Let's Talk About Your Child's Amazing Journey! (IEP Questions for Parents)

Imagine your child thriving in school, reaching their full potential! Filling out an IEP can feel overwhelming, but it's a great chance to work with the school and create a roadmap for their success. To get you started, here are some questions to think about

1. What makes your child shine? Are they a creative artist, a whiz with numbers, or a social butterfly?

2. What are their favorite school adventures? Science experiments, recess with friends, or getting lost in a good book?

3. How do they learn best? Do they light up with hands-on activities, remember pictures, or love to repeat things out loud?

4. What kind of learning environment helps them blossom? Quiet corners, group, or lots of movement breaks?

5. How do they tell you when they're stuck or frustrated? Do they get quiet, or do they let you know what they need?

Parent IEP Input Questionnaire

Every child has bumps in the road.

6. What are some things that make learning a bit tricky for your child?

7. Are there any behaviors that cause concern at home or school?

8. Did your child have any recent evaluations from therapists or doctors that might be helpful?

Parent IEP Input Questionnaire

11. Are there any social or emotional worries you have about your child at school?

12. How can the teachers and staff best support you in helping your child reach for the stars?

Every family is unique!

13. Does your child have any medical conditions that affect their learning?

14. Do they need any special ways to communicate (like sign language or assistive technology)?

15. Would any classroom adjustments make things easier, like preferential seating or breaks throughout the day?

16. How would you like to stay connected with the school and involved in your child's IEP?

Remember, you're your child's biggest champion! By answering these questions, you'll be giving the IEP team a treasure trove of information to craft a plan that supports your child's unique journey.
