a picture of perfect caution.

When they reached the sandy bar they remained quiet for some time, looking and listening. Then, sure that all was safe, Honker gave a low signal, and at once a low, contented gabbling began as the birds relaxed their watchfulness and came out on the sandy bar.

"Oh, Honker!" cried Peter. "I'm so glad you're back here safe and sound." Honker gave a little start but, instantly recognizing Peter, came close to him. As he stood there in the moonlight he was truly handsome. His throat and a large patch on each side of his head were white. The remainder of his head and his long slim neck were black. His short bill was also black. His back, wings, breast, and slides were a soft grayish brown. He was white around the base of his tail, and he also wore a white collar.

"Hello, Peter!" said he. "It is good to have an old friend greet me. I certainly am glad to be back safe and sound, for the hunters with terrible guns have been at almost every one of our resting places, and it is hard work to get enough to eat."

"Have you come far?" asked Peter. "Very far, Peter, very far," replied Honker. "And we still have far to go."

"Will winter soon be here?" Peter asked eagerly. "It is only a little way behind us," replied Honker. "We shall have to hurry lest it catch us, and that would never do."

Mother Shipton
Mother Shipton was a so-called prophetess who was first heard of in a tract of 1641, in which she is said to have lived in the reign of Henry VIII, and to have foretold the death of Wolsey, Cromwell, Lord Percy, etc. In 1677 the pamphleteering publisher, Richard Head, brought out a new edition, in which she is credited with having predicted steam engines, the telegraph and other modern inventions, as well as the end of the world in 1881.

COOL WEATHER IDEAS

NOW that chill winds blow and children's parties must be given, especially on birthdays, a candy pull will be a delightful thing to give if there is enough room for the children to move about and enjoy it. Here is one of the good candies that may be pulled:

Velvet Molasses Candy.
Put one cupful of molasses, three cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of boiling water and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar in a saucepan over the heat. As soon as the boiling point is reached, add one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil until when tried in cold water the mixture will become brittle. Stir constantly during the last of the cooking. When nearly done, add one-half cupful of melted butter and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, pour out, and when cold, pull. Flavor to taste.

Party Cheese Salad.
Take two packages of cream cheese, roll into small balls, making twelve. Toast—or tint any color desired. Arrange in nests of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Apple Sauce Pudding.
Season one cupful of apple sauce with cinnamon or nutmeg, divide it among six dessert glasses. Prepare a junket tablet with a pint of lukewarm milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar (dissolve the tablet in a tablespoonful of water), flavoring the junket mixture with a few drops of almond. Pour over the apple sauce and let stand to become firm in a warm room. Chill and serve.

Buttercups.
Those of us who have crunched the creamy buttercup will never forget their deliciousness. Shall we make a few at home?
Boil two cupfuls of molasses with one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third of a teaspoonful of

Robinson Says President Plans No New Taxes—Franco-German Agreement Concerning the Saar Reported—Vinson's Warning to Japan.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

JOE ROBINSON of Arkansas, senate floor leader, spent four hours in conference with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, and emerged with the welcome assurance that the New Deal program to be presented to congress in January does not contemplate the imposition of new taxes or the substantial increase of existing taxes. He added that he believed expenditures for normal government purposes would be kept well within the national income. Of course, this does not mean a balanced budget, for this cannot be had while enormous sums are being spent for relief and re-employment, but the senator would not admit that the cost of these would go above the ten-billion-dollar mark.

"Unemployment relief is to be preferred to the dole," he said. "A reasonably conservative program should be adopted with a view to tapering off the deficit."

Senator Robinson said that the bonus was discussed at some length but no conclusion was reached. Intimates of the White House have expressed the fear that a bonus program calling for expenditure of more than two billion dollars may be passed over a veto.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, who was also present at the conference, left for Washington to begin a study of unemployment insurance. Next day the President's chief caller was Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, and he told Mr. Roosevelt that business would move rapidly on the road to recovery if only it were assured of a safe and sane federal program of expenditures. To correspondents Mr. Roper said he was greatly cheered by Senator Robinson's statement. He felt that the left wing demand for vast sums of money for relief of the unemployed must be checked and that there must be a further shifting of relief control to communities.

TROUBLE over the Saar plebiscite may be averted after all the alarm, for it is reported unofficially that Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France have reached an accord providing that Germany will pay for French mining properties in the Saar if France abandons the effort to keep the region under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations. Substance was given this report when Reichstuehrer Hitler instructed all the Nazi propaganda forces in the Saar to cease their activities. He ordered that disturbances must be avoided and that the Nazis must rely largely on the press to keep the swastika flying in the disputed territory after the plebiscite. This would seem to insure an impartial vote on January 13.

JAPAN, having given unofficial notice that she will withdraw from the Washington naval treaty, still seems to have hope that the United States and Great Britain will agree to give her naval parity. But just in case, she has now invited France and Italy to join her in denouncing the pact. These nations may consent, but the two great Anglo-Saxon nations are as one in demanding that the 5-5-3 ratio be maintained. Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, who is chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, has made plain the policy he will insist upon.

"I sincerely hope it will not be necessary to scrap the treaty," he said, "but it seems now we cannot hope very strongly for anything else. We cannot grant naval equality to Japan at any price. If the Tokyo government does insist upon wrecking the treaty I will insist that the house naval affairs committee and congress make enough money available to build five ships for each three laid down by Japan."

Japan, he said, had once agreed to be satisfied with three warships for each five built by the United States or Great Britain. "Officially and formally it said that was all it needed," Vinson said, "yet now it wants more."

AGAIN it may be said that if or when another European war breaks out, it will start among the southern nations. The blaze lighted by the assassinations of King Alexander and Louis Barthou in Marseilles is still smoldering. Yugoslavia's delegates in the League of Nations formally charged Hungary with complicity in the murder of the king, asserting she had harbored Balkan terrorists. Hungary demanded immediate action by the league's council on this accusation, declaring "the peace of the world" might be affected. The Hungarian note asked that the matter be placed on the agenda of the council's session called to meet on December 3 to discuss the forthcoming plebiscite in the Saar, so that Hungary might "defend its honor against proceedings which have no other purpose than to compromise the good name of the whole Hungarian nation."

The council then pointed out that the covenant of the league, may deal with any question affecting the peace of the world.

It is, therefore, the duty of the council to face this question as soon as possible, it asserted, "and thus guard against the grave dangers which might arise from the situation that Hungary is still bound to bring to the attention of the council."

The Yugoslavian charges were supported by the other two states of the little entente, Czechoslovakia and Rumania. Italy, which has stood by Hungary, was expected to refuse to grant extradition to France of Dr. Ante Pavelich, alleged leader of the gang that planned and carried out the assassination of King Alexander. The court of appeals at Turin denied the application of France, and it was believed the minister of justice would confirm this ruling.

LEON ARCHIMBAUD, French reporter of the budget, declared before the chamber of deputies that it was undeniable that an understanding exists between France and Russia, and that the Soviet government had offered armed aid to France in case of a conflict with Germany. This caused great excitement and the French official contented itself with a denial that there was any military accord. The Russian offer was generally believed to have been made by Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, last spring to the late Louis Barthou and again to his successor, Pierre Laval. Col. Jean Fabry, former French minister of war, gave support to Archimbaud's statement by asserting that France's knowledge of German rearmament, the details of German troops and information concerning the secret manufacture of arms and airplanes in the reich was supplied by Russia. The two men were arguing for a large war budget, and Archimbaud pictured Russia's huge military machine working with France as the only means of preserving peace in Europe.

DISPATCHES from Germany tell of serious unrest in the reich, and though the government calls them "malicious lies," it is a fact that the army and police forces are being held under emergency orders. A long smoldering feud between the reichswehr (regular army) and the schutzstaffel (black shirt picked Nazi guards) was believed responsible for the orders, which involved suspension of Christmas furloughs for soldiers and military police.

Drilling of Nazi storm troops has increased, reports said, while all marriages of army men and police set for the Christmas holidays, popular wedding period for Germany's military men, have been postponed.

Baron Werner von Fritsch, chief of the reichswehr, in a memorandum to Hitler, said plainly in discussing Nazi suppressive methods that, unless a more liberal spirit prevailed, the government would face opposition from all sides in case of war. He told Hitler something must be done about the bad blood between the schutzstaffel and the reichswehr.

BOLIVIA'S troops in the Chaco were being soundly whipped by the Paraguayans and President Daniel Salamanca was blamed. He visited the war front and was arrested by Gen. Enrique Penaranda and forced to resign. Meantime Vice President Jose Sorzano had taken over the presidential powers by decree and installed a new cabinet. Penaranda appeared to be the virtual dictator and it seemed likely he would take steps to bring about peace with Paraguay.

GEN. LAZARO CARDENAS, who though only thirty-nine years old is a veteran of the Mexican revolution, was installed as president of Mexico on November 30. He is of Spanish and Tarascan Indian stock, a fine soldier and statesman and has held office under the revolutionary government for five years.

IN A trial lasting only a few minutes, Lord Ashley won a divorce from his wife, the former Sylvia Hawke, actress, and the costs, estimated at $10,000, were ordered paid by Douglas Fairbanks, who was named as co-respondent. Neither Lady Ashley nor the American film star made any defense, and there were but two witnesses, Lord Ashley and George Edwards, Fairbanks' secretary. A decree nisi was granted by Justice Sir Boyd Merriman, and it may be made final in six months.

INSPECTOR SAMUEL F. COWLEY and Agent Herman E. Floyd of the bureau of investigation, Department of Justice, engaged in a gun battle with Lester Gillis, better known as George "Baby Face" Nelson, Public Enemy No. 1, and a companion, near Barrington, Ill., and both the federal men were shot to death by machine guns in the hands of the bandits. The killers, accompanied by a woman, escaped for the time being in the agents' car, the woman being disabled.

Next day Nelson's body was found miles away, in Niles Center, at the entrance to a cemetery. He had died of nine bullet wounds from the guns of the federal agents he killed and evidently his body had been left at the roadside after his companions had failed to save his life. In the same region were found Nelson's clothing and the car the bandits had used after the battle.

Cowley was the man who killed John Dillinger, chief of the gang to which Nelson belonged, and he also was in command of the posse that ran down and killed "Pretty Boy" Floyd in an Indiana cornfield not long ago.

THANKSGIVING day in America was wedding day in London for the duke of Kent, fourth son of the king and queen of England, and Princess Marina of Greece. The metropolitan swarmed with royalty and nobility from many lands, and vast throngs of ordinary persons watched the parade to Westminster Abbey, where the marriage ceremony was performed. The ancient church was filled with the fortunate ones who had been invited and the scene was glittering. The only Americans present were United States Ambassador and Mrs. Robert W. Flaherty.

The ceremony in the abbey was celebrated at 11 o'clock in the morning, and it was followed immediately by another, the Greek Orthodox. The latter took place in the private chapel of Buckingham palace and was celebrated by Archbishop Germanos, archbishop of the Greek church in London. Only a select company of royal witnesses was present.

REPORTS of various business groups indicate that "luxury spending" is becoming more noticeable and is aiding industry considerably. This includes everything from the baby's doll to the palatial yacht—and some places in between is fine furs—and all trade organizations report an increase. Reports to Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper by business leaders indicated that sales in some gift lines this year would be 40 per cent greater than a year ago.

Charity is not forgotten in the revival of spending. Community chests and councils reported that contributions to community chest drives this year already are within 10 per cent of the 1929 total, and national income has dropped about 50 per cent in the time.

TAKE it from the Department of Agriculture that American farmers have these reasons to be thankful this year:

Cash farm income from sales of crops and live stock, AAA benefit payments, and emergency drought sales of cattle to the government totaled $780,000,000 in October, compared with $659,000,000 in September and $925,000,000 in October, 1933.

Total farm cash income for ten months this year was $5,045,000,000 compared to $4,069,000,000 for the corresponding period last year, of which $4,614,000,000 was derived from marketing and $433,000,000 from benefit payments and emergency cattle sales, compared to $3,967,000,000 and $12,000,000, respectively, in 1933.

SAMUEL INSULL and his sixteen co-defendants in the great mail fraud trial in Chicago were acquitted by the jury, despite the long work of the government officials in preparing and presenting the case at an estimated cost of $100,000.

The verdict was reached on the fifth ballot, and the attorneys for the prosecution could say only that they had done their best. It was apparent that the jury were not convinced that Insull and his aides had an intent to defraud. There are other charges standing against Insull, but whether or not there will be further prosecution is undecided.

There were rumors that the former magnate, if cleared of all charges, planned to re-enter La Salle street and the utilities field.

THERE is bound to be another big fight in the senate over the revamped St. Lawrence waterway treaty, but it looks now as if President Roosevelt were justified in his expectation that the treaty will be ratified. Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Idaho, leader of the opposition that defeated the pact in the last session, said in Washington that he had heard rumors that some major provisions involved in the controversy had been eliminated in a new treaty with Canada that is being negotiated. The omitted provisions, he understood, have to do with the American share of the cost of the new way and limitations on the diversion of water from Lake Michigan for the Chicago drainage canal. He added that he also had it that the new pact would acknowledge complete American sovereignty over Lake Michigan.

The St. Lawrence treaty was one of the live topics discussed in the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association in St. Louis.

The association voted to continue its opposition to the treaty unless objectionable features are removed.

him you want a week off, but tell him you want that week away from work so you can get married; then he won't think you want it just for a vacation or to have some fun.

Dear Mr. Wynn: Why is it that traveling salesmen never want to take an upper berth when they're traveling on a train. Truly yours, I. M. A. SALTSELLER.

Answer: Very simple. If they did that, they would have to get up before they went to bed.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I read the lives of five of the richest men in the world, and, if what I read is true, they all started life as barefooted boys. Do you believe that? Yours truly, IKE ANTBELEVIT.

Answer: Sure, it's true. In fact no one is born with shoes on.

Dear Mr. Wynn: My husband works as a night watchman, so I am home alone and without protection. Last Wednesday a tramp came to my door and to get rid of him I gave him a whole pie I had baked myself. Friday night he showed up again. What do you make of that? Truly yours, IMA FRADE.

Answer: Very simple. He probably did not eat the pie.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I want to write a letter to an aunt of mine; she is despondent because she is very deaf. What shall I do? Truly yours, SOL OOTON.

RED CROSS RELIEF GIVEN TO VICTIMS IN 103 DISASTERS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne, commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variation in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterized the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyards fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1,000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three explosions were reported, and three epidemics of malaria and typhoid fever. A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "To make this possible the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions for chapters interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster institutes were held last year in 28 strategic locations, to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities."

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Trained to Save Lives

First aid certificates were issued by the Red Cross last year to 130,972 persons who finished the course of instruction put on by the chapters. Included in this list were more than 70,000 foremen, time clerks and other key employees on Federal Civil Works projects. Further evidence of the government's endorsement of the first aid program is found in projects now under way where Red Cross chapters, at the request of the War Department, are giving first aid instruction in CCC camps. Where it has been requested by Army engineers the same instruction is also made available to key men working on federal water conservancy and flood control projects.

War Veterans' Problems Increase

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical ills, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment by trained Red Cross workers. In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the official medium between the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 6,979 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

Fires on Morro Castle and at Nome, Alaska, Received Help of Red Cross Workers

A number of tragic and unusual disasters have recently called for Red Cross relief.

Included in them have been a flood in Kentucky, following a series of cloudbursts in August; epidemics of disease which threatened several sections, including some caused by drought conditions. Red Cross workers found much to do for the survivors of the Morro Castle fire and for those engaged in rescue work; and Red Cross relief went by airplane to Alaska when the famous old gold camp, Nome, burned in September.

PUBLIC SERVICE

The Carteret News

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY IN THE YEAR AT THE PLANT OF THE CARTERET NEWS AT 9 COOKE AVENUE, CARTERET, N. J. TELEPHONE, CARTERET 8-0300.

M. E. YORKE, Publisher

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1908, at the post office at Carteret, N. J., under act of March 3, 1879.

THE CARTERET NEWS was founded June 17, 1908 as THE ROOSEVELT NEWS; was published on Wednesdays until July 15, 1909 was then published on Thursdays until December 6, 1912, since which time it has been a Friday paper. The title of the paper became THE CARTERET NEWS on November 17, 1922, following the election of November 7, 1922, when the people of the Borough voted to change the name of the Borough from Roosevelt to Carteret by a vote of 1652 to 203.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The manner in which the people have responded to the call of the "Boosters", causes one to remember that Carteret always did have a fine healthy community spirit. It is a spirit of mutual aid, good-will and cooperation. It is a spirit that keeps us interested in the lives of our friends and neighbors.

It also reminds one of a few other instances where that same spirit was displayed to the advantage of the community.

In 1922, when this Borough was called upon to determine whether we shall bear the name of Carteret or Roosevelt, our industries requested the name "Carteret." For one thing, that name was derived from one of the founders of the State of New Jersey, namely Sir Philip Carteret; the other, because that name had been advertised all over the world, and a change of that name would be very inconvenient and costly to them. The residents here responded to the call and voted overwhelmingly in favor of the name "Carteret."

When our local boys ran for a county or State office, party lines were set aside and the majorities that they received here is a tribute to the friendship and respect that we hold for outstanding men of our community. Such instances are rare in other places, for, as it was once observed, a man is never a hero to his valet. Carteret though can appreciate the good in its own.

