

LIVING IN COLUMBIA

A guide to Columbia Association and Columbia Villages
for realtors and prospective residents olumbia Association's (CA's) role in the community is defined by several state and federal laws. Under Maryland Corporations law, CA is a private, non-stock corporation. Under the federal tax code, CA is a 501(c)(4) non-profit community services corporation. According to the Maryland Homeowners Association Act (enacted in 1984), CA is a homeowners association (HOA) because it has the "authority to enforce the provisions of a declaration."

But CA is significantly larger and responsible for far more operations than any other HOA in Maryland, with about 100,000 residents and 37,000 annual charge payers — the average HOA has 131 units.

CA is not a Planned Unit Development (commonly called a PUD). CA is a community-controlled, private, non-profit service corporation created to provide services, amenities and facilities for the benefit of Columbia and parts of neighboring Clarksville, Ellicott City, Elkridge and Jessup.

There are no common areas associated with CA that are owned in common by all residents. CA's open space areas, facilities and community buildings are all wholly owned by CA.

CA also has a mix of commercial and residential properties, as well as the ability to issue bonds to fund operations — the only HOA in the state with that ability.

In addition, CA maintains more than 3,500 acres of open space and 94 miles of pathways for the community. CA also owns and operates 35 facilities with various community functions.

Buying a home on Columbia Association-assessed property

Interested home buyers and sellers can purchase a packet of legal/resale documents that includes CA and village documents from their village community association center. The cost of these documents varies by village, and must be purchased from the village where the home is located. Documents from townhouse developments or condominiums are also required, but must be purchased directly from the townhouse or condominium association.

Village Community Associations are in charge of enforcing covenants, which can include architectural guidelines as well as rules on remodeling, exterior home changes and landscaping. For more information on this process, see the local village community association for properties within its boundary.

Using CA's facilities:

Residents who live on CA-assessed property pay reduced pay-as-you-go admission and program fees with a free Columbia Card. Simply visit the Customer and Membership Service Center and show your driver's license or imprinted personal check to verify your residency.

But Membership plans allow much greater access to all that CA has to offer. CA offers 12 different types of memberships, from single facility memberships to the deluxe Package Plan Plus membership.

The most popular family membership is Package Plan, which gives you access to 23 outdoor pools, all three fitness facilities and tennis clubs, both golf clubs (cart and greens fees not included), Columbia Ice Rink, Columbia SportsPark/SkatePark (fees for mini golf and batting cages not included) and Columbia Swim Center with SplashDown (admission fees not included). Membership also gives you access to the Member Advantage Service; which provides discounts to stores, restaurants, tickets and guest passes.

Package Plan Plus (PPP) is an all-access pass to CA, including all of the great benefits of Package Plan, as well as a Member Assistance Program, health and fitness profile, specialized weight and cardiovascular equipment, SplashDown Indoor Water Slide, fitness classes like Group Power, Studio Cycling, Yoga, Tai Chi, BodyPump™, BodyVive™, BodyStep™, Deep Water Fitness and specialized exercise classes like Basic Training, Boot Camp and Total Conditioning.

PPP members also receive a discount on KidSpace (supervised child care), guest passes, and the IHRSA Passport, which allows use of more than 3,000 quality clubs when you travel worldwide and access to the Elite SportsClub Network (which includes reciprocal use of 11 of the best clubs in the Baltimore area including LifeBridge Health & Fitness, The Maryland Athletic Club and Wellness Center and all nine Athletic Clubs).

Who handles what?

Columbia Village Community Associations

Each of Columbia's nine villages and Town Center has a community association; an independent, incorporated, nonprofit civic association that elects its own board of directors and a Columbia Council representative. They are tasked with:

- Enforcing covenants
- Providing resources and referral services for residents
- Advocating for residents at the village, Columbia and county level
- Facilitating information sessions and community meetings
- Managing, maintaining and renting out CA's village buildings and neighborhood centers
- Hosting individual village events and partnering with all villages for Columbia-wide special events
- Offering programming, including classes, camps and lectures
- Creating village master plans
- Working with village merchants
- Communicating to residents via newsletters, websites and social media
- Encouraging neighbor-to-neighbor connectivity via block parties, beautification grants and block captains
- Act as a liaison with Howard County Government

Columbia Association

CA is one of the largest employers in Howard County. CA's role in the community can be summed up by its Mission Statement, which is "Working every day in hundreds of ways to make Columbia an even better place to live, work, and play." CA accomplishes this by:

- Maintaining fitness facilities, golf clubs, tennis and basketball courts, swimming pools and a Mind Body wellness retreat
- Operating the Columbia Ice Rink, Columbia Horse Center (via lease) and Columbia SportsPark and SkatePark
- Operating the Columbia Art Center, Youth and Teen Center at the Barn, Columbia Archives and Volunteer Center Serving Howard County
- Providing Before and After School Care to Howard County students in 20 different schools
- Organizing free concerts and events at the Downtown Columbia Lakefront and throughout Columbia
- Providing summer camps
- Maintaining approximately 3,600 acres of open space and 94 miles of pathways
- Developing plans to improve the connectivity of the pathway system in Columbia
- Developing plans to protect and restore Columbia's watershed
- Working with Howard County Government, the Downtown Columbia Partnership and other entities to meet the needs of Columbia residents
