Pick Up Moonshine in Several Places.

Investigators from the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, of 744 Broad street, Newark, and local police conducted several raids Tuesday at places where it was alleged, unlicensed liquor was sold. Beer and liquor were found in each place and taken to police headquarters. The local police assisting in the raids were Sergts. J. J. Dowling and John Andres, and Patrolman Michael Bradley. The police and investigators were armed with search warrants. At I. Yatchyu's grocery, 557 Roosevelt avenue, they found several bottles of alleged moonshine, some cases of beer, two barrels of wine and some cordials. In George Roholy's grocery in Washington avenue a still was found in the cellar, also a case of beer and some alleged moonshine. In Mrs. J. Bodnar's home in Bergen street, alleged liquor, a case of home brew beer and home- have contributed are: made wine were found. Beer and alleged moonshine were found in the home of Mrs. Mary Petto, 36 Warren street.

The defendants were arraigned in Lodge No. 219. granting of retail consumption license to John Gural for a saloon at 15 Charles street. He alleged that he, himself, has been granted a liquor license at 13 Charles street, the property immediately adjoining.

Reference was made to the fact a certificate of convenience and necessity was issued by the Public Utility Commission last week to WOR and that it was possible dat work might begin on its project at any time. It was alleged that the Council was going to take up with WOR the question of employment of local labor on the work which is to be done in Carteret. It is understood at the time that the company petitioned Twenty-one Are Given for a permit here claimed it would use approximately 75 men for about five months on the construction work and possibly a few others when the construction work was completed. In regard to the actual operation of the station, it was pointed out at that time that those men for he most, par are now with the company operating the station over in Kearny.

As pointed out in The Carteret News last week, which carried the full story on the granting of this certificate of convenience and necessity by the Public Utility Commission, the application for the Carteret station is for 50,000 watts as against 6.000 watts at the present station at Ranceford Kershaw, last male member of the Kershaw clan, dies sudden while riding with his daughter, Lor-. Years before, at the close of the Mexican war, Robin Kershaw, with his bride, rode into northeastern California. Here he found an ideal valley for ranching and cattle raising. They christened it Eden Valley. Below Eden Valley is a less valuable tract which Kershaw's wife christens Forlorn Val-Joel Hensley, a Texan, settles in lower half of the valley. There is bad blood over fences and water for irrigation. Kershaw kills Hensley and the blood-feud is on. By 1917, Rance Kershaw, his son Owen, and daughter Lorry are all that remains of one clan. Nate Tichenor is the sole survivor on the Hensley side.

SYNOPSIS

Rance Kershaw's not too stable heart leaped in triumph. "Keep your check," he ordered harshly, "and I'll keep my water."

Lorraine Kershaw came out of the house. Straight down the little graveled walk she came to the gate. Nate Tichenor noticed how straight she walked; noticed, too that she had been weeping recently. She was a strikingly pretty girl; her hair was jet-black and shiny; her eyes large and dark and lustrous; her skin a pale lvory with a faint rose radiance seeping up through it.

"The Hensley apology is accepted," she cried in a clear ringing voice. "And you may keep your check. That fence was charged off to depreciation before you and I were born. Please give our compliments to your mother and your aunts and say that the Kershaws will be very pleased to see that hereafter the Bar H ranch gets all the water the Circle K can give it."

"They won't, either," old Rance shouted.

"Pay no attention to father," the girl admonished, in a tone meant for young Tichenor's ears alone. "He can't help holding his ancient grudge. But the Bar H shall have the water. I give you my word of honor it shall. This morning at eleven o'clock I became the foreman of the Circle K, and I'll keep the floodgates closed at our diversion dam and turn the water into your irrigation ditches when we're done with it, instead of diverting it back into Eden Valley creek. Run along now, Nate Tichenor, and may God bless you and protect you and bring you safe back to your mother In Eden Valley."

He stared at her. And then he blinked because the tears of emotion were in his boy's eyes. He held out his hand across the gate. "Good-by, Lorry Kershaw," he said with diffi-"I thank you with all my culty. heart. You're mighty sweet."

She accepted his hand, to the great scandal of her father; she stood at the a nim jog away down the valley, sitting very straight in his carved and silver-mounted stocksaddle.

"They must want me," he decided. "Now, how do they know I'm here?" He pondered. "Ah, yes. Smoke is rising from my chimney. Kershaws, I wonder? Must be the Kershaws or they'd drive in."

He took a heavy pistol from his bag, fitted it into a shoulder holster, put on his coat to conceal the weapon, went to the garage, backed his car out and whirled away up the ranch road to the gate, where he alighted and lifted his hat to Lorry Kershaw.

"I'm Lorraine Kershaw, Mr. Tichenor, and I am in trouble. My father has just died." "Where?"

"Here, beside me-against my shoul-He's so-heavy and limp-I der. can't handle him -can't manage to drive."

Nate Tichenor opened the gate, came around to the side of her car warily, for he suspected a trap, stepped up in the running board and looked into Ranceford Kershaw's face, over which the sickly pallor of death was already spreading. He reached for the old man's pulse.

"Yes, he's dead, Miss Kershaw," he announced. "What do you want to do? Take him back into Valley Center or home?"

"Home," she replied brokenly. He stepped into the tonneau, lifted the dead man back over the seat and laid him gently down on the tonneau seat. "Drive slowly and I'll follow in my car," he said.

He alighted and stood beside her. "I'm very sorry," he said. "I regret that he has passed away before I had an opportunity to talk with hlm. I was up at your ranch-house this morn-,ing, but there was nobody home."