When our Joe Medwick was being heralded as one of the world's best baseball players, and when he was on his way up, his followers and adherents here numbered in the hundreds. Later, when he played in the world's series, one had only to look at the throngs listening with breathless interest, hoping and praying for him to make good, and he would be convinced that we have a fine healthy spirit of mutual interest.

And very recently this town witnessed a keen but cleanly fought election; and in spite of all the passions and emotions that such an event is bound to arouse, people of both parties are now trading with one another, conversing on friendly terms, laughing together and sympathetically interested in each other's trials and problems. The Young Men's Republican Club hired a band composed mostly of Democratic adherents for their victory dance; while the Democrats, on the other hand, are purchasing tickets for that same dance in order to be on hand and to offer their congratulations and best wishes. These instances are all fine examples of the sportsmanship and co-operative spirit of the people of this town. With this same spirit of loyalty and good fellowship, our people are now responding to the call of the business man, who has always interested himself sincerely in all of our religious and social welfare work. He now requires the full advantage of the community's trade, and realizing that Carteret is a young town and that it desires life, vigor and activity, even in business, he has inaugurated his Booster campaign to provide that stimulus. To-day after a short period of that campaign, he looks happily forward to the renewal of old acquaintances and friendships. The customer too is happy and there is a joy had in the purchasing, and a thrill in the opportunities for prizes afforded by the Booster coupon which is given with the purchase. The community spirit lives again.

The perpetuation of this mutual co-operation, and the happiness that we derive from it, inspires one with confidence in the future welfare of Carteret. It assures the future progress of our Borough.

A sound healthy community spirit is an invaluable possession. Let us preserve and continue it. In this manner we can bring honor to ourselves in the eyes of the State. Keep Carteret first in our thoughts.

Let us continue with our aid; besides it pays to buy at home.

Communication

Editor, The News:

A good time ago you had an editorial about the messy way some of the streets were named in Carteret, showing that there are two corners each of Roosevelt and Pershing and Washington and Roosevelt avenues. It has occurred to me several times why something has not been done to readjust that mess. For people who come from out of town to do business here there is only confusion for them regarding the above named corners. Also, the bus time-table states a definite time that the Newark bus get at Roosevelt and Pershing avenue, but no one knows which one of the two corners it means.

Why on earth the name of Cooke avenue was not maintained clear to Roosevelt avenue is hard to understand? Cooke avenue is almost straight to the hill and should naturally be so-called beyond the borough hall. Pershing avenue should end where it meets Cooke avenue.

Cooke avenue used to be Third street clear to the hill.

Changing back the number of the buildings on what is now Pershing avenue, but should be Cooke avenue, would not be hard. The numbers on Pershing avenue start in Chrome. And the few places on Cooke avenue really ought to be glad to take a little hardship for the sake of rearranging something from the realm of a joke to the sensible and practical.

The new council could do a good job in respect to this problem. It will have to be done some time.

PRACTICAL.

Water Vapor Always Present

Weather men have encountered only a few instances when natural outdoor air was so dry that sensitive instruments could not detect any water vapor.

Stegiel—Wadiak

On Thanksgiving Day at 4 o'clock, Miss Mary Ann Wadiak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wadiak, of 53 Randolph street, became the bride of Francis Stegiel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stegiel, of Main street, South Amboy. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Joseph Dziadosz, D. D., at the Holy Family Church.

Miss Emilie Karasowski, cousin of the bride, served as attendant for her cousin, while Stephen Fritz was the best man.

Immediate relatives and friends of the young couple attended a reception at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The young couple will reside in Perth Amboy upon their return from a wedding trip.

Loving Justice Aux.

The auxiliary unit of the Congregation of Loving Justice held a Hanukkah party Monday night in the Chrome synagogue. It was also a farewell part to Mrs. Landesberg, wife of Rabbi Landesberg, who will leave soon for Palestine to make her home. A motion picture benefit will be held this month for the Hebrew School. Mrs. James Brown is chairman. The party arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Thomas McNally, Mrs. Sidney Brown, Mrs. Sam Schwartz and Mrs. A. Wellesley.

It is understood that the Rev. Carl Prater, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church has received a call from a large parish in Brooklyn and will leave his local charge around December 15th.

Walter Galvanek of Lincoln avenue, who has been confined to the Perth Amboy General Hospital with an injury following a football game, has returned to his home.

"WHERE THE SMALLEST CUSTOMER IS TREATED LIKE A BIG FRIEND"

"... And, My Dear!
I Forgot to Order More Electricity."

"We were having a party and we used up all the electricity on hand, and I had forgotten to order more. I certainly was embarrassed."

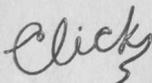

How absurd, you say?

To be sure, it's absurd. But what if you had to order electricity as you do potatoes, or coal, or milk or bread?

Most of us never give our use of electricity a thought. It's such a habit—a part of our daily life that we simply click a switch and electricity goes to work.

Because we accept electricity as a part of our daily habits, little thought is given to its tremendous value in the home.

Analyze your uses of electricity. Compare them to your monthly bill. Is there any other expenditure which give you so much for so little?

Give the Little Folks Hand Crochet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MAYBE you will and maybe you won't have time to crochet one or the other of the cunning garments here pictured before Christmas, but where there is a will to do and dare why not "get busy" and find a way? Really, can you think of anything to hang on the Christmas tree that will bring greater joy to the heart of a child than either of these cunning hand-crochet frocks or the gay coat with its jaunty matching beret?

Anyway what if you do not see your way clear to finish before the holidays, a gift as adorable as this will be hailed with delight any day on the calendar. Being done in sturdy mercerized crochet cotton, apparel like this is an all-year-round proposition so far as timely wearableness is concerned. Either little dress will be charming to wear to parties this winter, made in a dark or a pastel color, and being washable they will emerge from their tubbing all ready to wear when spring and summer comes.

To "brighten the corner where you are" is no task for a little girl dressed for a party in the hand-crochet dress of bright yellow pearl cotton (centered in the group). The skirt is a series of crochet-lace ruffles done in shell mesh stitch, matching the round collar and slightly puff sleeves. Each ruffle, and about the neck and sleeves, is tipped with white. There is no wear-out to a dress of this mercerized cotton.

The simple little slip of a frock on the lovable child seated is easier to make and takes less time to complete than the one just described. Any little girl would be proud of this Sunday-go-to-meeting dress of mercerized crochet cotton. There will never be any trouble in persuading a young lady to hurry and get dressed if she can tumble into this pretty little frock. Make it in any color you choose, for mercerized crochet cotton comes in dozens and dozens of delectable tones and tints from dark to light.

Perhaps you think a gift of jacket-sweater with matching beret would be more apropos for the youngster you have in mind. The two-piece ensemble in the picture is easily made of knitting and crochet cotton. It is a question whether it is more effective in navy, brown or wine-red. The embroidery which adds so vastly to its attractiveness is done in a lazy-daisy stitch—the easiest, quickest decorative stitch known in needle artcraft. Don't forget the cluster of lazy-daisies which tops the crown of the beret.

There now! We have told you about crochet for little folks but have you seen the stunning triangle scarfs crocheted or knitted of mercerized cotton in the color you like best, which make such acceptable gifts for grown-ups? They are bordered on two sides with hand-tied fringe just as are the silk fabric or velvet ones which are making such a hit in neckwear displays this year.

BIAS-CUT CLOTHES POPULAR IN PARIS

There is much more give and take in our new clothes judging from the numbers of things brought out on the bias.

Sleeves are set into shoulders biasly, or very often sleeves and yoke, coming down in a design back and front, appear on short jackets as well as three-quarter and full-length coats, and on dresses themselves.

Another 1934 winter notion is the use of solid color in two and three-piece suits with the splash of color coming in a short scarf about one yard long and six to ten inches wide. This is knotted rather close at the throat and the ends are sometimes tucked in or else they are tucked through tabs that button or fasten on the back of the lapels of the jacket or coat.

Long Slender Tunics in Latest Afternoon Models

Elaborate afternoon models this season show long, slender tunics, almost following in style the three-quarter or seven-eighth coat. These tunics are always in contrasting material and tone. They are noted in faconne rayon crepe, lame and rayon, ottoman and faille, to accompany dull velvet costumes. Marcel Rochas shows elaborate tunics in lame, chenille material, tufted fabrics, quilted crepe and in beaded or spangled fabrics, to accompany his smart ensembles combining a mixture of wool and slit cellulose film.

Dresses, Tight to Knees, Now Develop Into Train

Lucien Lelong shows evening dresses extremely close-fitted in front and at back down to the knees, where, through a clever cut, it develops into a long graceful train. Molyneux obtains train effects by adding at the back of his evening dresses a sort of second hem, which is sewn under the edge of the long skirt and allowed to fall on the ground. Some of these trains in hem effect are entirely covered with plastic sequins, forming a contrasting appearance with the dull rayon satins or crepe of the dress.

SWISH OF TAFFETA By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Again the swish of taffeta resounds in fashion's realm. Especially during the romantic evening hours does the murmuring of its rustle make music in the air. What's more "they say" that taffeta will be a very important fabric both in winter resort and early spring modes. The dance frock pictured is of deep blue celanese taffeta. A huge bow of self-taffeta at the neck and a pronounced flare of fullness from the knee carry this lovely and youthful gown to a point of high distinction.

Snappy Buttons

This is a year of snappy buttons as seen in new collections. Some dress makers show no other fastening or but touting than large plastic clips.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY by Vance Wynn Public Ledger

The Gentleman From Paris

IT ALL came about from engaging a caretaker without looking into his antecedents.

Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Depinni—the last named being an Italian countess—had a winter home in Minneapolis.

They were in the habit of going south for winter, and left the Western home in charge of a venerable servant.

One year when they returned to Minneapolis they discovered that the servant had disappeared, and with him many of the precious possessions of the family.

These included a rare watch that had once been the property of Cardinal Richelieu, and a grape cluster design in pearls, diamonds and platinum, the work of the peerless artist, Benvenuto Cellini.

It was felt instinctively that the stolen goods had been taken to New York, so Doctor Depinni called upon George B. Dougherty, a clever detective of that city, who had made a reputation by solving more than one perplexing case.

His first inquiry concerned the venerable caretaker.

The victims were sure that he was all right; they feared, in fact, that he might have met with foul play.

As a proof of the man's good name, they exhibited a sheaf of letters of recommendation he had brought with him when he applied for the job. Dougherty investigated and found that all the letters had been forged.

This satisfied him that the man was a crook, and, from the character of the robbery, he was convinced that the caretaker worked with confederates.

His first move was to make a tour of the pawnshops of New York.

After that he visited many of the dealers in antiques.

On the second day of the search he was fortunate enough to come across the famous Richelieu watch in a shop on Sixth avenue.

The dealer pretended to be very much shocked when he was told that he had purchased stolen goods, and, in reparation, said he was willing to do all in his power to bring the thief to justice.

He stated that the man had told him his name was "Mr. Coates," and that he had picked up this antique and others in the Rue Madame, that street of famous antique shops in the French capital.

It had been "picked up" truly enough, but not in the manner nor in the place suggested by the clever crook.

The dealer was able to give a very good description of the man who had sold him the watch.

He said that he was of medium build, smooth shaven, of an olive complexion and with dark eyes.

The rogues' gallery was consulted and the detective found several men by the name of Coates, but none of them answered the description of the gentleman who seemed to be so familiar with the Rue Madame.

Dougherty now turned his attention to the second-hand stores, and, by great good luck, he located a dealer who had purchased the grape cluster design made by Benvenuto Cellini.

This man was able to give him a clue regarding the whereabouts of the elusive "Mr. Coates."

He said he had gone West, and thought he was living in Wisconsin.

It did not take Dougherty long to get to Milwaukee, and there, with the aid of the police, he located the man for whom he had been searching so long.

He was existing in a hall bedroom, and, having spent all of his money, was on the lookout for a fresh job. The detective, in short, had struck him at the psychological moment.

Dougherty played his part cautiously. He might have arrested him on suspicion, but he did not propose to do anything like that.

What he wanted was real evidence. At their second meeting he began to talk about antiques and said that he had a customer who was anxious to get some rare Seventeenth century works of art, that he was willing to pay a big price for the right kind of articles.

The so-called "Mr. Coates" swallowed the bait like hook and sinker and offered to take the detective to a place in New York where he could get the watch once owned by the great French cardinal.

The rest of it was detail. It was proved that the fellow was the confederate of the caretaker who had robbed the Western home of Doctor Depinni, and after the usual formalities, he was placed on trial and promptly convicted.

He was given a long sentence, during which it is to be presumed that he had ample opportunity for improving his knowledge of the French language and French antiques.

Magellan Straits

The Straits of Magellan are more than 300 miles long, measured by the ship channel, which must be followed. Penguins are seen in great numbers along the route; seals and whales are plentiful and the albatross is sometimes encountered. Mt. Sarmiento, 7,330 feet high, covered for 6,000 feet with snow and glaciers, is one of its greatest sights. The straits are at the tip of South America.

"DRESDEN PLATE" CROCHETED RUG

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

In Colonial days patchwork quilts and rag rugs were very popular. During the past 3 or 4 years patchwork quilts have been the leading item of interest for home art needleworkers. In 1933, when the crocheted rag rug in quilt design appeared, women all over the country took great interest in this new and beautiful way of making rag rugs. The old rugs were either round or oval, crocheted row after row until desired size was obtained. Changing of colors was the only variation. In quilt design rugs many beautiful combinations are possible and the work is really interesting.

Illustration above shows the "Dresden Plate" rug, named after the Dresden Plate or Friendship quilt, a pattern that every woman knows. This rug is another popular pattern, measures 34 inches and can be made from 40 oz. of Grandmother Clark's rag rug strips or 32 oz. of "Linkraft," the new woven material for rag rugs.

Send 15c to our Rug Department and get our book No. 24 showing 20 different crocheted rugs in quilt design in colors with illustrations.

Illicit Drug Profits

The most profitable business in the world today is the handling of illicit narcotics. The manufacturer of heroin, for instance, makes it for $25 a pound and sells it to his distributors for $1,225, which is a profit of 4,800 per cent. The distributors in turn sell it in small quantities to consumers at the rate of $125,000 a pound, which is a profit for them of more than 10,000 per cent. The cost to the user consequently is one-half million per cent of the manufacturer's cost price.—Collier's Weekly.

LIST OF HOAXES FILLS BIG BOOK

That old saw credited to Phineas T. Barnum, of circus fame, to the effect that "there's a sucker born every minute" is more or less upheld by a huge volume on "Hoaxes, Forgeries, Swindles, and Impositions" which now rests in the library of the University of Wisconsin.

Compiled and written by Curtis D. MacDougall as partial fulfillment of his work for the degree of doctor of philosophy from the university, the 596-page book lists and contains information on some 400 hoaxes, forgeries, and swindles which have been "pulled" on the human race during the past 2,500 years.

Among the more modern hoaxes reviewed in the book is the Drake estate swindle. This swindle has been worked by many different individuals. In every case the victim is informed that he is the lawful heir to the ill-gained wealth of the notorious buccaneer, Sir Francis Drake, of the Sixteenth century. The magnanimous exponent of the news, of course, has to be reimbursed for his legal activities, and the litigation which follows is likely to become as expensive as the purse of the victimized "heir" permits.

Besides the more modern swindles and hoaxes, the book also contains lists and descriptions of ancient forgeries and hoaxes, and religious and literary hoaxes and forgeries. It describes the make-believe imposters of the ages, historical fakes, political tricks, scientific hoaxes, art fakes, journalistic hoaxes, swindles, and various kinds of puffery.

In discussing the importance of hoaxes, MacDougall points out that his survey seemed to show that people feel it is not disagreeable to be fooled provided one does not discover what has happened.

"But once started, a hoax is difficult to stop," he explains. "Some intended to achieve only a temporary result cause flurries of popular excitement far beyond the anticipations of the originators. Others, even though exposed, through ignorance or intention, continue to spread. When the truth finally becomes generally known, the 'damage' wrought by the falsity has become institutionalized and is impossible to change.

"Crowds have milled and rioted, governments have been threatened and overthrown, both peacefully and by violence, international relations have been strained, and wars have been fought as the result of hoaxes," he continues. "Scholars have met in serious conclaves, or have traveled to all parts of the earth, navigators have sailed the seas, audiences have filled halls, the stock market has risen and fallen, newspaper offices have been raided and closed, court trials have dragged on for months, merely because some individual or individuals had to have his or their joke."

But the hoaxers themselves remain virtually unaffected, MacDougall points out. A few have gone to prison or in some other way have been made to regret their actions. The vast majority, however, never have been brought to trial, either because of indifference toward them or because of the absence of any legal means by which they could be indicted. Many have been honored and respected even after their actions have been exposed, while others enjoy posthumous reputations, he maintains.

Putting It Neatly

When T. K. was President he had a habit, very annoying to some members of his cabinet, of suddenly phoning an invitation to breakfast. There were no gossipings or discussion of matters of state, the object apparently simply being to eat breakfast in the Presidential aura, and most officials seized every possible excuse to avoid them.

One morning the President called Elihu Root, who hemmed and hawed as he tried to think of a reasonable excuse.

"I understand you, Elihu," interrupted Mr. Roosevelt. "What you mean is that you'll come—if you have no subsequent engagement."

