

Evert Outen is an incredible new singer song writer based in the South of England, although originally from Melbourne, Australia. He is supported on stage by a talented line up of musicians helping to bring to life a fresh new sound to audiences.

They began working together in mid-2017 writing and recording their own original music which is a blend of rock, blues and soul. From then on Evert Outen and his band have been going from strength to strength playing venues throughout London and the South East as well as recording new material at Peter Gabriel's Real World Studios.
