Director's Welcome

Greetings and Welcome to the 52nd Horizon wealth Management - Silver Fox Invitational. It is an honour to have the opportunity to be named the new Director of this prestigious Tournament, hosting some of the best basketball programs in the province.

As a former Saltfleet athlete and basketball player for 5 years and competing in the Silver Fox for 3 years under the guidance of Dave Ormerod and Jim Weatherbee, former Director for 31 years, I am truly humbled by this full circle opportunity.

Throughout my life and career thus far I have gained valuable experience working in a multitude of environments that I believe have shaped me into being able to successfully run a tournament of this magnitude. My first year teaching was on an Aboriginal reserve in Northern Manitoba where I learned a great deal about culture, connectivity and inclusivity which are essential to a successful community. I have taught special education and in the secondary gateway program as well at the Arrell Youth Centre while providing my time in extra curricular's such as basketball, football, rugby, soccer and other minor sports that provide athletes the ability to grow as human beings.

I currently teach the autism spectrum disorder class at Saltfleet DHS, my all mater. I followed this path as an ASD Teacher because I have a brother who has autism and as a student and teenager at that time, I did not totally understand the challenges that were presented to him and my family. My way of learning and growing individually was to follow a path where I could acquire my special education degree. This has helped me provide students with special needs a variety of diverse learning environments. This has provided them with the opportunity to broaden their perspectives and communication with people in the community surrounding them.

I believe that my role as a teacher must include committing to a student's overall experience at their school, which is one reason I coach basketball and what motivates me to direct this prestigious event.

My personal vision in coaching is Relationships, Growth, Victory. I believe that if we connect around relationships, we grow as individual to a more "team" oriented base. No matter how many times you win in the game of basketball or in life, if we work together, become connected and grow then we will be victorious as a person.

I want to give a special thank you to all our sponsors this year, we could not put the Fox on without you.

I also want to give a heartfelt thank you to my wife and boys who support me everyday in my pursuit as a coach and now as a Director. Without their love and understanding of this dream, I would not be able to accomplish my dreams.

Enjoy the games

Coach Ken Ormerod

1939 - 2000

There is not enough room on one page to cover the life of someone who had such an impact on so many young people during his lifetime.

I will state what was most important to Ken and that was his family. His love for his wife Patsy, son David, daughter Kim along with his parents, these were at the top of the list. He spoke proudly of Patsy's drive and devotion as a mother, teacher and provider. He spoke with joy of David and Kim's accomplishments as athletes and later to become teacher's and coach's as well, impacting students for years to come. Ken passed shortly after the birth of his 1st grandchildren, Tyler and Maddison but would be so proud of them today and their siblings, Nolan and Kennedy, who all have a love for sports and learning.

On my personal note I was blessed to have Ken come into my life when I attended Glendale SS in the 60's. He was for my 1st two years a teacher first and then a coach and he left his mark on me in a number of ways. His support of selecting me for the 68-69 Sr team gave me confidence that I could compete even though I was the youngest and shortest in a group of just 8 players. That year Ken cut 6 Sr players by Christmas but kept me for reasons I would keep in mine years later when I started coaching. I fell in love with the game because of him. I would follow that love for the game later when I was given the opportunity to coach at Glendale. During that time I would be fortunate to coach against him while he coached David at Scott Park, coach with him on an All Star team with David playing and then spend time on the bench with him in his last year of teaching at Hill Park. I treasure the road trips, his challenge to me in recalling basketball history, the talks over a drink about family and most memorable his time for me after my Dad passed and his kindness in getting me through that difficult time.

We honour his memory and many accomplishments as a coach by naming one of our Flight Championships in his name.

Rest in Peace Coach "O" knowing you are loved and will not be forgotten.

Jim Weatherbee

Jim Thomas and Family

Jim Thomas was a pioneer when it came to evaluating high school boys basketball players starting back in the mid 90's around the province of Ontario.

Jim came on the scene as he was constantly seen in gyms at high school and post secondary games across Toronto and Peel. He was at many of the very best high school tournaments during the time like The Humber Classic, St Mike's, The Court Heinbuch Classic and The Silver Fox Invitational. Jim had a love and passion for a game he never played but he took the time to study and talk to highly respected high school and post secondary coach's about what it took to play at the next level.

He would put together by hand and then print a report on the best players and provide their bio's to coach's for a nominal fee to cover his cost. He made little money while spending hundreds of hours and gas expenses to travel not counting the hours to compile his report which he referred to as "In the Paint".

This report back in the day proved to be of great value to the players who were fortunate enough to be included as many found opportunities from post secondary coach's who credited Jim's information as one of the reasons they were on the radar of any particular school. Even schools south of the border came North to see prospects from Jim's reporting. He was ahead of his time until others started their own prospects promotion via social media after approximately 2006.

Jim became associated with the Silver Fox around 1998 and contributed immensely to the growth and quality of the teams competing in the event. His information was highly valued to the point that if Jim recommended a team it became an automatic invite. He was very seldom wrong with the quality of the teams to compete which made the Silver Fox a must play in high school event on the season calendar.