School Gridders Meet Freehold Tomorrow

Post Season Football Game To Be Played in Asbury Park

Players Who Participated in Perth Amboy Contest to Start Ball Game Tomorrow—Asbury Park Donates Stadium Free for Game.

Coach Frank McCarthy's high school football team will meet Freehold High tomorrow afternoon in a post-season game at Asbury Park City Stadium. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:00 P. M.

The game was arranged primarily to defray expenses sustained during the past football season. The proceeds will be split evenly between both schools.

It will be the first time this season that Carteret High has met a team in its own class. That is, Freehold is in Group 2, of which Carteret is also a member.

It is expected that the first string team which defeated Perth Amboy last week will again start the game tomorrow, although it is not certain whether Romanowski, the end, will be in uniform. The husky junior has been ill all week, and it may be that Marciniak will play in his position.

The Freehold team is undefeated, even though their schedule did not call for any teams of superior strength. The Macmen are picked by state experts to win handily, and it may be that the scrubs will be in the ball game for the most part.

It will be interesting to see just what kind of a showing Les Urbellis, Freehold's triple threat half-back, will make against Carteret's Stan Kosel. Urbellis, as you know, merited a place in the All-Group 2 backfield, as did Kosel. The Monmouth County star is reputed to be a fast man in a broken field. However, they don't come much tougher than Johnny Reinert, and his poor showing against the Macmen should be enough to convince local fans of a victory.

Asbury Park High School has donated the use of their stadium for the game.

TO CHARGE FEE

Because of the tremendous crowd which turns out each Monday evening at the high school to witness the Junior League games, it has been decided to charge a small fee of admission, it was learned by The News this week.

Before the ruling was put into effect, the admission to the League games was free.

A tremendous crowd witnessed the games last week, leaving only standing room for the late comers. Even then, the players on the court had little room to move around.

The Clovers nipped the Boys' Club in an thrilling basketball game yet seen in the Junior League Monday evening at the high school court by a 10-9 score.

HUDSONS LOSE TO J. C. HUNGARIANS

The strong Jersey City Hungarians put on one of the best bowling exhibitions seen in town this year Sunday afternoon at the Uzielak Alleys when they trimmed the Hudson A. C. by a 2-1 margin.

Although defeated, the Hudsons put up a splendid fight. The local team took the first game by twenty-one pins, winning 869-890. But in the second and third games, the visitors were victors, due mostly to the fine work of Vincent Stelgas and Joe Murphy.

Mike Siekerka, "Tarzan" Horvath and Lee Zysk hit two hundred scores:

CLEM'S QUIBS OF SPORT

It is with a great deal of interest that local fans look toward the Carteret-Freehold game to be played tomorrow afternoon at Asbury Park. In the first place, it will be interesting to see what the Macmen can do to a team in their own class, and secondly, to settle the old argument as to who is the better back, Urbellis of Freehold or Kosel of Carteret.

The game is to be played at the Asbury Park stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 P. M. The Asbury Park school officials are donating the stadium for the tilt.

But, the writer is picking Carteret to win by a pretty lopsided margin.

What a Mob! But the Admission's Free.

Over 300 fans watched the teams of the Junior Basketball League fight it out Monday evening at the high school court. But none of them paid a cent admission. As a matter of fact, there is no admission charged to the loop games, but if the tremendous crowd continues its interest in the league games, a nominal fee will have to be charged.

So crowded was the gym on Monday that the fans were forced to stand two deep along the sidelines, and this did not do the players on the court much good. It is the hope of the league officials that if a small sum is charged, the crowd will thin out, making the games more comfortable for players and fans as well.

Who's that local big shot that said that a kid's league would never go over in this town?

Young Suto to Mix It Up Again Friday

Young Otto Suto of the Harmony Club will fight in Newark next Friday evening in the A. A. U. bouts to be held there.

Suto, who was scheduled to appear in the New Brunswick Elks' bouts, has been out of action for a time with a knee injury sustained on the high school gridiron, but is now in shape and is raring to go.

Jednotas to Play Basketball Again This Year.

The Carteret Jednotas, who are noted for their baseball teams, are going in for the court game this fall. They will open their season in the near future, playing home games at the high school court on Thursday evenings.

"Knobby" D'Zurilla, Mike Fox, Mickey D'Zurilla, Dick Donovan and a host of others are expected to be back in the fold again this season, and another good season is predicted.

"LOUDSPEAKER" WINS CRITICS' PRAISE

The Loudspeaker, issued quarterly at Carteret High School, made its appearance last week and took the school by storm. Over three hundred copies of the Thanksgiving issue were sold, and according to latest word, the demand is so great that more copies are being mimeographed. An attractive cover design, drawn only as Michael Maskaly can draw, elaborates the first page of the issue. Maskaly's art work throughout the magazine rates it as one of the best ever published at the high school. A series of articles on Thanksgiving in the various lands has been written by Esther Borreson, Anna Alec, Fun Yew and Stanislaus Radomski. Also, Pim Yew has written an article concerning Chinese mathematics, which must be read to be appreciated. Among the interesting features in the magazine is a column entitled "Snooping Around", written by "Pepper, the Observing Reporter". Quite a few of the pupils got their ears burned when they read this column. Also, the "Advice to the Lovelorn" column again makes its appearance, but in a bigger and better form. Department pages, such as Spanish, French and German have been written up, as well as a most interesting sporting page. A picture of Coach McCarthy graces one side of the page, and a box containing the probable lineups of the Amboy-Carteret game fills the other. The ball games, in rotation, follow, and they, too, are written in a very interesting fashion. This year, the Loudspeaker is competing in quite a few contests, and chances are that they will be successful in one or two. Last year, the Loudspeaker took second place for mimeographed school publications at the Columbia Scholastic Press Conference held in New York. The magazine took first place in the contest held by the A. R. Meeker Co., of Newark, N. J. The staff of the magazine this year is headed by Clarence Schwartz, editor-in-chief. Twelve members comprise the literary staff, acting as associate editors. The business end of the magazine is capably handled by Marvin Greenwald and Margaret Krinzman. Advertising is in charge of Mary Evelyn Richey. Michael Maskaly is art editor, and the typists are Jean Walling, Agnes Medvelz, Anna O'Leary, Phyllis Fedko, Vincent Katche, Carol Marcinjak, Stephen Tarnowski, Thomas Brandon and Michael Falinkas. An exclusive story printed in this issue of the Loudspeaker is written by Mackey Goodman, and tells of many interesting views and observations made by Joe Medwick, Carteret's representative in the big leagues.

Barker, of New Canaan, Conn., in their complaint said that they held more than 180 school and temporary bonds issued by the city between 1926 and 1933, and charged that the resort city defaulted in payments of interest on the debentures.

Lieut. E. J. Walsh in Post Hospital

Lieut. E. J. Walsh, U. S. A., on duty with the civilian conservation corps is a patient at the Post Hospital, Governor's Island, N. Y., with an infected left hand. The origin of the infection remained somewhat of a mystery until last Sunday when the New York American published a full page article in the magazine section and outlined the symptoms resulting from the bite of the deadly "Black Widow" a poisonous spider. The article states that the bite of this spider is more deadly than the rattle snake and Lt. Walsh is fortunate in that it did not prove fatal. He is slowly recovering.

WIELGOLINSKI IS PICKED AS BEST CENTER IN N. J.

By CLARENCE M. SCHWARTZ Two Carteret High football players, Stan Kosel and "Jackie" Wielgolinski, earned places for themselves on the All-State team which were picked by the Newark Star Eagle's scholastic football experts this week. Wielgolinski's fine work during the season in the center of the Carteret line earned him a place on the All State High and Prep team. It is the first time in four years that a Carteret player ever made the first team. Kosel merited a halfback post on the second team, as did Johnny Reinert of Perth Amboy who was the only other county player accorded the honor. Although the team is not official the real thing will be found to be very much the same when it makes its appearance sometime next week. Practically every gifted player in the State was rated. Carteret High made a splendid record, having three of her players merit recognition.

MOTORING PUBLIC FACING "CRISIS"

"Unless that element in motoring responsible for the fearful toll of highway deaths and injuries is brought under control, the entire motoring public will face drastic restrictions of the liberties and privileges now enjoyed." That warning is sounded by the Keystone Automobile Club of New Jersey, in a statement deploring the upward trend of automobile fatalities, marked, in many instances, by the indefensible and cowardly practice of driving while under the influence of liquor. "In common with out fellow citizens, we are appalled by the growing list of highway tragedies," said Herbert W. Silcox, Manager of the Trenton Division of the Club. "Yet, we are mindful that only a relatively small number of motorists are involved. The problem is to control the reckless, careless, heedless, irresponsible minority. "The irresponsible, careless and reckless motorist must be brought to realization that when the State permits him to drive a motor car it is conferring a privilege. Too many motorists seem to assume that operation is a right. Revocation of the operating privilege should follow its abuse. The Carteret News has always carried more Carteret advertising than any other newspaper.

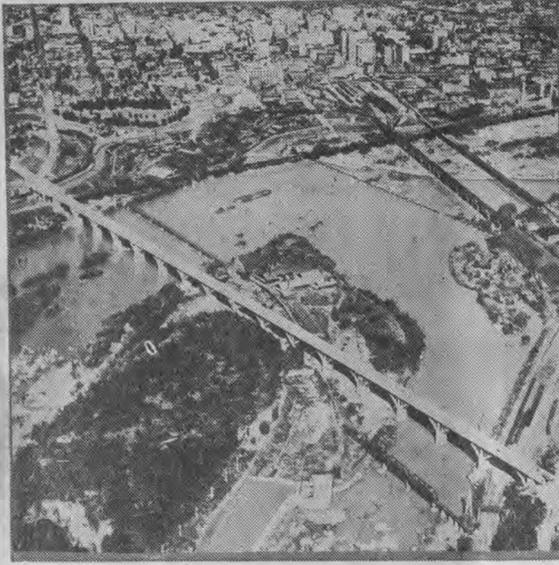

GRAND JURY ASKS REORGANIZATION OF NEW BRUNSWICK

The Grand Jury of Middlesex County handed down a presentation during the week calling for the reorganization of the City of New Brunswick's affairs. It charged that: (1) Public funds had been wasted. (2) The laws of the State violated. (3) Negligence and inefficiency and worse. (4) Money paid out without showing what it was for. (5) No central control of funds. (6) Bills paid that were exhibitant. (7) Juggling of accounts. This presentation regretted that time in most cases had worked to the advantage of those responsible and that the evidence was not specific enough to send those believed responsible to jail where they belong. This presentation followed a finding of a Supreme Court investigation. Carteret could stand a little investigation of its permit boys with the idea of making a few examples. It is not too late to clean up.

High School Students Elect G. O. Officers

The General Organization election, held in the Carteret High School recently, brought to a close one of the most spirited campaigns in the history of the school. The students assembled in the auditorium to hear the speakers of the campaign managers. The candidates had been nominated by a committee composed of class officers, General Organization officers of last year, home room chairmen and faculty advisors. However, any student who wished had the privilege of voting for his personal choice instead of one of the nominees. The candidates for the senior office of president and the vice-president were: Thomas Brandon, Thomas Thorn; Geza Demeter, Robert Ward; Mary Evelyn Richey, Vincent Katherine Schwartz, Joseph Kubicka. For the junior office of vice-president, John Dixon, Chester Wielgolinski; John Essig, John Lapzchensky; Margaret Sidun, Anna Hila; George Sloan, Blanche Bednar. For the sophomore office of treasurer, Esther Borreson, Anna Alec; Mackey Goodman, Maude Richey; Sophie Mynio, Milton Rabinowitz; Dorothy Kathie, William Walsh. For the freshman office of secretary, Marguerite Lyman, Edith Day; Claire Muller, Margaret Hegedus; Julia Bulnick, Rose Prywata; Henry Schroeder, Gabriel Bulksa. These sixteen representative students were seated in a semi-circle on the stage of the auditorium. Their managers being seated behind them. Miss Violet Chelus acted as chairman and introduced the campaign managers in turn extolling the virtues and qualifications of his candidate presented him to the audience. After the speeches had been made and the applause had died away, the students returned to home rooms to vote. Paul Koepfer and Violet Chelus collected and counted the ballots. The final tally showed that Thomas Brandon had been chosen president; John Dixon, vice-president; Mackey Goodman, treasurer and Claire Muller, secretary. The new officers assumed their duties Monday when classes were resumed after the Thanksgiving holiday. High School Holds Class Elections A recent check-up of the activities of the members of the Class of 1934 showed that eleven boys and twelve girls are attending college, four girls are attending normal school, four girls are attending training schools for nurses, two boys are attending preparatory schools, one is in the navy, five girls are attending business school. Twenty-five boys are employed and thirteen girls. Out of a class of forty-six boys and fifty-nine girls, thirty-nine boys and forty girls are either continuing their education or are employed. If any others enroll in higher institutions or take positions, it would be well for them to give that information to the High School office.

PATTY'S CURLS

By ANNE CAMPBELL

WE CANNOT bear to cut her curls. And every week or two the loveliest of little girls is photographed anew. "So we'll remember," we all say, "The curls she used to wear." And then we set another day To cut our Patty's hair.

But Patty's ringlets still adorn Her pretty little head, And still we plan to have them shorn, Postponing it instead. And I am sure the coming years Can joyously be faced, As long as little Pat appears With ringlets to her waist! Copyright—WNU Service.

Robinson Says President Plans No New Taxes—Franco-German Agreement Concerning the Saar Reported—Vinson's Warning to Japan.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

Senator Robinson

JOE ROBINSON of Arkansas, senate floor leader, spent four hours in conference with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, and emerged with the welcome assurance that the New Deal program to be presented to congress in January does not contemplate the imposition of new taxes or the substantial increase of existing taxes. He added that he believed expenditures for normal government purposes would be kept well within the national income. Of course, this does not mean a balanced budget, for this cannot be had while enormous sums are being spent for relief and re-employment, but the senator would not admit that the cost of these would go above the ten-billion-dollar mark.

"Unemployment relief is to be preferred to the dole," he said. "A reasonably conservative program should be adopted with a view to tapering off the dole."

Senator Robinson said that the bonus was discussed at some length but no conclusion was reached. Intimates of the White House have expressed the fear that a bonus program calling for expenditure of more than two billion dollars may be passed over a veto.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, who was also present at the conference, left for Washington to begin a study of unemployment insurance.

Next day the President's chief caller was Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, and he told Mr. Roosevelt that business would move rapidly on the road to recovery if only it were assured of a safe and sane federal program of expenditures. To correspondents Mr. Roper said he was greatly cheered by Senator Robinson's statement. He felt that the left wing demand for vast sums of money for relief of the unemployed must be checked and that there must be a further shifting of relief control to communities.

TRouble over the Saar plebiscite may be averted after all the alarm, for it is reported unofficially that Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France have reached an accord providing that Germany will pay for French mining properties in the Saar if France abandons the effort to keep the region under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations.

Substance was given this report when Reichsfuehrer Hitler instructed all the Nazi propaganda forces in the Saar to cease their activities. He ordered that disturbances must be avoided and that the Nazis must rely largely on the press to keep the swastika flying in the disputed territory after the plebiscite. This would seem to insure an impartial vote on January 13.

JAPAN, having given unofficial notice that she will withdraw from the Washington naval treaty, still seems to have hope that the United States and Great Britain will agree to give her naval parity. But just in case, she has now invited France and Italy to join her in denouncing the pact. Those nations may consent, but the two great Anglo-Saxon nations are as one in demanding that the 5-5-3 ratio be maintained.

Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, who is chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, has made plain the policy he will insist upon. "I sincerely hope it will not be necessary to scrap the treaty," he said, "but it seems now we cannot hope very strongly for anything else. We cannot grant naval equality to Japan at any price. If the Tokyo government does insist upon wrecking the treaty I will insist that the house naval affairs committee and congress make enough money available to build five ships for each three laid down by Japan."

Japan, he said, had once agreed to be satisfied with three warships for each five built by the United States or Great Britain. "Officially and formally it said that was all it needed," Vinson said, "yet now it wants more."

AGAIN it may be said that if or when another European war breaks out, it will start among the southern nations. The blaze lighted by the assassinations of King Alexander and Louis Barthou in Marseilles is still smoldering. Yugoslavia's delegates in the League of Nations formally charged Hungary with complicity in the murder of the king, asserting she had harbored Balkan terrorists. Hungary demanded immediate action by the league's council on this accusation, declaring "the peace of the world" might be affected. The Hungarian note asked that the matter be placed on the agenda of the council's session called to meet on December 3 to discuss the forthcoming plebiscite in the Saar, so that Hungary might "defend its honor against proceedings which have no other purpose than to compromise the good name of the whole Hungarian nation."

The document then pointed out that the council, under Article IV of the covenant of the league, may deal with any question affecting the peace of the world.

It is, therefore, the duty of the council to face this question as soon as possible, it asserted, "and thus guard against the grave dangers which might arise from the situation that Hungary is still bound to bring to the attention of the council."

The Yugoslavian charges were supported by the other two states of the little entente, Czechoslovakia and Rumania.

Italy, which has stood by Hungary, was expected to refuse to grant extradition to France of Dr. Ante Pavelich, alleged leader of the gang that planned and carried out the assassination of King Alexander. The court of appeals at Turin denied the application of France, and it was believed the minister of justice would confirm this ruling.