"You-you called-on us! Why?" "To tell you and your father I was coming back to Eden Valley-to stay -and to suggest that we become neighbors-at last. I'm tired being an enemy. It's a job I never relished." "Is that why you didn't demand additional security when father renewed his note to you, even though you knew the value of the cattle originally mortgaged had shrunk more than half?" He nodded.

"I wish-I wish-we'd known. He thought-when he saw the smoke coming from your chimney-he thought-

"He thought I'd turned up at last to smash him! Poor man! I've been dilatory. But is that any reason why we shouldn't shake hands, Miss Lorraine?"

She took his proffered hand in both of hers and now she was no longer "Oh, Nate Tichenor," she brave. sobbed, "I'm alone-all alone-alone!" 'No, you're not," he reminded her.

Thereupon an enterprising farmer had a deep well drilled on his ranch and developed a surprising flow of water which rose almost to the surlands." face; with a cheap centrifugal pump driven by a ten-horse power electric motor he was enabled to irrigate his quarter-section farm, seemingly without appreciable effect on the water level.

Almost at once Forlorn Valley was the victim of a boom. Gradually the brown lands became checkerboarded with vivid green patches, as the planting of alfalfa developed. Orchards were planted; the raising of hogs and cattle for beef and dairying increased; an adventurer from nowhere appeared and laid out a subdivision of the "thriving city" of Valley Center.

A former Middle West bank clerk, Silas Babson, who had inherited an Iowa farm from his parents and sold it for seventy-five thousand dollars, came to Valley Center and started a state bank. The Bank of Valley Center was successful from the start.

Babson was a son of the soil; thrifty, shrewd, rapacious, competent. From banking he reached out and interested himself in such local enterprises as creameries, a lumber yard, the largest local garage with the agency for a popular cheap automobile and pumps; he sold insurance of all kinds.

Only once had Babson lost his perspective on values and that was during the World war, and for this it would seem he was not to be blamed, since all his fellow countrymen lost theirs simultaneously. The rapid advance in the price of farm commodities had brought the usual boom of prosperity to Forlorn Valley. The bank, sharing in the general and unusual prosperity, presently had a glut of money on deposit and, since banks exist by loaning the funds deposited with them, Babson, with so much money on hand, and faced with the problem of making that money pay dividends, let down his guard, so to speak, and loaned money on farm mortgages.

The post-war deflation period arrived and the values of farms and farm products dropped almost overnight below the pre-war marks. As he contemplated the bank's unsecured notes and frozen assets in the shape of mortgages on farms for 80 per cent of their present value and that value an exceedingly doubtful one, Babson had a very clear vision of hard times in the immediate offing.

If he foreclosed his mortgages he would have the farms on his handslikewise their taxes and the loss of Interest.

For the succeeding four years Mr.

something less than thirty seconds for this individual to make his appraisal and decision.

"The government," he said, "will not consider loaning money on California his fitness for the position of underfarms which are listed as dry-farming

"But these lands are Irrigated," Mr. Babson reminded him,

"Yes, so I observe, but from deep wells. But as more and more wells are bored and the farming in this valley tends more and more toward Intensive cropping, thus requiring more and more water for irrigation, the water levels will recede and the cost of pumping the water to the surface will increase proportionately with the lift R. G. Tugwell until a point will be reached where the water will be tinctured with red ink. Hence, such lands as these are listed as dry-farming lands and constitute a loan risk the government is unwilling to assume. It will loan only on lands that are surface irrigated and with an assured and con- position to which the President had tinuous source of water supply." "So I've loaned money on dry farms because I was jackass enough to consider them irrigated farms," Babson almost moaned. He made a survey of the water situation and discovered to his horror that the water levels were indeed receding. "Creeping paralysis! That's what it is," he sollloquized. "And the Bank of Valley Center is the richest patient and will have to pay the heaviest bill

Nathan Tichenor had come back to Eden Valley. He arrived in a glittering limousine, driven by a liveried chanffeur, beside whom sat a dignified middle-aged individual any Forlorn Valleyite would have accepted as a banker or railroad president but who was in reality Nathan Tichenor's English valet, Arrived in the grass-grown farmyard of the deserted Bar H headquarters, Tichenor alighted.

"Well, lads, this is where I was born and raised," Nate Tichenor spoke finally.

The house reeked of that indescribable odor inseparable from closed and deserted houses, but a cursory inventory satisfied Tichenor that the contents had not been molested.

"Bring in the meats and groceries I purchased in Gold Run, Darby," he ordered the chauffeur. "There should be firewood in the woodshed. Start a fire in that fireplace. Joseph (to the walet), get busy and organize our housekeeping, while I take a run up the valley to call on a neighbor."

When Nate returned from his visit up the valley, Joseph had the house swept and aired, beds made, and a luncheon in preparation. Tichenor was prowling around the venerable home of his ancestors, reviving old memories, when upon his ears impigned the steady, insistent tooting of an automobile siren. "Somebody up on the valley road wants something," he decided.

Tichenor glanced out the window and saw an automobile with two per-

CHAPTER IV

While Fate was busy staging a long-drawn tragedy in Eden Valley, Forlorn Valley had not been overlooked by the land-hungry. By 1880 practically every acre had been homesteaded; the district developed into a dry farming section and later into "mixed" farming.

Gold Run was the county seat, and in the heart of Forlorn Valley a settlement known as Valley Center had gradually developed into a village of 'up from San Francisco to inspect the miles south of the equator, which a representative of the American Museum of Natural History always thinks of as "the Skating Pond" because, strange as it may seem, men have actually skated upon its frozen surface. In his search for African birds to add to the museum's collections he climbed Mount Kenya on the slopes of which the "Skating Pond" lles.