He is greatly missed by many friends around the game and his family. His sister Janet {Thomas} Dorin approached former Fox Director Jim Weatherbee, a close friend to Jim for 20+ years, with the offer to keep Jim's memory and love for the game alive with the Silver Fox Invitational. Janet's generous contribution to have the awards named in Jim's honour can't be understated and is greatly appreciated by the committee and new Director Matt McIlihopf.

In Jim's memory and on behalf of his sister Janet Dorin we are honoured to present the awards to the winners selected from the Silver Fox Invitational.

Radivoj “Ron” Kowljenic

1972 - 2005

Basketball is a game that requires teamwork, strength, skill, grace, determination, selflessness, and fun. It requires a coach with leadership and players who can take instruction and criticism. It needs an opponent to run your offence and defence against to measure your success. The game can't be played alone in order to get better, just like in life, you give and receive support along the way.

In many ways the attributes of a good player resemble those of a good friend, spouse, brother, sister, colleague or employer. It is a sport where mistakes happen in the blink of an eye and both player and team mates must respond quickly in a positive manner to overcome the problem.

Ron made a tremendous effort to learn the fundamentals of the game and then applied a great work ethic to get better. You would find him in the gym early and staying later after classes. He never tired of the challenge or his love for the game. He loved it like he loved life. He was always having fun, smiling, remaining positive and wanting badly to play at the next level in post secondary. Ron believed his sport mimicked life, you put in the effort and work and success will come your way.

Ron worked to become a great team mate, improve his skills, took an interest in others, listened to his parents, teachers and coach's to become a responsible adult.

Ron played for coach Weatherbee at Glendale, then St Mary's University in Nova Scotia. He would briefly appear in the National Championship game under the then banner C.I.A.U. in his first year. He would return home after one year to be closer to his family and attended McMaster University to play under Coach Joe Raso. Ron would graduate with his BA in Commerce and move on to his working career in business. He would continue his love with the game playing for the local Serbian Men's travelling team around North America.

In February 2004 Ron was diagnosed with cancer at the age of 32. He remained optimistic and strong throughout this difficult time until his passing on July 31st 2005. He made his mark on life and found what he loved by putting his efforts into actions in everyday. He laughed, loved, worked hard and enjoyed life.

We hope you all live well, love often, smile daily and enjoy life with a passion.

Jim Lyle 1927 - 2020

No stopping this court whistle-blower

'I'm 74, so I'm not sure how many more games I can do,' says the 50-year veteran of basketball officiating

Mike Hanley

It was Jan. 7, 1952, when Jim Lyle made his debut as a basketball referee.

"I can't remember what I had for breakfast today," he says, with a laugh. "But I have a clear memory of that day. I was scared to death."

He recalls the game being played in the basement of the old First United Church, at Wellington and King streets. The gym was small and the out-of-bounds lines were defined by a brick wall.

The game was between Melrose and First United, two powerhouse midget teams in the city-wide church league.

He remembers many of the players from both teams, he remembers collecting $1.50 for his efforts, and he remembers the post-game assessment from the First United coach.

"He let me know how stupid I was."

Lyle must have got smart real fast because he's still on the job. He worked a game Monday night, exactly 50 years after his debut.

"I'm 74, so I'm not sure how many more games I can do. But I still enjoy it, especially the camaraderie."

Lyle played basketball in the church leagues and later while attending the Hamilton Technical Institute.

"Most of the guys played hockey but skates were expensive and my parents had more important things to do with their money. I owned sneakers and shorts so basketball became my game."

Retired Stelco Hilton Works superintendent Jim Lyle says refereeing basketball games is 'a wonderful opportunity to spend time with good kids.'

He continued to play in senior leagues until 1951 when he was invited to join the men in stripes.

"I was very fortunate, Kitch McPherson was my mentor."

McPherson, who died in 1998, was among the world's best. He worked the 1959 Pan-Am Games and all seven matches when the Russian national team made its first tour of the United States in the early 1960s.

McPherson was the first Canadian member of the International Association of Approved Basketball Officials and founded the Ontario Referees Association.

"He made us an affiliate of the international association," Lyle says. "He wanted us to be the best and he knew we would have access to their clinics and teaching materials."

Lyle is vice-president of the Hamilton board and they now have 160 referees, including 32 women.

He says referees must attend a series of classroom sessions every year and pass a written exam. They also attend a workshop where they referee simulated games. And senior officials sit in on real games, grading the younger referees on their floor work.

"It's one thing to know the rules, but it's another thing to know how to apply them."

He says basketball has enjoyed a growth spurt the past few years and the quality of coaching and players has snowballed, especially among women.

"We had an OFSAA tournament here last month and the girls were fantastic. Some of them could play with the boys."

Lyle married in 1949 and all three of their children had a fling with basketball. He was a purchasing agent with a small machine company before joining Stelco in 1967 as a buyer. He was superintendent of purchasing for Hilton Works when he retired in 1991.

A wonky back forced him to reduce his basketball schedule this year but he expects to referee a few more games before the season closes.

"It's a wonderful opportunity to spend time with good kids. That's not a fringe benefit you can put in your pocket, but it certainly makes your heart swell."

Maybe you know an interesting personality in the world of sports. Call me at 905-526-3299 or e-mail mhanley@hamiltonspectator.com
