'Bugaloos' Fantastic

"The Bugaloos," a costume-comedy-musical series featuring a group of teen-aged musicians in a fantasy world, will be one of the new programs to premiere on the NBC Television Network's Saturday morning schedule this Fall, it was announced by Lawrence

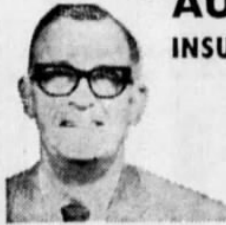

R. White, vice president, Programs, East Coast, NBC-TV Network.

The new color series will be produced by Sid and Marty Krofft, producers of NBC-TV's popular Saturday morning series, "H. R. Pufnstuf," which has received critical acclaim during its first season. "The Bugaloos" will incorporate many of the unique production features of the "Pufnstuf" series, including elaborately costumed live actors in fantasy roles.

White said the new series is another step in NBC-TV's efforts to upgrade children's programming, and he said other new children's programs would be announced shortly.

Heroes of the half-hour show are The Bugaloos, a musical group of teen-agers who have dedicated their lives to helping those who need help. They play rock music and live on a Utopian island called Tranquility. Miraculously, they possess wings and bear a close resemblance to butterflies, bees and other insects.