LEON ARCHIMBAUD, French reporter of the budget, declared before the chamber of deputies that it was undeniable that an understanding exists between France and Russia, and that the Soviet government had offered armed aid to France in case of a conflict with Germany.

This caused great excitement and the French office contented itself with a denial that there was any military accord. The Russian offer was generally believed to have been made by Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, last spring to the late Louis Barthou and again to his successor, Pierre Laval. Col. Jean Fabry, former French minister of war, gave support to Archimbaud's statement by asserting that France's knowledge of German rearmament, the details of German troops and information concerning the secret manufacture of arms and airplanes in the reich was supplied by Russia. The two men were arguing for a large war budget, and Archimbaud pictured Russia's huge military machine working with France as the only means of preserving peace in Europe.

DISPATCHES from Germany tell of serious unrest in the reich, and though the government calls them "malicious lies," it is a fact that the army and police forces are being held under emergency orders.

A long smoldering feud between the reichswehr (regular army) and the schutzstaffel (black shirt picked Nazi guards) was believed responsible for the orders, which involved suspension of Christmas furloughs for soldiers and military police.

Drilling of Nazi storm troops has increased, reports said, while all marriages of army men and police set for the Christmas holidays, popular wedding period for Germany's military men, have been postponed.

Baron Werner von Fritsch, chief of the reichswehr, in a memorandum to Hitler, said plainly in discussing Nazi suppressive methods that, unless a more liberal spirit prevailed, the government would face opposition from all sides in case of war. He told Hitler something must be done about the bad blood between the schutzstaffel and the reichswehr.

BOLIVIA'S troops in the Chaco were being soundly whipped by the Paraguayans and President Daniel Salamanca was blamed. He visited the war front and was arrested by Gen. Enrique Penaranda and forced to resign. Meantime Vice President Jose Sorzano had taken over the presidential powers by decree and installed a new cabinet. Penaranda appeared to be the virtual dictator and it seemed likely he would take steps to bring about peace with Paraguay.

GEN. LAZARO CARDENAS, who though only thirty-nine years old is a veteran of the Mexican revolution, was installed as president of Mexico on November 30. He is of Spanish and Tarascan Indian stock, a fine soldier and statesman and has held office under the revolutionary government for five years.

IN A trial lasting only a few minutes, Lord Ashley won a divorce from his wife, the former Sylvia Hawke, actress, and the costs, estimated at $10,000, were ordered paid by Douglas Fairbanks, who was named as co-respondent. Neither Lady Ashley nor the American film star made any defense, and there were two witnesses, Lord Ashley and George Edwards, Fairbanks' secretary. A decree nisi was granted by Justice Sir Boyd Merriman, and it may be made final in six months.

INSPECTOR SAMUEL F. COWLEY and Agent Herman E. Halls of the bureau of investigation, Department of Justice, engaged in a gun battle with Lester Gillis, better known as "Baby Face" Nelson, Public Enemy No. 1, and a companion, near Barton, Ill., and both the federal men were shot to death by machine guns in the hands of the bandits. The killers, accompanied by a woman, escaped at the time being in the agents' car, their own being disabled.

Next day Nelson's body was found miles away, in Niles Center, at the entrance to a cemetery. He had died of nine bullet wounds from the guns of the federal agents he killed and evidently his body had been left at the roadside after his companions had failed to save his life. In the same region were found Nelson's clothing and the car the bandits had used after the battle.

Cowley was the man who killed John Dillinger, chief of the gang, when Nelson belonged, and he also was in command of the posse that ran down and killed "Pretty Boy" Floyd in an Indiana cornfield not long ago.

THANKSGIVING day in America was wedding day in London for the duke of Kent, fourth son of the king and queen of England, and Princess Marina of Greece. The metropolitan swarmed with royalty and nobility from many lands, and vast throngs of ordinary persons watched the marriage ceremony was performed. The ancient church was filled with the fortunate ones who had been invited and the scene was glittering. The only Americans present were United States Ambassador and Mrs. Robert W. H. Ham.

The ceremony in the abbey was celebrated at 11 o'clock in the morning, and it was followed immediately by another, the Greek Orthodox. The latter took place in the private chapel of Buckingham palace and was celebrated by Archbishop Germanos, archbishop of the Greek church in London. Only a select company of royal witnesses was present.

REPORTS of various business groups indicate that "luxury spending" is becoming more noticeable and is adding to the industry considerably. This includes everything from the baby's doll to the palatial yacht—and some place in between is fine furs—and all trade organizations report an increase. Reports to Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper by business leaders indicated that sales in some gift lines this year would be 40 per cent greater than a year ago.

Charity is not forgotten in this revival of spending. Community chests and councils reported that contributions to community chest drives this year already are within 10 per cent of the 1929 total, and national income has dropped about 50 per cent in that time.

TAKE it from the Department of Agriculture that American farmers have these reasons to be thankful this year:

Cash farm income from sales of crops and live stock, AAA benefit payments, and emergency drought sales of cattle to the government totaled $732,000,000 in October, compared with $659,000,000 in September and $620,000,000 in October, 1933.

Total farm cash income for ten months this year was $5,045,000,000 compared to $4,999,000,000 for the corresponding period last year, of which $4,614,000,000 was derived from marketing and $483,000,000 from benefit payments and emergency cattle sales, compared to $3,967,000,000 and $122,000,000, respectively, in 1933.

SAMUEL INSULL and his sixteen defendants in the great mail fraud trial in Chicago were acquitted by the jury, despite the long work of the government officials in preparing and presenting the case at an estimated cost of $100,000.

The verdict was reached on the (19th) ballot, and the attorneys for the prosecution could say only that they had done their best. It was apparent that the jurors were not convinced that Insull and his aides had an intent to defraud. There are other charges standing against Insull, but whether or not there will be further prosecution is undecided.

There were rumors that the former magnate, if cleared of all charges, planned to re-enter La Salle street and the utilities field.

THERE is bound to be another big fight in the senate over the revamped St. Lawrence waterway treaty, but it looks now as if President Roosevelt were justified in his expectation that the treaty will be ratified. Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, leader of the opposition that defeated the pact in the last session, said in Washington that he had heard rumors that some major provisions involved in the controversy had been eliminated in a new treaty with Canada that is being negotiated. The omitted provisions, he understood, have to do with the American share of the cost of the way and limitations on the diversion of water from Lake Michigan for the Chicago drainage canal. He added that he also had it that the new pact would acknowledge complete American sovereignty over Lake Michigan.

The St. Lawrence treaty was one of the live topics discussed in the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association in St. Louis. The association voted to continue its opposition to the treaty unless its objectionable features are removed.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER GOSSIPS WITH HONKER

PETER RABBIT could hardly wait for the coming of the Black Shadows, and just as soon as they had crept over the Green Meadows he started for the Big River. He knew just where to go. He knew that Honker and his friends would remain out in the middle of the Big River until the Black Shadows had made it quite safe for them to swim in. He reached the bank of the Big River just as sweet Mistress Moon was beginning to throw her silvery light over the Great World. At this point there was a sandy bar in the Big River and right where this sandy bar started out from the bank, Peter squatted.

It seemed to him that he had sat there half the night, but really it was only a short time, before he heard a low signal out in the Black Shadows which covered the middle of the Big River. It was the voice of Honker. Then Peter saw little silvery lines moving on the water, and presently a dozen great shapes appeared in the moonlight. Slowly they drew near, Honker in the lead. They were a picture of perfect caution. When they reached the sandy bar they remained quiet for some time, looking and listening. Then, sure that all was safe, Honker gave a low signal, and at once a low, contented gabbling began as the birds relaxed their watchfulness and came out on the sandy bar.

"Oh, Honker!" cried Peter. "I'm so glad you're back here safe and sound."

Honker gave a little start but, instantly recognizing Peter, came close to him. As he stood there in the moonlight he was truly handsome. His throat and a large patch on each side of his head were white. The remainder of his head and his long slim neck were black. His short tail was also black. His back, wings, breast, and sides were a soft grayish brown. He was white around the base of his tail, and he also wore a white collar.

"Hello, Peter!" said he. "It is good to have an old friend greet me. I certainly am glad to be back safe and sound, for the hunters with terrible guns have been at almost every one of our resting places, and it is hard work to get enough to eat."

"Have you come far?" asked Peter. "Very far, Peter, very far," replied Honker. "And we still have far to go."

"Will winter soon be here?" Peter asked eagerly. "It is only a little way behind us," replied Honker. "We shall have to hurry lest it catch us, and that would never do."

Mother Shipton was a so-called prophetess who was first heard of in a tract of 1641, in which she is said to have lived in the reign of Henry VIII, and to have foretold the death of Wolsey, Cromwell, Lord Percy, etc. In 1677 the pamphleteering publisher, Richard Head, brought out a new edition, in which she is credited with having predicted steam engines, the telegraph and other modern inventions, as well as the end of the world in 1881.

soon as the boiling point is reached, add one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil until when tried in cold water the mixture will become brittle. Stir constantly during the last of the cooking. When nearly done, add one-half cupful of melted butter and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, pour out, and when cold, pull. Flavor to taste.

Party Cheese Salad. Take two packages of cream cheese, roll into small balls, making twelve. Toast—or tint any color desired. Arrange in nests of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Apple Sauce Pudding. Season one cupful of apple sauce with cinnamon or nutmeg, divide it among six dessert glasses. Prepare a junket tablet with a pint of lukewarm milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar (dissolve the tablet in a tablespoonful of water), flavoring the junket mixture with a few drops of almond. Pour over the apple sauce and let stand to become firm in a warm room. Chill and serve.

Buttercups. Those of us who have crunched the creamy buttercup will never forget their deliciousness. Shall we make a few at home?

Boil two cupfuls of molasses with one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, not stirring until the last few minutes of the cooking. When a firm ball is made when a drop is placed in cold water pour out, cool and pull. Make a long roll of fondant, cover with buttercup mixture, pull in a long strip and cut into small pieces with shears.

RED CROSS RELIEF GIVEN TO VICTIMS IN 103 DISASTERS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne, commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variation in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterize the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyards fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1,000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three epidemics were reported, and three epidemics of malaria and typhoid fever. A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "To make this possible the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions for chapters interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster institutes were held last year in 28 strategic locations, to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities."

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Trained to Save Lives

First aid certificates were issued by the Red Cross last year to 130,972 persons who finished the course of instruction put on by the chapters. Included in this list were more than 70,000 foremen, time clerks and other key employees on Federal Civil Works projects. Further evidence of the government's endorsement of the first aid program is found in projects now under way where Red Cross chapters, at the request of the War Department, are giving first aid instruction in CCC camps. Where it has been requested by Army engineers the same instruction is also made available to key men working on federal water conservancy and flood control projects.

War Veterans' Problems Increase

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical illness, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment by trained Red Cross workers. In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the official medium between the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 6,979 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

Fires on Morro Castle and at Nome, Alaska, Received Help of Red Cross Workers

A number of tragic and unusual disasters have recently called for Red Cross relief. Included in them have been a flood in Kentucky, following a series of cloudbursts in August; epidemics of disease which threatened several sections, including some caused by drought conditions. Red Cross workers found much to do for the survivors of the Morro Castle fire and for those engaged in rescue work; and Red Cross relief went by airplane to Alaska when the famous old gold camp, Nome, burned in September.

THE Electrikbroom

CLEANS ALL KINDS OF FLOORS

This new electric cleaner—light in weight and powerful in action—cleans rugs and carpets thoroughly. It does an equally good piece of work when it comes to cleaning wood floors, tile floors and linoleum. It does not store the dirt. All the refuse it draws up goes down into a bakelite cup, which is removed and emptied just like an ash tray.

Only six pounds in weight, the Electrikbroom is easy to operate, to carry around and to store. It has a ring on the handle by which you can fasten it on a hook. The cord is released by the flip of a clip. Regular cleaning is an easy task with the Electrikbroom and it takes only a few moments to get it out and go over the floors after meals or a party. Only $29.50 cash.

With the dusting and cleaning tools you can do a thorough house cleaning job. These tools are easily attached and are sold at a small additional cost. The brush and felt pad with which you clean wood and linoleum floors are included in the price $29.50.

Carrying charge extra if you buy on monthly payment plan—$2 down and the balance in small monthly payments.

The Carteret News

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY IN THE YEAR AT THE PLANT OF THE CARTERET NEWS AT 9 COOKE AVENUE, CARTERET, N. J. TELEPHONE, CARTERET 8-0300.

M. E. YORKE, Publisher

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1908, at the post office at Carteret, N. J., under act of March 3, 1879.

THE CARTERET NEWS was founded June 17, 1908 as THE ROOSEVELT NEWS; was published on Wednesdays until July 15, 1909 was then published on Thursdays until December 6, 1912, since which time it has been a Friday paper. The title of the paper became THE CARTERET NEWS on November 17, 1922, following the election of November 7, 1922, when the people of the Borough voted to change the name of the Borough from Roosevelt to Carteret by a vote of 1652 to 203.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The manner in which the people have responded to the call of the "Boosters", causes one to remember that Carteret always did have a fine healthy community spirit. It is a spirit of mutual aid, good-will and cooperation. It is a spirit that keeps us interested in the lives of our friends and neighbors.

It also reminds one of a few other instances where that same spirit was displayed to the advantage of the community.

In 1922, when this Borough was called upon to determine whether we shall bear the name of Carteret or Roosevelt, our industries requested the name "Carteret." For one thing, that name was derived from one of the founders of the State of New Jersey, namely Sir Philip Carteret; the other, because that name had been advertised all over the world, and a change of that name would be very inconvenient and costly to them. The residents here responded to the call and voted overwhelmingly in favor of the name "Carteret."

When our local boys ran for a county or State office, party lines were set aside and the majorities that they received here is a tribute to the friendship and respect that we hold for outstanding men of our community. Such instances are rare in other places for, as it was once observed, a man is never a hero to his valet Carteret though can appreciate the good in its own.

When our Joe Medwick was being heralded as one of the world's best baseball players, and when he was on his way up, his followers and adherents here numbered in the hundreds. Later when he played in the world's series, one had only to look at the throngs listening with breathless interest, hoping and praying for him to make good, and he would be convinced that we have a fine healthy spirit of mutual interest.

And very recently this town witnessed a keen but cleanly fought election; and in spite of all the passions and emotions that such an event is bound to arouse, people of both parties are now trading with one another, conversing on friendly terms, laughing together and sympathetically interested in each other's trials and problems. The Young Men's Republican Club hired a band composed mostly of Democratic adherents for their victory dance while the Democrats, on the other hand, are purchasing tickets for that same dance in order to be on hand and to offer their congratulations and best wishes. These instances are all fine examples of the sportsmanship and co-operative spirit of the people of this town. With this same spirit of loyalty and good fellowship, our people are now responding to the call of the business man, who has always interested himself sincerely in all of our religious and social welfare work. He now requires the full advantage of the community's trade, and realizing that Carteret is a young town and that it desires life, vigor and activity, even in business, he has inaugurated this Booster campaign to provide that stimulus. To-day after a short period of that campaign, he looks happily forward to the renewal of old acquaintances and friendships. The customer too is happy and there is a joy had in the purchasing, and a thrill in the opportunities for prizes afforded by the Booster coupon which is given with the purchase. The community spirit lives again.

The perpetuation of this mutual co-operation, and the happiness that we derive from it, inspires one with confidence in the future welfare of Carteret. It assures the future progress of our Borough.

A sound healthy community spirit is an invaluable possession. Let us preserve and continue it. In this manner we can bring honor to ourselves in the eyes of the State. Keep Carteret first in our thoughts.

Let us continue with our aid; besides it pays to buy at home.

Communication

Editor, The News:

A good time ago you had an editorial about the messy way some of the streets were named in Carteret, showing that there are two corners each of Roosevelt and Pershing and Washington and Roosevelt avenues. It has occurred to me several times why something has not been done to readjust that mess. For people who come from out of town to do business here there is only confusion for them regarding the above named corners. Also, the bus time-table states a definite time that the Newark bus get at Roosevelt and Pershing avenue, but no one knows which one of the two corners it means.

Why on earth the name of Cooke avenue was not maintained clear to Roosevelt avenue is hard to understand? Cooke avenue is almost straight to the hill and should naturally be so-called beyond the borough hall. Pershing avenue should end where it meets Cooke avenue.

Cooke avenue used to be Third street clear to the hill.

Changing back the number of the buildings on what is now Pershing avenue, but should be Cooke avenue, would not be hard. The numbers on Pershing avenue start in Chrome. And the few places on Cooke avenue really ought to be glad to take a little hardship for the sake of re-arranging something from the realm of a joke to the sensible and practical.

The new council could do a good job in respect to this problem. It will have to be done some time. PRACTICAL.

Water Vapor Always Present

Weather men have encountered only a few instances when natural outdoor air was so dry that sensitive instruments could not detect any water vapor.

Stegiel—Wadiak

On Thanksgiving Day at 4 o'clock, Miss Mary Ann Wadiak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wadiak, of 53 Randolph street, became the bride of Francis Stegiel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stegiel, of Main street, South Amboy. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Joseph Dziadosz, D. D., at the Holy Family Church.

Miss Emilie Karasowski, cousin of the bride, served as attendant for her cousin, while Stephen Fritz was the best man.

Immediate relatives and friends of the young couple attended a reception at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The young couple will reside in Perth Amboy upon their return from a wedding trip.