At the end of our third day's climb, the scientist writes in Natural History Magazine of the American Museum of Natural History, our camp was a miserable one. Dead tree trunks were the only fuel, and they were as full of water as sponges. Our cook worked an hour and a half, and used two gallons of kerosene to get a fire started. The temperature that night dropped to 42.5 degrees.

The next morning we climbed about 1,000 feet up a steep slope of earth and small boulders known as the Scree. The word is from the Icelandic-an appropriate derivation, it tinctured with caution. Then the pendulum commenced to swing the other way very slowly, and one day a brilliant thought leaped into his harried brain. He decided to transfer his financial burdens to the capable hands of the rightful receiver of all gold bricks, to wit, the government. From the joint land stock banks established by the government to aid the stricken farmers and stock raisers he would induce his debtors to borrow on mortgage, at 51% per cent, sufficient funds to pay off the existing mortgages at 8 per cent held by the Bank of Valley Center. In order to sweeten the deal Mr. Babson even considered walving the accumulated and unpaid interest for a couple of years. All he wanted back was the principal of his foolish loans. for with that in his vaults he knew his bank would be quite safe.

Promptly he bulldozed a farmer into making application for such a loan, and with commendable celerity a government farm appraiser came

We were able to look across the dark base of the peaks, and sometimes could make out the snowfilled couloir that had served as a way upward, but nothing more. Since nine that morning the rest had been completely hidden in fog. The temperature at one o'clock was 41 degrees. Water boiled at 183.8 degrees.

Taking up the housing problem, he said millions of dollars had already been provided to improve living conditions, and voiced the hope that with passage of his housing program private capital would be stimulated to widen the scope of home building.

Discussing planned control of the land, he declared that hundreds of thousands of families now live "where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come," Sounding the failure of the government thus far to create a "national policy" for the development of land and water resources, Mr. Roosevelt indicated his intention of providing such a policy, and for the transferring to new lands of "those people who cannot make a living in their present positions."

Outlining his views on providing security against unemployment and old age, Mr. Roosevelt said he was seek ing a "sound means" which he could recommend to provide an immediate safeguard against these "hazards and vicissitudes of life."

WHEN President Roosevelt signed the tariff bargaining bill he acquired authority to negotiate reciprocal trade treaties without senate approval and to increase or decrease tariff rates by as much as 50 per cent in order to stimulate foreign commerce. This policy of swapping reductions, the government believes, will result in great benefit to our foreign trade, and at the same time will give adequate protection to industry. Already nearly thirty foreign nations are lined up, awaiting an opportunity to negotiate reciprocal treaties.

Europe Furnishes Inns for Youthful Wanderers

Tourists to Find Welcome in Many Lands.

Washington .- "With the coming of mmer Europe opens her doorsusands of them-to the youth of the world," says a bulletin from the Na-ional Geographic society. "From Alne valleys to Norwegian fjords, from lages of central Europe to the rocky tebrides, young wanderers will find outh hostels' waiting to welcome how at the end of a long day on the and. There for the price of a shilling, franc, or a mark, is a kitchen where ne may cook supper, and find a friendy group of campers around a fire, and est of all, a comfortable bed.

Rucksack and weary feet are a certain passport. The young traveler ilso must have a membership in one of the national hostels associations; ant this is easily obtained, and dues are only about a dollar a year. Whethr it is the Reichsverband fur Joutsche Jugendherbergen, La Lique Francais pour les Auberges de la curvesse, or the Gaelic An Oige of the rish Free State matters not at all. reciprocal agreements between the arious countries entitle any member o the use of foreign hostels.

Win Welcome.

"All the associations are alike in their ideals of international democracy and simple living. There are no disfinctions of race, creed, or social posiion. Youth and a slender purse win ust consideration. In fact, in Bavaria, no one over twenty, save the eader of a group, may use the hostels. uckily for many, England has no such literal interpretation, measuring age by enthusiasm rather than gray mirs. Travelers arriving by motorcycle, car, or bus will probably find emselves politely turned away. The stels have no room for the more locratic summer tourist. The youth hostel movement began in Germany over twenty years ago then a young school teacher in Westnhalia started taking his students on amer walking trips, stopping overisht in empty school houses. By 1914 e had raised funds for a number of stels, and after the war, memberincreased with amazing rapidity. in 1923 there were over 2,300 hostels Germany, giving shelter to more han 4,000,000 visitors in one year. Youth inns now occupy old castles long the Rhine, city towers in Medieal towns, forest huts in the Marz mountains, and even a grim old fortress at Coburg. The majority, however, are modern buildings with the most modern equipment. In many of the cities they have assumed hotel proportions. One of the largest-the at Cologne-accommodotes 1,200 uesis. More recently a chain of hos-is has been added in East Prussia.

One of these is at historic Weissenberg, a point of international importance where the frontier of East Prussia meets the boundaries of the Polish Corridor and the Free City of Danzig, "The Youth Hostels association of England and Wales is a much younger and less crowded organization. It was not founded until 1930, but by 1933 could boast of 200 hostels and 30,000 members. Shelters are of the simplest kind-farm houses, village schools, and granaries.

