

Indie singer, songwriter and visual artist. Prince Edward County, Ontario.

alexjcurrie

Alex Currie is a Nova Scotia born songwriter and visual artist currently based in Prince Edward County, Ontario.

His music moves between indie rock, lo-fi folk and experimental singer-songwriter territory, pairing plainspoken writing with distorted guitars, field recordings and uneasy, atmospheric textures.

After years away from music, Currie returned to songwriting in his forties, drawn back by questions of home, memory, distance and the places we carry with us. Earlier releases River John (EP) and Greetings From: (LP) explored those ideas through intimate recordings and sounds gathered between Nova Scotia and Ontario.

His new self-titled LP, alexjcurrie, produced with James Bunton at Slow|go Sound, pushes that world into something louder, stranger and more immediate. Quiet confession gives way to blown-out guitars, crooked melodies, found sounds and sudden moments of beauty, while Currie writes about regret, longing, ageing and the uneasy pull of home. The result feels intimate, lived-in and unpredictable.

"Powerful, driving but elegant. This is the culmination of his life's work. Watching him perfect his craft over the decades has been an absolute treat, and there are moments in this piece that send shivers."
-My friend Sean

New Album: "alexjcurrie"
Digital + vinyl / October 15, 2026
Private preview of "alexjcurrie" can be found HERE

Available to radio via !earshot distro

Produced by James Bunton at slow|go sound.
Mastered by Heather Kirby at Dreamlands Mastering.

If you enjoy: Mt. Eerie, Pavement, Built to spill, Guided by Voices, Dog Day, Neutral Milk Hotel.

Radio note: Contains "God Damn" x1 Track 2.