Police Court News

Walter W. Nukowski, who formerly lived in the Chrome section, was arrested Monday night on a warrant issued in March charging him with attempting to rob John Martins.

Loving Justice Aux.

The auxiliary unit of the Congregation of Loving Justice held a Hanukkah party Monday night in the Chrome synagogue. It was also a farewell part to Mrs. Landesberg, wife of Rabbi Landesberg, who will leave soon for Palestine to make her home. A motion picture benefit will be held this month for the Hebrew School. Mrs. James Brown is chairman. The party arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Thomas McNally, Mrs. Sidney Brown, Mrs. Sam Schwartz and Mrs. A. Wellesley.

Glands Not All Powerful

Glands are not all powerful in determining the course and limits of the development of human and animal bodies.

Friendly Chatter

Announcement is made of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. George Waldo, of Frederick street, at the Perth Amboy General Hospital on Tuesday.

It is understood that the Rev. Carl Prater, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church has received a call from a large parish in Brooklyn and will leave his local charge around December 15th.

Walter Galvanek of Lincoln avenue, who has been confined to the Perth Amboy General Hospital with an injury following a football game, has returned to his home.

"WHERE THE SMALLEST CUSTOMER IS TREATED LIKE A BIG FRIEND"

"... And, My Dear! I Forgot to Order More Electricity."

"We were having a party and we used up all the electricity on hand, and I had forgotten to order more. I certainly was embarrassed."

How absurd, you say?

To be sure, it's absurd. But what if you had to order electricity as you do potatoes, or coal, or milk or bread?

Most of us never give our use of electricity a thought. It's such a habit—a part of our daily life that we simply click a switch and electricity goes to work.

Because we accept electricity as a part of our daily habits, little thought is given to its tremendous value in the home.

Analyze your uses of electricity. Compare them to your monthly bill. Is there any other expenditure which give you so much for so little?

School Gridders Meet Freehold Tomorrow

Post Season Football Game To Be Played in Asbury Park

Players Who Participated in Perth Amboy Contest to Start Ball Game Tomorrow—Asbury Park Donates Stadium Free for Game.

Coach Frank McCarthy's high school football team will meet Freehold High tomorrow afternoon in a post-season game at Asbury Park City Stadium. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:00 P. M.

The game was arranged primarily to defray expenses sustained during the past football season. The proceeds will be split evenly between both schools.

It will be the first time this season that Carteret High has met a team in its own class. That is, Freehold is in Group 2, of which Carteret is also a member.

It is expected that the first string team which defeated Perth Amboy last week will again start the game tomorrow, although it is not certain whether Romanowski, the end, will be in uniform. The husky junior has been ill all week, and it may be that Marciniak will play in his position.

The Freehold team is undefeated, even though their schedule did not call for any teams of superior strength. The Macmen are picked by state experts to win handily, and it may be that the scrubs will be in the ball game for the most part.

It will be interesting to see just what kind of a showing Les Urbellus, Freehold's triple threat half-back, will make against Carteret's Stan Kosel. Urbellus, as you know, merited a place in the All-Group 2 backfield, as did Kosel. The Monmouth County star is reputed to be a fast man in a broken field. However, they don't come much tougher than Johnny Reinert, and his poor showing against the Macmen should be enough to convince local fans of a victory.

Asbury Park High School has donated the use of their stadium for the game.

TO CHARGE FEE

Because of the tremendous crowd which turns out each Monday evening at the high school to witness the Junior League games, it has been decided to charge a small fee of admission, it was learned by The News this week.

Before the ruling was put into effect, the admission to the League games was free.

A tremendous crowd witnessed the games last week, leaving only standing room for the late comers. Even then, the players on the court had little room to move around.

HUDSONS LOSE TO J. C. HUNGARIANS

The strong Jersey City Hungarians put on one of the best bowling exhibitions seen in town this year Sunday afternoon at the Udzielak Alleys when they trounced the Hudson A. C. by a 2-1 margin.

Although defeated, the Hudsons put up a splendid fight. The local team took the first game by twenty-one pins, winning 869-890. But in the second and third games, the visitors were victors, due mostly to the fine work of Vincent Stelgas and Joe Murphy.

Mike Sierkerka, "Tarzan" Horvath and Lee Zysk hit two hundred scores:

CLEM'S QUIBS OF SPORT

It is with a great deal of interest that local fans look toward the Carteret-Freehold game to be played tomorrow afternoon at Asbury Park. In the first place, it will be interesting to see what the Macmen can do to a team in their own class, and secondly, to settle the old argument as to who is the better back, Urbellus of Freehold or Kosel of Carteret.

The game is to be played at the Asbury Park stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 P. M. The Asbury Park school officials are donating the stadium for the tilt.

But, the writer is picking Carteret to win by a pretty lopsided margin.

What a Mob! But the Admission's Free.

Over 300 fans watched the teams of the Junior Basketball League fight it out Monday evening at the high school court. But none of them paid a cent admission. As a matter of fact, there is no admission charged to the loop games, but if the tremendous crowd continues its interest in the league games, a nominal fee will have to be charged.

So crowded was the gym on Monday that the fans were forced to stand two deep along the sidelines, and this did not do the players on the court much good. It is the hope of the league officials that if a small sum is charged, the crowd will thin out, making the games more comfortable for players and fans as well.

Who's that local big shot that said that a kid's league would never go over in this town?

Young Suto to Mix It Up Again Friday

Young Otto Suto of the Harmony Club will fight in Newark next Friday evening in the A. A. U. bouts to be held there.

Suto, who was scheduled to appear in the New Brunswick Elks' bouts, has been out of action for a time with a knee injury sustained on the high school gridiron, but is now in shape and is raring to go.

Jednotas to Play Basketball Again This Year

The Carteret Jednotas, who are noted for their baseball teams, are going in for the court game this fall. They will open their season in the near future, playing home games at the high school court on Thursday evenings.

"Knobby" D'Zurilla, Mike Poll, Mickey D'Zurilla, Dick Donovan and a host of others are expected to be back in the fold again this season, and another good season is predicted.

TALK OF NEW JANITOR FOR HIGH SCHOOL

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held Wednesday evening in the Surveyor's room at the borough hall with the following commissioners in attendance: Messrs. Joseph Galvanek, Mathias Begett, Dr. Herbert Strandberg, James Lusk, Thomas Jakeway and Frank Haury. Messrs. Joseph W. Mittuch, and Gus E. Medvetz were not present. Mr. Charles A. Conrad, president, presided, and Mr. William V. Coughlin, clerk, took the minutes.

Miss B. V. Hermann, supervising principal of schools, reported on the enrollment in the schools as follows: Total number of pupils in the regular day schools, 2678; continuation school, 38; evening school, 108; evening school for foreign born, 24.

Two accidents were reported. Joseph Suhar, 53 Cooke avenue, of Columbus School, fell on an oiled floor striking his head against a radiator, causing lacerations on the head; Joseph Walsh, 229 Roosevelt avenue, of High School, during chemistry was burned with acid on the fingers and wrists. Both were treated by Dr. Wantoch. The school nurses report showed several cases of eye, ear, mouth, throat, skin, fever and chicken pox in the schools. All were dealt with.

It was announced that the Chamber of Commerce of Perth Amboy invites all the school children of the borough to come to Perth Amboy to witness or take part in their Christmas parade to be held Saturday, December 15, from 1 to 2.

Several communications were received as follows: A request for a leave of absence from January 1935 to January 1936 from Thelma Carlisle George. The request was granted. An expression of thanks from Mary Diedrich for her appointment as substitute teacher. A request by the American Legion, in the interest of a 40-hour time program, for the free use of the Nathan Hale School for a free dance to be held Friday, January 18. Permission granted. A request from the Carteret Field Club for the free use of the Nathan Hale School for a dance to be given December 29. This is to be a benefit for one of their members who suffered a broken leg. Permission was granted. An expression, complimenting the school system on its fine exhibit of handwriting at Atlantic City. Many bills were presented and ordered paid.

Miss Hermann spoke on the advisability of combining athletics with academic studies in evening school, and asked for the use of the high school auditorium and gymnasium evenings from 7 to 9. She said she felt the attendance would be better if the students were allowed some time for athletic diversion each night in connection with their other studies, approximately one hour of each. She also suggested that a program for Adult education be instituted, the demand to decide what kind of work would be offered. As Mr. Haury wanted to know how much expense for the borough would be involved in these projects of athletics in evening school and Adult Education, a preliminary investigation was ordered made, with reports to be made at the next meeting.

The appointments of Blanche Grosbaum and Dorothy Venook as evening school teachers at a salary of $4.00 per night was confirmed. Marian Kelly was appointed substitute teacher for Thelma Carlisle George at a salary of $125.00 per month. There being five eligible cases for home instruction, Sylvia Fischer was appointed to teach these children at home at the rate of $20.00 a month per pupil. This position is to last as long as there is need for it.

There was much discussion on the advisability of putting a third janitor on at the high school, it being claimed that there is entirely too much work up there for two men. This matter was ordered investigated. Report will be made at the next meeting.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Anna Casaleggi, of Lowell street, fell Saturday, breaking her knee-cap.

Upon the absolute refusal of Mrs. May Leonard to accept the presidency again, Mrs. Fred Hedeman was elected president. Mrs. Moe Davis succeeds Mrs. William Casey, of Carteret as vice-president. Mrs. Louis Rubin, secretary, and Miss Fanny Roarko, treasurer, retain their offices. The ladies donated two hundred dollars toward the men's charity fund.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER CHARGE

Anna Lee Pease, Negress, of this borough, was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Clarence E. Case at the opening of the December Term of Court, entered a plea of not guilty Tuesday morning to an indictment charging her with the murder of Roosevelt Roberts, also a Carteret Negro.

The Pease woman was not represented by counsel when brought to the bar of justice by Prosecutor Douglas M. Hicks. The indictment was read to her and she muttered, "it was in self-defense."

Justice Case directed that a not guilty plea be entered in her behalf. She was remanded to the county jail without bail to await trial which will likely be held after the Christmas holidays. It was charged by the State that the defendant stabbed Roberts at her home. She was arrested on the day following the murder and while she admitted the stabbing, she claimed that it was in "self-defense."

CONSTRUCTIVENESS OF N. J. HEALTH DEPT. CITED

Trenton, Dec. 12—Physicians' reports to Dr. J. Lynn Mahaffey, State Health Director, showed that 1,009 children were inoculated with diphtheria serum and 829 with small-pox vaccine in October in the campaign of the State Department of Health to secure immunization from those diseases among children of pre-school age. The Health Department is distributing serums to physicians, the Legislature having appropriated $20,000 in the interest of child health promotion.

The number of inoculations during October was considerably greater than that reported during any month since the serums were made available by this year's Legislature. The law provides that a physician using the serums may charge $1 for his services, and children of indigent families are to be given the protective treatments without charge for professional services.

Since July the number of children treated with diphtheria toxoid is 1705 and 1569 vaccinated. More than fifty municipal distributing stations are in operation, principally at municipal boards of health, at which physicians may obtain the serums and 1,015 physicians have entered into agreements with the State Department of Health under the terms of the statute.

Dr. Mahaffey considers the move one of the most constructive undertaken by the State Department of Health in child health educational work. The officers of the State Medical Society are assisting Dr. Mahaffey.

Local Plant Sends Large Shipment of Silver Consigned to Canadian Commodity Exchange

A short time ago The Carteret News ran a sketchy story setting forth briefly the products turned out at the United States Metals Refining Company either directly or as by-products. Among the by-products cited produced on a smaller scale, was silver. In the average persons mind, as well as the boy who studies in school, silver comes only from the mines in its pure, virgin state. However, such companies as the United States Metals Refining Company, known locally as the Copper Works, in order to try to reduce their money losses, make special effort at recovering all silver products from the so-called waste materials. Waste materials in their case would be materials that were not copper, since that is the principal industry. When the copper is obtained the balance is again separated out into such materials as might be marketable and saleable. Due to superior refining processes and research work the local plant has been getting more and more out of the ore that is sent them. They get all possible copper and all that ingenuity and research suggests out of the balance. That amount appears to be increasing in some respects and although the plant is known principally as a copper smelter and refining plant, a statement appeared in one of the Montreal papers indicating that in one shipment alone the Commodity Exchange there had received no less than 740,000 ounces from the United States Metals Refining plant at Carteret. Gold and other metals, of course, as mentioned in the story in The Carteret News, also are won at times from the copper ores that the company receives.

The Montreal account of the shipment from Carteret was as follows: To fill December silver deliveries on the Canadian Commodity Exchange the largest individual shipment of silver ever to reach Montreal, approximately 740,000 ounces arrived by train from Carteret, New Jersey. Shipped by the United States Metals Refining Company, it was consigned to two companies licensed by the exchange as official warehouses. Of the silver sent to Montreal by the United States Metals Refining Company, some of it originated in London and some from Mexico. The company had some of it refined and stamped with brands acceptable as good delivery on the Montreal exchange.

Struck By Truck; Driver from Trenton

Frank Godeski, of 98 Pulaski avenue, while walking in Route No. 25, in the Lafayette section of Woodbridge Township Tuesday night about 9 o'clock, was struck by a truck driven by Albert Waters, of 434 North Clinton avenue, Trenton. Godeski was hurled against a truck parked at the side of the highway. F. H. Goodfellow, of Old Iron road, Englishtown, was passing in an auto and took Godeski to the Middlesex Hospital, in New Brunswick, where he was treated by Dr. McCloud for concussion of the brain and injuries to both legs. Godeski's condition is not serious the hospital reported. The hospital notified Woodbridge police who notified Carteret headquarters. An officer was sent to notify Godeski's family.

BANQUET MONDAY ON ANNIVERSARY OF FIRST AIR FLIGHT

The Carteret Air Service, in compliance with the plans of the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Air Commerce, to celebrate the thirty-first anniversary of the first power driven airplane flight by Orville Wright, will stage a banquet at the Washington auditorium, Monday night, December 17, at 8 o'clock. An elaborate program is being prepared with entertainment provided by professional talent. There will also be dancing. The dinner is being catered by Phil Turk. Many celebrities of the aviation world are expected to be present among them being Bob Buck the famous trans-Atlantic flyer an author of three books on aviation. E. R. A. Forcefully Prosecuting False Relief Recipients

As a result of an investigation by the Emergency Relief Administration, Daniel Pasternak, of Raritan Township was recently arrested and charged with obtaining relief under false pretense from the Metuchen-Raritan Relief District. Pasternak pleaded guilty, Judge Boland's decision being that the amount involving $207.00 for relief received from June 1st, 1934, be refunded to the Administration. The Emergency Relief Administration is sparing no effort to apprehend individuals receiving relief fraudulently.

D'ZURILLA NAMED FIRE ENGINEER

An adjourned meeting of the borough council was held last evening with the following members present: William D'Zurilla, Hercules Ellis, Philip Turk, William Greenwald and Michael Yarcheski. The mayor, Joseph A. Hermann, presided. John E. Donahue, having a position somewhere in the South, could not be there. Upon reconsideration, after their application had been formerly denied, the General American Tank Storage Co. was granted permission to erect one 20,000-barrel and five 80,000-barrel tanks on a plot of land between Lafayette street and the Warner Chemical Co., with the provision that the company employ Carteret labor in the building of these tanks and in their plant, wherever possible. They agreed also to respect union labor and rates. Charles Roszarska and Frank Resko, partners in a saloon at 26 Pershing avenue, being found guilty by the State Liquor Beverage Control Board of a violation of the liquor laws, were suspended from doing business between December 13th and December 17th. The reason for this light sentence, the Council said, was the fact that the record of these men had been a clean one up to the present time. The mayor warned all liquor dealers that the law with regard to liquor violations would be strictly enforced. Upon the resignation of William D'Zurilla from the Council, which took effect immediately, Phil Turk moved that D'Zurilla be appointed fire engineer in Fire Co. No. 1 at a salary of $2200.00 a year, less the 20% being deducted from the pay of borough and school employees. Councilman Greenwald, Turk and Yarcheski voted yes. Ellis was opposed. The motion was carried.

TWO CRITICALLY HURT AS TRAIN HITS TRUCK AT CROSSING

One of the worst accidents in the borough occurred about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning at an unguarded railroad crossing leading to the Metal Thermit Company's plant. A milk truck, crossing the tracks at Union street, to deliver milk at one of the company's houses, was hit by a Central R. R. train. The truck was completely demolished and its driver and helper seriously injured. Both were rushed to the Perth Amboy Hospital. The driver was Joseph Singer, of 113 Brighton avenue, Perth Amboy; the helper, Joseph Yakuber, of 192 Grant st., also of Perth Amboy. The helper, a boy of 16, is in a very critical condition, having suffered internal injuries. The older man was badly cut and burned.

Davis Warns Japan Against Scrapping Naval Treaty—Peaceful Agreement for Saar Plebiscite—Moley and Richberg to Industrialists.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© by Western Newspaper Union.

NORMAN H. DAVIS, American ambassador-at-large and our chief representative in the naval limitation conversations that have been going on in London, has given plain warning to Japan that if that nation insists on scrapping the Washington naval treaty, security will be endangered, suspicion created and the world forced into a costly naval construction race. Mr. Davis was addressing the American Correspondents' association in London, but his words were meant for all the world to hear, and as his speech was the first comprehensive statement of the American position since the opening of the conversations, it was regarded as of the greatest importance. He also announced, for the first time, that President Roosevelt has proposed "a substantial all-round reduction in naval armaments."