Movement Grows Rapidly. "A few there are for whom the Great North road with its signs reading Edinburgh, Aberdeen and the North,' has an irresistible lure. The road leads the adventurous over bare moors, through steep glens, and past lonely lochs to the wildest beauty in Britain. Until three years ago when the Scottish Hostels association was founded, much of the grandest country in Scotland remained inaccessible to the cyclist and hiker of limited means. Inns are infrequent and fairly expensive, and it requires super energy to pack a tent and camping equipment over the rocky trails of Western Ross. Now Scotland has more than 30 hos-head of the gulf of Torone. Its site was discovered by the professor in 1928, after historians long had disputed its probable location. During excavations, it was disclosed, Doctor Robinson unearthed a 15 line inscription proclaiming alliance of the Olynthians with Philip, king of Macedonia. However, it was added, in 357 B. C., nine years after the alliance was proclaimed, Philip disregarded its provisions, razed the city and sold the people into slavery. Discussing his expedition's work, the archeologist enthusiastically pointed to the recent excavation of public buildings, historical inscriptions, public stores, and an arsenal. Indicating that Olynthus once was ravaged by a severe epidemic, Doctor Robinson said he found the remains of 30 Olynthians buried together, apparently victims of a strange malady. The expedition also uncovered a brilliantly painted tomb and five mosaics, which have aroused the interests of artists and scholars.

Answer: The term, which once denoted a person of breeding and cultivation, long ago deteriorated into meaning nothing more than a female of respectable appearance. Consequently those who have clearest right to the title speak of themselves and their friends as women. One should, however, always say "a lady on the telephone." You would also say, "I am making curtains for a lady in Chlcago."

I HEREBY CERTIFY, that in my opinion, the accompanying exhibits, chedules, and comments set forth the true condition of the financial affairs totalled $9,216.81. of the County Treasurer and Board of Chosen Freeholders, for the period under review.

A copy of this report and those of the Surrogate and County Clerk will be filed in the office of the Honorable Walter R. Darby, New Jersey State Auditor

Respectfully submitted, (Signed) NATHAN LIPMAN. COMMENT

SCOPE OF THE AUDIT

The examination embraced the accounts and supporting records in the ffice of the County Treasurer with the exception of those of the Sinking Fund Commission, which are audited separately by the Office of the State this report gives effect to the entire 1933 credit.

Your audit was conducted throughout in strict conformity with the to rules and regulations prescribed by the State Auditor.

The verification of revenues and expenditures was limited to the Trea surer's records and to supplementary data available for our inspection. No outside verification of accounts or items was received except as noted

EXHIBITS & SCHEDULES

Tax Devenue Notes and Bonds issued and outstanding at December 31, 1933 totalled $1,446,480.00. In connection with our examination of thus item we inspected the current bond and note registers (for ordinary notes and bonds) which were found to be in agreement with this schedule.

With reference to the so-called baby tax bond authorized and issued we made a physical count on December 30, 1933 of all authorized but unissued baby bonds, and can report that the amounts shown as unissued were actually on hand in the Treasurer's office at that date, with the exception of one bond in the amount of $10.00 which we have been informed was issued in error to an election clerk. The Treasurer has been endeavoring to to me directed and delivered, collect this overpayment. To date he has not been successful.

All baby bonds redeemed during the year were counted by us, and each All auth for the period from sandary 1, 1955 to becomber 31, 1955 of the financial accounts and records of the following County Officials has been completed by representatives of this office: on the face of each and every bond redeemed. The Current Account borrowed $117,970.41 from the Trust Account during 1933, and this amount was outstanding at December 31, 1933. Emergency Notes issued and outstanding at the close of the year

Treasurer's Office Bond Warrants issued and outstanding at December 31, 1933 amounted to $6,560.00.

The Edward Suydam Farm credit of $142.30 was entirely liqu'dated during 1933 . Surplus Revenue at December 31, 1933 totalled $59,616.94. TRUST DIVISION

All cash in this division was proofed in a manner similar to that in the Current Division, and the item needs no further comment at this time. At December 31, 1933 the balance of cash in the Trust Account was $228,724.19

State Taxes Receivable from municipalities amounted to $1,275.395.96 at December 31, 1933. Additional credit on State Road Tax 1933 (Chapter 218) was entered on the books of the County Treasurer in 1934. However,

State School Taxes Receivable from the State of New Jersey amounted $307,712.98 at December 31, 1933.

Bank Stock Taxes Receivable totalled $2,887.94 at December 31, 1933. At December 31, 1933 the Trust Account had loaned the Current Ac-ount $117,970.41 and the Capital Account $97,992.9 Miscellaneous Trust debit balances at December 31, 1933 amounted to 4.305.24.

MAY HELP

It will take some time to get functioning under this new bill.

Up until the time the various departments and divisions are established and decisions are made as to how various matters are to be handled, it is perhaps idle for anyone to definitely say exactly

Something, however, can be said of its purpose.

The purpose of the President is three fold:

their houses or make additions to housing to do so without any great immediate financial strain.

Second, and perhaps the primary purpose, is to provide employment for the great many who are out of employment due to the lack of construction and repair work. It has been estimated that those in the building trades, who do not normally work in any other industry, but who are idle, amount to practically five million. Every community has some of them.

The third purpose of importance is to stimulate the various industries that are dependent upon construction. The thought is Emergency Revenues (1932) $ 4,028.00 $ 4,028.00 that these industries, due to lack of construction, have lagged behind all other businesses. For that reason there has not been much pick up in their employment. Naturally, they could not employ more if they had more business.

The whole move in its essence is an effort to stimulate business through making it easy to finance demand for goods and labor through Government assistance.

Furthermore, the building and loans which in normal times have played their part in home construction and indirectly have been disposed of as follows: been of aid to the construction industry will also be benefitted under the act.

Exactly how this will be acted upon in detail in every instance remains to be seen, but the purpose is unmistakably clear and it is the hope of the President that it will do much to stimulate general employment especially in the construction and building trades industry.

No doubt machinery will be set up as fast as possible and New Jersey and Middlesex County will be placed in a position, along with the other States and counties, to benefit by the act.

