

S26

SUNDAY NEWS, FEBRUARY 7, 1971

TV OFFBEAT

By GEORGE MAKSIAN

THE FOUR BRITISH-born teenage musicians featured as the Bugaloos on NBC's Saturday morning musical-fantasy series are tuned in on the same wave length when working before the cameras. But when they're offstage on their own time, their hobbies take over.

Caroline Ellis (Joy) loves to swim and ride horseback. John Philpott's (Courage) favorite games are darts and billiards. John McIndoe (I.Q.) plays the guitar at almost every opportunity and collects stamps and antique cameras. And Wayne Laryea (Harmony), the youngest Bugaloo, likes to read and write poetry. He also sees all the movies he can and tries to memorize film and storyline techniques.

WHEN IT COMES to her professional wardrobe, Lesley Warren has literally gone from rags to riches. She began her television career in a tattered dress as Cinderella in the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical version of the fairy tale classic. And in ABC's Movie of the Week attraction, "Love Hate Love," Tuesday evening she will be dressed in all

Caroline Ellis