Mr. Davis said that, since no agreement for armament reduction has been reached, the United States advocates the continuance of the Washington and London treaties with their assurance of "equality of security." Asserting that the Washington pact put an end to a ruinous naval race and established "a sound basis for peace in the Pacific and the Far East," he continued:

"Only by maintenance of the system of equality of security, with proportionate reductions downward of naval strength if possible, can there be maintained the substantial foundation for security and peace which has thus been laid.

"Abandonment now of the principles involved would lead to conditions of insecurity, of international suspicion, and of costly competition, with no real advantage to any nation."

Unofficially, it is said that when Japan gives formal notice that she is denouncing the Washington treaty, probably on December 20, the United States will immediately withdraw from the discussions in London. Officials in Washington consider that to continue the conversations would be tantamount to acquiescence to Japan's demand for modification of the ratios on which the treaty is based.

No more than any other nation does the United States wish to see the revival of the race in naval construction, but the government will not tolerate the decline of our navy to a subordinate place. Recent utterances of cabinet members and of congressmen who especially have to do with naval affairs make this plain.

In his annual report to the President, Secretary of the Navy Swanson says that although the United States may reduce its naval strength proportionately with other powers, it is imperative that a navy second to none be maintained. He warns also of the dangerous shortage of personnel in the navy, saying that "ships are valueless unless manned by adequate crews of trained, experienced officers and men."

THE government of Yugoslavia has decided to expel all the 27,000 Hungarians now living in that country. The process will be gradual but relentless. Already more than 2,000 have been deported and more are being sent away daily. Hungary called the action of Yugoslavia to the attention of the League of Nations.

PEACEFUL solution of the Saar plebiscite problem seemed assured when the council of the League of Nations unanimously and gladly adopted the report of the Saar committee embodying the Franco-German agreement for payment for the mines in case the region votes to return to the reich. Leading up to this settlement were two announcements of utmost importance. First, Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France promised that French troops would make no attempt to enter the Saar territory before or during the vote on January 13. "I desire to announce," said he "that France will not participate in any international force which it may be found necessary to send into the Saar. We cannot participate in such a force because Germany cannot participate."

Then Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, told the council that Great Britain would contribute troops to the proposed international force, provided Chancellor Hitler of Germany were willing that such an army should be sent into the territory. When Berlin was informed of this, a foreign office spokesman announced that Hitler's government would raise no objections to the plan.

All this was in effect a victory for the policies of Col. Geoffrey G. Knox, the league commissioner of the Saar, for he has long advocated the creation of an international police force for the territory.

Delegates of Italy and Czechoslovakia declared their countries would send troops, and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissar, said he believed Russia would be willing to supply a part of the league force.

DISPATCHES from Warsaw said the Poles were amazed and alarmed by the Franco-German agreement because they feared the understanding between those two nations would be extended to include Great Britain and Italy. The foreign office hinted that in that case Poland's relations with Russia might be made closer. Poland resents being left out in the cold, for she is determined to be recognized as one of the great powers, and to play her part in the stabilization of peace in Europe.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT returned from Warm Springs to his reconditioned executive offices in Washington with the greater part of his winter program completed. It will be presented to congress in his annual message on January 3. The major items have to do with expansion of the public works administration to provide work relief, revision of the NRA and the AAA, extension of power developments, social security insurance and low cost housing, and the paring down of the budget.

MEMBERS of the Mid-Continent Reclamation association, representing 19 states, met in Chicago and perfected plans for a soil erosion and flood control program, to cost $900,000,000, which the association will recommend to the federal government with a request for a survey to determine its practicability. The plan, which was developed by A. B. Hull of Chicago, involves the construction of canals and dams over an area extending from northern North Dakota through Texas to control flood waters originating on the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains.

INTERESTING statements were made to the American Congress of Industry in New York by two of the President's closest advisers, Raymond Moley and Donald Richberg, director of the national emergency council. Professor Moley declared there is no workable substitute for the present capitalist economic system. "Basically," he said, "the New Deal was an effort to save capitalism and, by spreading the range of opportunity under it, to enable the average man to regain a measure of control over the conditions under which he lived. It seemed to me in 1933, as it seems to me now, that this effort to save capitalism was wise and just."

"By no stretch of the imagination could the vote of November, 1932, have been interpreted as a mandate for the abandonment of the capitalist system. Finally, even had there been such a mandate, there was and is no workable substitute for our present system."

Moley expressed much optimism regarding business. He told the industrialists, in effect, that they need have no fear of any radical change in the present economic and social order, that industry was needed to stimulate trade, bring about recovery, and that in the last analysis it would be the business men who would distribute the wealth of the nation.

Mr. Richberg admitted the NRA had not achieved all its aims in its effort to bring about industrial self-government, but insisted that its fundamental principles must be preserved in permanent legislation for codes of fair competition.

He warned the manufacturers that the permanent law must be written in co-operation with labor and consumers, as well as private business and government, so that there should be neither work-consumer regimentation by business nor business regimentation by government.

He hinted that if employers consented to legal restriction in return for increased power under the codes, organized labor would be called upon to do likewise in submitting to legislative control.

Organized labor was soundly berated by C. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. He said its contribution to national recovery had been "the most widespread inauguration of strikes, coercion, intimidation, and violence that the United States has ever seen, as evidenced by strikes in Minneapolis, Cleveland, textile industries, and the general strike at San Francisco."

Bardo pledged the united opposition of the National Association of Manufacturers to the efforts of the American Federation of Labor to obtain through congress legislation imposing a 30-hour week on industry, or any other effort to "fix a rigid and arbitrary work week for all industry."

Industry's platform for recovery, which was proposed at a meeting of the national industrial council, urging return to the gold standard, a balanced budget, and other orthodox economic measures, was adopted.

LORD RIDDELL, who during the World war was Lloyd George's chief liaison officer with the press of the world, is dead in London. He gained fame and great wealth as a newspaper publisher. As a reward for his war work Riddell was made a peer in 1918. His voice over the telephone carried the first news to England of the signing of the Versailles treaty. For some time after the war he continued to be a friend and confidant of Lloyd George. Later there were political differences, but while the close liaison ceased the two men never ceased to be friends. Lord Riddell leaves no heir and the title expires with him.

CENTRAL, western and northern sections of Honduras were devastated by a series of earthquake shocks continuing through two days. The extent of the disaster is unknown at this writing for all communication systems were crippled, but it was reported that at least three towns of considerable size, Copan, Cahanas and Santa Rita, were nearly destroyed.

PRESIDENT MUSTAPHA KEMAL of Turkey has become the idol of all the women of his nation, for, after giving them such social rights as emancipation from the harem, he has given them political rights. At his instance the national assembly unanimously decided that any Turkish woman more than thirty years old is eligible to election to the chamber of deputies, and that all women over twenty-two years of age can vote in the national elections. Thousands of women telegraphed their "deepest gratitude" to Kemal.

SERGEI KIROV, one of the most prominent members of the Russian Communist party's political bureau, was assassinated in Leningrad, and as he was a close associate of Stalin his death was the occasion of public mourning. The government announced that the assassin was Leonid Nicoloff and that he "was sent by the enemies of the working class." But it appears there is something more to the event than a mere murder.

A dispatch from Warsaw said ten Red army officers had been executed as the result of a plot to assassinate all Soviet leaders at the same time.

The Moscow government denied this story, but at the same time it was putting under arrest scores of White Guards, enemies of the Soviet regime, accusing them of "terroristic action." They were tried by a military collegium of the Supreme court and sixty-six of them, including one woman, were found guilty and immediately executed.

The names of those executed were officially announced. Among them apparently were none of the leaders who had figured prominently with the White armies during the civil warfare following the Bolshevik revolution. Nor were there any names of men who have had national prominence subsequently in Russia.

The executions were carried out while Kirov's body was being cremated. He was given a state funeral and his ashes were placed in the Communist's Vahalla beside the wall of the Kremlin where rest the remains of Lenin, John Reed and other heroes of the Red revolution.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S aviation commission, having concluded its hearings on national defense began drafting its report, and it was authoritatively said in Washington that, if congress approves of its recommendations, government airplanes will surely be operating in a new transoceanic service. Details were being worked out, and it seemed likely the commission would adopt the $17,000,000 plan approved by Ewing Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce, and the national advisory committee for aeronautics. That plan calls for two huge Zeppelin type airships and one smaller metal clad craft along with necessary modern landing equipment.

The commission also will ask congress in its February report to create a permanent federal agency with supervisory control over all civil aviation. This would comprise five to seven members.

BUSINESS leaders of the country who are members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States demand a reform of the government's budgetary methods. Through a referendum they have given approval to thirteen proposals to this end.

One step recommended was "a more active centralized administrative control of expenditures." This would be obtained by "broadening the executive allotment system of funds so as to include all expenditures, ordinary and emergency, and strengthening it so as to avoid the necessity of deficiency appropriations."

This recommendation for broader control by the administrative branch of the government also suggested that "when feasible" expenditures be reduced below appropriations.

IN LINE with this budget "revolt" is the opposition the business men are demonstrating to the ten billion dollar work relief program proposed to the President by his brain trust advisers.

As outlined by Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Relief Administrator Hopkins this is an undertaking to terminate federal direct relief and put all able bodied unemployed persons at work on government financed projects, while the states continue to afford relief to those persons not able to work.

Smartly Veiled Midwinter Brides

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AS FAR as being smartly, charmingly and distinctively veiled, the outlook for midwinter brides-to-be was never more propitious. And why? Because more and more designers are specializing in wedding veil-craft. Wherefore it is the good fortune of the modern bride to have had made available to her an array of wedding veils and bridal party finery the likes of which never could have been evolved by other than master artists.

The reaction to this spectacular gesture on the part of designers to create accessory ensembles for bride and bridesmaids which omit no detail of beauty and finesse is that the custom is growing among those who are planning a wedding cortege which shall be a "perfect picture" to patronize specialty shops that carry these lovely ensembles rather than to rely on the services of the novice or the kindly endeavors of home talent.

An outstanding choice among fashionable brides this season is the little closeting cap made either of exquisite lace or all of tulle which features the new and extremely becoming Joan Crawford eyebrow line. See the bride seated to the left in the picture. She is wearing a charming cap of this description. In this instance the cap is made entirely of tulle with wee ruches of self-tulle for trimming. The absence of lace on the headpiece makes the beauty of the lace sleeve all the more apparent, which is a stroke of absolute genius on the part of the designer.

The stately bride centered in the picture is also wearing one of the voguish eyebrow-line caps. This one is fashioned of a treasured bit of lace instead of tulle. Look close and you will see medallions of the lace scattered here and there on the long veil. The particular thing to call attention to is that the longer part of this veil is detachable. This is for the convenience of the bride when she mingles with her friends after the ceremony. After the long trailing veil is removed the shorter veil is thrown back from the face, forming a popular cape fashion enveloping the shoulders. The gown is of lusterless heavy white satin.

For the youthful bride could anything be lovelier than a quaint little Dutch bonnet effect as shown to the right in the group? The veil is lace-bordered in harmony with the picturesque lace flanges which fold back on the bonnet away from the face. Her girlish frock is of tree-bark white crepe.

In this story of wedding veils for the midwinter bride we have saved the biggest thrill to the last—a vision of ice-blue tulle over satin in the same blue. The veil is finger-tip length falling from a cunning bonnetlike head piece which has a flaring cuff trim. The entire ensemble is elaborated with wee rose platings of the tulle making it very flattery and pretty, but here's the big sensation—the announcer at the style showing tells the spellbound audience that this ensemble is designed for the young divorcee who is to wed again. Thus does fashion indeed go modern! The same lovely ensemble follows in the procession repeated in blush pink for the young widow who re-weds. We might add that the designer tells us that in Mexico the short veil for a second plunge into matrimony has been in vogue for some time.

GOLD JEWELRY

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Yes, indeed, we agree with you the twisted gold chain necklace and bracelets which this stylishly hatted young woman is wearing, is perfectly stunning—enough to excite to envy. It is quite the proper thing to wear massive gold jewelry this season and the shops are showing the most fascinating array of clips and bracelets and pins and necklaces and novel ornaments in gold that fancy can picture. It is a master stroke to wear this gold costume jewelry with classically simple frocks. The sophisticated and severe black cloak dress here pictured is all that it should be to wear with gold jewelry.

Blossoms for Morning

For morning wear tunics appear in blossoms of brightly colored wool generally no longer than the hip-bones. Burnt orange tunics are worn with brown tweed suits and green with gray.

RAGE FOR METAL IS SPREADING RAPIDLY

Girls as well as skyscrapers are chromium trimmed this season, and the rage for metal is growing by leaps and bounds.

It's true that a glint of shining metal clothes up any costume no end, and so we see neckerchiefs and collars and cuffs presented in sparkling gold and silver lames and, for more formal occasion, even in sequins. A gold cloth turban with a matching scarf, for instance, makes the most striking complement to one of the slithery new black dinner gowns, adding festivity to the picture.

Or you may wear a bandanna of striped or checked silver lame with your most severe suit, and enjoy the touch of gay frivolity.

There are Peter Pan collars and cuffs in shining metal fabrics and brocades, jabots of silver and gold ribbons, belts of seemingly precious metals, all of which brighten up the winter scene.

Popularity of Feathers for Coiffures Spreading

For years feathers have adorned the heads of women when they were presented at the Court of St. James. This season feathers are being tucked into the coiffures of social leaders at other than court affairs.

At a recent formal function three fashionably attired guests wore green feathers. One attracted admiring glances as she held the center of an animated group. Her white gown of deceptive simplicity was accompanied by green satin shoulder length gloves, emerald green slippers and then, for contrast, her jeweled cigarette holder was a brilliant lacquer red.

New Handbag

There is a new handbag which is shaped like a case for field-glasses. It has a shorter strap than the field-glass case, but this permits it to be carried more easily in the hand.

Detective's Wife

By MARIE WEST

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

UNDER the glare of the street lights Sara saw the man's face as he passed her. The sight of it sent a paralyzing chill down her spine. For the last six months that face had been staring at her from the front pages of the Chicago newspapers. Foxy Fenton! Wanted for a string of bank robberies. Wanted for murder.

And for the last six months she'd been hearing that name over and over. Tim wouldn't stop talking about him. That's what it meant being married to a detective.

Foxy Fenton! If only a policeman would appear! But that was impossible to much on a quiet street like this. And Tim wouldn't be coming home this way for another half-hour.

Instinctively she lengthened her stride. Perhaps it was being Tim's wife that made this feeling sweep through her, this urgent necessity to do something about it. She couldn't just let a criminal walk past her and disappear.

But, being a scant five feet of slim, inadequate strength, she shuddered. What she had suddenly decided to do would take all the courage she could summon.

She had nearly caught up with the man.

Stumbling off the curb she fell against him. It could easily have been accidental; the man steadied her at once, a speculative gleam in his eyes.

"Thanks!" She withdrew her arm slowly, managed an arch smile.

"We seem to be going the same way," the man said finally, his voice casual.

"Yeah. . . . I live a block down the street. . . ."

A classy dame, he noted. Didn't look the type—yet you never could tell. He grinned down at her. "And you're lonesome," he said. "Sure, so'm I, mister."

They climbed the two flights of stairs.

"Well, here we are." She made her voice gay. "How about a highball?"

"Now you're talking, baby. Make mine strong. Need any help?"

"No, thanks. I'll be right back."

It was relief to escape from him for a few minutes; a chance to get a firmer grip on herself. It wouldn't be for long. Just until Tim came. Tim would take care of him then. She squared her shoulders.

The man was sitting on the davenport when she returned. He took the glass she offered and patted the seat beside him. "Here's to you." He took a long gulp.

She slipped the plain ginger ale she had poured for herself. If she could just make him talk so he wouldn't touch her. She was afraid she might scream if he did that.

"How about some music," she suggested brightly going over to the radio.

"Get something peppy," he put in. She took as long as she could. "How's this?" Rhythmic emerged from the loud speaker.

"Okay."

She saw that his glass was empty. "I'll get you another drink," she said. Tim was late tonight. Tonight when she needed him so desperately!

She brought the drink into the living room. With one hand the man took it and with the other he drew her down beside him. She held her trembling lips together. Soon he would be trying to kiss her. Soon—

The key in the lock. At last! And big Tim standing there, his mouth agape.

"Oh Tim!" she cried.

The man jumped to his feet, his eyes narrow slits.

Tim stared at him. "As I breathe to live," he marveled, "I'd say you were Foxy Fenton, himself, if he hadn't been caught tonight."

"Caught?" Sara's voice was barely a whisper.

"Picked up in Nebraska. Late papers are full of it."

"Oh, I thought—" she began weakly. "You thought I was Fenton?" the man roared. "And you were setting a trap. Ain't that a laugh?" He turned to Tim. "If you're the lady's husband, I'm sorry, pal. I didn't know she was married."

As the door closed upon him, Sara burst into hysterical tears.

"Tim," she gulped, "I saw him on the street. I wanted—"

"Sure, I know, Honey," he said gently. "You're a brave little thing." A glint of humor came into his blue eyes. "But you leave the detecting to me, Honey. It's too dangerous for a girl-sized infant like you."