Of course, the act may be criticized as all acts may, but it certainly is a step in the right direction. Many, no doubt, who wanted to do a little repairing and make extensions have felt cautious about attempting them in these times of uncertainty. one cares to go further into debt realizing how difficult it has been sum should also be included in the 1935 budget. to try to get out of it. Under the Government plan the financing would be over a long term and many may be urged to come forward now and do that little job they have been putting off.

Earmark Identification

Earmarks rather than finger-prints as a means of identification is proposed by Prof. Henry F. Perkins, director of the Fleming museum of the University of Vermont, who has discovered nearly 150 distinct characteristic formations in the human Car.

Not necessarily connected with the criminal, eastern monarchs have used the thumb's impression, the "sign manual," as a surety against forgery, India's courts have used prints for identification and Ameriican maternity hospitals for identifying babies, Photography, not portraiture, has shown individuality in the human ear, once thought only found in the hands. There is a South American ant which proceeds to a cocoa plantation in army formation. Each insect stands on a leaf and slowly and carefully cuts out an almost perfect circle, and back against they march in procession, each with the circle of leaf over the head like an umbrella. Back to their home, the ants masticate the ?maf pleces and place them in prepared beds. A peculiar fungus soon grows up in these gardens upon which the ants feed, seemingly their only food.

BUYING REQUIRES ACTIVE THINKING It Pays to Patronize Small Merchant.

By EDDIE EKROY

The mouse saved the life of the lion one day to prove to the world that a fellow never knows who next will be of great service to him. A certain amount of thought along this theme will help Carteret people tremendously. They are all buyers, no matter how small or how large. A merchant is part of the backhome of the community. When he receives patronage from customers, he gives them a little more than just the mere articles on sale. He gives them service at the moment, but later on he gives them other services. The small merchant has proven his worth, especially turing this depression. He has carried many people slong by allowing them credit for their articles. Such a service is very difficult to obtain in the larger

Other people who do not need the credit go out of town to get many of their wares. By doing this the people threaten the stability of their town, Out-of-town merchants do not contribute to the growth and wealth of Carteret. They do nothing much besides take money from the town, never to return it. Their business is legitimate. Their wares are good. Their prices are low. But that is all

Failure to see that such buying is detrimental to themselves, people will eventually starve out any of the good that is left in their town. Carteret most certainly cannot prosper unless the people buy at home.

The merchant himself is also a buyer. He gives odd jobs to local people. He does not take his money and loss it into the coffers of the few. There are many ways in which he spends his earnings among local This is how he becomes a henerit to local people in general There is nothing decent about a perion trying to sell something, even a dance ticket, to a merchant or any one else in Carleret, when he does not may anything from that mer- Nancy Bishop Left chant or any other merchant in the People are constantly looking for favors. Some have never asked for a favor, but they never know when the time will come when one will be ry. How a man or woman can get strength to solicit help from some one in this town, after patronizing an out-of-town house, is beyond answering. R melicates very little thinking. It shows that people have no sense of appresiation. Let a man or woman keep money in Carteret as much as possible That person will benefit in the end. The town will be that much better. And the people who live here will like it better.

Silcox, Manager of the Trenton Division of the Club, said this is the largest growth in any single month in the history of the Club, and that considered in conjunction with a steadily increasing net gain since the first of the year, "it shows beyond doubt that conditions have definitely changed for the hetter."

"Club membership," he continued, "may be accepted as an accurate barometer of general business. It includes motor car owners in all walks of life, and anything that affects the general public is reflected in the rise or decline in its numbers. The steady growth from the begin ning of 1934, culminating in the most extensive gain in the Club's history, may, we believe, be taken as substantial proof the trend is toward more prosperous conditions."

DRESIDENT ROOSEVELT went up to New Haven, Conn., for the Yale commencement and was presented with the highest honor the university can bestow, the degree of doctor of laws. After the ceremony he attended a luncheon of alumni and took occasion to challenge the critics of his New Deal and especially those who make fun of the "brain trust." "It is true," he told his hearers, and there was obvious in his voice a note of defiance, "that today, more than ever before in our public life, we are calling on the teaching profession for assistance in our government. There have been certain ribald comments and some laughter about the use of brains in the national government, but it seems to me a pretty good practice. "It is a practice that will continue," he added firmly. And the professors around him started the vigorous applause which followed. Later on he evoked further applause when he said: "I couldn't tell you the party affiliations of the majority of people holding responsible positions in Washington, and it is a mighty good thing I cannot." That evening Mr. Roosevelt boarded the presidential yacht Sequoia and proceeded slowly to New London, Conn., to witness the boat races between Harvard and Yale. Ten days later Babson knew that the Bar H ranch was not for sale; whereat the banker had an immediate return of his former nervousness and depression and went home at noon. The situation was thoroughly beyond his comprehension; he had decided Nate Tichenor would sell the Bar H ranch and Nate Tichenor had disappointed him.

Of course, In a larger sense, Nate Tichenor's decision not to sell could not affect the interests of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district (Mr. Babson had decided to call it that), since the district could acquire the property via the condemnation suit route.

Immediately after church the following Sunday he motored up to Eden Valley, ostensibly to fish but with the intention of spending several hours inspecting the dam-site and lake-site. To his signal perturbation he discovered in the gorge a camp of three tents, a motor chuck-wagon, and five shirt-sleeved young men playing a modest game of poker under the shade of a cottonwood tree. Under an adfacent tree a field drafting table stood : it had a sheet of tracing paper tacked to it and hard by this table a surweying instrument was set up.

