

SPIRITUALITY IN HEALTH CARE: A JOURNEY OF FAITH

A Podcast discussion
Tuesday, May 13, 7:30pm
In person and online

One of the best-known doctors in Canada today is Jane Philpott. As a minister of health in the Trudeau government she oversaw the legislation to legalize Cannabis and MAID (medical assistance in dying) within Canada. She quit the government in protest on moral principle. More recently she completed a term as Dean of Health Sciences at Queen's University. She also wrote a best-selling book: "Health For All: A Doctor's Prescription for a Healthier Canada". Currently she has been asked by the Ontario government under Doug Ford to lead a process toward addressing the healthcare crisis in the province.

But did you also know that Jane Philpott is the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, served as a missionary doctor in Africa and is a person of deep faith? How has her faith and spirituality shaped her work as a doctor and her passion for quality healthcare for the most vulnerable in Canada?

Join us for a podcast discussion based on an interview with Dr. Philpott where she speaks very personally about her career, her passion for healthcare in our nation, the loss of a child in Africa, her resignation from government in protest, her book and much more all in relation to her Christian faith.

You can listen to the podcast or watch the interview in video format by clicking here.