Summary (explain the story you are trying to convey in your posts)

In Marvel's What If?, Domingo Palacio, also known as Dark Deterrent, finds himself transported to a universe without Doctor Strange. As a sorcerer tasked with retrieving dark practitioners for the magic S.H.I.E.L.D organization, Dee inadvertently becomes the Sorcerer Supreme in a world threatened by a human-sized Dormammu. Despite being an unconventional hero, Dee faces a choice: steal The Scarlet Witch's crown or become Dormammu's eternal slave. With the help of novice sorcerer Ned Leeds, they escape to strategize their next move, pondering what Doctor Strange would do and considering their own options.

Post 1:

Caption: Domingo Palacio A.K.A Dark Deterrent A.K.A Dee was a seemingly mid-level Filipino/American sorcerer locking up multiversal soldiers as a portal opens and swallows the sorcerer transporting him to a universe without Doctor Strange. He lands in the Sanctum Sanctorum at the feet of a human sized Dormammu. Dee unwittingly assumes the role of Sorcerer Supreme to stop this gigantic, dark force.

Post 2:

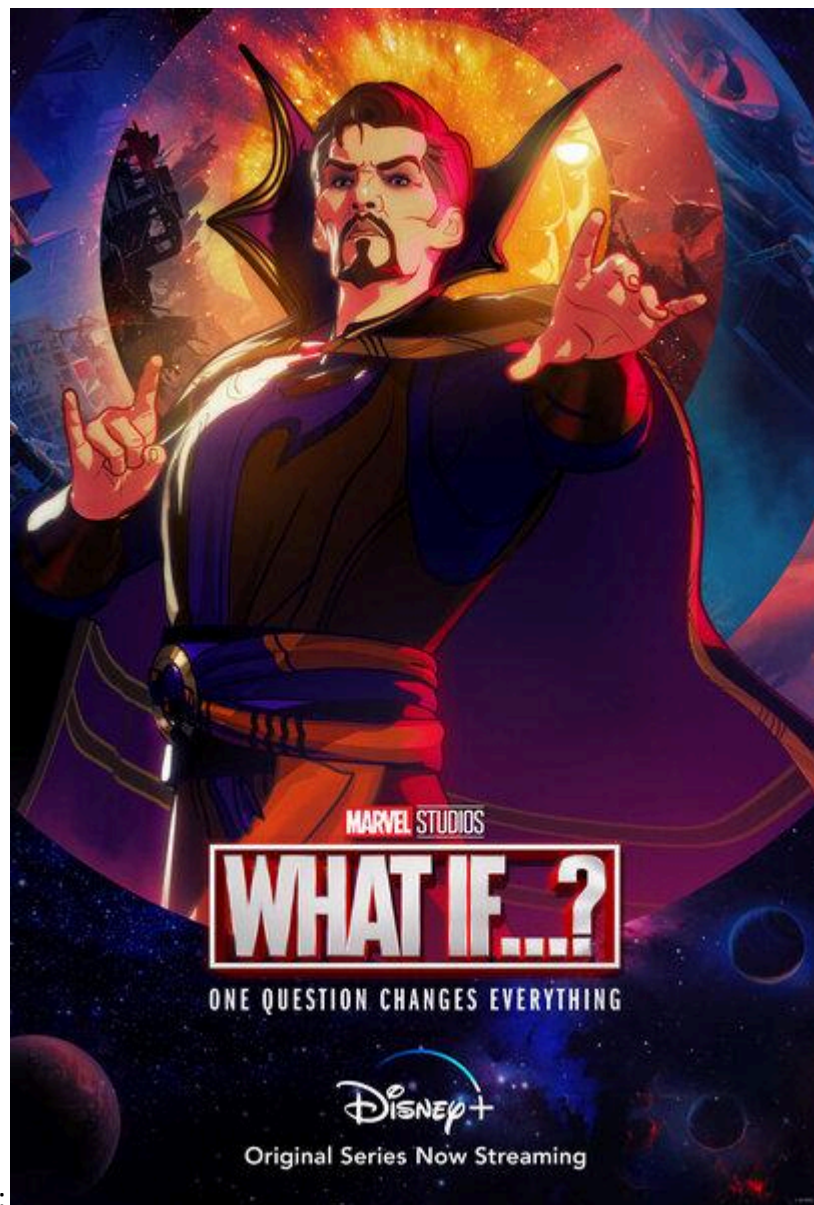

Caption: Dark Deterrent was never “Top of His Class” or even that popular, but he was one of a very few sets of hero’s tasked with retrieval status of dark sorcerers, wizards, and witches into custody of the magic S.H.I.E.L.D organization. When Dee was transported, he had nothing better to do in his daily life. This trip was a treat for him. He’ll be on his own, using his skills and knowledge to progress to Agent.

Caption: When Dee had a tip to pick up a pair of Dark Wizards, after a good chase he caught up with them. They were all on their way to lock up as a portal opens and the rest is history. Dark Deterrent lands just as that universe's Doctor Strange is killed. Energy has found a new home, recycling to Dee.

Post 4:

Caption: Dark Deterrent looked up at a human-sized Dormammu, the dark entity wondering who this tan man is, emanating energy and magic that can be heard across the multiverse. Perhaps he has always meant to switch places with Strange. I'm looking at this dark entity wondering if I have underestimated my abilities and strength.

Post 5: (write an ending to the story or give insight into what readers can look forward to in the future)

Caption: Dormammu presents Dark Deterrent with a deal. He must steal The Scarlet Witches' crown, or he will be a slave for all eternity. Screaming, running from around the corner, novice sorcerer Ned Leeds sends a crushing blow to the dark entity. Ned frees Dee and they escape to plan their next move. What would Doctor Strange do? Or better yet, what would YOU do?

Reflection assignment: Write a brief 100-150-word reflection focusing on your creative process.
(explain why you made the choices listed above)

I chose fan fiction based on Marvel's What If? television series. The final choice was to blend a new character into the pre-existing universe. The decision was made early on that Domingo Palacio be a mid-level Filipino/American sorcerer, this was made so that he would eventually meet up with Ned Leeds, another Filipino/American magic user, and assume the role of Doctor Strange. It was great fun blending characters from Spiderman, Doctor Strange, and the breadth of the Marvel Universe.

Ned Leeds and Dormammu were at the top of my list for characters to interact with. I clung to the idea of Dark Deterrent assuming the role of that world's Doctor Strange. Dormammu had to be the destroyer of Doctor Strange so that his power would recycle to Domingo's vigilante. I want to focus on a great threat met by someone with fading interest and skills in magic, it made sense to create a new character and blend it with Marvel's What If?