"Hello," Babson hailed them cheerfully, confident that his rod and creel would excuse him of undue inquisitiveness in penetrating to the camp. "What are you boys doing here?"

"Playing poker, sir. How about tak-Ing a hand? Twenty-five cent ante and a dollar limit."

Mr. Babson, not being accustomed to such gentle rebukes, flushed and passed on down the creek, leaving the engineering crew to their non-sabbatical pleasure.

Evidently Tichenor had sold, or was about to sell, his dam-site and lakesite to a power company, which had sent an engineering crew to make a preliminary survey and report before deciding to close the deal. His curlosity aroused, Babson crossed the creek, climbed the side of the hill, and was rewarded by finding the stakes of the engineering party. He followed them readily; they led him over the approximate route which any man with ter, quite confident that she would protect her father when Babson suggested that, in return for a renewal of the unsecured notes and mortgage, she should sell him at a reasonable price that four thousand acres with which he planned to embarrass Nate Tichenorl

He realized he must keep such a deal in abeyance until he could organize the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district, for, with the district formed before Nate Tichenor could complete his deal with the power company, the district could enter a condemnation suit against Tichenor, and thus block the aspirations of the power company. He distrusted the local legal talent in a crisis loaded with potential legal dynamite, so that night he went to

Indeed, Babson was rather in a hurry to get out of town, for he considered it good strategy to be absent when old Rance Kershaw should come into the bank to argue and plead. There must be a practical nurse in Valley Center. When we get there I'll telegraph my old superintendent, Rube Tenney, to come up here with his wife and two children."

She yielded without argument to his suggestions-commands, rather.

Doctor Donaldson made no comment. when, in his office an hour later, Lorry Kershaw informed him of her father's death. He readily issued a death certificate. He was a gruff old fellow and not in the least politic, as Tichenor realized when Donaldson growled:

"So you two have buried the hatchet. eh ?" He flushed as Tichenor's bleak blue

IN A formal letter, accompanied by a long explanation, the code authority of the cleaners and dyers has notified the President that it has withdrawn its consent to the code. The reason assigned for this action is that Administrator Johnson, acting by authority of the President, suspended the minimum price and other fair trade practice provisions of the code while leaving in effect all other provisions, including those establishing minimum wages and maximum hours of labor. The cleaners and dyers say that with operating costs greatly increased by the labor provisions it is impossible to make a profit unless a minimum price is established and enforced.

tiquity, but no satisfactory explanation of its origin has ever been found. Some trace it to the Children's Crusade of 1211, when 20,000 German boys, led by a youth named Nicolas, mysteriously disappeared between Koeln (Cologne) and Italy, en route to the Holy Land. Browning wrote the poem, it is said, to amuse Willie Macready during an illness; but where he obtained his material, or why he dated the event 1376, instead of 1284, is not known."

Lack of Skilled Labor

Seen in Industry Revival Scranton, Pa .- An increase in the tempo of industrial activity has revealed a dearth of skilled labor in many lines, regional directors of the international correspondence schools report to officials of the school here.

"One of the unexpected results of the depression years," Ralph E. Weeks, president of the schools, said. "is that now when an industry urgently needs highly skilled men, it finds in many cases there are not a sufficient number to fill the demand.

"Many of the older men have died and others have moved in an effort to secure jobs. As a result, it has become a real problem to train qualified skilled help."

In Germany, one of the first countries under consideration, the institute found there are about 150,000 German university graduates who are seeking employment.

Under the most favorable circumstances, states the report, "not more than 10,500 vacancies can occur in the course of the same year." The German government, according to the institute, is attempting to remedy this situation by limiting to 15,-000 the number of bachelors admitted to the universities in 1934.

France, Italy, and Sweden, the institute found, are attempting to find work for unemployed university graduates by the formation of university bureaus, which announce in advance the possibilities of employment in the different branches of intellectual professions.

Clothes have become so profoundly feminine that happily one no longer feels obliged to babble about their femininity.

They are obviously created for women, not for tomboys, or baby dolls. This midseason shows the mode ascending toward a perfection of balance that has not been achieved in a long time. Exaggerated wind-blown effects have been swept away, leaving pleasant ghosts of their former selves to lend movement to the silhouette. The bust is now the most important point-yes, one can say it, the high spot-of the silhouette, Every couturier emphasizes it in some way, at least on frocks and blouses. All the other moot style boundaries fade into insignificance beside it.

Black Complex Features Midsummer Collections

Lovely, wearable, feminine clothes distinguished the Paris midseason collections. Freaks and oddities were conspicuous by their absence; no bustles, no panniers, no fish-fins, nothing zoological. They follow, in the main, the natural lines of the body, and their aim is to make women attractive.

Two leading points stood out. First, wife was with him, or you'd've the black complex. Secondly, the persistence of the three-quarter coat. Many collections are so black, that you might think a gigantic inkwell had been spilled over them. Black for morning, black for afternoon, black for evening. Sometimes, for evenings, very exciting fabrics make the black gowns unusual. Cellophanes, and cires,

CREDIT

Credit is due all those individuals and organizations that contributed to the Kiddie Keep Well Camp.

Things of this nature when properly organized and supervised are helpful.

It is a fine type of interest, that of the better health of kiddies.

In this general connection, credit should go, of course, too, to the chairlady who was in charge of the drive, Mrs. Emil Stremlau.

Unless somebody were to take it upon themselves to devote their time to getting the necessary quotas in the several communities, there would be no Kiddie Keep Well Camp or other such beneficial moves.

