Austin Neal is a native of Van Buren, Missouri. It is a small town with a population of less than 900, which sits in the southeast region of the Ozark Mountain foothills. Picking up the guitar just after his seventh birthday, Austin began sitting in with his father and fellow band members where he learned how to play on influences such as Alabama, George Jones, Don Williams, Waylon Jennings and more. As years went by he found himself venturing out and reaching towards the rock and roll side of life, where he was influenced by Stone Temple Pilots, The Eagles, Joe Walsh, Dire Straits, Bon Jovi, and others.

Growing up through the years He had taken life experiences, good and bad, and used them as fuel for this desire he has had. Now with 24 years of music under his belt he has made home in southeast Georgia, where he has played all across the state from Douglasville to Kingsland, from Tifton to Augusta. This also including the states of Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, Nevada, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

His vocals and abilities as a musician make him a wanted sound. His uniqueness has done nothing but open doors for him then continue to lead to more doors.
