THE NURSES PUB MISSION

We Are On A Mission!

The Nurses Pub Mission is to provide charitable, compassionate services and resources to underserved student populations who need "Cultural Capital" and seek a pathway for professional and economic development through

“The Art of Nursing.”

Our Vision is to build a global community of resource centers that serve 100,000 future nurses in need of Mentoring, Awareness, and Scholarships (MAS) and to be the change agent for increasing the nursing workforce.

THE NURSES PUB

Meet The Founder

Mona Clayton, a registered nurse and founder of The Nurses Pub—a 501 (c) (3) nonprofit organization.

When my high school counselor advised me to become a secretary even though I was a stellar student in science, I didn't realize that one day my purpose would be to help single mothers and underserved students become nurses. In fact, I never knew about this very rewarding profession until I witnessed my soon-to-be mentors in action!

In 1997 my life changed in a single day as I left the Los Angeles Divorce Court as a new divorcee and began a nursing program that evening. My greatest accomplishment was walking the stage of Los Angeles Southwest College and receiving my nursing degree with my 9-year-old daughter by my side. She was able to witness what starting and finishing an education entails.

No one gave me a roadmap for a successful career. No one told me I had the potential of becoming more than a secretary, nor did anyone provide the tools for success after graduation.

I discovered my purpose for becoming a registered nurse years after high school, at the age of 35. We all should look to discover our purpose, and my purpose was ignited after publishing a book that helps students thrive on the way to becoming nurses.

Seeing my book on the shelves of Barnes & Noble furthered my enthusiasm to do more and in 2018, The Nurses Pub nonprofit was born along with the “100K Future Nurse Initiative.” I have used this platform to enable students around the nation to grow with our outreach services, Mentorship, Awareness, and Scholarships, or MAS.

My influence as a registered nurse and CEO has gifted me the opportunity to serve students living in underserved populations with limited resources and those who are from communities that think that students should not strive to do more and become more.

Currently, I have a master’s degree in education, and I have taught nursing students. My experience of more than 20 years has guided me to work in all facets of nursing care.

The most challenging time of my career was during the pandemic when I was able to provide treatment for COVID patients, which further cemented my need to continue the initiative to influence 100k future nurses to join the nursing profession.

“There is definitely a need for nurses and I plan to fulfill the need and my purpose! “