It is reported that other teams are looking to Carteret again for possible material. The fact that Medwick made good so quickly without a brass band, is likely to give Carteret recruits an opportunity to trial. It is reported that one of the boys playing in the Twilight Industrial League has already been looked over by an American League team and they are considering sending him to one of their farms, a minor league team, for seasoning

It must be realized that Carteret cannot continue to keep up its school, Mr. and Mrs. S. Ernest, of Ramblers of Linden will furnish the services unless taxes are paid. Payment of taxes is a benefit not only to municipal employees but to everyone who owns property in the community. The community will have no standing whatsoever unless it has a record of meeting its bills promptly.

Too great a debt, either current or bonded, not only gives the municipality a bad reputation as against other municipalities but it Miss Zeta Mellon have returned Dmytriw, Michael Wuy, Peter Treaffects the ability to do normal borrowing and it tends to keep new home businesses from locating in the community.

The fact that our community has not defaulted on its payments for the Young Democrats of Middleto its employees at any time during the depression up to now, is due to the solid experience of the Mayor and the Council in handling municipal finance.

THE HOUSING ACT

Over four billions of dollars have been spent by the Government in an attempt to attack in the United States the world-wide problem of unemployment due to the economic depression.

It was thought by some of the optimists in the Federal Government that everyone would be back at work by September, 1933.

It became evident last August to even these optimists that happy goal was not going to be reached by September, despite the -utpourings of Federal money. More and more schemes were unleached particularly through the winter. Among the many of them was the C. W. A. work, which gave direct employment on none to difficult jobs to the thousands throughout the country.

After carrying the C. W. A. payrolls for a few months, it began to dawa on the Federal Government how much it cost to carry payrolls and they soon had to ease down to a shorter work-week and finally to abandoning the C. W. A. work entirely.

The Housing Act it is thought in Washington will add to employment particularly along building trade lines. The purpose of it is to make it easy to borrow money for those who have put off repairs and additions to their houses or businesses because it was difficult to borrow money under the existing circumstances. It is claimed at the Capital that this will put a considerable number to work directly and indirectly. If it does it will be very helpful. This will be so because there are many in the building trades who at 9:00 A. M. have been out of work due to lack of building and there are many others who worked in plants that make material for the building trades who have also been dependent upon a pick up in new construction for steady employment. Every community has some of these, who normally look to the building trade for their livelihood.

If the new plan is workable it cannot get under way too soon. It is reported they are working feverishly in Washington to get the plan launched so that benefits may be obtained during the summer months which are the most desirable for construction.

By J. F. Winchester, S.A.E. Supervisor of Motor Vehicle Equipment, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey

COMPETENT authorities have estimated that a substantial slice could be chopped off the nation's motor car repair bill if every motorist would conform to the rules for lubrication laid down by the manufacturer of his automobile. Proper lubrication promotes smooth operation of the automobile, makes for easier riding and, best of all, minimizes wear and repair bills. Fortunately, it is not difficult to obtain. The modern service station is completely equipped to render an ideal lubrication service at a reasonable cost. Every motorist should realize that lubrication prevents a metal to metal contact. This does away with the danger of excessive friction and eliminates heat, excessive wear and loss of power. The engine which is efficiently lubricated not only wears longer, but it gives more power and by so doing makes for a minimum consumption of motor

Change your oil, have your car greased, keep its grease cups filled, use the lubricants recommended by the manufacturer of your automobile. Be consistent about the entire matter of lubrication if you would know the pleasure of real motoring enjoyment that comes from the absence of repair bills and the constant, efficient and reliable operation of your automobile.

ALL STAR GAME PLANNED

If present plans are completed, a" Junior All Star baseball team, composed of the best players from the Rovers, Aces and Clovers will meet a representative team from any nearby town desiring competition, it was rumored this week in junior baseball circles.

Many of the boys are strongly in favor of such a move. Not only will it create interest among the boys themselves, but it will also help local baseball in no little way.

For the past two months of the baseball season, local junior or sandlot games have been carrying the most interest with the fans. The Aces, Clovers and Rovers meet stiff opposition weekly, and the crowds at their games show that interest is not lacking.

No date has as yet been set for the contest.

Model Farm House of the Future

ILLUSTRATING the changes in American living conditions, this model farm house erected by The Country Home, a national farm magazine, attracts much attention at the World's Fair in Chicago. It is in a beautifully landscaped lot adjoining the dairy exhibits. New ideas are embodied in its construction, which is of brick, steel and concrete. The lower floor contains living room, kitchen, laundry, wash room, farm office, work shop and two-car garage. The upper floor has four bedrooms and bath, plus a "roof deck" over the entire garage. The brick used is reinforced with steel rods, precast in panels, and set in place much as the so-called fabricated houses are built. The house is fireproof and can be built for less than $5,000. As shown at the World's Fair, it is completely equipped with all modern improvements. The house has such things, do you? If so, maybe you no cellar, its architects maintaining that a cellar is obsolete and expensive.

Answer: The best advice I can give is to try to develop an acute ear for spoken sound. Every one knows what is meant by an ear for music, but very rarely does anyone emphasize the much greater Importance of an car for intonation, or the purity of the spoken vowel sounds. It seems to me that just as such naturalists and entomologists as William Hamilton Glbson and Henri Fabre have proved that not one pair of eyes in a million behold the romance and drama of insect life along every foot of country roadside, it is equally true that not one pair of ears in a million hear with precision the scale of spoken sound. And yet every little child in the world has this exquisite sensitiveness, which grows each year less acute. Of course, I don't know whether we are as uncaringly deaf (as we are uncaringly blind to the insect life of the hedgerows) or whether at the end of babyhood our ears fail to hear clearly, just as our eyes at the end of middle age fail to see clearly. As I have said, I can't think of het ter advice to give you than to try to HEAR. If you can hear the difference between a thin flat tone and a full round one, between a voice that comes down to rest on the dominant note and one that hangs in the air; if you can hear the entire "ange of vowel sounds as clearly as a violinist hears musical notes, the chances are that your tongue will produce without ef fort what your ear exacts.

