Ciancaglini given Courage Award

Times Sports Staff

GENEVA — Geneva resident Ray Ciancaglini is as busy as ever with The Second Impact, his foundation to raise awareness of sports-related brain injuries among athletes.

This past Saturday Ciancaglini was presented with the 2014 Camp Good Days Courage Award during halftime of the Courage Bowl between the St. John Fisher and Brockport.

Camp Good Days and Special Times is an organization that works towards bettering the lives of children and their families effected by cancer.

"I have never been more humbled and honored to have received such a prestigious award," Ciancaglini said in a press release. "As a former boxer, I have been a special guest at many boxing and sports banquets through the years. ...

None of them could compare to the little champions that I met at the Courage Bowl banquet and game who are battling the serious life challenge of pediatric cancer."

In addition, Ciancaglini was recently part of a two-day symposium at Nazareth College. In early October he will be the key note speaker for a conference at the Burke Research Medical Institute of White Plains.
