

BUGALOOS SET AS TEEN AMBASSADORS

J The Bugaloos, British rock quartet headlining their own weekly series over NBC, have been designated National Teen Ambassadors of the Christmas Seal Campaign, according to Dr. William B. Tucker, president of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

S In addition to special personal appearances, the group will tape television and radio appeals to support the 1970 campaign. Spots will be created for the Association by Sid and Marty Krofft, producers of the "Bugaloos" show, which airs Saturday mornings.

so Caroline Ellis, John Philpott, Wayne Laryea and John McIndoe Hc comprise the Bugaloos, who also record for Capitol Records. Their ser first single, "For A Friend," is now in release, with an album
tai scheduled for later this month.
tur
Th
ert

B LET'S STICK TOGETHER is the theme of the 1970 Christmas Seal fund-raising appeal, and among those urging contributions are The Bugaloos, stars of their own weekly NBC-TV series. Members of the group are (from left): John Philpott,
K Wayne Laryea, John McIndoe and Caroline Ellis.
S
C