Next morning as Sara lit the stove under the coffee pot, she heard the familiar thud as the morning paper hit the back door. She ran out to greet it. Spreading it open, she gasped at the headlines:

FOXY FENTON SUSPECT FREE!

Her eyes scanned the column. The man in Nebraska wasn't Fenton after all. Just a suspicious character who looked like him. The police were working on the latest tip-off that Fenton was hiding in Chicago.

"Tim," she called.

"What is it, Honey?"

"Look!"

Over the page their eyes met with the same question.

Carteret, New Jersey

The Carteret News

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY IN THE YEAR AT THE PLANT OF THE CARTERET NEWS AT 9 COOKE AVENUE, CARTERET, N. J. TELEPHONE, CARTERET 8-0300.

M. E. YORKE, Publisher

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1908, at the post office at Carteret, N. J., under act of March 3, 1879.

THE CARTERET NEWS was founded June 17, 1908 as THE ROOSEVELT NEWS; was published on Wednesdays until July 15, 1909 was then published on Thursdays until December 6, 1912, since which time it has been a Friday paper. The title of the paper became THE CARTERET NEWS on November 17, 1922, following the election of November 7, 1922, when the people of the Borough voted to change the name of the Borough from Roosevelt to Carteret by a vote of 1652 to 203.

A GOOD TIME

The junction of the road leading from Carteret to Rahway with the road that passes the Rahway Reformatory is one of the most dangerous in the State. Officially it is the intersection of East Hazelwood Avenue with Lawrence street.

For some years The Carteret News has pointed out the increasing number of accidents at this crossing.

Almost equally dangerous is the intersection of Lawrence Street with Route No. 25, that is just as you cross the bridge over the Rahway River driving in a northerly direction.

A warning light at least ought to be placed at both places, but who is going to do it?

Geographically both spots are in the City of Rahway.

However, the roads at the junction of East Hazelwood Avenue and Lawrence Street at both Union County highways. Route No. 25 is a State Highway.

The State, in police power, and alleged interest in safety work, has a certain amount of jurisdiction in both cases.

Surely the State can act in the case of Route No. 25 and Lawrence Street and it ought to have no difficulty in persuading Union County to act in the case of the intersection of Lawrence Street and East Hazelwood avenue.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Hoffman has continuously expressed interest in greater safety. As Governor, he can readily understand this situation and bring about the simple correction needed—a few overhead red caution signals.

Human lives are worth this much at least.

With Hoffman as Governor it ought to be a good time to get action. His middle name as Congressman was action and one of the reasons he ran so well in this district.

DIFFERENT

The Government has launched into a gigantic program of building power stations in competition with private business.

It is reported $280,000,000 has been spent by the Government and that three billion dollars more is expected to be spent for power, navigation and flood control projections in combination.

The utility industry pays $250,000,000 in taxes in the United States.

The Government pays no taxes.

The Utility industry claims if it were relieved of taxes it could reduce rates 40%.

Many depend on the utility industry for employment. Thousands of municipalities and governmental units depend on them for taxes.

Tens of thousands are unemployed in the heavy industries today because utilities have been unable to buy as they once did. They naturally fear they will be out of business, if the government goes through with its program, so why spend more.

As much as $600,000,000 has been spent by the utilities in a normal year in heavy industry lines. In 1933 they spent about $100,000,000—one-sixth of normal.

Surely this program is not encouraging the utility industry or the heavy goods industry where most of the unemployed exist to-day.

The utilities in the Tennessee Valley claim if they were relieved of taxes they would better the government rates from 15% to 20%.

That is different.

A WARNING

At the very time Asbury Park is being sued by bondholders, the City of New Brunswick, the county seat of Middlesex, has a presentment handed down against it following censure by the Supreme Court. The Middlesex Grand Jury's presentment said in part:

"Obviously, if the recent investigation conducted by Supreme Court Commissioner Voorhees and this investigation by the Grand Jury is to bear any fruit, there should be a complete reorganization of the city government of New Brunswick.

"It appears that the sole desire and purpose of many of the city officials have been to perpetuate themselves and the friends in office. This has been expensive and detrimental to the city.

"There has been negligence and inefficiency in the conduct of city affairs. Private business if carried on in the same manner would long ago have ended disastrously.

"It is our hope that this presentment will have some meaning and effect in the other municipalities of Middlesex County as well. It should serve as a warning to them that public business is no different than private business and must be conducted economically and efficiently, and in accordance with the law."

Original Spanish Main Greatly Narrowed Down

Named in the heyday of conquistadores and pirates, the old Spanish Main originally comprised the Caribbean sea and that part of the Atlantic ocean plied by Spanish treasure ships, says the National Geographic society. The name later embraced the shores of the Caribbean islands and adjacent coasts of South and Central America, but finally narrowed until it denotes specifically the northern coast of South America between the Isthmus of Panama and delta of the Orinoco—the coastal zones of Venezuela, Colombia, and Panama.

Columbus sighted the palm-fringed shores of the Spanish Main in 1498. Red-painted Indians sucking brews from gourds watched the subsequent arrivals of Ponce and others who carried back to Europe amazing tales of pearls, gold, and Indians suitable for slaves. Men swarmed to the coast to erect fortified settlements and to ship wealth back to Europe. Seeking the fabulous riches reported in the interior, they pushed through almost impenetrable jungles. Before them fled harassed Indians, discharging poisoned arrows, futile against armor.

Settlers lived largely on a plentiful supply of immense tortoises and wild boars. Some, settling near what is Santo Domingo, hunted and smoked buffalo. They became known as bucaniers from the French word boucan, a name to smoke meat.

Others became farmers, cultivating tobacco with the aid of numerous white and negro slaves. Many of the slaves ran away and joined the bucaniers, who, having become bored with buffalo hunting, took up pirating, preying on Spanish galleons and coastal settlements. The Spanish Main offered numerous natural advantages to these seafaring bandits; luxuriant forests out of which to build their bark, lakes of pitch for caulking the new craft, and hidden harbors from which to surprise their prey.

Air Surrounding Planet Fifteen Pounds to Inch

The poet writes of "trifles light as air" and we often talk of "airy notions," but the atmosphere which surrounds our planet and accompanies it in its journeyings through space is not so light as we often imagine. Its average pressure is fifteen pounds to the square inch.

The barometer, as its name implies, is an atmosphere weigher, and on the varying weight, noted over large areas, depend our daily weather forecasts. A change of an inch in the height of the mercury column means a change of atmospheric weight of half a pound per square inch on the earth's surface, so that even a change of one-tenth of an inch in the barometer represents $8,000 tons per square mile. A change of an inch over the land area of the British Isles signifies the colossal total of considerably more than one hundred thousand million tons of air.

The Variation

Variation means change, and when a piece of music is called an air and variation it means that the composer has rung the changes in different ways on a tune of his own, or somebody else's, making.

When keyed instruments first appeared variations were very popular. At first they were just trifles and ornaments attached to the air. Then little note patterns came along, and eventually the tune was dressed in all kinds of ways—sometimes in dance rhythm, sometimes in stately measure. Often a variation would bring out a sad feeling in the melody. Beethoven wrote his many six 32 on his own original tune. Bach and Brahms loved making variations.

Famous Russian Library

The famous and magnificent state library at Leningrad which was founded in 1814 and early became one of the great treasure houses of the world has not lost much of its magnificence and value since the revolution. It still contains most of the valuable collections for which it was noted, including Voltaire's library, which was bought in tact by Catherine II, many of the most celebrated copies of the Bible and the Koran, rare Hebrew manuscripts of the Pentateuch and the famous Codex Sinaiticus, which next to the one in the Vatican, is the oldest Greek manuscript in existence of the New Testament, having been found in an ancient monastery on Mount Sinai.

Entering Military Academies

Midshipmen at the Naval academy Annapolis, Md., and cadets at the Military academy at West Point sign articles on entrance to the academies. Each candidate to the Naval academy binds himself to serve in the United States navy during the pleasure of the President of the United States (including his time of probation at the Naval academy) unless sooner discharged. Cadets agree to serve eight years in the army of the United States (including the time at the academy) unless sooner discharged by competent authority.

The Columbia River

The Columbia river rises in the high mountains of British Columbia, and then, turning southward, enters the United States to drain most of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and, through tributaries, western Montana. Turning westward, it cuts through both the Cascade and Coast ranges, and winds through the vast plain between those mountain chains.

WOMAN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

By Isabel Lefkowitz Telephone 8-0301

The Pledge to the Flag and the singing of "America the Beautiful" signaled the opening of another Woman's Club meeting Thursday afternoon at the American Legion rooms in the Borough Hall. Mrs. Howard Thorn, president, presided. It was good to see the faces of many old members who have not attended any meetings in some time. The club was glad to see Mrs. William Casey again after her recent illness and Mrs. Casey thanked the members for their kind expressions of sympathy during her stay in the hospital. She was glad to be able to get back to club meetings, she said.

The club was very sorry to hear of the illness of its member, Mrs. Edward Quinn. She has its sincere wishes for a speedy recovery.

An exhibit of articles made by the blind was on display for sale and many members availed themselves of the opportunity to buy some of these for Christmas gifts. The articles in themselves were very worthwhile and at the same time a very worthy cause was helped as the blind persons making the articles receive the money for which they are sold. The representative of the blind is invited to come to their headquarters in the Industrial Bldg., 1060 Broad street, Newark, to see for themselves the beautiful assortment available for Christmas gifts. Prices are moderate.

Mrs. Thomas Burke's contribution to the Music Memory Contest was very enjoyably carried out by the singing of the "Indian Love Call" by Mrs. Clarence Kreidler.

The president then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Henry Harrington, program chairman, who in Tucker. Miss Tucker spoke on some of the customs, superstitions and characteristics of the Indians in the Southwest, namely the Navajos and Hopis. She told they were very subject to blindness and tuberculosis. Their religion centers around prayers for rain and an abundance of crops. Her display of Indian hand hammered jewelry was gorgeous. There were silver necklaces, one with turquoise inlay; silver bracelets and belts.

Another speaker was Mrs. Delight Sweney Trimble, of Washington, D. C., who came here through Mr. Charles Ohlert, local director of the Federal Better Housing Program. Mrs. Trimble, an architect who has designed more than 300 homes, said that building construction had fallen off 90 per cent, and that many of the people on relief were families of men connected with the building trades, either those who furnish supplies to the trade, or the mechanics themselves. She said there are 16 million homes in the country and if each family spent only ten dollars for repairs, 160 millions of dollars would be released which would be a wonderful impetus toward recovery. She gave many good pointers on improvement that could be made in homes in the way of closets and shelves and storage nooks which would not entail much expense, and showed sketches of same. Anyone interested may get copies of these sketches by addressing her in care of the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C. She asserted that this project of Better Housing could not be carried through without the cooperation of the women, and urged each woman to try to do her share towards helping along the road to recovery.

Mr. Ohlert was a guest at the meeting.

The meeting was followed by a social hour at which refreshments were served.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors Monday afternoon at 2 at the home of Mrs. Thorn.

Meaning of Prefix "Ex-"

The prefix ex- means "out; out of; off; beyond," says Literary Digest. Prefixed to a word denoting office or condition, it means one who formerly occupied the position; as ex-President, ex-convict. It is improperly prefixed to any geographical division, but properly to an office or position. The expression "ex-Chicago Mayor" would indicate illiteracy on the part of the person who used it. "The ex-Mayor of Chicago" is correct. In describing a person who formerly occupied the office of district attorney, it would be awkward to say "ex-District Attorney of Cleveland," for the reason that it might be misread as the attorney from the ex-district of Cleveland. Hence, though cumbersome, it should read, "the former District Attorney of Cleveland."

Coasting Run 250 Years Old

The coasting run leading from the Bohemian border to the old mining town of Schuylersberg in the Giants' mountains looks back on 250 years of existence. It was first used beginning in 1783, by Bohemian miners to shorten their trip to the mines.

JR. WOMAN'S CLUB ENJOY XMAS PARTY

The annual Christmas party of the Junior Woman's Club was held Monday night in the Borough Hall with a large attendance of members. Santa Claus was impersonated by Miss Frances Sarzillo. Christmas carols were sung by all the members with Miss Alice Barker at the piano. Refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Ann Reilly, hostess. The members brought dolls to the meeting and placed them under the Christmas tree. They will be turned over to some relief agency to be distributed among children in needy homes. Mrs. William Knorr of Woodbridge, will be the speaker at the next meeting. She will tell the story of the hooked rug and will illustrate her talk with several specimens of rugs of various periods. Mrs. Earl Foote will be hostess.

Besides those mentioned, those attending were: The Misses Mary Flossa, Catherine Grech, Lydia Benning, Wanda Knorr, Ann Proskauer, Ann Lewandowski, Helen Hall, Kathryn Fflo, Alice Brady, Edna Bradford, Ruth Grohman, Olive and Agnes Gunderson, Phoebe Conran, Lillian Donnelly, Helen Struthers, Frances Harrington, Mrs. Lorella Algozine, Mrs. Henry J. Harrington, Mrs. John O'Donnell and Mrs. H. J. Harrington, Sr., counselor to the club.

The date of the "Old Timers Ball" is Saturday, December 22 at the German Lutheran Hall.

Electric "Ear" Converts Heartbeats into Light

Photographic records of pulsations of the human heart are produced by a portable instrument containing an electric "ear" and equipment for converting sound into light.

The electric ear, a sensitive condenser microphone, picks up the heart's sounds, which are amplified until they can be heard through a radio loud speaker.

The strip of sensitized paper records the light variations, resulting in a long strip that tells the story of the heart beat, measured in one-hundred-thirtieths parts of a second.

The apparatus is contained in a case 8 inches wide, 12 inches high and 21 inches long. It weighs less than 35 pounds.

QUESTION BOX
by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have just been convicted and sentenced to jail for twenty years. I understand a prisoner has his choice of jobs when he is sent to prison.

Answer: When the warden asks you what you want to do tell him you want to be a sailor.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am troubled with insomnia. I can't seem to sleep at night. It worries me very much.

Answer: Jump on a train and go to Virginia, get some of that corn whisky they make down there, take 3 drinks of it and you won't care a rap if you sleep or not.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Can you tell me why a giraffe's neck is so long?

Answer: My dear chap, the reason a giraffe's neck is so long is merely because its head is so far away from its body.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
A friend of mine whom I haven't seen for three years came into my office yesterday. I always thought he was tall, but yesterday he looked short to me. He told me he had just gotten married. Could that have anything to do with him looking shorter than before?

Answer: That is the whole story in a nutshell. He used to be tall, but since he married he probably settled down.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I own a cafe which only does a small business. I can't afford a cabaret and do not know how to entertain my customers.

Answer: Serve them some waffles and alphabet soup and they can make up their own cross word puzzles.

Bedtime Story for Children

A WONDERFUL SWIMMER

IN THE moonlight on the bank of the Big River Peter Rabbit sat gossipping with Honker the Goose.

"It's Dippy the Loon," said Honker. "He spends the summer in the Far North not far from us and started south just before we did."

"I wish he would come in here so that I could get a good look at him and make his acquaintance," said Peter.

"He may, but I doubt it," replied Honker. "You know Dippy practically lives on the water and rarely comes ashore. He's about the most awkward fellow on land of anyone I know of."

"Why should he be any more awkward on land than you?" asked Peter. "Because," replied Honker, "Old Mother Nature has given him very short legs and has placed them so far back on his body that he can't keep his balance to walk and has to use his wings and bill to help him over the ground."

us geese. You know, we can't dive. He could swim clear across this river if he wanted to. And he can swim so fast under water that he can catch fish. It is because his legs have been placed so far back that he can swim so fast.

"Has he got a bill like yours?" asked Peter innocently.

"How do you suppose he would hold on to a slippery fish if he had a bill like mine?" demanded Honker. "His bill is stout, straight and sharp-pointed. He is pretty nearly as big as I and his back, wings, tail and neck are black, with bluish or greenish appearance in the sun."

"I'd like to," replied Peter, "but I guess I'll have to be content to know him just by his voice. It's about as crazy sounding as the voice of Old Man Coyote and that is saying a great deal."

Seeing that Honker was very tired, Peter bade him good night and left him in peace on the sandy bar in the Big River.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY
by Vance Wynn
© Public Ledger

The Flaw in a Perfect Case

WHEN William Harrison, of Gloucestershire, England, disappeared and no knowledge could be obtained of his whereabouts, everybody in that part of the country came to the conclusion that he had met with foul play.

A month went by and still there was no trace of the missing man.

The sole topic of discussion in those parts revolved around the query: What has become of William Harrison?

It was during one of these discussions that John Perry came to the front and amazed the authorities with a remarkable story.

He said that his brother, Richard Perry, had murdered Harrison for his money, and that the result of the crime was his enrichment to the extent of £130.

John and Richard Perry lived with their mother in a little house on the outskirts of the village.

John was not mentally strong; indeed, there were some who regarded him as half-witted.

Richard was physically and mentally strong, but his reputation for integrity was not good.

He had been caught in some questionable transactions, and it was hinted that he would not hesitate at murder for the sake of money.

The magistrate of the district sent for John Perry, and the fellow repeated his story.

He was examined at length, but stuck to his original statement. The only addition he made to it was that he and his mother were present when Richard had assaulted and robbed Harrison.

He was unable to say what had become of the body because he had run away while the robbery was in progress.

The two men and the woman were placed on trial and were inadequately defended.

