

This architectural elevation drawing shows a building facade with vertical siding. The facade features several windows: a large double window with a grid pattern at the top, a smaller double window below it, and another double window at the bottom. A door is located on the left side, and a small square window is positioned above it. The building is flanked by a textured wall on the right and a brick wall on the left.

[illegible]

* Live Oak Homes reserves the right to change the product offering at any time.