The connoisseurs that are to be in the generation of our great grandchildren may spend much time in future years collecting the exquisite specimens now coming from the studio of a finished artist from Soviet Russia, it is said, and now located in this country.

Like an etching each piece is signed by the craftsman. Being hand-wrought adds to their loveliness and makes them more expensive, though prices are not prohibitive. Changing fashions have a way of relegating many beautiful things to the antique heap and sometimes they are years in discard before their beauty is thoroughly appreciated.

Byron's Verse Only Note of Beauty in Old Castle

The place which the Castle of Chil lon holds in the affection of visitors to Switzerland is a strange commentary on its history. Its lake encircled walls and tree shadowed towers may be seen on millions of picture postcards, and no one possessing a camera departs without a snapshot of its mysterious charm, says a writer in the Detroit News.

For all this, no doubt, Lord Byron is in part responsible in immortalizing one of its prisoners with the magic of his own romantic personality and pen. I cannot confess that my own visits leave me entranced; rather do I walk from its dim dungeons depressed with horrors that even Bonivard did not experience, and as if to confirm my own reactions, I once found on the walls of the Guard's hall, on the left as you enter the shadow-hung room, a phrase scratched by a prisoner of long ago-"Belle prison, laides amours, Jamais ne Furent," which may be freely translated, "There never was a beautiful prison, nor was love ever ugly," Is this the souvenir of long vanished hot blood on the walls? Was he imprisoned for some love affair? Who can tell, At any rate, "there never was a beautiful prison."

History of the Yantic

The Yantic was designed to be Abraham Lincoln's Presidential yacht and was built at Philadelphia in 1863. The demands of the Civil war caused her conversion into a gunboat and as a member of Porter's blockading fleet she took part in the battle of Cape Fear River, in attacks on Fort Fisher and the capture of Fort Anderson. The Yantic was a member of the fleet sent to rescue the Greely Arctic expedition in 1883. She was also one of the vessels saved from destruction in the Samoa hurricane of March, 1889, by steaming out to sea. In 1897 she was brought to the Great Lakes, part of the vessel having to be cut in drydock at Montreal to enable her to get through the canals. During the Spanish-American war she was a recruiting ship and during the World war a training ship. In October, 1929, she sank at her dock and the following day the remains were raised and burned. The Yantic was constructed of live oak from South Africa, sheathed in copper, and was 186 feet long, with 30 feet beam.

First Prohibition Law

Ohio's famous Indian chief, Little Turtle, might be regarded as one of America's earliest prohibitionists, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Besides lecturing to his tribe about the evils of strong drink, he visited the legislatures of Ohio and Kentucky, and even congress, and pleaded for the prohibition of liquors among the red men. In 1798 he went to Philadelphia to lay the case before President Adams, Failing to get results, in 1801 he put the matter before President Jefferson, who, influenced, sent a spe cial message to congress giving the President power to take steps to eliminate the traffic from the Indian country. Thus Little Turtle is the real father of the first prohibition law ever enacted in this country.

India's Venomous Snakes

Less Than Six Feet Long

Should you encounter a snake more than six feet long in India, outside the thick jungles of Travanacore, Assam and Burma, you need not be badly worried, according to a zoologist connected with the Review of India, of Calcutta and Delhi. For he tells us that most of the deadly venomous snakes native to that country are six feet or under in length. The deadly jungle species attaining a length of more than six feet is the Hamadryas or king cobra

But even if they are not monsters, the polsonous snakes of India do plenty of damage. "The wild beasts of India kill 2,000 people every year, but the snakes of India kill 3,000 every month." this authority writes.

There are 320 species of snakes registered, of which 67 are toxic (29 water snakes, 18 vipers, 11 kraits and nine species of cobras). Only two of the vipers can give a fatal bite, and there are only four species of land snakes whose bite is usually fatal. These are a species of cobra, a krait, the chain viper, Russel's viper, or daboia, and the phoorsa, echis carinata or sawscaled viper.

Everyone should learn to recognize the four types of snakes among which extremely poisonous varieties are to be found, even though he cannot distinguish the individual species, for two reasons-to be as wary as possible if the reptiles are of a type to be feared, and to minimize the possibility of dying from fright when bitten by a species that is comparatively harmless.

One-Cent Stamp of 1856 Most Valuable in World

The British Guiana 1856 one-cent stamp is the most valuable bit of postal paper in existence, says the Boston Transcript. Like many another rarity. its worth was not recognized by its original owner. A lad living in British Guiana, who found it among some old family papers in the year 1872, sold it to a collector for $1,50! The stamp thereafter changed owners several times, each time at rising prices, until In 1880 it was purchased for $600 by that greatest stamp collector of all time, the Austrian Count Phillip la Renotiere von Ferrary. When Count Ferrary died, in 1917, his huge and wonderful collection was sold in a series of fourteen historic auction sales at a price which totaled $2,275,975. It was at one of these auction sales that the agent of an American millionaire, the late Arthur Hind, of Utica, N. Y., outbid the agent of King George V for the possession of the British Guiana rarity. The price paid, including the French government's tax, was $38,025-a collossal sum for one postage stamp! Yet stamp prices, like all prices, are based on laws of supply and demand. There are millions of stamp collectors, but only one copy of the one-cent 1856 stamp of Eritish Guiana. This stamp, it is estimated, if sold, would sell in