They were given the impression that if they pleaded guilty to robbery their lives would be spared.

But at the next term of court, Sir Robert Tyde placed them on trial for murder.

They were at a terrible disadvantage because by confessing to robbery they had admitted that they were potential murderers.

In addition to this there was a mass of circumstantial evidence against John.

There was only one flaw in what might be regarded as an otherwise perfect case, and that was the failure of the authorities to find the body.

Sir Charles Turner, who presided at the first trial, had refused to accept the indictment for murder because of this very flaw, and it was that which had caused a change in the indictment to robbery.

But the second judge was not so jealous of the old English law.

He took the ground that Harrison's nonappearance after six months was proof positive that he had been killed. So the family was convicted and executed.

Soon after the execution one of the residents of Gloucestershire received an anonymous letter hinting that William Harrison was still alive.

Then came another story that he was in Turkey. All of these rumors were treated as mere gossip until three years later when the door of the local inn was opened and William Harrison entered the room.

He said that after he had collected the rents, as usual, he was beset by a gang of thieves, and the cash taken from him.

But the toughs did not stop at mere robbery. They took him to a wayside inn and invited him to take a drink upon the success of their enterprise.

He took it and in a little while became unconscious.

They had given him drugged liquor. After this a gang had carried him aboard a vessel.

When he recovered consciousness he found that he was on his way to Turkey.

He had lived there for two years.

When he was asked why he had not communicated with his friends, he said that he feared that they would not believe his story, and as he was unable to make good the money that had been stolen from him he had delayed his return as long as possible.

Since that day—over two centuries ago—no man has been tried for murder in England without first proving the murder.

Saxby's Gale

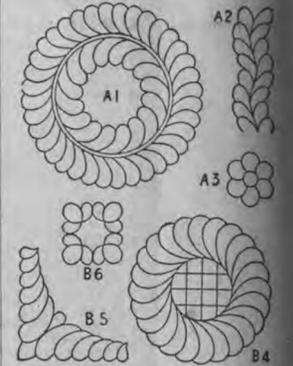

Saxby's Gale is the name given to a violent storm, which occurred on October 4, 1859, on the coast of New Brunswick, Maine and Nova Scotia.

It was accompanied by a tide of extraordinary height. The storm, which apparently came up from the West Indies and caused heavy rains in eastern United States, was called Saxby's Gale because a Lieutenant Saxby of the British navy had announced a year previously that a great storm and high tide would occur on October 5.

The prediction had been based on the supposed influence of the moon, but it was entirely indefinite as to the place where the storm would occur.

PERFORATED DESIGN FOR QUILT MAKERS

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Quilt makers realize the beauty of a finished quilt depends upon the patches used, the beauty in the patchwork design, and, most important, the quilting. If the quilting design is not accurately reproduced on the material it is impossible to quilt neatly and clearly.

There are several ways of transferring quilting patterns to cloth, but the most approved and successful method is stamping the design through a perforated pattern, with stamping powder.

This is the simplest and most economical way, and produces results that make quilting interesting. Each stamping is the same, and perfect. These patterns are already perforated on bond paper, and good for many stampings.

Each stitch is indicated on the lines of the design, and the stamping can be brushed off when quilting is finished, leaving the work neat and clean.

Grandmother Clark's package No. 33A contains perforated patterns of the designs shown, also stamping powder and full directions how to use them. Sizes of patterns are as follows: A1 Feather Circle, 12 inch; A2 Feather Border, 3 inch; A3 Motif, 3 1/2 inch; B4 Feather Circle, 9 1/2 inch; B5 Feather Corner, 7 inch; B6 Feather Square, 4 inch.

If you want your quilting to look right, send 15 cents to our quilt department and receive all of these, Lot 33A six perforated patterns by mail postpaid.

Daddy's Cranium

The young hopeful of a suburban family objected strenuously to having his hair washed. He argued it was unnecessary and a great nuisance to his mother as well as himself. It was pointed out by his elders that grown-ups as well as children were subjected to the inconvenience.

"Daddy isn't," was the quick retort. "He has no hair, only head."—New York Sun.

Through A WOMAN'S EYES
by JEAN NEWTON

VANITY, THY NAME IS—?

"VANITY, thy name is woman!" There are men the author of that quotation did not know. One of them, a motion picture actor, killed himself the other day because he had got too old to play romantic parts.

There were other circumstances contributing to his despondency, of course. There had been illness and financial loss. But the man's best friend at the time of his death said it was the prospect of playing "bit" parts with others in the romantic roles that was the real cause of his giving up. "His chief pride," it was said, "was his unswerving faith in himself as 'the perfect lover'—and when he could no longer be that he did not care to live.

It is a tragedy that we need to connect with women, that desperate battle with the years, that inability to grow old gracefully. Particularly women on the stage, whose survival in their profession was thought to depend on their physical charms, were assumed to live in dread of the creeping up of inevitable time. And yet today we see more and more popular actresses outwitting that enemy. They do it by the simple process of going along with time, instead of trying to fight it. Mary Pickford gives up sweet sixteen parts and grows up in pictures; such a still glamorous beautiful actress as Judith Anderson plays the modern mother of a grown son. Even on the stage a woman can be forty-five and still beautiful; she can be sixty and still interesting; but she cannot, as a former generation allowed Sarah Bernhardt, play acceptably a part that is half her age. And she has discovered that her alternative need not be oblivion.

It may be the modern demand for realism that has led actresses—as well as women in private life—to adapt themselves more frankly to the dictates of the years, to try to use them for whatever their advantages, rather than be defeated by them. Whatever the reason, it is uncommon today to find a woman who does not know when to leave the ingenue role for one in character. So we are spared many of the ghastly exhibitions that were familiar when women thought they had to remain young or die.

And if these were tragic on the part of women, how much more pitiable to find a man who tries to hang on to youth and physical glamour, how much more—at the risk of sounding hard—inexcusable! In every day life, of course, most of us find it distasteful for a man to put much weight on his physical attractiveness. And on the stage there are so many character parts that a man can play, it should be far easier than for a woman to make the transition from romantic roles before he finds himself dropped, with no recourse but the poor "bits" which naturally fall to the lot of a "has been."

If vanity's name is woman, it is becoming hyphenated with Common Sense. And men who are going to adopt it had better follow suit with the latter, too.

THE DAYS THAT USED TO BE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE happy days that used to be Trail green paths of allure. The little home that sheltered me— A nest warm and secure— Sends up its smoke against the sky Of memory. . . . Once more I see the golden sun climb high Above my cottage door.

There never were such dawns as those—

So fragrant and so clean; The dew that sparkled on the rose, The morning's silver sheen, Shed over all of us the grace Of the beginning day . . . It was the early morning face Of God that turned our way.

So simple were the hours we spent, So tranquil were our days, It is small wonder that content Adorned our humble ways. And something of that beauty clings To bless us still, and blind The present to the happy Springs That we have left behind.

CAP AND BELLS

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

At one golf course there had been some talk of standardizing tips to caddies, and one day the secretary explained his ideas to a group of members. "We feel," he said, "that a caddie should not receive a tip of more than one shilling and sixpence per round. You'll agree that's reasonable." "They did agree, all except one Aberdonian, who, looking up with an expression of innocence, said, "Excuse me, Mr. Secretary, but what is a tip?"—Tid-Bits.

"We're going to sweep the country." Her husband looked around wearily and said: "Why not start with the dining room?"

"Are you going to assist in steering the ship of state?" "I'll be ready to give a hand, if requested," said Senator Sorghum. "but all the ship of state seems to desire from me at present is to refrain from attempts at back-seat driving."

Value Received
"Politics causes a great deal of debate," said the plain citizen. "Of course," answered Senator Sorghum. "There has to be a certain amount of brilliant oratory so as to make the campaign contributors feel that they're getting something for their money."

HOMESICK

"Shut that door! Where were you brought up—in a barn?" The man addressed complied meekly and silently. The first speaker observed that he was in tears, and going over to the man, he apologized. "Oh, come," he said, soothingly, "you shouldn't take it to heart because I asked if you were raised in a barn." "That's it, that's it," sobbed the other. "I was brought up in a barn, and it makes me homesick every time I hear an ass bray."—Tid-Bits.

ST. JOSEPHS, CLOVERS TIED FOR JR. LEAGUE LEAD

Saints Drub Terrys By 20-9; Clovers Upset Tigers By 14-9

Walsh, Cherepon, Cowalsky and Moore Play the Hero Roles as Junior League Race Tightens Up—Clovers Show Real Power.

Joe Comba's St. Joseph's team and the Clovers remained tied for first place in the standings of the Junior Basketball League this week by virtue of victories attained Monday evening at the high school court.

The Saints knocked off the Terrys, 20-9, to maintain their lead. The Clovers pulled somewhat of an upset when they defeated the Tigers, 14-9. In the other games, the Owls, formerly known as the Sico's All Stars, defeated the Hudsons, 16-6 and the Falcons whipped the Boys' Club, 13-12.

Gaining power and momentum as it advanced, a fine St. Joseph's team showed evidence that it is the best team in the Junior League Monday night at the high school gym as it rolled over a sluggish Terry team, 20-7.

Paced by Bill Walsh, who scored seven points, the Saints had little trouble in disposing of their much weaker rivals. The Saints completely bottled the Terry players, who were able to score but three goals from the field. Out of ten foul shots, the Terrys made but one good.

Carteret High's 1934 Group 2 State Champions

Here is the 1934 edition of Coach Frank McCarthy's Carteret High School football team which was awarded the State Group 2 football championship by the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Board last week. The Macmen had an impressive season, losing but one game. Captain Jack Wielgolinski, rated by many writers as the best center in the State, is pictured holding the ball. Stan Kosel, triple threat quarterback (No. 50), also rated first place on many all state teams picked by various writers.

HUDSONS SWEEP MATCH WITH J. C. HUNGARIANS SUN.

(Special to The Carteret News)
JERSEY CITY, Dec. 9—The Hudson A. C. of the Carteret City Bowling League, swept the Jersey City Hungarians in all three games of their bowling match before a large crowd at the Bergen Alleys here Sunday afternoon.

Consistent bowling on the part of Lee Zysk, Rudy Galvanek and "Tarzan" Horvath proved too much for the highly-touted Hungarians. The Hudsons won the first game by a thirty-five pin margin, 937-902; Zysk hit 213 in this game, and Rudy Galvanek was one point below with 212. With Horvath, Galvanek and J. Chomiccki hitting double century scores in the second game, the Hudsons had an easy time, winning by forty-six pins. The final game was the most heatedly contested, with the Hungarians winning out, 902-883.

The island province of Prince Edward island has no minerals. Rocks and even large stones are practically unknown. Macmen Whip Freehold In Post Season Football Game By 19-0

Kosel and Wielgolinski Score as Macmen Open Up in Second Half to Win Very Decisively— Game Played in Frigid Temperature.

By CLARENCE M. SCHWARTZ

ASBURY PARK, Dec. 14—Carteret High School defeated Freehold High here Saturday afternoon in a post-season football game by a 19-0 score.

The teams played uneventful ball during the first half, but the hard charging Carteret team came back strong in the closing period to win a decisive victory.

The Macmen scored their first touchdown in the third period when Wielgolinski, Carteret all-state center, took a pass from Marcinjak on a triple lateral play, the likes of which has never before been seen in these parts. Kosel started the merriment by taking the pass from center on the thirty-yard line, tossing to Romanowski, who tossed it to Marcinjak and finally to Wielgolinski for the touchdown. Kosel passed to Marcinjak for the extra point.

Early in the final period, Carteret capitalized again as big "Butch" Ondrejczak recovered a Freehold fumble on the Farmer's twenty-yard line. Kilyk ripped off nine yards through tackle, after which Kosel went over from the five-yard line. Kosel's kick for the extra point was wide.

The most sensational play of the afternoon came in the waning minutes of the game when Stan Kosel dashed eighty-five yards on a cross buck play through tackle. The entire Carteret forward wall opened up a hole wide enough for a truck to go through, and Kosel was uninterrupted in his thrilling run. One tackler after the other fell by the wayside as Kosel made his way down the field. Kosel's placement for the extra point was again wide.

A crowd of 700 fans watched the contest played in as cold weather as ever seen here at the shore. The icy wind was responsible for numerous fumbles on the part of both teams.

Carteret's two all-state candidates, Kosel and Wielgolinski, made fine showings despite the near frigid weather. Ondrejczak and Cherepon also played their usual steady game.

OTTO SUTO TO FIGHT TONIGHT

NEWARK, Dec. 14—Over fifteen entries have already been filed by amateur boxers all over the State for the Newark A. C. boxing show to be held here tonight.

Among the entries for tonight's show is Young Otto Suto, of the Carteret Harmony Club. Suto has appeared in this city once, and it is likely that if he wins tonight he will be asked to make a return engagement.

As in all amateur bouts, the opponents are not named until the boys step into the ring.

However, this has little effect on Suto, because he says he is in the pink of condition.

Suto will weigh in at 142 for tonight's fight.

The bouts will be broadcast by a Newark radio station.

Buddy Baby Face Fischer, the Harmony Club pro, will make his headquarters in Rochester, N. Y., shortly, where he will appear in quite a few bouts under a new manager, it was learned by The News this week.

Fischer could not be reached for a statement, but it is expected that some news will come out of the Harmony Club in the near future.

Wanted!

Young Otto Suto, the mighty mite, who has appeared in quite a few amateur boxing bouts recently, is looking for a couple of sparring partners.

It seems that Suto can't find anyone to knock around while he is training for his various fights. However, anyone interested is asked to report to the Harmony Club any night this week.

Suto fights tonight in the Newark A. C. bouts.

Kosel Makes Newark News' All State Team

Stan Kosel was the only Carteret player mentioned on the Newark Evening News' all state team which was made public this week.

Kosel, together with Wielgolinski and Dinney Comba, earned places for themselves on the Evening News all Group 2 teams. Al Such and Mike Trivanovich were named on the Group 2 second team, and Butch Ondrejczak was named on the third team.

CLEM'S QUIBS OF SPORT

Today's candidate for the firm squad is the guy that said: "The Junior Basketball League isn't worth a nickel."

To prove that the league is worth a lot more than a nickel, one has only to go up to Carteret High School these crisp winter days and watch the 1934 edition of the Blue and White basketball team work out for its opening game next week.

Exactly four of the five men who will play varsity ball for McCarthy this year have performed at one time or another in the Junior Basketball League. They are Joe Toth of the St. Joseph's team, Buddy Enot of the Trojans, Lou Moore and Butch Bartz of the Tigers. These boys have brought the truth out of the old axiom: Practice makes perfect.

The value of the Junior League can be seen here. The valuable experience that Toth, Enot, Bartz and Moore acquired in the Junior League will make it easier for McCarthy throughout the season. True the Junior League does not allow a varsity man to ball. But last year, Moore, Toth and Bartz were not varsity men. This year probably will be a different story. Next year, history will repeat itself and once again a group of boys from the Junior League will be in there fighting for good old C. H. S.

This is but one instance where the value of the Junior League can be brought out.

Moore An Improved Ball Player

That Lou Moore, Tiger center, will play on the high school court team this year is certain. The way the big fellow has been playing ball lately, one could safely say that he is the most improved player in the league.

Last week, although the Tigers were defeated by the Clovers, Moore scored seven points. And it was interesting to note that the Clovers pinned three men on the elongated Tiger center.

At present, Moore is the leading scorer of the loop, having tossed in seven field goals and four foul shots for a total of eighteen points.

Moore exemplifies the type of ball player that can be found in the Junior League, a clean, fighting athlete.

Those Clovers Sure Did Go To Town Monday!

Those supposedly slow Clovers pulled something of an upset last week when they toppled the league leading Tigers, 20-9.

Early in the season, the Clovers were rated as just another team. But they have come along splendidly during the past three weeks and threaten to be right up there in the pennant fight.

The acquisition of Bill Mikics and "Sunshine" Hegedus was a smart move on the part of Mit M'iroka, who coached the hill team. Mikics fills in nicely at center, and Hegedus is one of the fastest players in the loop.

Monday night, the Clovers met Joe Comba's St. Joseph's team, and if ever there was a battle, it will be here. The teams are at present tied for the leadership of the loop with three victories apiece.

However, as good as the Clovers looked last Monday night, they will need quite a bit more to take over as good a team as the Saints. Experience is the only factor that is lacking on the Clover team. And the Saints have enough to spare, beside having some of the finest players in the league.

Falcons Show Real Power In Victory Over Boys' Club

The Liberty Falcons defeated the Boys' Club 13-12 Monday evening. Such and Sakson, two newly acquired players, did the major part of the scoring for the Falcons, and it looks as if these same two players will make or break the Falcons this year.

Neither of the boys played in the league last year, but they are not without experience. They played together with the St. James quintet last year.

"Mansch" Campbell is another whose fine work has done much to put the Falcons where they are in the league standings. Campbell played with the Trojans last year, but because of the adequate supply of really good ball players, never got much of a chance to show his wares.

The Falcons, as you may remember, were the cellar team of last year's league. They are in third place now, and look mighty big to their opposition when they take their positions on the floor.

Testing Newly Made Shoes

Shoe manufacturers test the endurance of their products by placing several pairs in a barrel which is then closed and rotated about 700 times a speed of 18 revolutions per minute. This subjects them to most of the conditions they meet in ordinary wear.
