The Geneva Rotary Club honored two Genevans recently with Paul Harris Fellowship awards. Honored were Paul Kirsch (second from left) and Ray Ciancaglini (second from right). Joining the recipients were Tara Rago, club president, and Dr. Jim Dickson, Paul Harris Committee Chair. The honorees meet high professional and personal standards set forth by Harris, who founded the Rotary organization in Chicago in 1905. Ciancaglini, a former middleweight boxer, founded The Second Impact, which is dedicated to concussion awareness. Kirsch, retired superintendent of Schools in Geneva, has been active in the community and especially in the Rotary club.
