DEAL WITH IT

Weekly Reflection by Fr. Michael

This phrase is usually used when there is a situation in which we are not pleased, but nonetheless have to accept the conditions or circumstances that exist. This week's gospel is one of those stories that could conclude with that statement. We hear about the landowner who goes out to hire day laborers. He hires some at the crack of dawn, others are hired midday, and the final group is hired one hour before quitting time. When it comes time for them to be paid, they each get the same amount. Understandably, those who worked all day are angry that those who only worked one hour received the exact same amount. The landowner points out that he cheated no one; those who worked all day received a fair wage for their work. He insists that he has the right to be generous with his own money if he chooses.

If we are honest, we must admit there are aspects of God's love that we grapple to accept. It would be so much easier if God rewarded those who did good and punished those who do wrong. Life would be so much more equitable and balanced if God's grace was measured out in a predictable and rational way. Life has taught all of us that this does not happen.

The truth is there are times when what God asks us flies in the face of how we would do things. We have to deal with it. This is a helpful perspective to keep in mind in the coming weeks. Next week is International Immigrant Sunday. Certainly, the topic of immigration is controversial. Most people have strong feelings about the issue. The following Sunday begins Respect Life month. There are many complicated issues that fall under that broad umbrella of respecting the human dignity of all. Our opinions may be well thought out and logical but that does not necessarily make them definitively right. None of us lives out perfectly to the ideals set forth in the Gospel. This does not prevent us from moving forward. God continually looks for an open mind and heart. There can be miraculous changes and insights that happen when we embrace a discerning spirit. We are called to take into consideration the teachings of our Church and the Gospel of Jesus. I assure you, there are challenges for all of us. God's Word will push all of us to understand His mercy, compassion, patience, and forgiveness in ways that we may not reach on our own.

If ever you feel anger, resentment, or resistance to some part of the gospel, see it as a moment to grow. If you feel God is saying that you need to "deal with it," understand that interior struggle can become a moment of insight. See it as an opportunity. This is the only way we can come to the truth of the gospel. Unfolding the complicated issues of life is how we grow in wisdom and mercy. Don't give in to anger or frustration. Rather, trust that God will lead us to deeper places where we can witness the power of His glory. God's love is immense. We are called to deal with it as an enormous challenge as well as an undeserved gift.

On a different note, I want to update you on something written about in the bulletin a few weeks back regarding greater accessibility to our church. Several people offered to help in different ways. I also received two suggestions regarding our parking lot. The first was to remove the pavers in the courtyard between the front of the colonnade out to the circle. That space between the bell all the way over to the current handicapped parking could be filled in with new spaces. The other suggestion was to turn the fire exit near the music ministry area into a new entrance. This would require creating a level walkway with handrails to the parking lot. Four or five parking spaces could be designated as handicapped. We would also need to install an automatic door. Of the two suggestions, the latter one seems to be more viable. We are currently getting estimates for the different parts of that project. I will keep you updated.

If you know someone who might be interested in OCIA, please pass this information along.

WHO CAN PARTICIPATE?

OCIA is open to:

- anyone who is unbaptized and has a desire to learn about the Catholic faith;

- Catholics who have been baptized but have not celebrated the Sacraments of Eucharist (Holy Communion) and Confirmation.

WHAT CAN ONE EXPECT AT OCIA?

Individuals who go through the OCIA process can expect:

All that is required is openness to grow and learn.

Practice of Charity

(Excerpt from "At Home with the Word 2026")

Today's Gospel is a challenge for hard workers, the ones who relate more to the loyal brother than the prodigal son. The idea that those who "show up later" receive the same reward as longtime loyalists doesn't sit well with our sense of fairness! However, the generosity of God expands beyond the human understanding of what is fair - because extending mercy and compassion often isn't.

Pray and reflect on a time when you were the recipient of extravagant generosity and felt undeserving. How can you pay that kind of generosity forward?

To whom do you need to extend more generosity, even if it feels unfair? Reflect on a specific way to do so in the coming days.

Research organizations that serve those on the margins. Pay attention to systems that are compassionate to those who need mercy, such as addiction ministries or reentry programs. How can you support them with your time, talent, and treasure?
